Two Quincy Till Bullets Teams Win Gold Medals

The two Quincy Till Bullets basketball teams captured the gold medal in their respective divisions at the 16th annual Special Olympics Massachusetts Spring Tournament last month in Worcester.

The Quincy Till Bullets in Division 1 play, coached by William Ketchen, defeated the Lawrence Lancers, 35-33, at Clark University to clinch the gold medal. Bullets player Mike McAdams said before the game that "he had a good feeling about the game and felt they would do well."

Along with McAdams, the team is comprised of Mike Caparotta, Brian Carson, John Fabello, Robbie Fraser, Jason Hatch, Kim Hodges, Stephen Kearns, Mark Smith, Larue Ward and Dexter Young.

The Quincy Till Bullets Division 4 team, under the direction of coach Henry Picewick, captured its first-ever gold medal at the tournament.

The Division 4 team includes players Steve Barrows, Gino Bellabona, Tracey Devonshire, Dianah Dones, Jim Gillis, Kevin Hanley, Donnie Keene, Billy Mahoney, John Mattson, Pat Montuori, Britt Nelson, Alice O'Keefe, Robbie O'Keefe and Dan Picewick.

Special Olympics Massachusetts (SOMA) provides year-round sports training and competition for children and adults with mental retardation or closely related developmental disabilities. The statewide program supports over 12,000 athletes who train and compete in 27 different sports in over 140 local and regional sports tournaments throughout the year.

The 28th annual Special Olympics Massachusetts Summer Games will hold June 14-21 at Boston University and MIT. Volunteers are needed to help out in a variety of tasks. Call (978) 774-1501, ext. 237 to volunteer or for more information.

Hosts North Quincy Friday Quincy Secures Fourth Straight Tourney Berth

By LIAM FITZGERALD

For the fourth consecutive season, the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team will compete in the state tournament, following last week's berth-clinching victory over Dighton-Rehoboth.

Christine Barrett, first-year Quincy coach, credited much of the team's success to the dedication and leadership of senior co-captains Eddie Smith and Jared Downey and senior outside hitters Felix Chan and DeMing Guan.

"This is a tribute to the seniors," she said. "All four of them have stepped up and worked very hard. They're very dedicated and are great all-around kids."

Now, having captured a tourney berth, the Presidents (10-4) are focused on the next task at hand: a possible South Alliance co-championship with Greater New Bedford Vocational.

To accomplish this goal, Quincy must defeat Greater New Bedford today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. and rival North Quincy Friday at 3:30 p.m. Both matches are at Quincy's Vo-Tech gym across from the school.

"It would be wonderful to be South Alliance co-champs," said Barrett. "Our only loss in the league is to Greater New Bedford, so to beat them would be great. They also knocked us out of the tourney last year, so we have a little added incentive.

"I think the match itself will be a dogfight. We definitely have the ability to beat them, but we have to be focused and ready and turn our level of play up a notch. If we do that, we can win it."

Regarding the North match, Barrett noted the improvement both squads have made since their first meeting April 2, which visiting Quincy won, 2-0.

"Of course we'd like to beat them twice in the same season, but we remember what happened last year when we had them at our place and let it slip away," she said. "They've improved, and we have, too, so anything can happen."

In recent action, the Presidents lost to host Brockton, 2-1, despite taking the first game and leading, 13-11, in the second game. Brockton won the match, 11-15, 15-13, 15-7. Quincy missed two key serves in the second and missed 11 serves overall in last Thursday's match.

Leading Quincy's effort were Jason Goldrick (10 kills, seven blocks), Matt Nicklas (eight kills, 7 digs, six assists, three aces, three blocks), Downey (21 assists, seven kills, four digs) and Brian Chen (six kills, five digs, three blocks).

Last Wednesday, Quincy disposed of visiting Weymouth, 2-0, behind the strong play of Nicklas (seven kills, seven assists, six digs, two aces), Smith (six kills, four digs) and Downey (13 assists, four kills, two aces). Match scorers were 15-12, 15-7.

Quincy clinched a post-season berth by shutting out visiting Dighton-Rehoboth, 2-0, last Tuesday, sparked by the efforts of Smith (eight kills, four digs) and Downey (16 assists, six digs, two aces), Goldrick (eight kills, two blocks) and Chen (six kills, four aces, two blocks).

The QHS boys' volleyball team will hold a Car Wash Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Central Middle School, Hancock St., to raise funds for the school's boys' volleyball program.

Parker School Penguin Classic Road Race Sunday

The Parker School in North Quincy will hold the Parker Penguin Classic Road Race Sunday, May 17. The race, which includes a 5K run and a 1K kids' fun run, will start and finish at the Parker School, 148 Billings Rd.

The 1K kids' run fun will begin at 9:30 a.m., followed by the 5K run at 10 a.m.

Entry fee is $10 prior to race day and $12 the day of the race. For children 12 and under, the fee is $5. The first 100 entrants will receive a free t-shirt.

Pre-race number and t-shirt pickup will be held Friday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the school. On the day of the race, number and t-shirt pickup will be from 8:30 to 10 a.m. at the school.

Refreshments will be available for all participants.

The money raised will go toward student enrichment programs. The race is sponsored by state Rep. Michael Bellotti and Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers.

For more information, call Linda Kelly at 773-5246.

Benefit Road Race Sunday For Habitat For Humanity

"Home Run for Habitat," a five-mile road race, will be held Sunday at 10 a.m. in Marina Bay to benefit South Shore Habitat for Humanity.

The race consists of a five-mile loop starting and ending on Victory Road. Prizes and medals will be awarded to the winners of each class: 19 years old and under, 20 to 39, and 40 and over.

Registration forms are available by calling the Habitat office at (781) 843-9080. Pre-registration fee is $12. Post-registration is $15. Late registration starts at 8:30 a.m. on Victory Road. T-shirts are guaranteed for the first 200 registrants.

South Shore Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit, ecumenical housing ministry dedicated to building simple, decent homes in partnership with families in need on the South Shore.

Rain Forces Senior Olympic Postponements

The 16th annual Senior Olympics began a day later than planned, the result of the recent wet weather in the area.

Monday evening's opening ceremonies and one-mile walk were moved to Tuesday evening. The softball game originally slated for Monday will now be played next Monday, May 18, at 7 p.m. at McCoy-Mitchell Field.

The golf tournament initially scheduled for Monday was rained out and will be made up Wednesday, May 20, starting at 8 a.m. at Presidents Golf Course.

The remaining events will go on as planned, barring any further inclement weather interruptions. See last week's Quincy Sun for a full schedule of events.

The awards ceremony is set for Wednesday, May 20 at 6:30 p.m. at Beechwood on the Bay.

Deadline To Send Pledges May 19 Riley Making Final Dash To Compete In Big Ride

By LIAM FITZGERALD

If you happened to miss David Riley's recent Pledge Party to raise funds for the GTE Big Ride, you can still make a contribution, but the deadline is fast approaching.

Riley, the North Quincy man training for the 6 1/2-week, 3,000-mile bicycle trek across the country to benefit the American Lung Association, is currently $2,500 short of the minimum amount ($5,000) needed to participate in the Big Ride.

"There's still a chance for people to help out, and while any amount helps, I ask those who'd like to make a pledge to please consider a substantial contribution," said Riley, who was featured in the Quincy Sun on April 23.

The deadline to mail a contribution is Tuesday, May 19 and those interested should follow the directions on the pledge forms inserted into this week's Quincy Sun. All pledges must be at the Big Ride offices by Monday, May 25. Be sure to include Riley's name and rider number, #2056, on the pledge form.

For more information, or to make a donation, contact Riley at (617) 578-3259 weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. or at (617) 328-5156.

Though Riley sent out approximately 200 invitations to his Pledge Party at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, about 23 people attended, comprised mainly of Riley's family members and close friends.

"I knew I could count them to help out," said Riley. "Even though a small amount of people showed, we raised $1,400, which is really good for the number of people who came. I was quite pleased about that."

The reasoning behind Riley's decision to participate in this summer's Big Ride was a personal one, since he lost his mother, Ottilie, to smoking-related emphysema in 1995. When he saw that the Big Ride benefits the American Lung Association, he jumped at the opportunity.

"When I think about how so many people suffer from lung disease, I cannot imagine having such an affliction," Riley wrote in one of his newsletters. "Most of us are lucky. Now, think of the many people who have to endure this discomfort constantly, no breaks, no relief, except with aided support."

"This is why I am doing this—for the people that you and I are trying to help. It's truly a matter of life and breath. This is for the people who cannot get a breath of their own. To help people who's body cannot perform a simple, but crucial function."

The ride, which begins in Seattle, Wash., and concludes in Washington, D.C., will provide Riley and the other 1,000-plus bicyclists with an up close and personal view of the country.

"We'll be riding approximately 100 miles a day, with pit stops about every 25 miles," said Riley. "We'll ride from dawn to dusk, about 15 hours a day. When I think that I might be in over my head, I realize all the people I can help and that makes me want to stick to it."

Lloyd Hill, former Quincy High School principal, will be honored for his time and support to the committee. The Paul Grasso Memorial Baseball scholarship will also be awarded to a senior who will further his education and baseball skills at the college level. Grasso, a 1967 Quincy High School graduate, was killed in Vietnam.

Social hour will begin at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Tickets are $25 per person and can be purchased by calling Joe Brill at (617) 770-4813.

North Girls' Track Battles Quincy Today At Stadium

The North Quincy High School girls' spring track team is slated to take on rival Quincy High School today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The boys' teams from both schools will also compete at the Stadium.

In a recent meet against Dennis-Yarmouth, North was led by first-place finishers Lynda Wilson (mile), Kellie Conley (800 meters), Jasmine Gonzalez (400 meters) and Claire Quilty (shotput).

North's star of the meet was junior Ellen Tang, who threw the discus over 90 feet (92'2") for the first time, topping all NQ throwers for the season. Other highlights were provided by Quilty and Nicole Bertone, both of whom qualified for states in two events each. Kellyrose O'Brien missed state qualifying by .4 in the 400 meter.

Earlier, the Red Raiders battled New Bedford, with double-winners Wilson (mile, two-mile) and Quilty (shotput, discus) leading the NQ effort. Other winners included Conley (800 meters) and Bertone (javelin).

At the Notre Dame Academy freshman/sophomore meet in Hingham, North finished 15th out of 40 schools, collected 14 points. North's leaders were Linda Nguyen (mile, 6:25; high jump, 4'2"), Sarah Houghton (mile, 6:35; long jump, 11'10"), Colleen Lahar (300 hurdles, 57.4; triple jump, 28'2 1/2"), Mayling Luc (61.9), Christine Marre (800 meters, 3:03.4), Melissa McKenna (400 meters, 78.0), Liz Leuchte (200 meters, 31.2), Ellen Blaney (37.8), Wilson (two-mile, 12:25.8), Jackie Murphy (shotput, 24'8"), Tang (discus, 87'2"), Lena Yuen (discus, 77'6") and Lisa Dellacroce (75'0").

NQ Faces 'Uphill Climb' Toward Postseason Play

By LIAM FITZGERALD

The North Quincy High School softball team has entered the "must-win" stage of the season, needing six victories in its final eight games to qualify for the state tournament.

"It'll be an uphill climb, and we're heading into a tough week," said North coach Bob Doyle, citing two games against Old Colony League leader Taunton and one against New Bedford.

"It's been a frustrating season, with a lot of interruptions that have kept us out of sync," he added. "I credit the girls for remaining upbeat; they never quit and throw in the towel. I'm proud of that fact."

Following a makeup game at Taunton on Tuesday, the Red Raiders (4-7) hosted New Bedford yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m.

SOFTBALL

North is back in action Friday at 4 p.m., when Taunton comes to town.

The Red Raiders' busy schedule continues next Monday at 4 p.m. when they travel to Dennis-Yarmouth. NQ visits Silver Lake next Tuesday at 4 p.m. in a makeup of a May 11 rainout. North goes to Bridgewater-Raynham next Wednesday for a 4 p.m. tilt.

Sandwiched between two rainouts, North's lone game last week was an 11-5 setback to host Barnstable last Friday. NQ broke open a scoreless game in the second, scoring three runs on walks and a single by Danielle Likas. The host squad came back with three runs in the bottom of the inning and took the lead for good with a two-run third inning.

Meanwhile, North had its opportunities to even the score, but could not push runs across the plate. In five of the seven innings, NQ had runners in scoring position but failed to capitalize.

"It was the same old story—we couldn't get the big hit," said Doyle. "It was frustrating because they were a team I thought we could beat. We played on a dreary day, and the frustration from the rainouts had set in. The emotion just wasn't there."

NQ's other three hits were doubles by Laurie Flynn, Kristen Keohane and Kristy Deputila. Flynn and Keohane each had an RBI.

Buick Jumps Out To 4-0 Record; Colonial, Beacon, Keohane's Win

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Defending Quincey Youth Baseball Junior League champions South Shore Buick improved its record to 4-0 with a recent 8-0 triumph over Keohane's.

One of the reasons for Buick's early success has been the one-two pitching combination of 11-year-old John Folino and 12-year-old Steve Williams. Folino's record is 4-0 with an ERA of 0.00 while Williams has three saves in three opportunities and also an ERA of 0.00. In nine innings, Williams has yielded just one hit.

Also, timely hitting by Matt McNeil and Paul Graham has produced some early runs to pace the offensive attack. In four games, Buick has scored 40 runs and allowed just one run, which was unearned.

In other action, James Spellman sparked Colonial Federal to a 13-4 victory over Rotary with solid fielding, hitting and baserunning. Eric O'Dea had a good game and hit a double and Sean Sullivan collected an RBI single.

Pitching for Colonial were Ray Marchand and John Santon, who limited Rotary to four runs. Big hits from Jeff Green, Dan Reg-giannini and Steve Hawko, along with an RBI from Nick Malvesti, contributed to the win.

Winning pitcher Matt Grazioso struck out eight as Beacon Sports defeated Atty. George Burke, 12-2.

Grazioso helped his own cause with a multiple-hit game, including a home run. Ryan Feldhoff, Scott Flaherty and Dean Sandonato, all had multiple-hit games and extra base hits. Among Flaherty's hits was a home run. Steve Bythrow turned in a solid defensive effort.

Burke was sparked by the hitting of Jacob O'Donnell, who had a multiple-hit game, including a few extra base hits. Stephen Straz had extra base hits and Dan Cosgrove played well defensively. Losing pitcher Stephen O'Brien fanned three.

In earlier play, Beacon Sports rallied from a seven-run deficit with an eight-run sixth inning, shocking Kiwanis, 11-10. Winning pitcher Mike Cafano struck out four and was helped by the multiple-hit games of Paul Lennon, Matt Grazioso and Dean Sandonato, who also collected extra base hits. Defensive standouts were Robert Baker and Steve Bythrow.

Leading the way for Kiwanis was Chris Sheehan, who struck out eight. Nick Duke had a multiple-hit game and Brian Lynch and Matt Baker each collected extra base hits. Top defensive players were Lynch and Chris Sheehan.

Elsewhere, Steve Hettman's fourth hit of the game drove in Chris Tufo with the winning run as Keohane's edged Colonial Federal, 4-3. Keohane's had tied the game with a run in the sixth before winning it in the seventh.

Tufo, who came on in relief of starter Domenic Delgado (nine strikeouts), shut down Colonial down in the seventh and also picked up two hits of his own. Brendan McDonald belted a home run for the winners. For Colonial, Chris Traietti fanned six in four innings of relief and was the team's top offensive star with four hits.

O'Brien's Knocks Off Canavan & Davis, Osco's

O'Brien's Bakery opened its 1998 season with two impressive victories in Quincey Youth Baseball International League play.

Brian Breslin pitched seven strong innings, striking out 13, in a 14-2 victory over Canavan and Davis. O'Brien's offense was led by John Chevalier, Dean Zoia, Colin Macey, Steve Romanowski and Breslin, all with two hits apiece. Adding one hit each were Ryan Casey, Roger Layden and Darryl Zoia. Playing well defensively were Eric Healy, Jeff Richardson,

INTERNATIONAL

Brendon McNeil, Ryan Gannon, Joe Losi and Jonathan Tallent.

Chevalier pitched a complete game for O'Brien's in a tough, come-from-behind 21-12 win over Osco Drug. Macey and Breslin keyed the O'Brien's defense with outstanding play at the third base and shortstop positions. Dean Zoia and Chevalier each collected three hits and Macey and McNeil picked up two hits apiece. Richardson, Gannon, Tallent, Darryl Zoia and Breslin all had one hit.

Losi and Layden each scored in the pivotal fourth inning to put O'Brien's ahead. Healy made an outstanding catch in right field to halt Osco's big fourth inning. Casey and Romanowski both excelled in the field.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

"Give us the fortitude to endure the things which cannot be changed, and the courage to change the things which should be changed and the wisdom to know one from the other."

- Oliver J. Hart.

Today, perhaps more than at any other time, it takes a lot of courage to bear witness to our beliefs, to avoid compromise when we know it is wrong, and to stand resolutely by our convictions when conscience says we must. It takes courage at times to agree. And it takes courage to disagree when we must disagree. When we know we should do that which is right, and we don't have the courage to do it, it shows a lack of trust in God. It shows we don't realize He is the source and supplier for courage to face any disconcerting reality of life.

There is no substitute for courage. Nor is there a substitute for a trust in God. Would it not seem when you have the one, you have the other?

Mary T. Bredin, 72

A funeral Mass for Mary Teresa (Keown) Bredin, 72, of Fitchburg, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated May 8 at the Church of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Mrs. Bredin died May 5 at home after a long illness.

Born, raised and educated in Ireland, she lived most of her life in Quincy. She lived in West Bridge-water before moving to Fitchburg four years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Francis A. Bredin; two daughters, Mary Bredin of Leominster and Carmel Bredin of Wilmington; a sister, Catherine Crehan of Wrentham; two grandchildren, a niece and a nephew.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St.

Donations may be made to the Hospice of Central Massachusetts.

he added, and Emmanouil hopes to lay the keel of his first ship in December. Another 300 workers are slated to be hired early next year.

The Halla officials will oversee the completion of the first ship, Sheets noted. The mayor said Emmanouil already has contracts to build six double-hulled tankers and letters of intent for 44 others.

Sheets said the news of the MHI-Halla merger is another sign that Emmanouil eventually will become known as the man who reopened the Fore River shipyard, which closed in 1986 after General Dynamics left the city.

"He's going to build ships," said Sheets. "And he's probably the only man in the world who can do it."

Sheets said MHI also is buying Halla's designs for tankers and liquid nitrogen gas-carriers.

Emmanouil, after months of negotiations, secured $55 million in loan guarantees from MARAD for the modernization of the shipyard in December. He still is awaiting word that is $249 million in guarantees needed to fund the tankers.

overlooked $500,000 is not additional funding.

"It's money we've counted before, and still lost $1 million a year over the last three years," he said.

Raymondi added that the Board of Governors will look at Ryan's proposed budget "realistically" and said, "I don't think the board is going to tolerate any budget that puts us in a deficit."

Some teachers and union leaders have complained that all of the unanticipated $500,000 should be used to save jobs, a position Ryan said he understands.

"The union, understandably, said they believe every dime should be used to save people," he said. "But we need a balance, and I'm optimistic that we can come up with the balance."

Ryan added that auditors have advised him to put more money than he originally planned into a reserve account that covers unpaid tuition and falling enrollment. Initially, $500,000 was set aside for such a reserve, he said.

The deficits to which Raymondi referred have decreased the college's reserve fund from $3.6 million in 1996 to less than $1 million this year.

The Board of Governors will not vote on the new budget next Monday, Ryan said, but must do so before the start of the next fiscal year on July 1.

Ryan and other college officials have said they are eyeing at least 10 layoffs because of the college's financial woes. Those problems resulted in the college's current Fiscal Year 1998 budget being reduced from $9.6 million to $9.1 million.

At first, Ryan said he was considering three different budget proposals, each with a different number of layoffs—ranging between 10 and 21—depending on the amount of money that would be spent on the strategic initiatives. In late April, however, he said a fourth plan had evolved from discussions with college officials and faculty that definitely would keep the number lower than 21.

He also has said there have been rumors at the college about faculty retirements which would help ease budget problems if they happened.

But the plans have not sat well with most teachers, who voted 35-5 on April 6 that they had no confidence in Ryan's leadership abilities. Although 14 of the college's full-time faculty members were absent from the vote—in which three part-timers also participated—Ryan said he and other college officials were "disappointed" and termed the vote "premature."

The city-owned, two-year college has campuses in Quincy Center and Plymouth, with satellite campuses in Springfield, North Quincy and Wareham and one planned for Boston. The student-to-teacher ratio is about 18 to 1.

There are 50 full-time teachers and 300 part-time teachers at Quincy College, including five full-timers and 50 part-timers in Plymouth.

Enrollment at the main campus in Quincy Center has dropped from about 4,800 full and part-time students in the fall to around 4,300 this spring. Three years ago, the campus had just over 5,200 students.

During the same time, however, the Plymouth campus—which is not expected to be affected by the current budget woes—has grown to 600 students.

The college relies almost entirely on student tuition and fees because it receives no city or state tax money. Mayor James Sheets has said the city cannot afford to offer financial assistance to the college and that it must operate out of its own budget.

didn't have greater damage."

The problem was discovered Monday morning by a school custodian. Fire officials recommended closing the school because they were concerned the rain could affect the electrical wiring and alarm system, and parents were called in to pick up the school's 298 students.

Officials said the drain that caused the problem likely got clogged with plastic wrapping swept in by heavy winds and rain. The blockage caused a pool of rain that soaked through the roof. Creedon said the ceiling, carpet and tiles on the basement floor will need to be replaced, but it is not yet known how much that will cost. He estimated damage to other supplies, including books and cassettes, at $5,000.

No One Injured In Blaze Fire At Presidents Lane Causes $110,000 In Damage

By LIAM FITZGERALD

A fire that broke out Tuesday afternoon at the Garfield House, 179 Presidents Lane caused $110,000 in damage, according to Quincy Deputy Fire Chief Paul O'Connell.

O'Connell said the blaze, which occurred on the fourth floor of the apartment building, was caused by "careless disposal of smoking materials." No one was injured in the fire. A woman who lived in the apartment was able to evacuate the building.

"The fire originated in the bedroom, starting in the rug before spreading to the mattress and box spring," said O'Connell.

O'Connell said apartments directly below in the first, second and third floors were also damaged.

"The residents won't be able to go back for a while," he said. "Those apartments need to be renovated."

O'Connell said smoke was seen at 12:58 p.m. coming from fourth-floor windows. He responded to the alarm with an engine and ladder company, then called the station for additional assistance.

Also on the scene was the Salvation Army Quincy Temple Corps, which arranged shelter for two of the residents and provided cold drinks for residents and firefighters.

Another resident found his own accommodations and another who was at work will also need shelter, it was reported.

MDA Recognizes Citizens Downtown Branch For Support

The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) Massachusetts Chapter has recognized the Citizens Bank Quincy Center branch for its contribution to the "Shamrocks Against Dystrophy" campaign.

The branch was one of the top fundraisers in Citizens' statewide initiative, which included more than 90 participating branches and was the largest retail participant in Massachusetts-raising more than $3,500 for the area MDA.

The "Shamrocks Against Dystrophy" campaign culminated on St. Patrick's Day after a month of selling $1 decorative shamrocks, which are displayed inside the bank. All proceeds will help support the MDA's local research and patient service programs.

"Our customers have really responded to this program and it has given the branch staff a strong feeling of community spirit knowing we're supporting a great cause," said Quincy Center Branch Manager Ellen DuJardin. "Also, all of the shamrocks made it seem like St. Patrick's Day, for a whole month."

The MDA was founded in 1950 by parents whose children were afflicted with Muscular Dystrophy and since then has been devoted to finding cures and treatments for muscular dystrophy and its 40 related neuromuscular diseases. MDA also provides a range of patient services to assist families with the financial and emotional challenges they face daily.

"As we know, the Irish shamrock has long been a symbol of luck," said MDA New England Regional Coordinator Karen Whitefield. "By participating in our Shamrocks Against Dystrophy program, Citizens Bank has helped change some of that luck into real hope for area children and adults with neuromuscular diseases."

City Council, Planning Board Flash Green Light

New Signage Ordinance Passed

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council unanimously passed a new signage ordinance Monday night that will affect businesses throughout the city.

The council's vote followed a joint public hearing with the Quincy Planning Board, which also gave the new law a positive recommendation Monday night.

At the hearing, six members of a committee that worked for over two years to revamp the city's previous signage ordinance spoke in favor of the new law. There was no opposition.

The ordinance was expected to receive its final approval, the signature of Mayor James Sheets, by the end of the week. The law takes effect as soon as the mayor signs it, according to Sheets.

Proponents say the new law will allow business owners more freedom and flexibility than the previous ordinance.

During the public hearing, Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to Sheets and the committee chairperson, urged support of the new law and noted that several minor amendments suggested by the City Council and the Planning Board have been made.

"We believe that this ordinance is business-friendly," she said. "But it also protects people and the environment. We hope that you will pass this as soon as possible."

Highlights of the law, according to Mader, are:

- The new ordinance now conforms with the state code revision.

- Businesses will be allowed put their names on their storefronts more than once.

- There are larger window sign allowances.

- Provision has been made for the many new types of signs that have been developed since the last ordinance was accepted in 1974.

- Per their requests, businesses may hang additional signs with the new rules and regulations.

- Requirements for sign repair and maintenance have been greatly strengthened as have the rules for abandoned signs.

- Lettered awnings have been allowed as long as they do not protrude more than 12 inches from the wall.

- A business may be licensed for a freestanding sign by permit of the city's Building Department without having the business necessarily go to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

- All projecting signs, and others currently in violation of the present code are required to be removed within one year. Businesses that received legitimate permits for such signs, however, will be given up to two years to remove them. (Council President Peter Kolson noted Monday night there are almost 50 signs currently in violation of the

Residential Housing Considered For Tide Mill

A piece of waterfront land off Southern Artery originally seen as the future site of a shopping mall/fishing pier may instead be used for residential housing.

Atty. David Mahoney, who represents Twiss Realty and Stop & Shop, told the City Council on Monday night that his clients have continued to market the seven-acre site but still have not found a large anchor store for the planned $2.6 million, 65,000-square-foot Tide Mill Plaza.

Mahoney told the council a new proposal for residential housing may eventually be brought before the council. He said several residential developers are interested in the land, and an agreement is close with one that wants to build a multi-family complex, but he did not elaborate.

In the meantime, the council extended the Planned Unit Development permit for the Tide Mill Plaza project until Dec. 7. Last November, the council extended the original permit six months.

The site of the former Duane Lumber Co. and an adjoining salvage yard, the land is located across a canal from the Southern Tide Mill and near Stop & Shop on Southern Artery.

Twiss Realty, Stop & Shop's development arm, purchased the land in 1992 and unveiled the Tide Mill Plaza project in February 1995. Twiss called for a combination of restaurants, shops and a commercial fishing pier.

The plan, however, has run into opposition from preservationists who say the shopping center will make it

Two Restaurant License Transfers Before Board

The pending transfer of ownership of two restaurants will highlight the agenda at next Tuesday's License Board meeting.

Andy Walsh is seeking to transfer the common victualer-all alcoholic beverage license at Walsh's Restaurant, 7-9 Billings Rd., North Quincy, to Quincy real estate businessman Daniel J. Flynn, and to be known as Walsh's Cafe.

The Hancock Maple Corp. is requesting that its common victualer-all alcoholic beverage license at Mando's Italian Bistro, 1384 Hancock St., Quincy Center be transferred to Meck, Inc., doing business as Z and O European Trattoria of Boston.

Other business that will come before board include the following:

- Request for a Keno License from George F. Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St.

- Request from John Adams Continuing Care Center, 211 Franklin St. for a permit to hold a Flea Market June 13 from 10

Shelter Director Keynote Speaker

Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Monday

The annual Quincy Memorial Day Parade will be held Monday, May 25 beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Keynote speaker at the event will be Thomas Lyons, executive director of the New England Shelter for Homeless Veterans in Boston.

Lyons, a leading advocate for veterans for over 20 years, is a decorated Marine Corps veteran of the Vietnam War. In 1978, he organized a committee of Vietnam veterans to pay tribute to the 25 South Boston residents who died during that war and helped establish the South Boston Vietnam Memorial, one of the first of its kind in the nation. He has worked for the shelter since 1995.

A 1978 graduate of Boston State University, Lyons also completed the Senior Executives Fellows Program at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government in 1988. He lives in Wakefield with his wife Jean and daughters Sarah and Maura. His son Todd serves in the Air Force in Florida.

The parade will step off at School St. and proceed on

THOMAS LYONS

Hancock St. to Coddington St. and Sea St. to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery where memorial services will be held at the World War II podium.

The parade will rest at United First Parish Church in Quincy Center where wreaths will be placed on the tombs of John Adams and John Quincy Adams. The parade will disband after the services at the cemetery and units will go to their respective posts.

More than 20 units will march in the parade, including local veterans organizations, color guards and high school bands. Gold Star Mothers, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and national, state, county and local officials also will march.

After Lyons's keynote address, the roll of Quincy's deceased comrades will follow.

Chief marshal for the parade will be Thomas Stansbury, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council. He will be assisted by Lawrence Norton, senior vice commander and Leif Thornton, junior vice commander.

Stansbury also will be the parade chairman. Quincy Veterans Services Director Henry Bradley, past commander of the Quincy Veterans Council and past state commander of the American Legion, will be co-chairman.

Irving Isaacson, past commander of the Quincy Veterans' Council, Quincy Jewish War Veterans, and Quincy Cavanaugh Chapter, Disabled American Veterans will be master of ceremonies. David Minkofsky will be officer of the day. Thomas Eames will be assistant officer of the day.

The Quincy Veterans Council, which represents all Quincy veterans organizations, is sponsoring the parade ceremonies.

Other Memorial Day observances will be held Sunday and Monday, May 24 and 25. The two-day schedule of events includes:

Sunday

•9:30 a.m.--Quincy American Legion Post will assemble at United First Parish Church to conduct the traditional exercises of the Grand Army of the Republic. They will escort the Sunday School children to the Hancock Cemetery to decorate the graves of veterans.

•11 a.m.--All veterans organizations, their auxiliaries and the public are invited to attend services in the United First Parish Church.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the Morrisette Post will decorate the War Memorial at Liberty Square, South Quincy and the War Memorial at the West Quincy Fire Station. Quincy Cavanaugh Chapter, DAV will decorate the Cavanaugh Field in North Quincy and the Doughboy Statue at Adams Academy and Walter Fuller Square.

•7:30 p.m.--The George

F. Bryan VFW Post and its auxiliary will proceed to the Boulder and World War I Monument at Dimmock and Adams Sts., the GAR Monument at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, and Shea Memorial at the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

•Also on Sunday, the Quincy Jewish War Veterans will decorate graves and the Sgt. Greenberg Memorial Bridge.

•8:30 a.m.--Houghs Neck American Legion Post will hold memorial exercises and decorate O'Hare Square, Adams Shore Memorial, Houghs Neck Memorial and Frederick C. Murphy Memorial and Houghs Neck Veterans Memorial Park.

•9 a.m.--Veterans of all wars will assemble at the St. Mary's Church parking lot and proceed to Hall Place where they will conduct a GAR Memorial. A detachment will place a wreath at the Morrisette Memorial at Pine Hill Cemetery. Following the service, the line will reform and proceed to the church parking lot where the parade will disband.

•10 a.m.--A short memorial service will be held at the Christ Church burial grounds.

•Also in the morning, the Robert I. Nickerson Post will decorate Nickerson Beach, Gilbert Memorial, Bayfield Memorial, WWI and Sgt. Michael Barry Memorial.

City Council Dedicates Meeting To John Horrigan

The City Council dedicated its meeting Monday night to the memory of the late John Horrigan.

Horrigan, co-owner of the Doran and Horrigan Insurance Agency for 34 years and a former president of the North Quincy Business and Professional Association, died April 30 at 70. He was honored Monday night at the suggestion of Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers.

"Living in Squantum and having a business for 35 years in North Quincy, John touched a lot of people in many ways," Ayers said.

True Health = Optimally Functioning Nervous System

True wellness begins with a nervous system that is functioning at its best as it controls virtually every aspect of your body. If your spinal bones (vertebrae) move out of position because of a car accident, poor posture, heavy yardwork, falls or a sports injury, this could affect the health of your nervous system.

Chiropractic care safely, gently and naturally helps to restore normal motion and position to your spine. My job is simply to move spinal bones off your nerves - which helps to quickly alleviate pain and allows your body to heal. Chiropractic care is a key part of a wellness lifestyle.

Public Hearing May 27 College Board To Decide On Layoffs, Tuition Hike

The jobs of a dozen full-time Quincy College teachers are now in the hands of the school's Board of Governors.

The board must decide whether to approve 12 layoffs and a $200-a-year tuition increase proposed Monday night as part of a Fiscal Year 1999 budget by Dr. Jeremiah Ryan, college president.

A public hearing will be held May 27 and the board will vote on the matter next month.

The college began the current fiscal year, Fiscal Year 1998, with a budget of $9.6 million, but that subsequently was shaved down to $9.1 million because of low enrollment, according to Ryan.

Ryan's proposed budget calls for money to be set aside for a possible 5 percent drop in enrollment, uncollectible tuition, financial aid refunds and bad checks.

Ryan also has proposed small increases in capital funding, including 1 percent in library and maintenance spending, 2 percent in technology and 4 percent in marketing.

He said he decided to put more money into a reserve fund than in previous years after members of the Board of Governors told him he has made unrealistic budget projections for the last two years, which each have ended up with deficits of $1 million.

The president also said he will not purchase library books or equipment until after he knows how high enrollment is next year. That way, he will be able to make spending adjustments if necessary.

Paul Phillips, president of the Quincy teachers' union, said Monday night that if Ryan attempts to replace full-time union faculty members with part-time, non-union employees, the union will sue the college. Currently, there are 50 full-time teachers at the college.

Phillips added that he has doubted the college's estimation of the budget crisis since a $500,000 budget error was discovered by the school's finance office last week.

Enrollment at the college's main campus in Quincy Center has dropped 2.8 percent this year, from over 4,800 full- and part-time students last fall to under 4,700 this fall. Three years ago, there were over 5,200 students at the campus.

Because the city-owned, two-year college does not receive any city or state tax money, it relies almost entirely on student tuition and fees.

Support, Opposition For Ricciuti Drive Rezoning

A proposal to rezone land off Ricciuti Drive in West Quincy from Industrial "B" zoning to Planned Unit Development (PUD) received both support and opposition at a lightly-attended City Council public hearing Monday night.

Ward 2 Councillor Michael D'Amico said the change will protect residents by making the council the special permit-granting authority for the site. He said the rezoning is a good idea in light of a planned golf course and other proposed area development.

Two residents spoke in favor of the change, agreeing that it would give them extra protection. A third, however, spoke in opposition, citing "bumper laws."

Signed support and opposition was evenly divided at four apiece.

The council will take up the matter at a future meeting.

REV. DR. ADOLPH WISMAR (center), pastor of Wollaston Lutheran Church, received the "Citizen of the Year" Award from the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights at the organization's recent 20th anniversary celebration at Quincy Community United Methodist Church in Wollaston. With him from left are Arthur Keough, executive director of the Quincy-School Community Partnership who introduced the recipient and Mary Pottle, coalition president who presented the award. After Seinfeld, He's A True Samaritan Quincy Atty. Richard McLeod watched Seinfeld's TV finale last week and the spoofing of the Good Samaritan Law in fictional Latham, Mass.

The next day he became a real life Good Samaritan in non-fictional Quincy when he pulled the driver from the smoking car.

McLeod said he was driving in the opposite direction on McGrath Highway last Friday, when he noticed a car which had pulled over engulfed in smoke with a man leaning over in the driver's side.

A woman who was nearby was knocking on the closed windows of the car and couldn't get a response. McLeod told her to call emergency on his car phone while he stayed at the car.

McLeod said just at that moment personnel from the fire department happened by and carried the gentleman onto the sidewalk. Minutes later, he said an ambulance arrived on the scene. At that time, the man was conscious and man said he had taken a nitroglycerin pill because he had chest pains.

McLeod said even if he didn't watch Seinfeld, he "would've done the same thing."

Memorial Plaque Will Honor Mary McKinnon

A ceremony to honor the late Mary J. McKinnon, a longtime crossing guard supervisor, will be held Tuesday, May 26 at 1 p.m. at the corner of Atlantic and East Squantum Sts., North Quincy.

McKinnon worked for the city as a crossing guard at that corner's bus stop from 1968 until her death in January.

A sidewalk plaque in her memory will be unveiled during the ceremony with family members, friends, neighbors and schoolchildren in attendance. City officials also have been invited.

In addition, Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers is working to have a second plaque placed on a pole at the corner naming it "Mary J. McKinnon Square."

"This neighborhood worked together to remember someone very special who gave a level of comfort and security knowing Mary was on the job," said Ayers, adding he remembers her helping him cross the street as a child. "She touched many lives in many ways and was the kind of person who makes a neighborhood a great place to live with her community spirit, her responsibility at her bus stop, and her years of service to the city."

"She was an anchor for many in her neighborhood and we all wanted to let her family know we remember her and her 30 years of service."

"Mary once told me that some of the children she watched today were the second generation of community people she had watched from the very same corner," added Sal Giarratani, secretary of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

Giarratani said among the many people who helped plan the dedication ceremony are Peg Westgate of Charlie's Market, Sandy Bradley from Sandy's Pet Grooming, and Virginia Moore who worked with McKinnon for many years.

The North Quincy High School Band will provide music and light refreshments will follow the ceremony.

They're Not Coming

Steven Spielberg and Anthony Hopkins won't be coming to Quincy.

Both have informed City Council President Peter Kolson they are going into production on new movies and are unable to make a commitment. Both sent their regrets.

Kolson invited them to come to Quincy in connection with the city's celebration of the life of John Quincy Adams.

KOLSON

Spielberg directed the film "Amistad" and Hopkins portrayed Adams in it, winning an Academy Award nomination.

The movie highlights Adams' role in winning freedom for 53 members of the West African Mendi tribe who seized control of the Spanish slave ship "La Amistad" off Cuba in 1839, killing most of the crew.

The ship wound up off Long Island, N.Y. where the slaves were captured by the U.S. Navy and imprisoned.

Adams, who as a Congressman at the time after serving as sixth President, won their freedom with impassioned anti-slavery arguments before the U.S. Supreme Court in 1841.

Kolson is disappointed Spielberg and Hopkins won't be coming to Quincy especially Spielberg who has a Quincy link. His father-in-law, Barney Adler, lived on James St. in Quincy Point.

"I'm disappointed and I know the city will be disappointed," says Kolson.

"But," he muses, "Quincy as always will endure and move on"

As reported here earlier, Swanson went shopping for a Quincy tie for Delahunt after noticing in news photos that he was steadily wearing Cape Cod ties.

Bryan Post Poppy Drive For Veterans Begins Today

The George F. Bryan VFW Post will hold its annual VFW Buddy Poppy Drive at sites throughout the city today (Thursday), Friday and Saturday from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Donations placed in cans manned by VFW-authorized solicitors will be earmarked for The Relief Fund, a major source of financial aid for needy veterans and their families.

Delahunt had promised his Cape constituents he would when they raised concerns he might forget them because he was from Quincy—the other end of the 10th Congressional District.

Delahunt came to The Sun a couple days later to draw the winning name (Sean Mullen) in the QCBPA Parade of Presidents contest. And Swanson was here to present the tie: a gold with the letter "Q" in blue.

Delahunt took it all in stride, undoing the Cape tie he was wearing and putting on the Quincy one.

Delahunt, a Democrat, also held his own with three Republicans as they kidded with him. The three: Swanson, Deanna Gazarian, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and Maralin Manning, executive director of the QCBPA.

As photos of them were being snapped by John Black of Presidential Camera Delahunt quipped the photos would make good re-election literature: "Republicans For Delahunt."

The tie gave Gazarian an idea. She's going to add a Quincy tie line at her Phase II Jewelry and Gifts shop.

MULLEN

FORMER Police Chief Frank Mullen is "doing well" after undergoing second carotid artery surgery at South Shore Hospital a couple weeks ago.

This surgery was on the right side. Last January it was done on the left side.

"I'm very lucky," he says. "I discovered the problem in time to have something done about it. Sometimes it can be too late."

The problem was signaled by pain he felt in his leg after walking.

He's getting in some walking now and will be playing some golf.

A Hingham resident now, he keeps his Quincy ties. Among them as a member of the Quincy Retiree Association Board of Directors.

A BROADCASTING MILESTONE for Charlie Ross at WJDA: his 25th anniversary behind the microphones at that station.

He joined the station as a summer fill-in in May, 1973, and went on to become one of the South Shore's most familiar radio voices as both announcer and sportscaster.

Charlie is now full-time with the National Fire Protection Association in telemarketing and as collections manager. But still does a part-time stint at WJDA including Saturday host of Breakfast with JDA.

Charlie has done the play-by-play of 24 Quincy-North Quincy Thanksgiving Day football games and hopes to do his 25th this year. And he does a nice job as his listeners will agree.

Charlie now lives in Mansfield but his Quincy roots are deep. He grew up here. His grandfather, Charles A. Ross, was mayor of Quincy and his father, Charles N. Ross, a well-known attorney here and assistant Register of Deeds for Norfolk County.

Congratulations, Charlie, and best wishes as you head for the half-century mark.

DOGGONE IT! Bud Rines of Terne Rd., Adams Shore, who collects fire hydrants, says he has picked up two more. Either one of which, he says, your dog would love.

Only $75 each (or best offer) delivery included. You can reach him at 472-6489. Make your dog happy, he says. Woof! Woof!

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1934 POSTCARD view of the Granite Rail Quarry in West Quincy. The quarry is often mistaken as the source of granite for the Bunker Hill Monument because the Granite Railway Company was located here. In fact the company moved its operation here after the Bunker Hill Quarry lost its usefulness. This was originally known as Pine Hill Quarry. Now filled with water, some experts believe that any attempt to drain this quarry will result in the cliffs cascading to the bottom. They say the pressure of the water is holding the walls up.

Mooney Resigns; Tax Bills On Hold

By PAUL HAROLD

The resignation this week of Treasurer-Collector Frederic Mooney caused an unexpected glitch in the ability of the city to send out its real estate tax bills.

The state Department of Corporations and Taxation informed Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa that the 10,000 bills printed with Mooney's name could not be sent out until his name is crossed out and the new treasurer-collector's name stamped in its place.

May 20 - 27

Della Chiesa said he would ask Mooney to stay on until the bills are committed, despite Mooney's acceptance of a job with a Boston brokerage company.

TESTIMONIAL UNDERWAY FOR MONTILIO

A testimonial dinner at Coral Gables in North Weymouth was scheduled to honor Quincy master baker Ernest Montilio in recognition of his many civic and charitable works.

Those participating included members of many organizations in which he held memberships: Rotary, Elks, Eagles, Knights of Columbus, John Quincy Adams Club, Sons of Italy, Invitation Club, Chamber of Commerce, Nazareth, Epicurean Club and the American Legion.

Louis Cassani was general chairman with City Clerk John Gillis as ticket chairman.

ENC REGISTRAR NEASE RESIGNS

Eastern Nazarene College's first full-time registrar, Mrs. Madeline Nease, resigned this week after 30 years of service. She assumed the post in 1931 after her husband, college president Floyd Nease, died. She would continue part-time as advisor to foreign students.

Mrs. Nease was a member of the first graduating class at the school in 1923, and was the mother of Rev. Stephen Nease who was the college's director of development.

QUINCY-ISM

Councillor John Quinn announced his intention to run for a third term. He stressed the need for increased cooperation to attract new business to the city. The flashing traffic light in front of City Hall was moved onto the curb after it was leveled for the third time this month by a hit and run driver. Clerks in the city clerk's office surprised John Gillis with a cake on his 36th birthday. The Quincy Veterans Council was scheduled to amend its by-laws to allow for the membership of the Jewish War Veterans and the Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League. Charles Ross and John Wipfler were on the drafting committee. A. Mario Salvatore announced that there was still time to apply to enter the Miss Quincy contest. It was sponsored by the Jaycees with proceeds going to the Cerebral Palsy kindergarten. At Quincy City Hospital, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Randall of Crabtree Rd.; a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Matteo Panarelli of Taylor St. The City Council held a hearing to consider land takings on Hunt St. to build a new gymnasium at North Quincy High School. A funeral was held at St. Mary's Church for Mrs. Frank Vallier, mother of Police Lt. Frank Vallier. Mary Ann Corcoran married Joseph Marchese. Engagements were announced between Margaret Fallon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fallon, Jr. and Richard Tibbetts, Jr. and Mary Gaudiano of Cross St. and Paul Gosselin of Copeland St. An estimated 600 attended the NQHS prom at King Philip in Wrentham. Class officers were Ralph Andrews, Jr., president; Candice Wilson, vice president; Helen Oakes, secretary; and Paul Coughlin, treasurer. Jeremiah Curtis of Standish Ave., former plumbing inspector, died. Fishermen lined the banks of Black's Creek at the Southern Artery bridge for the running of stripers. Howard Johnson's on the Southeast Expressway advertised for part-time waitresses. Frank Anselmo, outgoing president of the South Junior High School PTA, was scheduled to be the auctioneer at the school's fundraiser. Anthony Battaglia replaced Mrs. James Laing as president of the Atherton Hough PTA. Rev. Joseph Skaff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maroon Skaff of Shaw St., celebrated his first Mass at St. Joseph's Church. Mrs. Arthur Tucker was president of the newly combined women's clubs at the Adams Shore Community Church.

Wollaston Market Added To The Neighborhood's Quality Of Life

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

When I first moved to Quincy, I lived in Wollaston Center. It was then and remains today a vibrant retail center. It had the appearance of a small town's main street with its great diversity and common life.

I used to shop at the old Purity around the corner on Hancock Street but Purity decided to leave. Apparently, the smallness of the store no longer fit into Purity's future. I started shopping at one of those large super supermarkets but I missed the intimacy of that smaller supermarket.

For a short time, it was vacant. It's hard to remember the exact period now. But I do remember when Frank Miller, a former Star Market manager, decided to reopen a new supermarket at the site. Thank God Frank Miller did that back in, I believe, 1987.

All I know is I returned to Wollaston Center for my shopping needs and for more than a decade now Wollaston Market has added to the quality of life in the Wollaston Center area. It has served the community well, especially the elderly who came to depend upon the home shopping program instituted by Frank Miller. The elderly from across the city came to recognize the importance of Wollaston's home delivery service. They didn't need to be computerized as they would have had to be at the larger corporate supermarket chains. At Wollaston Market they called up, talked with a real person who did real shopping for them.

In the past several years, Frank Miller opened up two more Wollaston's, one by Northeastern University and another in Boston's South End on Tremont Street in an old A&P Supermarket. But now, Wollaston Market is going out of business.

I wonder if the new super supermarket down Hancock Street at the Wollaston-North Quincy line played a role in Wollaston Market's soon-to-be closing? I knew when that newer and larger market opened its doors that Wollaston Market would probably be in serious jeopardy. Now it appears that premonition may have proven correct. Why else would Wollaston Market be shutting its doors down? When this store darkens its lights for the last time and the aisles go bare, it will be a sad day for Wollaston Center as a piece of its community life dies.

Hey, we can always stop elsewhere. I did it before, I can do it again, but I didn't have to like it then and I won't have to like it again. I enjoyed shopping at a market that knew my name and I knew most of the employees by name.

Frank Miller will survive. He did his best for as long as he could. Nothing to be ashamed of in his community service. Sadly, though, I think Wollaston Market may mark the final supermarket in Wollaston Center. Now it's on to bigger supermarkets where surviving the bigness of those places will be a challenge to be conquered. I want to shop in comfort, not feel like I'm traveling through a mini-city of supermarket aisles with more choices than I might ever want to handle.

Wollaston Market will now go the way of the old First Nationals of my youth when shopping wasn't an adventure in the lost ark.

Atlantic Center Thanks Those Who Helped With Food Drive

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would very much like to thank the North Quincy Post Office and all the carriers that helped out during the rainy May 9 Food Drive this year.

I would also like to thank the many, many residents (over 500 bags of food) that put food out for the carriers to pick up.

The Atlantic Neighborhood Community Center receives all the food from this office. I was so overwhelmed. This food goes to residents in North Quincy, Wollaston, Montclair and Squantum. We serve many families in need of food. Without this food we would not be able to serve at our best capacity.

I thank each and every person that participated this year. God tells us to help the needy when in need. Many will be fed because of many people's generosity and kindness. I thank you and all the hidden faces of the families who we serve thank you also.

Thanks Quincy Hospital For 'Wonderful Care'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

So many times you hear bad things about things and places and I would like to give a lot of praise and thankfulness to the Quincy Hospital ICU unit.

I was a patient there for three months from Jan. 29 to April 29 under the care of Dr. Thomas Fitzgerald and Dr. Fred Dolgen. Everyone was wonderful, from the nurse to the techs to physical therapists to the social workers. Everyone worked together to make my recovery speedy and pleasurable.

I had five toes removed. I had wonderful care from Dr. Fitzgerald and Dr. Dolgen and lots of prayers. It could have been my leg and I am very thankful and grateful to the wonderful staff and wonderful care.

'The Civil War' At Adams Site May 25

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site will present "The Civil War" on Memorial Day, Monday, May 25 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Visitors will have the opportunity to visit a wealthy Southern planter and the Adams family of Quincy on the eve of the Civil War. Participants later will assume the roles of members of Congress in 1861 during the secession crisis with a Park Ranger portraying Congressman Charles Francis Adams.

Later, participants will dress up in either blue or gray to prepare for battle, take on the role of an actual soldier at the Battle of Gettysburg, and share his fate.

Following the "war," an Adams Site official portraying Abraham Lincoln will read the Gettysburg Address on the field of battle. Each participant will receive a copy of a address, a piece of hard tack, and a slice of Union or Dixie cake.

The program is free of charge. Reservations are required. For more information, call 770-1175.

Magazine Editor Visits Quincy

Memorial Day Dip

With Memorial Day almost here, this easy-bake spinach-artichoke appetizer can be made ahead of time, and enjoyed while the grill is sizzling.

Our daughter Rita, who originated this tidbit said the recipe can be cut in half if you choose not to prepare the full recipe.

Spinach, Artichoke Dip
10 ounces spinach (cooked)
1-8 ounce can artichoke hearts (chopped)

1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup grated parmesan cheese

Mix all ingredients together, place either in separate small oven proof dishes, or a casserole dish and bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. If desired, after this, place under the broiler for three minutes.

Serve with slices of toasted French bread, or a favorite cracker.

Leftovers can be heated in the microwave.

'Medical Watch' On Cardiac Problems

The May "Medical Watch" program, a joint production of Quincy Hospital and Media One cable television, focuses on the impact cardiac problems can have on people's lives.

"Medical Watch" host Quincy Hospital to learn cardiac risk factors and warning signs. The doctors will also discuss steps to take during a cardiac emergency and diagnostic testing that can be done.

The program can be seen on Quincy Access Television Channel 3 in May. It will also air on Media One Channel 10 in Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Hull, Norwell, Scituate and Weymouth. Check your local cable listings for program dates and times.

For 25 Years At DPW

James Gaudiano Honored By City Council

James Gaudiano was honored by the City Council on Monday night for 25 years of dedicated service to the Quincy Department of Public Works.

Gaudiano, 65, a foreman with the department, will retire in June.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi presented Gaudiano with a council citation and praised him for his many years working through blizzards and other challenging situations while at the DPW.

"Jim Gaudiano symbolizes all of the good things that the people of Quincy look up to," said Raymondi, who also presented flowers to Gaudiano's wife, Sandra. "He is an individual who has dedicated his life to public service."

Gaudiano, who lives in Brockton but was born on Cross Street in West Quincy, was also praised by Council President Peter Kolson, Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, and Councillor Francis McCauley.

McCauley said he cannot imagine the city going through a snowy winter without the dependable Gaudiano on the job.

"Jim Gaudiano's retirement is a real scary thing for me," he said with a smile.

"He was always on top of the situation; it was never a panic situation with him. This guy did a great job, really."

To Gaudiano, he added, "You epitomize the City of Quincy's workforce."

Gaudiano, for his part, briefly expressed his gratitude to the councillors for their tribute.

"I just want to thank everybody," he said, beaming. "This is greatly appreciated. Thank you."

Gaudiano and his wife have a son, James Jr.; daughter, Michelle; and granddaughter, Corina.

Consumer's Information Guide Available At Mariano Office

Rep. Ronald Mariano announces that copies of A Consumer's Guide to the Licensed Professions are available through his office.

The guide provides consumers with information concerning professional and occupational licensing for over 530,000 individuals in more than 45 trades and professions, ranging from nurses to electricians and pharmacists.

"This brochure gives consumers concise information on professional licensing-from how to check the status of a professional's license to when and how to file a complaint," said Mariano.

The guide includes a listing of the boards of registration that license the trades and professions, an explanation of the complaint process, other helpful sources of information, and tips for choosing a tradesperson or other professional.

To obtain a copy of A Consumer's Guide to the Licensed Professions call Mariano's office at (617) 722-2220.

Quincy Production Manager Remembers Singer

Frank Sinatra: 'He Really Did It His Way'

By MICHAEL WHALEN
Some remember Frank Sinatra as the "Chairman of the Board." To others, he was "Ol' Blue Eyes."

But Al Dotoli of Quincy, who knew the late crooner for 20 years, remembers him as something else: "a regular guy."

Dotoli, 51, an independent production manager, first met Sinatra when the latter came out of retirement to begin touring again. He said he and others who knew the legendary singer were stunned by his death at 82 last Thursday.

"None of us ever thought Frank would die," he said.

Dotoli initially set up the stage and arranged shows from start to finish when Sinatra came to New England—"I met him as kind of the local boy," he noted—but got to know him better when the singer became producer of President Ronald Reagan's first inaugural ball in 1981.

"After that, I was pretty much involved with everything he did," he said.

That included a four-year stint as assistant production manager for "The Ultimate Event" (1988-92), a worldwide tour that included Sinatra, fellow former Hollywood "Rat Pack" members Dean Martin and Sammy Davis Jr. and, later on, Liza Minnelli.

Dotoli remembers Sinatra as someone who was approachable, affable, and easy-going.

"He was a great guy, a pretty regular guy," he said. "Frank was pretty much comfortable with whoever he ran with, whether it was backstage workers, kings and queens, or (former Los Angeles Dodgers manager) Tommy Lasorda."

"I think he was a breath of fresh air for some of the stuffed shirts he had to deal with. He was as blunt with them as he was with any one of us."

Dotoli, who last saw Sinatra at his 80th birthday celebration in California, said at press time he would be unable to attend Sinatra's funeral this week because of a previously-scheduled family trip but planned to send a card to Frank Sinatra Jr., whom he also knows.

Dotoli's favorite Sinatra song is "My Way," which he said was a philosophy the legend truly lived by.

"He really did it his way," he said. "It was not just a head trip. It was definitely him."

Dotoli lives with his wife Rena, a medical secretary who works for Medsite at the State Street complex in North Quincy; and daughters Kacy, who will be 12 in July, and Courtney, 9, both of whom attend Sacred Heart School. Kacy also is a Quincy Sun newscaster.

The Dotolis also have two other daughters, Randi Heikkinen, 29, of Tampa, Fla. and Jackie, 26, of Medford.

Robert Picciano Graduates From Nichols College

Robert D. Picciano of Quincy recently received a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Nichols College in Dudley.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Callahan of 32 Gridley St., his campus activities included racquetball, the Fire Department, and the Radio Club.

Police Dept. Receives $1,000 DARE Grant

The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office has awarded $28,000 to police departments across the county, including the Quincy Police Department, to help fund Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education programs in the public schools.

Every police department in the county was awarded $1,000 to spend on training DARE officers and other expenses involved in running the programs. For more than a decade, the sheriff's office has awarded the DARE grants in an ongoing effort to support the work of law enforcement agencies in Norfolk County.

DARE is a 17-week program designed to teach middle school students values, decision-making skills, self-esteem, respect for the law and resistance to negative peer pressure. The sheriff's office staff includes two trained DARE officers who work in local communities.

The office also has a direct relationship with many schools in the county, conducting tours of the House of Correction through the Sheriff's Drug and Alcohol Awareness Program and using its K-9 Unit in searching schools for narcotics.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment

Project Hero Campaign Reaches $21,628 Rung

Project Hero is still steadily climbing the ladder to its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its ninth week at the $21,628 rung and is starting its 10th week with $28,372 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units—helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

David and Jean Thomas, Richard Gilliland, Constance R. Lundy, Anna and Mary Keeney, Lt. Gary and Elizabeth Smyth, O.F.D., Theodore and Margaret Johnson, Ted and Peggy

Johnson, O.F.D., Donald and Sally McCusker, Silas Porter.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

DO YOU SNOORE?

Nobody wants to admit to snoring. For some reason, it's just kind of embarrassing. Unfortunately, it also may be a sign of a serious health problem: obstructive sleep apnea. OSA is a breathing disorder that occurs during sleep, affecting about four out of every 100 men and two of every 100 women. The airway becomes obstructed—due to extra tissue in the back of the airway, the tongue falling back over the airway, or a failure of the muscles that are supposed to hold the airway open—and breathing is cut off. Signs that OSA may be happening include snoring, awakening with headaches or feelings of fatigue, restless sleep, inability to concentrate, memory loss, and chronic fatigue.

If you are having sleep problems of any kind, see your physician for the most up-to-date medical information available. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Left untreated, OSA can lead to such serious problems as heart disease, stroke, obesity, and automobile or work-related accidents.

Gave Up Police Work For Priesthood Fr. David White: From The Precinct To The Pulpit

By MICHAEL WHALEN
From the precinct to the pulpit.

That's the road Fr. David White of Sacred Heart Church has taken in order to go from being a Boston police detective lieutenant to a parish priest in North Quincy.

Fr. White, 46, served the Boston Police Department for 11 years before studying for the priesthood. And while some might think the two professions have vast differences, he says they have much in common.

"I think initially, people think they're very diverse," he said in a recent interview with The Quincy Sun. "But there are actually many parallels."

Among the similarities he cited: wearing uniforms that are distinctive; hearing confessions, whether they be about crimes or sins; seeing the results of the evils of drug abuse, domestic violence and other problems; being on call 24 hours a day; and an especially busy holiday schedule.

"But there are differences," he added. "For instance, police work is more for the body, material things. But with priests, while we certainly care about the body, it's more about the soul, the spirit."

Fr. White was born at St. Margaret's Hospital in Dorchester and raised in what he called "the 1950s typical, normal city Catholic family." Serving the public is almost a family tradition: his late great-grandfather and grandfather were both Boston police officers; his late father, Woodrow, was a Boston firefighter for 35 years; and his brothers, Richard and Paul, are both state troopers who live on Cape Cod.

"It runs in the blood, you might say," he said.

He graduated from Catholic Memorial High School in West Roxbury in 1969, received a liberal arts degree from Northeastern University in 1974, and spent four years in the Marine Corps before joining the Boston Police Department a year later, in 1979.

Despite his liberal arts background, Fr. White said joining the force seemed a natural move.

"I enjoy working with people, helping people," he said. "And when I was growing up, Sherlock Holmes was my hero—(because of) the way he combined science and investigation."

His police career included stints in District 2 (Roxbury) and District 4 (South Boston) as well as work in internal affairs, where he investigated police and city corruption. He also served as a hostage negotiator for four years.

But around 1988, he started considering another vocation.

"At age 35, I started asking myself if there was more to life," he said. "It wasn't as though I was unhappy. I was searching for something more."

Fr. White said the decision was not an easy one to make—at the time, he was dating a woman with whom he was discussing marriage (they remain good friends today). For two years, he mulled it over while going on several retreats, visiting with the Franciscan Fathers in the Bronx, N.Y. and the Maryknoll Missionaries in Guatemala, and continuing his service as a Eucharistic minister, lector, and religious education teacher.

Finally, the decision was made. With the blessing of his friends and relatives—including his mother, Elizabeth, who also lives on Cape Cod—he retired as a detective lieutenant in 1990, and graduated from Pope John XXIII National Seminary in Weston four years later.

His first assignment, at St. Thomas Aquinas Parish in Bridgewater, lasted from June 1994 to June 1996. Since then, he has served under Fr. John O'Brien, the pastor at Sacred Heart. (He is also chaplain of the Quincy Police Department.)

While there are things he misses—since the priesthood is more time-consuming than the average profession, he often cannot attend family functions and other events—he says he greatly enjoys his work.

"I do think I made the right decision," said Fr. White. "That doesn't mean it's easy, but I do. It's been a very, very positive, very enriching, very rewarding time here."

And although he said it is a challenging job that demands proper conduct and offers a lower salary than most, he hopes young men considering the priesthood will give it serious thought.

"I would ask them to consider it, pray on it, and talk to a priest," he said. "If you like working with and helping people, there's no better opportunity."

"And in a downsizing economy," he added with a laugh, "You don't have to worry about layoffs!"

THE PARENTS OF David White joined him when he was promoted to Lieutenant in the Boston Police Department during March 1988 ceremonies at Faneuil Hall in Boston. He retired as a detective lieutenant in 1990 to begin studying for the priesthood. With him from left are his father Woodrow who died this past January and his mother Elizabeth who lives on Cape Cod.

Squantum Causeway Project Daylilies Planting May 30

About 5,000 daylilies will be planted as part of the Squantum Causeway Beautification Project on Saturday, May 30 at Beechwood Community Life Center, 440 East Squantum St. Groundbreaking will be at 8:30 a.m. and planting will begin at 9 a.m. Rain date is Sunday, May 31 at noon. If planting is not completed on the first day, it will continue Saturday, June 6 at 9 a.m.

The project is a joint effort by the Seaside Gardeners of Squantum, Quincy Department of Public Works, Marina Bay Company, and Mary Smith and Associates. The planting of the daylilies originally was scheduled for April 25 but was postponed because the plants were not mature enough to be put in the ground.

Volunteers are needed and asked to bring their own gardening tools. For more information, call Sally Erickson at 328-6818.

KEVIN COUGHLIN of Quincy, Assistant Chief Probation Officer for the Middlesex Probate and Family Court, was recently awarded the "Family Advocate of the Year-Public Friend Award" for 1998. The awards is given each year by the Boston Parents Paper to honor an individual who makes a difference in the lives of Massachusetts families. With him from left are his son, James, 12, his wife, Domenica, his son, Matthew, 7, and his daughter, Maria, 15.

Kevin Coughlin Receives 'Family Advocate' Award

The Middlesex Probate and Family Court announces that Assistant Chief Probation Officer Kevin Coughlin of Quincy has been awarded the "Family Advocate of the Year-Public Friend Award" for 1998.

The award, given each year by the Boston Parents Paper, honors an individual whose tireless advocacy makes a difference in the lives of Massachusetts families.

Coughlin has worked with children, youth and families in the court system for 20 years and has been a community activist and volunteer in Quincy where lives with his wife, Domenica, and three children, Maria, James and Matthew.

"I've seen so many gaps in servicing the needs of kids and families. Here at the court we see such a needy population and I guess you could become quite jaded and think the worst of people or turn it into a positive energy," he said.

Previously cited for his work with families and children, Coughlin was described by Chief Probation Officer Brendan Callanan as "one who selflessly gives of his energy and talents both in and out of the court far beyond any expected norm and converts words into action."

Coughlin was presented his award at a recent luncheon with Boston Mayor Thomas Menino as part of the 11th annual Family Forum "Nurturing Our Sons and Daughters: Shaping Healthy Images of Self and Others" held at Boston University.

Computer Operations Class Graduation Party June 5

Podiatric Physicians and Surgeons

THE DIABETIC FOOT: WHAT TO LOOK FOR.
Daily self-examination of the feet is one of the most important things people with diabetes can do to safeguard their health. Among the warning signs to look for are color changes. Redness, particularly with streaks, may be a sign of infection. Pale or blue skin often signals poor circulation, while blackened areas indicate dead tissue. Swelling and tenderness are also among the common signs of poor circulation or infection, as are areas that feel abnormally warm. Cold feet may mean not enough blood. Sensations such as "pins and needles," numbness, burning, or lack of feeling can be symptoms of nerve damage. Any of the above symptoms should prompt an immediate call to your podiatrist.

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

Simone Koch Grand Marshal

Flag Day Parade, Celebration June 13

Simone Koch will be the grand marshal in the 47th annual Flag Day Parade and Celebration to be held Saturday June 13. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Koch Club, founded by her late husband, Richard Koch. He was also the founder of the Flag Day Parade.

Sponsored by the City of Quincy, the Quincy Partnership and the Koch Club, the festivities will feature a parade, a flag-raising ceremony and an impressive fireworks display.

The parade will begin at 7 p.m. and the fireworks show will commence at approximately 9 p.m.

The parade will feature many marching bands, color guards, floats, mounted units, veterans organizations, antique vehicles, community organizations and the old-fashioned pomp and circumstance of years past that has made this event one of the finest family-oriented celebration on the South Shore. The highlight of the parade will be the participation of 2,500 flag-waving youngsters from the city's various youth organizations.

This year's musical contingent will feature the Boston Crusaders Drum Corps. The Crusaders were established in 1940 and have competed nationally and internationally for many years. They currently perform with 128 members. They have been a semifinalist in the International Drum Corps Championships for 10 consecutive years.

In addition, the following bands will participate: Quincy High School, North Quincy High School, Crann Tara Pipe

Band, Boston Gaelic Fire Brigade, Boston City Band, Tulach And Ard Pipe Band, Bourne High School, New Bedford High School, and New Bedford Jr. High School.

The parade will feature a variety of specialty units including: The Quincy Police Mounted Unit, Silver Dolphin Drill Team, the Cycling Murrays, the National Flag Track, antique fire engines from the Bare Cove Fire Museum, US Army military vehicles, and many color guards in historical-period uniform.

In 1952, Mrs. Koch founded the Koch Club's softball program in North Quincy. After starting with 14 girls, the program soon expanded to other areas in the city, allowing thousands of young girls a valuable recreational opportunity in a time when there were few such opportunities for females.

The parade route will begin on Coddington St. near Quincy Center. It will proceed up Coddington St. to Hancock St. before heading north to Southern Artery. The parade will then head down Southern Artery and end at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park.

The parade route will be lined with flags donated by the families of deceased veterans. The flags pay homage to those who fought to protect our great country. The display adds significantly to the patriotic atmosphere of the parade. Those interested in donating a loved one's memorial flag, may contact Ed Keohane of Keohane Funeral Homes on Hancock St., Wollaston.

Immediately after the parade, there will be a flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field. The 45 foot by 90 foot Mount Rushmore flag will be raised during the playing of the National Anthem.

Once the flag-raising ceremony is complete, spectators can remain at Pageant field and enjoy the fireworks celebration. The show will be conducted over Black's Creek. The best viewing areas will be at Pageant Field and along the eastern portion Quincy Shore Drive.

The Atlas Fireworks Company has coordinated their efforts with Quincy's WJDA-1300 AM to simulcast their display with patriotic music. Please listen to WJDA for any parade-related information.

For more information on the Flag Day Parade and Celebration, call 376-1251.

law. "Temporary signs are formally allowed and regulated "within rules and regulations taking into account common sense."

"The ordinance is more conducive to the needs of business owners."

Other committee members who joined Mader in backing the ordinance Monday night prior to the council's vote were: Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Michael Rie, economic development coordinator of Quincy 2000; Eric Stoeckel, owner of Stoeckel Insurance and immediate past president of the North Quincy Business and Professional Association; and Christopher Wilson, owner of Signature Signs.

Bosworth said the committee put in a lot of effort formulating the new ordinance.

"It's been over two years of tedious work," he said. "The present ordinance is obsolete. I think this new ordinance is a strict one, and a fair one."

Stoeckel agreed.

"After almost three years of discussion, this ordinance should be passed," he said.

Also speaking in favor were Kolson and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, who owns Ayers Handicap Conversion Center in North Quincy.

"As a small business owner, I am in strong support of simplifying this (signage) process," said Ayers. "Small businesses are the backbone of the community. I'd like to move forward with this."

difficult to ever restore the 19th century Southern Tide Mill. Auto repair shop owners also opposed a plan to bring the Philadelphia-based Pep Boys to the site, which has since been dropped from the project.

The shop owners had raised concerns that the discount auto repair shop would drive them out of business.

Since the plan to bring in the Pep Boys was dropped, the developers have had trouble finding another major store for the plaza.

FEWER PROBLEMS

Today's automobiles are the most problem-free vehicles ever offered to consumers. This is the conclusion reached by J.D. Power and Associates, perhaps the most respected provider of consumer survey information. Data recently provided on 1997 model-year cars and trucks shows that the average number of problems per 100 vehicles (PP100) was down 22% when compared to 1996 models. Not only does this statistic show that 1997 models have the lowest number of new-vehicle defects on record, but the improvement in the quality index represents an ongoing, upward trend in the quality of vehicles. Since 1987, when the initial Quality Survey was first compiled, there have been about 90 fewer reported problems per 100 vehicles across the entire make/model spectrum.

HINT: The improvement in the overall quality of today's cars and trucks means that they can now be expected to travel past the 100,000 mile mark without experiencing major mechanical problems.

First-Time Home Buyers Have Numerous Options

By CAROL BULMAN

First-time home buyers comprise as much as 50 percent of today's potential real estate customers.

The following mortgage products are available to first-time buyers who want to end their days of rental receipts and start building equity in their own homes.

Fannie-97 Program: Fannie Mae, the secondary mortgage market giant, offers this program, which requires only 3 percent down payment on a home mortgage. Most mortgages require down payments of 5 to 10 percent of the amount of the loan.

Freddie Mac's 40/40

Gold Program: Freddie Mac, another national lending source, offers this program which allows first-time buyers to obtain a higher loan amount. The 40/40 Gold Program allows the borrowers to apply as much as 40 percent (instead of the customary 36 percent) of their income toward their total indebtedness. Their total indebtedness would include their proposed housing payment (principal, interest, taxes, insurance and mortgage insurance if applicable) and all other consumer debt. If the borrowers have no other debt, such as credit card debt or auto loan payments, they can apply this same 40 percent of their gross income to their housing payment alone. Normally borrowers can only spend up to 28 percent of their gross income for their housing payment.

VA Loans: The federal government allows any buyer who is a qualified veteran to obtain a mortgage of up to $207,000 with zero down payment. The VA loan is the only mortgage available that requires no money down and can be assumed by another party once the property is sold. It also allows the veteran to dedicate a larger portion of his income to his indebtedness.

FHA Loans: The Federal Housing Administration offers a federally-insured mortgage with as little as 3 to 5 percent for a down payment and allows almost all of the closing costs to be financed into the loan. Although you need not be a first-time home buyer to apply for a loan through the FHA, many first-time home buyers use this program because of the low costs involved in obtaining the loan.

FHA 203K Rehab Loan: The FHA offers a terrific program for buyers who want to buy a "fixer-upper." Once again the borrower need not be a first-time home buyer to apply for this loan, but most customers who utilize the benefits of this program are in fact buying their first home. The reason for this is that the program allows the borrower to buy a property that needs rehab and to add the cost of the rehab into the loan amount, all while observing the same leniencies offered with other FHA loans. Very often the borrowers find that by financing with the 203K Rehab Loan, the cost of purchasing and rehabbing the property is less than had they purchased a similar property not requiring rehab. It can also allow the borrowers to purchase a home they might not otherwise be able to afford.

These are just a few examples of how the mortgage industry has become sensitive to the needs of the first-time home buyer on the national level. CFS can also offer our customers a variety of first-time buyer programs made available through local portfolio lenders. Let one of our mortgage specialists pre-qualify you for one of these great programs in person or sometimes right over the telephone, free of charge.

Fire Safety In New Home Purchases

(NAPS)—Now is the time many begin looking for a new home. If you're having a home built, spend time with your builder to ensure it is constructed with superior craftsmanship and quality products. If you're buying an existing home, hire a home inspector and work with him to evaluate the construction and products installed in the home.

Whether new or existing construction, it is important to look for building materials that are fire safe.

Start from the top floor of the house and move down. Check the roofing to be used or that has been installed. Make sure it has a Class A fire rating. Next, check the insulation. Make sure it is a fire safe material such as noncombustible InsulSafe IIP blown-in fiber glass insulation. Some insulations, like cellulose, are made of ground up newspapers, which is naturally flammable. It can be a source of attic fires when installed too close to heat sources such as recessed lights.

In a recent survey con-

Fire marshals suggest homeowners and homebuyers look for building materials that are fire safe.

ducted by META Information Services, Sacramento, CA, an estimated

3,600 fires involving cellulose were noted annually in California. Of those, approximately 1,000 were fires involving cellulose blown in too close to fireplace stacks, recessed lights or other electrical fixtures.

In 172 of the cases, according to the META Survey, fire departments returned to at least one rekindled fire that started smoldering cellulose insulation.

The results of the survey are based on questionnaires returned by 388 California fire departments. Surveys were mailed to all 955 fire departments in the state by the California Fire Marshal's office.

For a brochure on insulation and fire safety, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482 or call 1-800-782-8777 and ask for the "Insulation and Fire Safety" brochure. You can also visit the Institute on the Internet at <http://www.certainteed.com>.

OPEN HOUSE was held recently at the new Veterans' House at 191 Burgin Parkway in Quincy, operated by the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC), that will serve as the home of eight homeless veterans. Those in attendance included, from left, Brian Buckley, director of Quincy Elder Services; state Rep. Michael Bellotti; Fr. William McCarthy, after whom the QISC-operated homeless shelter Father Bill's Place is named; John "Jake" Comer, past national commander of the American Legion; and Normand Grenier, executive director of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services which assisted with the initiating financing of the house.

Mass. Housing Market Sales Up In First Quarter

The Bay State housing market is off to its strongest start ever this year, as sales of single-family homes soared to their highest first quarter level on record during the past three months of 1998, according to a recent report issued by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR).

The market is being fueled by attractive mortgage rates, record low unemployment, and four straight years of modest price appreciation, which has led to a surge in trade-up and home sales.

The MAR report shows sales of detached single-family homes increased 13.2 percent during the first quarter of 1998 versus the same period last year, rising from 7,437 units sold in the first three months of 1997 to 8,443 from January-March of this year. Additionally, sales of condominiums and townhomes have improved 9.2 percent over the past year, climbing from 1,610 units closed in the first quarter one year ago to 1,758 in the first three months of 1998.

"There's a lot of confidence in the economy right now, and that optimism is lifting the housing market to new heights," said MAR President Mary Crowley.

First time-buyers have been swarming the market since January when the rate on a 30-year fixed mortgage fell to a two-year low, and repeat buyers have hit the market early this year too, drawn in by mild winter weather and the recent recovery in home values, she noted.

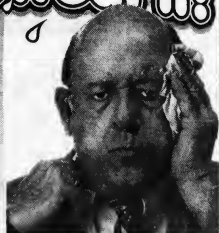

"We're having a tough time keeping up with the demand," she said. "In many areas of the state, listings are in short supply. Homes that are priced right and in good condition are selling in days."

Regionally, during the first quarter, sales of detached homes improved at a rate equal to or greater than the statewide increase in the Northeast (17.3 percent), Central (18 percent), and South Shore (27.3 percent), while sales rose 12 to 13 percent over 1997 first quarter levels in Greater Boston and Cape Cod and the Islands. In the condo market, sales rose in six of seven regions, with the Central, West and Southeast regions reporting the most improvement over the first quarter of last year.

Car Care Q & A

By CATHY REICHOW

Q. I don't put many miles on my vehicle, how often should I change my oil?

A. In our shop, we like to see our customers every 3 months or 3,000 miles, whichever comes first. An oil change is a very inexpensive protector considering the cost of a replacement engine. This also gets a technician under the hood of your vehicle to look for any future needs or problems that may be developing. You can refer to your owner's manual for the recommended maintenance schedule. Look for both "Severe Service" and "Normal Service" intervals and find what best describes your driving habits. "Severe Service" includes: driving on many short trips, driving in hot weather in stop and go traffic, driving at high speeds in hot weather, and towing a trailer. If you don't drive under any of these conditions, you could use the 6-month or 3,000 mile schedule, whichever comes first. Remember, with proper maintenance, most vehicles will go 100,000 miles or more!

Q. I purchased tires for my 1995 Toyota Camry less than 30,000 miles ago and they are wearing on the edges. Is this a defect in the tire or is something wrong with my car?

A. Uneven tire wear can be used by a couple of things. Worn suspension and steering components, improper tire inflation or wheel misalignment are some possibilities. The most common cause is worn steering or loose suspension components. When you have worn parts this can also change the vehicle's alignment. Both tire over-inflation and under-inflation can cause uneven wear. For a tire to roll down the road with the least resistance, it must be aligned to the road, parallel to the other three wheels, straight with the chassis and accurately inflated. When you have a front wheel drive vehicle, both the front and rear wheel alignment are adjustable. My suggestion is to take your vehicle to your technician and have your front steering and suspension components checked and then talk to your technician for wheel alignment.

An educated technician should be able to tell by the way your tires are wearing what is causing the tire wearing condition.

Q. My windshield has been chipped from a rock that flew off a passing gravel truck. My insurance man says they'll repair it but not replace the windshield. I wonder if a repair is satisfactory or should I insist on a new windshield?

A. Most insurance companies will repair rather than replace when the damage is no bigger than a quarter and not in the line of vision. Benefits of this new repair technology include savings in time and expense. A repair costs about $50 vs. an average of $250 for windshield replacement. And there's a lot to be said for preserving the original factory seal around the glass.

[Co-owner of Dan R's Automotive Sales & Service, ASE Certified Auto Parts Specialist and President of the Toledo, OH Chapter of ASA, Cathy Reichow is now an editorial contributor to Car Care Council, whose purpose is to educate motorists about vehicle maintenance and repair.]

Better Cars, Maintenance Help The Environment

Worldwide, 1997 is on record as the hottest year ever. To whatever extent the greenhouse effect is responsible, it's a "given" that automotive emissions play a part. Pointing to traffic clogged highways, environmentalists insist that the worst is yet to come unless drastic measures are taken.

Environmentally friendly cars are seen as part of the solution as evidenced by reports from the recent Detroit International Auto Show, vehicle manufacturers are making impressive progress with their electric, hybrid or fuel cell powered vehicles. But they're still too expensive and impractical for general use, falling short of the traditional internal combustion engine.

Dominating the Detroit Show were "real world" models, the ones we'll see in showrooms this year. Featuring reduced wind and rolling resistance, lighter weight, improved fuel economy and lower emissions. They're a dramatic improvement over their predecessors of only a few years ago. They offer longer intervals between normal maintenance services, thereby ensuring less damage to the atmosphere during the vehicle's life.

But what about the tens of millions of vehicles on the road today, whose average age is approaching ten years? Are they still efficient or are they polluters? Many are, says the Car Care Council. They report that nine out of ten vehicles checked during National Car Care Month fail inspection for a variety of discrepancies, with exhaust emissions high on the defect list.

The majority of these could become good environmental citizens for the modest cost of a new air filter or a set of spark plugs. It makes sense, suggests the Council, that while seeking technological solutions to future automotive pollution, we do not lose sight of the "here and now." Car Care Council emphasizes that the best automotive design still demands periodic maintenance.

For free brochures on tune-up and filters, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. SPE98-TUF, 42 Park Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Home Tips

NO MORE DRIPS — When traveling by car, my family and I often buy cold drinks when we make stops. Unfortunately, condensation forms on the outside of the cups and when they are in a cup holder, the water drips onto our legs or on the inside of the door.

To solve the problem, I now purchase drinks in very large plastic foam cups. When we finish the drinks, I simply wash out the cups and cut off the top half of each. I place the bottom halves in the cup holders, so now our drinks sit neatly inside the plastic foam where the drops of condensation are collected. Adelaide G., Houston, Texas

SPRING CAR CARE

Comb Auto Store Shelves For Car Cleaning Supplies

For many drivers, the first warm days of spring bring the unwelcome realization that their car still wears its winter coat of grime. Worse than being unsightly, that layer of dirt represents a corrosive assault on a car's finish. So along with your household spring cleaning, why not include a fresh approach to cleaning your car?

Too often a car wash consists of the traditional hose and bucket mixture of dishwashing liquid. While household cleaners may be convenient and mild on your hands, they can be hard on your car. Do the job properly, suggests the Car Care Council, by assembling a kit of the right car cleaning necessities and keeping these materials together and available for regular use. Some products once available only to professionals now can be found at your local automotive store. Constantly improving their formulas, the car care chemical industry offers entire lines of advanced products that provide a high-tech clean. Some boast the ability to bond, protect and/or intensify hues. Specially formulated products include cleaning solutions for both interior and exterior finish as well as tires, glass and trim. Rubber, trim and vinyl protectants, along with detailing solutions and waxes, also are in the line-up.

Are so many items necessary? They are if you're planning to do a first class "home detailing," according to the Council. The mild cleaner for your car's finish won't clean the stubborn dirt off your tires nor will it preserve flexible rubber seals and moldings. In fact, using the wrong cleaning solution on some newer car surfaces, like those "chrome" plastic strips, can damage the finish.

Time spent in the automotive aisle reading the labels of these new cleaning products and waxes is time well invested. Components of your car cleaning kit should include a soft sponge for cleaning the car's surface, a brush for the tires and a chamois or terry cloth towel for drying. Read and follow the directions for each product. Advice you're likely to read: avoid washing or waxing in the sun and don't use hot water.

The Council suggests a good cleaning, inside and out, monthly, depending on weather and other conditions. In between regular cleanings remove bug splatters, road tar and bird droppings as soon as possible. The latter can leave permanent spots on the paint. Regular visits to the drive-through car wash will help keep your vehicle sparkling clean. Waxing is recommended at least once a year, preferably every six months. Again, be careful to pick out the right product for your car's finish. If you have questions, consult your owner's manual or ask someone at your auto supply store. With a little planning and elbow grease, this spring can breathe new life into the appearance of your car.

For more information on car maintenance, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. SPE98-UH, 42 Park Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Did You Know?

(NAPS)—The National Automotive Parts Association recommends you give your car an annual check up to keep it running smoothly and safely.

Baseball, football and NASCAR racing all have a "Man Of The Year" award to recognize and honor community involvement, especially with children. The NASCAR awards are co-sponsored by True Value Hardware.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

Redecorating Your Home? Here's How To Get Started

(NAPS)—One of the hardest steps in redecorating a room is often the first: getting started. Here are some tips from the Carpet and Rug Institute on taking the leap.

• Turn to newspaper articles and design magazines for help. Don't be afraid to use the decorating ideas you find there.

• Tear out pages with ideas that catch your eye, and keep them in a file or drawer. Study the elements you like and pay special attention to how the room is balanced (where furniture is placed and how the different colors complement each other).

• Once you have an idea of what you want to do to a room and have decided what will fit your lifestyle and personality best, take the pages to the store with you.

• Find the unusual, and use your imagination. Don't be afraid to experiment a little. You can even experiment on a limited budget. Carpet alone can refresh all your furnishings. New, solid color, highly textured styles are a good transition to more interest on the floor. Real pizzazz can come with floral, geometric, and oriental patterns to coordinate with plaid, solid, and striped fabrics. Remember that an area rug, placed over carpet, wood, tile, or sheet vinyl, can add color, the pizzazz of another pattern, comfort underfoot, warmth and enhanced sound absorption.

• More and more people are choosing darker colors for walls and floors; the family of greens is very popular in both carpet and paint. Just remember that because floors and walls are two of the biggest elements in a room, using darker colors can make the room look cozier.

• Lighter colors on the floor can make the room seem larger and carpet texture can add a new, fresh appearance to the room.

Pleasant Indoor Climate Is A Breeze

(NAPS)—Here are some cold hard facts: Air-conditioners and heat pumps are considered vital equipment for more than 50 million American households.

When you're running air-conditioners or heat pumps, keep windows and doors closed to help keep your home energy efficient.

A few basic tips from expert technicians may help save you money while keeping your home energy efficient and comfortable:

• Don't try to cool or heat the outside. Keep windows and doors closed when the equipment is running. Pull drapes and shades over windows to keep out the hot summer sun.

• Caulk and weatherstrip around the windows and elsewhere to close air gaps and insulate, especially in the attic.

• Use a thermostat control to automatically increase or decrease temperatures during the day and night.

• Check the air filter every 30 days during periods of heavy use.

• If your air-conditioner or heat pump (which is used for cooling in warm weather) are not working properly, you may want to call a qualified contractor or service representative. Most consumers prefer a certified technician to service their systems.

Consider asking for a North American Technician Excellence (NATE) certified technician or installer. NATE offers certification for installation and service technicians in five residential and light commercial areas: air-conditioning, air distribution, air-to-air heat pump, gas furnace and oil furnace equipment and systems.

When your air-conditioning system or heat pump starts giving you problems that seem too expensive to fix, consider a replacement. Newer equipment can be much more energy efficient and that can reduce your operating expenses.

free pamphlet, "How to Keep Your Cool and Save Cold Cash," by writing: Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, Dept. 98-APS, 4301 N. Fairfax Dr., Suite 425, Arlington, VA 22203. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In last Friday's volleyball game between the Seniors and the Celebrities, captain Don Strong and the Seniors won the best two-out-of-three match, 2-0, to reclaim the winners' trophy.

The victory was the Seniors' third in the past four years.

Last year, the Celebrities, led by captain Mayor James Sheets, snapped the Seniors' two-year winning streak, but couldn't make it two in a row.

In Monday's softball game, the women's team, led by captain Ginny Trainor, defeated the men's team, 9-6. The game was called after five innings due to darkness.

The contest went back and forth, with each team putting together big innings before the women's squad pulled away late. Pacing the men's effort was captain Ed Kelly.

JOE LAMPARELLI, a local singer, belts out the National Anthem before the bocce competition at the 16th annual Quincy Senior Olympics.

Early Sports Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of the Memorial Day holiday there will be an early sports deadline for next week's Quincy Sun.

All sports releases, as well as advertisements for the sports section, should be in the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., tomorrow (Friday) by noon to assure publication in the May 28th issue of the Sun.

NQ Faces Quincy Tonight North's Gillan Tosses Second No-Hit Gem

By LIAM FITZGERALD
Junior pitcher Renee Gillan pitched her second no-hitter of the season, sparking North Quincy High School's softball team to a 15-0 victory over visiting Dennis-Yarmouth.

A transfer from Rhode Island, Gillan (2-2) fanned five and walked four in the five-inning game called for the 15-run slaughter rule. Her first no-hitter was against Quincy on April 30, an 18-3 victory.

In Monday's Old Colony League rout, North's batters provided Gillan all the support she would need with 10 hits, including five extra-base hits.

Laurie Flynn tripled and drove in three runs and Rachael Powers went 2 for 3 with two RBI. Jessica Flannigan (two RBI), Danielle Likas and Kristy Deptula all belted doubles, as did Meredith Hutchinson (two RBI). Kristen Keohane picked up a hit and two RBI and Maura O'Brien added a single and an RBI.

Red Raider coach Bob Doyle was impressed with Gillan's ability to throw strikes and her poise on the mound.

"She was always around the plate with her pitches and seemed to be real relaxed out there," he said. "She's fit in quite well with the program and I'm very proud of her performance."

Following Monday's game, NQ (5-9) hosted Silver Lake Tuesday in a makeup game and visited Bridgewater-Raynham yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. for another OCL tilt.

Tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m., North takes on rival Quincy at McCoy Field, seeking the season sweep and the Mary Pratt championship for the sixth consecutive year.

North hosts OCL foe Plymouth South next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

In other recent action, the Red Raiders visited OCL leader Taunton and lost, 11-3, last Friday. The Tigers put five runs on the board in the first two innings, then put the game away with a six-run fifth.

For North, Flynn collected a hit and two RBI, Kerry Skehan went 2 for 3 and Kristen Bowes, Deptula and Hutchinson also had base hits.

Last Wednesday NQ hosted non-league foe New Bedford and received an excellent pitching performance from Skehan, but suffered a 6-3 setback.

After giving up five runs in the first three innings, Skehan settled down to retire the side in order in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. New Bedford added an insurance run in the seventh.

North's offensive leaders were Flynn, Deptula and Skehan, all with RBI hits. Powers went 2 for 4 and scored a run and Bowes and Flannigan also collected a hit apiece.

Only Flynn and Skehan collected base hits in North's 15-0 loss to Taunton last Tuesday.

.62-Mile Course Downtown Quincy To Host Pro-Am Bicycle Race Saturday

Quincy will host one of the five New England city stops of the Atlantic Cup Classic Pro-Am bicycle races Saturday at 6 p.m.

The 35-mile Criterion style race, which is sanctioned by the United States Cycling Federation, will draw professional and top ranked amateur races from throughout the United States and Canada to downtown Quincy.

A Criterion race is an event held on a race course of 6 to one mile in distance. The racers in Quincy will complete a total of 56 laps of the .62 mile race course and the race will last approximately one hour and 20 minutes. Races will compete for cash and prizes and the event happens rain or shine.

The race course will have a start/finish line on Hancock Street in front of City Hall. Races will proceed around the First Parish Church onto Temple Street, turn left on Chestnut Street, right on Cottage Avenue, and a right back onto Hancock Street.

There will be no parking signs posted on those streets between 5 and 8 p.m. and those streets will be closed to vehicular traffic from 5:15 to 8 p.m.

The race course is basically flat, and speeds should average upwards of 30 mph, at time surpassing 40 mph.

The colors, speed and sounds of professional cycling will provide the spectators with sporting excitement and thrills. Race announcer will keep spectators apprised of the action.

Volunteers are needed to help set up the race course during the day, and to help marshal the race course for racer safety during the event. There are also opportunities for hosting an out of state cyclist for an evening. A spare bed or couch, and a little hospitality is all that is required and will surely provide for some insight into the sport of cycling.

For more information, visit a local bike shop or call (781) 871-1563.

Tobin, Giordani Pace Quincy Lacrosse In Recent Setback

The Quincy Youth Lacrosse Boys 12 and under team played a competitive game against Marshfield on Sunday, but came up short in a 9-7 defeat.

Quincy's offense was led by Ryan Tobin and Josh

Giordani (three goals apiece). Andy Ross scored a goal and Chris Tufo added an assist.

Leading the defense once again was goaltender Chris Tufo, who made five saves. Pat Maxey and John O'Donnell both played strong defensively against a potent Marshfield attack.

Monday, Quincy played at Cohasset. Friday at 6 p.m., Quincy hosts Cohasset in a match at Forbes Hill. All are welcome.

Summer Basketball League Registration This Weekend

Registration for a Quincy Outdoor Summer Basketball league will be held Saturday and Sunday from 9 to 11 a.m. at the outside basketball courts next to the Votch gym.

The league is open to Quincy boys entering Grades 6, 7 and 8 this fall.

Games will be played Wednesday and Saturday nights.

For more information, call Bob at 471-2746.

Parker Gym Champions Of Dunn Hoop Tournament

The Parker School gym, the newest gym in the city, captured the recent George Dunn Tournament, edging Squantum, 51-49, in an overtime classic.

The tournament, formerly known as the Senior Division Championship, was renamed for Dunn in recognition of his two decades of supervising recreation programs and youth coaching in Quincy. The single-elimination tournament, which marked the conclusion of the winter recreation program, featured participants of the recreation programs in 11 school gyms in the city.

The championship game was tied at 45-45 after regulation. Kevin Bowes was Parker's leading scorer with 18 points before fouling out in overtime. Dan Conway picked up the slack with four of his 13 in the extra session.

Parker, coached by Keith Deshler, also got big contributions from Derrick Almond, who scored 10 of his 12 in the second half. Deshler's brother, Ryan, scored three points and had a solid night rebounding. Jay Ford had four and Matt Kane added one to close out the scoring.

For coach Mike Curtin's Squantum team, Nick Cyr was the leading scorer with 16 points and Pat Dolbear netted 15 points. Also scoring for Squantum were Jene Silverman (10 points), Tim McAdams (four), Bob Delaney (two) and Jay Allen (two).

Barry Welch, recreation director, presented championship trophies to Parker's players and finalist certificates to Squantum's members. The Dunn Trophy will be engraved with the tournament champion and placed on year-long display in the Recreation Department Administration Office.

In semifinal action, Parker advanced to the finals with a 47-24 win over Point Webster. Almond (21 points) and Conway (11 points) sparked Parker's effort. Point was paced by Mark Robertson (12 points), while John Ford and Mike Cascarano each had three.

The other semifinal had Squantum picking up a victory over Montclair. Dolbear had 14 and Cyr scored 11 to lead the winners. For Montclair, Dean Zoia led the way with 10, while Gary McKenzie added five and Steve Shields and Nathan Thompson each had four.

Parker opened with a 34-29 triumph over Bernazzani, led by Almond's 12 points. Conway and Bowes added six apiece. Bernazzani was paced by Corey Awed (12 points), Jim Fitzgerald (five), Adam Tiro (four) and Myrone Morgan (four).

Squantum's first game was a 50-40 win over Merrymount, with Dolbear (19 points) leading the way. Cyr and Keith Dykens added eight apiece for the winners. Merrymount's top scorers were Mike Keddy and Matt Graham (10 points each), followed by Sean Lynch (nine).

Andy Curry's 17 points lifted Montclair over Houghs Neck. Chris Cummings had six for the winners. For AH, Matt Gibbons netted 10 points and Stephen Allsop and John Keeley each scored eight.

QHS Track Car Wash Saturday At Central

The Quincy High School track program will hold a car wash Saturday at 9 a.m. at Central Middle School, Hancock St.

The car wash, which will benefit the QHS track program, will run until approximately noon. Any donation would be much appreciated by the program.

Quincy Hosts Durfee Today Presidents Gear Up For Postseason Play

By LIAM FITZGERALD

A victory in today's (Thursday's) regular season finale against Durfee would be quite beneficial in terms of seeding to the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team.

Already in the state tournament, the Presidents (11-6) are well aware of what another win can mean heading into postseason play. The match is slated for 4 p.m. at the Vo-Tech gym.

"We'd love to pick up another win, because that would give us 12 and put us in position to get a good seed," said Quincy coach Christine Barrett.

In the first meeting between the non-league foes May 1, Quincy captured a 2-1 victory on the road.

With a 15-6, 15-8 triumph over rival North Quincy last Friday, host Quincy swept the Red Raiders for the first time since NQ's program began 11 years ago. The win also secured second place for Quincy in the South Alliance.

"This was a great accomplishment for the program," said Barrett. "I'm extremely proud of the way they played."

Leading Quincy once again were senior co-captains Eddie Smith (six kills, six digs) and Jared Downey (16 assists, four digs, three kills), along with junior Jason Goldrick (seven kills, three blocks), Felix Chan and DeMing Guan.

The previous day, South Alliance champion Greater New Bedford Vocational literally escaped the Vo-Tech gym with a 2-1 victory over Quincy. The setback prevented the Presidents from forging a tie with GNB for the league title.

Quincy trailed, 9-3, in the opener, but battled back with 12 of the next 15 points (including seven in a row to close the game) and took the opener, 15-7.

Leading 8-12 in the second following two points by Smith (15 kills, seven digs, two blocks), Quincy appeared to be in control of the match. Not about to let it slip away, GNB reeled off the final eight points to win, 15-8, and force a third and deciding game.

Trailing 12-10 in the third, Goldrick (12 kills, six blocks) helped push Quincy back ahead, 14-12, and within a point of victory. Unfortunately for the host squad, four opportunities for match point went by the boards as GNB came from behind to win, 16-14.

"When you have four chances to put the match away and don't do it, you can't win," said Barrett. "The kids gave it all they had; I couldn't ask for anything more."

Downey collected 32 assists, eight digs, five kills and three blocks and Felix Chan played an excellent all-around match, picking up two service aces and a number of digs.

Last Tuesday, Quincy lost to state powerhouse New Bedford, 2-0, on the road.

Red Raiders' Season Draws To A Close

Recent setbacks to two tournament-bound teams dashed the postseason hopes of the North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team, which was seeking its seventh straight berth.

North (5-11 heading into this week's play) will close out its season with matches today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. at Wareham and Friday at 4 p.m. at Dighton-Rehoboth, two South Alliance teams NQ defeated earlier in the season.

The Red Raiders played their final home match yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. against non-league opponent Cambridge Ringe & Latin. Tuesday, NQ hosted another non-league foe, Boston Latin Academy.

In recent action, North was swept by crosstown rival Quincy for the first time since the inception of NQ's program 11 years ago. The host Presidents took last Friday's showdown, 15-6, 15-8.

"Quincy played a very solid game," said North coach John Perkins, who has been the NQ coach since the program began. "They're a strong team and we wish them well in the tournament. What I was quite pleased with was the good sportsmanship of everyone involved."

Perkins cited the strong play and tireless efforts of his seniors—captain James Cheung, Rob McCaully, Anthony Greenwood, Jackie Cheung and Tommy Tan. Sophomore Kin Yun paced NQ with 18 set-ups and eight kills.

Last Thursday, the Red Raiders visited another tournament squad, Brockton, and lost, 15-7, 15-6, in non-league play. Kin Chan led North's offense with seven service points.

The Red Raiders picked up two victories earlier last week, sweeping Dighton-Rehoboth and Boston Latin. Against D-R, North trailed in the opener, 14-9, but rallied to pull out a 16-14 win and clinched the match with a 15-10 victory in the second game. Yun was the leading offensive player with nine kills and three blocks, while Tan contributed four kills.

A 15-4, 15-12 triumph over Latin was highlighted by the outstanding effort of James Cheung (eight service points, five kills) and the blocking of John London (five blocks).

NQ's Quilty, Houghton & Co. Shine At State Track Relays

Following a victory over rival Quincy, the North Quincy High School girls' spring track team was well-represented at Saturday's State Relay Track and Field Championships at Brockton High School.

The Red Raiders competed in the Old Colony League championships on Tuesday and will run at the South Shore Principals' Meet this Saturday at Norwell.

At the State Relays, NQ's Kelly Rose O'Brien, Jasmine Gonzalez, Sharon Lee and Kellee Conley won the third heat of the sprint medley relay and finished 11th at 4:30.99. O'Brien, Gonzalez and Conley all ran personal bests.

O'Brien and Gonzalez were also members of the distance medley relay team that included Sarah Houghton and Lynda Wilson, both of whom ran personal bests. The team finished in a time of 13:57.96. Houghton was NQ's star of the meet for beating her best time in the 800 by nine seconds.

In the shotput relay, North was paced by Claire Quilty (30'8"), Lisa Della-Croce (27'4") and Ellen Tang (25'6") for a total of 83'10".

Quilty again led the way in the discus relay with a toss of 92'2", followed by Nicole Bertone (87'8") and Tang (75'4"). NQ's total of 255'2" placed the squad sixth.

Bertone edged out teammate Maureen Holleran in the javelin relay, 92'8" to 92'7", followed by Ashley Murphy (77'8"). North finished fifth with a total of 263'1".

Last Thursday at Veterans' Stadium, North Quincy defeated Quincy, 94-34, led by freshman triple winner Colleen Lahar, who captured first in the 300 hurdles, triple jump and ran a leg of the 4 x 100 relay.

NQ's Sarah Beston took the long jump with a state-qualifying performance of 15'6 1/4" and Sarah Houghton, beset by illness and injuries for most of the spring, put it all together with wins in the mile and two-mile. Also shining for North was Quilty, who won the shotput and discus competitions. The Red Raiders finished first in 12 of 14 events.

North's Conley (400 meters), Kelly Lockhead (100 hurdles), Holleran (100 meters) and Bertone (javelin) also picked up victories. Quincy's winners were Rachel Picard (high jump) and Erin Barry (800 meters). Murphy had her personal best in the javelin at 84'10", Melissa McKenna finished strong in the 400 meters at 76.2 and Jackie Murphy recorded her personal best in the discus (78'8").

Earlier last week, North fell to OCL leader Bridgewater-Raynham, 86-50, despite wins by Gonzalez, Conley, Wilson, Quilty and Bertone, along with a victory by the 4 x 400 relay of O'Brien, Conley, Lee and Gonzalez. NQ also swept the discus and javelin events.

Quincy And North: Tale Of Two Seasons

Rivals Clash Tonight

By LIAM FITZGERALD

This spring, it's been a tale of two seasons for the North Quincy and Quincy High School baseball teams.

While North is on the verge of capturing its second straight state tournament berth, Quincy is seeking its second victory of a tough 1998 campaign.

The two squads heading in opposite directions meet for the second time tonight (Thursday) at 7 at Adams Field. The Red Raiders (9-5 through Monday) took the first meeting, 7-4.

As of press time, North had not clinched a spot in the postseason, but a win Tuesday at Silver Lake or yesterday (Wednesday) against visiting Bridgewater-Raynham would do the trick. Next Monday, NQ plays a doubleheader against visiting Plymouth South. Game times are 3 and 5:30 p.m.

In recent action, NQ has stumbled a bit on the road to the tournament. Monday, a close game at Dennis-Yarmouth turned into a 6-2 setback following a few costly miscues.

"We need a break to go our way," said North coach Dave Perdios. "They're trying, but they're just in a little rut. The guys are working hard and once we qualify, that will get us back on the right track."

Matt McCann pitched a strong game but could not overcome North's defensive letdown. Among the highlights was a home run by Celata and two hits apiece by Bryan Linsky and Bill Walker.

Last Friday, North lost to visiting Taunton, 10-4, as the Tigers (11 hits) put together a five-run third. Linsky paced North with two hits and an RBI.

In non-league action last Thursday, the host Raiders rolled to a 10-2 triumph over South Boston. Dan Toland pitched five strong innings, yielding just two hits. Celata and John Sullivan each collected two hits.

That followed last Tuesday's 5-2 league victory over host Taunton, during which McCann scattered six hits over seven innings. Walker and Sullivan had two hits apiece and Chris Bregoli had an RBI double.

Meanwhile, Quincy has struggled in the competitive Old Colony League, which has a number of teams vying for the tournament.

"The league has been quite strong, with half a dozen teams battling for supremacy," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "Every team wants the win when they play us, because they can't afford to lose one."

"As a result, we're facing their top pitchers and we haven't been able to get a break. It's very healthy for the league, because every team is ready to play and anything can happen. We're just going to keep our heads high and get through the season."

Following recent league defeats to Plymouth South and Falmouth, the Presidents faced Barnstable on Monday and fell, 9-1.

"It's the same old, same old," said Sylvia. "We're just not hitting the ball well or getting hits when we need them. It's been a tough season, but to their credit, the kids aren't giving up and throwing in the towel."

"They're out there working hard, trying to win every game; they're a good bunch of kids."

After tonight's game against North, Quincy wraps up its season next Tuesday at 4 p.m. with a makeup game against visiting Dennis-Yarmouth.

Mansfield Rallies, Wiz Kidz Tops Buick

SOFTBALL

The Mansfield CPA team battled back from a three-run deficit to edge Wisialko, 10-8, in recent Mary Pratt League Quincy Youth Girls Softball action.

Trailing 6-3 after four innings, Mansfield CPA erupted for two runs in the fifth and five more in the sixth to take a 10-6 lead. Wisialko scored two in the bottom of the sixth to cut the deficit in half, but could not tie the game.

Winning pitcher Kristin Nogler struck out three and helped her own cause with a 3 for 4 effort at the plate. Teammate Kelli Nogler belted a triple and Pam Jacobs made some key defensive plays at second base.

For Wisialko, losing pitcher Michelle Pilalas fanned five, Casey Lorman went 3 for 4, Julie Burke hit a homer and center fielder Erica Peterson played a strong defensive game.

Jill Sampson (two triples) and Stephanie Queripel (two singles, one home run). Stacey Queripel made two inning-ending line drive catches.

For Everlasting, Maria Coughlin had a multiple-hit game, including a three-run triple. Defensive standouts were Courtney Allen, Liz Cambell and Courtney Barton. Cambell, the losing pitcher, struck out 5. Meredith Power made a key catch in the field.

A nine-run inning propelled Wiz Kidz Toys to a 19-12 win over South Shore Buick. Pitchers Lindsey Langille (2 strikeouts) and Stephanie Queripel (3 strikeouts) combined for the victory.

Hitting stars for WKT In Dorothy Quincy League play, Play It Again Sports tied Kerri Limo, 17-17.

Play It Again Sports pitchers Rebekah and Rachel Sorensen pitched well. Big hitters were Rachel Sorensen and Joni Ranstrom and teammate KellyAnne Moore made the game's outstanding catch. The Kerri Limo team had a strong offensive game and good pitching.

In other softball action, Wiz Kidz Toys knocked off Everlasting Engraving, 18-15. Winning pitcher Alyssa Hawksley struck out eight and was helped offensively by Jessica Loud (two singles, double, triple), Christina Conley (three singles), were Kristen Trainor (2 singles) and Jill Sampson (home run). Megan McCarthy made some catches and Stacey Queripel also played well defensively.

Everlasting Engraving scored at least three runs in each inning en route to a 20-14 victory over South Shore Buick.

EE players with multiple-hit games were Erin Lenane, Courtney Allen and Liz Cambell. Lisa Kelly added a double. Defensive standouts were Jessica Smialek (third base) and Jane Fitzgerald and Courtney Barton (outfield). Kelly, who made two nice catches, and Cambell combined for a strong pitching performance.

For Buick, Kathleen Holleran pitched a good game and belted a triple, home run and had two RBIs.

*A Thought
For The Week*

Memorial Day is a reverent day, a day of gratitude and prayer for our fallen countrymen who fell to preserve freedom and honor of their country. Those who died in our wars did so in the unfulfilled hope their sacrifice would bring enduring peace.

Memorial Day is a proper time for all of us to rededicate ourselves to peaceful purposes in our world-wide relationships. It can be done. God's help and guidance is available. We need only ask for it. With His help, internal and external problems can be solved. Strength, wisdom and courage can be ours to meet every challenge and reach solutions for the betterment of our country and mankind everywhere.

Memorial Day is a perfect time to realize our potential for peace with a prayer that never again will we have to praise the valor of our fighting men in any future war.

Grandpa loved gardening, baseball, and playing the harmonica.

Your memories are precious. That's why, at Keohane Funeral Service, we take the time to find out what made your loved one special.

Whether it's gathering some of the flowers he so tenderly cultivated or finding a musician to play "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" on the harmonica, you can count on us to help you plan a service that will be just as unique as the person you love.

New Benefits For Medicare

By LAURIE ZASTROW

Medicare has added several new benefits designed to encourage the early detection of certain life-threatening diseases common among elderly people. They include yearly mammograms, pap smears, colorectal cancer screening and free flu and pneumonia shots.

As of January 1, 1998, women are able to get yearly mammograms, pap smears, including pelvic and breast examinations, without paying the Part B deductible. Also since January 1, colorectal cancer screening became available. In addition, Medicare will pay the full charge of flu and pneumococcal shots.

Starting July 1, 1998, Medicare will provide diabetes glucose monitoring and diabetes education to beneficiaries. Bone mass measurement will also be available as of July 1, 1998.

Interested Medicare beneficiaries should call their doctor or health care provider for more information on the availability of the new benefits. Also, a Medicare hotline is available: 1-800638-6833.

Medicare covers Social Security beneficiaries age 65 or older or who have been receiving Social Security disability benefits for two years or more.

(Laurie Zastrow is Social Security manager in Quincy.)

LaFleur, Mannix Pace Morrisette; Elks Win Two; Golden Print Wins

James LaFleur and Andy Mannix pitched Morrisette to two recent wins in Quincy Babe Ruth Baseball action.

Sunday, LaFleur tossed seven innings and struck out six as Morrisette (3-0) knocked off Houghs Neck, 10-4. Andy Mannix had 2 hits, 2 RBI and scored twice. Kris Kamborian and Brendan Bowes both singled and scored, Dennis Thomson singled and had two RBI and Jimmy Johnson drove in two with a hit.

Defensively, Bowes three out two would-be base stealers in the first inning.

For HN, losing pitcher James Conostas fanned five and yielded seven hits and 11 walks. Hitting stars were Dan Dorsey (3 singles, run), Mike Feetham (2 singles, 2 walks, RBI) and Matt Moriarty (single, double).

Dorsey in center field made six putouts and fellow outfielders Feetham and Keith Austin also made nice defensive plays.

Last Saturday, Mannix scattered three hits over seven innings, along with eight strikeouts, in Morrisette's 3-2 win over Quincy Firefighters.

Chris Doherty sparked the offense with 2 singles, a walk, two steals and scored a run. Billy O'Brien added a two-run double and Mannix singled in George Phipps with the game-winning run.

For the Firefighters, Mike McCarthy tripled in the third, knocking in a run and scoring on a throwing error on the same play. The play gave his team a short-lived 2-0 lead as Morrisette scored two in the fourth and the winning run in the fifth.

The Elks improved to 3-0 with wins over Local and the Firefighters. In a 13-3 victory over Local, Elks pitcher Patrick Bregoli went 6 innings, allowed 7 hits, fanned 5 and had 3 hits of his own. Mark Gibbons (3 hits, 3 RBI) and Justin Hall (3 hits) helped out offensively and catcher Mark Robinson threw out three baserunners.

In the Elks' 5-4 win over the Firefighters, relief pitcher Chris Ham picked up the victory. Starter Hall lasted 3 innings and scattered 3 hits. Ryan Farnham was the hitting star with 2 hits and two RBI.

In other recent play, John O'Connell pitched a complete-game four-hitter, with 7 strikeouts and no walks as Golden Print defeated Houghs Neck, 8-3.

Print's Peter Turowski not only called a great game behind the plate, but he also belted a triple and a single and had 4 RBI. Vinny Traietti reached 4 times with 2 singles and 2 walks, scored twice and collected 2 RBI. Jeff Narbone collected 2 singles and an RBI and Dan DiNardo smashed a double. Pat Duff, Kevin Weeks and Chris Gorham ripped singles and Paul McAteer and Mike Cham-niss made outstanding defensive plays.

HN was paced by Mike Feetham (2 hits). Jim Pascal and Chris Dolbear had the other 2 hits. Dan Dorsey did an excellent job on the mound and Sean Gibbons played well defensively.

In other action, Morrisette erupted for eight runs in the fourth en route to a 15-2 triumph over Sons of Italy. Andy Mannix and Matt Yohe combined to allow 2 hits, 4 walks and fanned 7.

Morrisette got on the board first with a three-run first inning, highlighted by James LaFleur's two-run single and Chris Doherty's RBI single. The Sons got a run when Mark Tetreault singled in Matt Gregory. Morrisette scored again when Brendan Bowes doubled in Doherty.

In the fourth, the Sons scored again when Pat Jaehning drove in Kyle Piazza. Morrisette's big inning started when Kris Kamborian walked with the bases loaded to force in a run. LaFleur (2 for 4) then tripled to score two more runs, followed by a Doherty (3 for 3) double that drove in LaFleur. After Doherty scored on a wild pitch and the next two batters reached base, Billy O'Brien smacked a three-run homer.

The winners added three runs in the sixth when Marc Darois blasted a three-run home run in his first league at-bat.

Bolea Buonfiglio, Dairy Freeze, Sweeney Funeral Among Winners

The Bolea Buonfiglio Giants picked up wins in their first two games in recent St. John's Little League action.

In an 8-4 victory over the Indians, the Giants trailed 4-0 after one inning, then erupted for a seven-run third inning and held their opponent scoreless the rest of the way. Giants' pitcher Chris Kirshner faced 9 batters in the final 3 innings and struck them all out.

In the third with the bases loaded, Jessie Powers doubled and Jimmy Callahan collected a base hit to drive in four runs. After Ray Marchand and Kirshner collected hits, James Collins got a base hit to score Marchand and Kirshner. Greg Morton scored the eighth Giants run in the fourth.

The Giants' first victory was a 5-2 win over the South Quincy Bocce Club Red Sox. Kirshner pitching was stellar, as he fanned the first 2 batters he faced and allowed just one runner, J.P. White, to score in the first inning. In the second and third innings, Kirshner struck out five of the six batters he faced, while the other out came on a pickoff throw by catcher Marchand to second baseman Powers.

The Giants came right back, with hits by Kirshner and Collins driving in Callahan and Powers. Leoncello drove in a run and Morton and Collins both crossed the plate.

In other recent action, Impressions Plus erupted for a seven-run fifth inning and went on to defeat Dairy Freeze, 12-4.

For Dairy Freeze, Chris Deyesso had 2 singles, and RBI and scored a run, Joe Salvucci hit 2 singles and scored a run, and Ian McRae, Steve Sullivan and Jared Fontaine each collected 2 hits. Spencer Peterson singled and scored, Douglas Lasordo singled and stole home and Douglas Smith and Paul Fletcher each chipped in a single.

In other recent action, Sweeney Funeral Services dropped three of five games, though two of the losses were by four or fewer runs.

In a 17-1 victory over Huntington Realty, SFS scored seven runs in both the third and fourth to put the game out of reach.

Big hitters were Bryan Ash (home run, single, three runs), Lammy Papalambros (home run, single, two runs), Tom Power (single, two runs) and Corey Lumaghi (two singles, run).

In a 15-6 setback to Sunshine Fruit, SFS was paced by David Regan (two singles, RBI), Tom Power (two RBI singles) and Corey Lumaghi (two singles).

In a 4-0 loss to Reggie's Oil Co., SFS got singles from Tom Power, Denny Wright (two hits), Rebecca Todd, Andrew Dwan, Cliff Chan, Corey Lumaghi.

Sheriffs Assn. Honored For Substance Abuse Programs

The state Department of Public Health has honored the Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association, which includes the Norfolk County Sheriffs' Office, for its dedicated effort to provide substance abuse counseling to county inmates.

The Department of Public Health has a longstanding relationship with sheriff's offices statewide in a joint attempt to break the cycle of drug and alcohol abuse which often is linked to criminal behavior. The DPH presented an award to the Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association during a Public Health Day ceremony at the State House April 8.

"At the root of crime is usually drug or alcohol abuse. The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and the Department of Public Health realize that since the average county inmate serves an 11-month sentence, we need to address the substance abuse problems so the inmates won't return to a life of drugs and crime," said Norfolk County Sheriff Jack Flood.

Building on its successful substance abuse program, the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office plans to open a female offender program at the Braintree Alternative Center in early May. The unit will be the first time the county can treat incarcerated female inmates for drug and alcohol abuse.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FOR

ENGINEERING REVIEW AND EVALUATION OF NORTHWEST QUINCY AREA DRAINAGE IMPROVEMENT PROJECT STUDIES

The City of Quincy, acting through its Commissioner of Public Works, is soliciting proposals from qualified Engineering firms to evaluate an existing hydraulic study, conceptual drainage system layout and the schematic designs for the North Quincy Drainage Improvements Project. Sealed proposals, in triplicate, must be received by 1:00 p.m., local time, on Tuesday, June 16, 1998 at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works at 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169.

The project objective is to modify and/or upgrade the existing Drainage System to provide an adequate runoff carrying capacity and to eliminate local flooding during storms.

The design and relate services shall consist of, (but not limited to) technical review and evaluation of existing hydraulic studies, engineering criteria, system layout and schematic designs of the proposed improvements for the existing drainage system which shall include:

- Installation of new or upgrading of existing drain lines and appurtenances.
- Restoration of all roads, sidewalks and other amenities/facilities impacted by the proposed improvements.
- Field work as related to the verification of design restraints such as utility interferences, soil conditions, flood plain/permissive areas and physiographic features.
- Permitting aspects of project designs as proposed and charges required for conforming with the applicable regulations.
- Project Cost Estimates based on the preferred design layout.
- Estimated number of man hours and fees for services as outlined in items (a) through (e).

The proposal forms may be obtained during business hours from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works on or after May 13, 1998. Prospective applicants may view existing documentation in the Engineering Division of the Dept. of Public Works, 55 Sea Street on or after May 13, 1998.

A non-refundable deposit of $10.00 in cash or bank check, payable to the City of Quincy, will be required for each set of proposal forms. Firms requesting proposal forms by mail shall include a separate non-refundable check payable to the City of Quincy, in the amount of $5.00 per set to cover the costs of shipping and handling.

Oh holy Mary Mother of God, queen of Heaven and earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart. Succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your call. Oh show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee. (3 times). Holy Mary! place this cause in your hands. (3 times). Sweet Mother! I pray for this cause in your hands (3 times). Holy Spirit, receive my problems, fight all roads so that I can obtain my goal. You gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life, you are with me. I want this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you even in spite of material things. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. MDC Developing Plan Granite Rail Quarry Will Also Be Drained

By MICHAEL WHALEN Quincy will begin being drained in the near future, A second quarry in West

Mayor James Sheets announced at press time.

The Metropolitan District Commission-owned Granite Rail Quarry is to be emptied of water under a plan approved by MDC Commissioner David Balfour, Sheets said.

The draining of the city-owned Swingle's Quarry by J.F. White Contracting Co. of Newton began last month.

Sheets said he supports the MDC plan.

"I think the MDC is doing the proper thing," he said.

According to a MDC document dated May 15, Balfour has accepted Phase I of a report by consultant GEI Associates of Winchester on draining the Granite Rail Quarry.

"This phase of the report, requested by Gov. Paul Cellucci 90 days ago, addressed the early 100-foot dewatering for the purposes of searching for and recovering human remains that may possible be in the quarry," it states. "The report...will be evaluated by MDC staff and other authorities over the next week and a plan of action and timeline will be developed."

The document states that preliminary findings of the report indicate:

•Dewatering the quarry by 100 feet for the dive poses no serious environmental impact. (The Granite Rail Quarry is about 175 feet deep, according to Sheets.)

•No lengthy delays are expected from the environmental permitting process for this early action.

•There are no major problems with water quality or with the impact draining the water would have on waterways in the community.

•The stability of the quarry walls is a major concern and will impact the speed of the dewatering process.

Details of the plan's second phase will be determined at a later date.

The Granite Rail Quarry has been the scene of a number of tragedies. The body of P.J. McDonagh, a missing Irish student, was recovered there by police divers last year. The remains of a woman also were spotted during the McDonagh search, but later could not be relocated in the murky water. A Quincy man, 26-year-old Thomas Roberts, also drowned at the quarry while diving last summer.

Meanwhile, nearby Swingle's Quarry is being loaded with fill from Boston's "Big Dig" project by J.F. White. The action is taking place as the result of a contract the firm originally signed with the administration of former Mayor Francis McCauley in the 1980s.

Sheets said the city will be paid 50 cents for every ton of fill poured into the quarry, which he estimated could mean as much as $250,000. The job is about 60 percent completed, the mayor said, and J.F. White has until next year to complete it.

Swingle's, which Sheets said is over 300 feet deep, also has been the site of several accidents, including the 1983 drowning of 17-year-old Paul Gooch of Brockton who never resurfaced after diving there. His body was never recovered.

Ultimately, Sheets said, he would like to see a park developed at the Swingle's site, something that is called for under the contract with J.F. White. He added that the Granite Rail Quarry could be used as a historical quarry or a granite museum.

Sheets and other officials have discussed various plans about the quarries in the hope that further drowning deaths and other accidents can be prevented in the future.

Cahill Elected President Of County Treasurers' Assn.

Norfolk County Treasurer Timothy Cahill was recently elected to succeed James Fahey, treasurer of Middlesex County, as president of the Massachusetts County Treasurers' Association.

Cahill has been serving as Norfolk County treasurer since January 1997, and is also serving a sixth term as a Quincy City Councillor.

The Massachusetts County Treasurers' Association, which has been in existence for approximately 20 years, consists of a membership comprised of 12 Massachusetts county treasurers who meet on a quarterly basis. Members gather to share information regarding finances, and to discuss how legislation affects the benefits of those participants in the County Retirement Systems.

The 12 county treasurers serve as chairpersons of County Retirement Boards that collectively manage over $2 billion in assets, and serve three out of four towns in Massachusetts.

Broad Meadows Students Take Child Labor Fight To Washington, Geneva

By HENRY BOSWORTH
Broad Meadows Middle School students are taking their nationally recognized and continuing campaign against child labor to officials in Washington, D.C. and world leaders in Geneva, Switzerland.

Eighth graders Grecia Amarra, 13, Meagan Donoghue, 14, and Stacey Smith, 13, representing the school, flew to Washington Tuesday with Principal Anne Marie Zukauskas and faculty project adviser Ron Adams.

And from there it will be on to Geneva to attend the June 1 International Labor Organization Conference, a worldwide convention where delegates from around the world meet to write new global child labor laws.

The students will deliver in Geneva 3,000—or close to it—messages and names they have collected on their web site and in person opposing child labor and urging new

Shopping Survey Sees Restaurants Fine But: Better Retail Mix Needed In Center

A survey of Quincy Center employees conducted by the "Keep It In Quincy" Shopping Commission indicates that most feel the restaurants in the area are above average but the selection of retail stores needs to improve.

The commission's eight members, with assistance from Liz Harrington of the Quincy Planning Department and Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino, drafted and personally distributed, collected and tabulated the recent survey. There were 738 responses from 12 Quincy Center business locations.

A second survey subsequently was sent, via tax bills, to Quincy households. Responses have not been officially tabulated, but total close to 2,000.

"What we've found is that the people who work in Quincy Center feel that the quality of the selection of restaurants is up but the quality of the selection of stores is down," said shopping commission member Judy Kolson. "But there's still stores that people really like."

Kolson said a preliminary look at the responses sent from the city's households indicates there is a similar feeling among residents.

Results from the survey of downtown employees indicate that 73 percent of the respondents were female, 27 percent male and that 56 percent shop in Quincy Center at least once a week.

Downey Succeeds MacMullen Shipbuilding Museum Has New Director

The Board of Directors of the US Naval and Shipbuilding Museum announces the appointment of Dr. Robert H. Downey Jr. as its new chief executive officer.

Downey, 66, who took over as head of the museum last week, replaces William MacMullen who resigned in February 1997.

He said he was prompted to take the position at the museum by Mayor James Sheets.

"It sounded very interesting," said Downey. "I think there's been a good program down there. I look forward to working with the Board Approves Transfer Of Two Restaurant Licenses

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The transfer of ownership of two restaurants was granted Tuesday by the Quincy License Board.

Walsh's Restaurant, 7-9 Billings Rd. in North Quincy, a landmark eating place since 1933 was transferred to Daniel J. Flynn.

Mando's Italian Bistro 1384 Hancock St., Quincy Center, owned by the Agnitti family since last year was sold to Emmanuel Gregoriades.

Walsh's Restaurant will be known as Walsh's Cafe and will be closed for four to six weeks during renovations, which will include the upgrading of the kitchen, walls, shelves.

Atty. Stephen J. Colman, representing Flynn, said the 160 seat 5,000 square foot restaurant will have pool tables, pin ball and vending machines and also a cabaret license for entertainment.

The request will go to the Alcoholics Beverage Control Commission for approval.

License Board Chairman Joseph Shea said he was giving a "vote of thanks" to the Walsh family for their many years in business. Walsh said the restaurant holds the third oldest restaurant license in Quincy.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, speaking in support of the transfer of ownership called the sale of restaurant an "end of an era" and cited Andy Walsh for hosting the business community and for his contribution to the city. Andy Walsh who was sitting in the city hall chambers, received a round of applause.

Flynn hopes to become the cafe's full time manager when the business reopens.

The new owner of Mando's, Emmanuel Gregoriades and his mother, Mary Gregoriades will purchase the building which houses many tenants from computer operators to engineers.. The name of the restaurant will be changed to X and O European Trattoria.

They plan to operate the restaurant with a European menu.

According to attorney Robert Fleming, representing the Agnittis, the 95 seat restaurant was recently renovated, so there will be no structural change.

Fleming described the Gregoriades has having a "tremendous work ethic" and said they had looked "hard and long" for a place to open a restaurant. he said they were "very impressed with Quincy"

Fleming said the staff and chef will remain the same.

Mary Gregoriades, who is a registered nurse said she has a "great desire" to be part of the food business. Her son, Emmanuel has owned gas stations and self service stores. Mary said the entrees that are popular at Mando's will remain on the menu, but that there will be a varied European menu as well.

The restaurant will be open seven days a week from 11:30 a.m. to 12 midnight.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

Keynote Speaker At Ceremonies

Lyons: Teach Children About Memorial Day

Thomas Lyons, executive director of the New England Shelter for Homeless Veterans in Boston, urged those attending the city's Memorial Day ceremonies Monday to teach the importance of Memorial Day to their children.

Lyons, a leading advocate for veterans for over 20 years and a decorated Marine Corps veteran of the Vietnam War, was keynote speaker at the World War II podium in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery. The ceremonies were held after the annual Memorial Day Parade which ended at the cemetery following a procession from School St.

Lyons told those in attendance that Memorial Day today "appears to be drifting toward a kind of obsolescence once reserved for products we no longer find useful, or styles no longer in fashion."

"When we speak of Memorial Day now, we talk of Cape traffic, or mountain traffic, or lake traffic, or any traffic that is headed away from the routine of our 9 to 5 lives," he said. "We talk, first, about vacations. About the first day of summer. About firing up the barbecue. About uncovering the patio furniture. About everything except the past."

He said he was proud to march in Quincy's Memorial Day Parade with veterans old enough to be his father who have a true appreciation of the holiday that represents their struggle in "sustaining their heritage, (and) our heritage, as both citizens and a society. This was the Memorial Day they knew. This the Memorial Day I still believe in. But sadly, this is precisely the kind of Memorial Day I believe is slipping away from us."

Lyons said he and other Vietnam War veterans are partially to blame because they have been "wofefully derelict" in passing on the meaning of Memorial Day to their children. Such inaction, he said, shortchanges those who died serving their country as well as the servicemen and women of today and tomorrow.

"In our haste to get on with our lives, to place the pain and ugliness of war and death behind us, we have shortchanged the very memory of the brothers and friends who fell beside us, who did not come home with us...(and) there are still US troops stationed in Korea, Bosnia and the Middle

"If we choose to forget the dead...then we fail in our obligation as parents."

East." Lyons said it is the responsibility of such veterans to teach younger generations about the significance of Memorial Day, and suggested the United States follow the lead of other countries in remembering the dead.

"If we choose to forget the dead...then we fail in our obligation as parents," he said. "We are the stewards of our heritage, nobody else...In other cultures, the dead are revered. Families set up shrines in the home as a means of solidifying their identity and closeness as both a family and a member of society.

"More and more, I wonder if we are not headed in the opposite direction. We find it much easier to forget all that's gone before, to ignore the direct correlation the past has to the present." Lyons concluded by citing an incident a couple of years ago, when more than 200 headstones were desecrated in an Everett cemetery, as a reminder of why children should be taught about Memorial Day.

"Perhaps that, alone, should be a grim object lesson to the rest of us, a most compelling reason why Memorial Day should be a time reserved for remembrance," he said. "If we fail to remember, we cannot move forward."

"If we fail to remember all those who sacrificed before us, and alongside us, then we forget what it truly means to call ourselves free."

Meeting Tonight On Planned Squantum Park

A public meeting will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Marina Bay Company cafeteria, 500 Victory Rd., to present conceptual plans for the development of a Squantum Point Park.

Public input on the park plan will be welcome. Alternative concepts being considered for the site, a 50-acre wildlife reserve, include developing trails while preserving the diverse habitats which attract migrating birds.

The park plans, which are being developed by the landscape architect firm Carol R. Johnson Associates in Cambridge, will be consistent with the Metropolitan District Commission's Master Plan for the Lower Neponset River Reservation.

The two companies working with the MDC, Massachusetts Electric Company and New England Power Company, are sponsoring the design of Squantum Point Park as one of several community benefits for Quincy and Dorchester associated with the Dorchester-to-Quincy Underground Electric Cable Project.

What About The Kids!

Thinking out loud:
Sometimes I find myself feeling this great country of ours now and then seems to have its priorities a bit rear-end-to.

Like, for example, when it comes to deserving kids trying to go to college. Why can't we make it financially easier for them to get there?

We have no trouble finding billions of dollars to spread around the world. Not to mention outer space.

We give generously to allies and so-called allies who don't always stand with us when we really need them. Or ignore our pleas not to start a new nuclear arms race.

We blow all kinds of money.

Like that pork barrel multi-million dollar highway somewhere down south that goes nowhere. But, what the hell, it created jobs didn't it? And helped the local congressman at election time.

Then there's that super-duper outhouse in Pennsylvania that the Park Service ordered. It cost nearly $800,000 including $13,000 glorified toilet bowls. No clue on what the toilet tissue goes for.

And, those little things. Like screws. According to a report by the Defense Department's inspector general, the government was paying over $75 each for screws you could pick up for something like 57 cents at your favorite hardware store.

And certain electrical devices that go for $46 but that the government handed over a reported $714.

Blowing money seems to be a national pastime.

But where is the money when it comes to deserving kids who have a goal in life and want to go to college to reach it?

There are scholarships and financial aid available from colleges, veterans, labor, fraternal, civic, and other organizations. And, student loans.

But with the cost of tuition escalating, this help though very appreciated, is far from enough. The government should be doing a lot more than it does to make college education financially easier.

Every deserving kid should be guaranteed a college education. The millions of dollars wasted on pork barrel schemes and projects, stupid squandering and millions poured into the hands of fair weather friends overseas would guarantee a college education for thousands of worthy kids.

It would be one of our greatest investments.

The future is in the hands of our young people.

Shouldn't we be giving them the best education to make the future of this country the best they can?

MILESTONE: Councillor Frank McCauley and Ray

Cattaneo, former executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Forestry-Cemetery Department celebrated the 50th anniversary of their Boston College High School 1948 Class graduation over the weekend.

CATTANEO

Members of the reunion committee, they and classmates attended a Mass and dinner at the school Friday. And on Sunday, took part in the graduation ceremonies of this year's class of which Cattaneo's grandson, Raymond, is a member.

McCauley and Cattaneo and their classmates received the traditional gold diplomas awarded to all 50-year B.C. High graduates.

Cattaneo was an outstanding athlete at B.C. High and an all-scholastic baseball star. He was inducted into the school's Athletic Hall of Fame in 1985. He was a promising minor leaguer with the Boston Braves and almost made it to the big time. But the opening went to another player on the way up: Eddie Mathews.

McCauley, of course, went on to become a school committee member, councillor, mayor and is now back in the city council.

WHEN YOU THINK of this year's race for the Norfolk County sheriff's badge, you automatically think of Republican incumbent Jack Flood and Democratic challenger Michael Bellotti.

But there is a third candidate.

Larry Macklin, of Braintree, running as an independent candidate, and president of "Citizens Against Reverse Discrimination," apparently isn't awed by the much better known political names of Flood and Bellotti.

He reports he submitted 1,801 valid signatures on his nomination papers to Secretary of State William Galvin's office although only 1,000 were required. A total 2,500 names were collected, he says.

Macklin says he is planning "an intense summer grass roots campaign." He adds he is already getting a good response to both his platform and promise not to use racial quotas in hiring if elected.

NOMINATION FOR Pain-Of-The Week: Impatient Ike in a car at Chestnut, Maple and Hancock Sts. The car in front of him stops to let a woman cross that busy intersection in the cross walk. Ike, in an apparent hurry, gets ticked off and blasts away on his horn.

Wouldn't you like to see a pothole big enough for him to vanish into?

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS AN OLD POSTCARD view of Saint John's Catholic School on Phipps Street in Quincy Center. Opened in 1909, it was the first Catholic school built in Quincy. The first class graduated in 1913, the year this card was postmarked. Thousands of Quincy youngsters attended classes here until the Parish Council decided to close the school in 1974. Still actively used for religious education, the building is also home to a number of self help and social service organizations. Father Bill's Place had its origins in the basement here in the late 1980's and a section of the basement is still set aside for use when the main shelter is overcrowded.

Quincy Hospital Expands Birthing Education Programs

Quincy Hospital has expanded the patient education classes related to pregnancy and childbirth.

Two new classes and a support group for Young Parents made their debut in the last few weeks.

The first of the new classes is designed for expectant mothers early in pregnancy. This Early Pregnancy Class offers the woman and her partner information about prenatal care and testing, fetal development, physical changes, nutrition and safety. Helpful hints for managing common discomforts of pregnancy will be discussed as well. A tour of Quincy Hospitals First Moments will conclude this three hour class.

Focusing on mothers who delivered a previous baby by Cesarean, the Vaginal Birth After Cesarean (VBAC) class offers a discussion of the fears and realities surrounding the labor process and a vaginal birth with the current pregnancy. The rationale and advantages of a vaginal birth are highlighted. The single class session is approximately two hours.

The Young Parents Pregnancy Support Group will provide education and a forum for conversation with other pregnant and parenting teens. The support group is an ongoing source of education and support throughout the pregnancy and parenting experience. Scheduled meetings will be held once a month.

Continuing classes include the series on preparation for the birthing experience which is the core of the childbirth education program. This series is offered as a two day weekend program or a four evening weeknight class series. Breast feeding instruction and a class for soon to be big brothers and sisters continue to be popular with many of the expectant families.

For more information about class dates, times and cost or to register, call the hospital Public Relations Department at (617) 376-4016.

MWRA Board Thanks Mariano

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The MWRA Advisory Board would like to publicly thank Rep. Ronald Mariano for his efforts on behalf of MWRA ratepayers during this year's House budget process.

Thanks to the support of Rep. Mariano, vice chairman of the MWRA Legislative Caucus, the House budget includes $43.9 million in debt service assistance to the MWRA, language making the MetroWest Tunnel eligible for debt service assistance, and $500,000 for the Town of Clinton to partially reimburse the MWRA of operating their wastewater treatment plant. These measures amount to significant savings to MWRA ratepayers.

In addition, the House budget contains language which requires the MDC Watershed Division to present their annual budget to the Advisory Board. MWRA ratepayers pay 100 percent of the Watershed Division budget and currently have no say in how the funds are spent. Rep. Mariano has actively pursued legislation to transfer the Division to the MWRA, where ratepayers' will have more control. This budget language will take us one step closer to our mutual goal of holding the MDC

Watershed Division accountable to MWRA ratepayers.

The Advisory Board applauds the leadership Rep. Mariano has shown on MWRA issues over the years and greatly appreciates his work on this year's budget.

S.S. Independence Launched At Yard

By PAUL HAROLD

A crowd of 30,000 was on hand for the launching of American Export Lines' S.S. Independence, the "new Queen of the American merchant fleet" at the Fore River shipyard and locations along the river.

The ship would have a sister ship, the S.S. Constitution, also to be built in Quincy under a $25 million contract with American Export.

The crowd gathered to watch the launching was the largest since the launching at Fore River of the USS Massachusetts on Aug. 31, 1941. Among those participating in the ceremonies were 500 guests of the company who traveled from New York on a special train out of Penn Station.

LEGISLATIVE GROUP VISITS SCHOOL SITE

Under the leadership of the city's legislative delegation and Mayor Thomas Burgin, key committee members from the State House viewed the site of the proposed new school on Fenno St. to judge if it was eligible for state aid.

The state's main concern was the feasibility of building on the marsh. The same committee members also visited Germantown which was also in need of a new school to ease serious classroom overcrowding.

The city's legislative delegation was comprised of Rep. Charles Hedges, William Jenness, Avery Gilkerson and Alfred Keith.

CARTER CALLS FOR SCHOOL ATHLETICS AID

James Carter, director of physical education for the public schools, called upon the school committee for additional funds for the athletic program.

Carter said that financial troubles had put athletics "at the bottom of the barrel."

Included in his recommendations was the need to charge for the commercial radio broadcasts of Quincy High School football, because the broadcasts reduced the take at the gate.

Regarding out of town games, Carter noted that the total transportation expenses included not just team members, but members of the band and the baton squad.

Quincy Woman Wins This Year's Christmas Parade Theme Contest

A Quincy woman is the winner of the 1998 Quincy Christmas Parade Theme Contest.

Maureen Flynn submitted the winning entry entitled "The Hopes and Dreams of Christmas" in the contest sponsored by the Quincy Festival Committee.

Mrs. Flynn and her husband, William, have lived in Quincy 29 years. They have three adult children.

Mrs. Flynn is the second woman in three years with direct times in England to win the theme contest. She grew up and attended school in England. She later lived in Canada before moving to the United States where she met and married her husband. Two years ago, Mrs. Millie Hawke of Hingham, formerly of England, won the theme contest.

"I always had an interest in the Quincy Christmas Parade since coming to Quincy and this year I decided to submit and entry that I had been thinking about for a time," Mrs. Flynn, an accountant, said. She and her family, along with business associates and friends, have gathered annually as a group in the Wollaston section of Quincy to watch the parade proceed along Hancock St.

She praised the City of Quincy for doing so much to bring families together by sponsoring different events throughout the entire year.

Mrs. Flynn and family members will be guests of the Festival Committee and will be invited to ride along the parade route Nov. 29. She will also receive an appreciation gift for her winning entry.

Seven Residents Sing In Washington Concert Tour

Dairy Free Chowder

Coming back from a recent trip to New York, we stopped off at Mystic Seaport in Connecticut and had the most delicious clam chowder prepared without milk or cream.

When I prepared it at home, instead of just clams, I added fresh fish as well resulting in a richer, better flavor. And the "most delicious chowder" I ever made according to my husband!

Clear Clam Chowder

10 ounces of haddock (cod and flounder may also be used)
1 pound fresh clams

- 1 container of fresh minced clams
- 1 tablespoons fresh parsley
- 2 medium onions (chopped)
- 2 medium potatoes (diced)
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- salt and pepper to taste

Steam the clams, reserve the juice. In the butter, saute the onions until clear. Add the reserved clam juice and the potatoes and cook until potatoes are tender. Add the uncooked fish, minced clams and the fresh clams and cook until blended. (add a little water if needed)
It even tasted great the next day.

New Playground Dedicated At Parker School

PLAYGROUND ADVISORY COMMITTEE that helped make the new playground at the Parker School a reality includes, from left, Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers, Assistant Principal and Grade 5 teacher Gail Weatherhead, Parker PTO President Linda Kelly and parent Jeanne Johnson. Committee member Susan Colby, parent, was unable to attend.

PRESENTATION OF COLORS was among the highlights of the recent playground dedication at the Parker School. The event was held in conjunction with a Memorial Day Program.

Tobin Advances False Impersonation Bill

State Rep. Stephen Tobin announces that the Massachusetts House of Representatives has advanced a bill that would make it a crime to give the police a fake name or Social Security number or those of another person following an arrest.

The bill originated in the Criminal Justice Committee, which is chaired by Tobin. "At the public hearing, I was amazed by police testimony indicating how frequently this occurs," he said. "Criminals seeking to beat the system by giving false information results in a huge waste of police time and resources better spent on public safety."

Tobin said the most compelling reason to push the bill through the legislative process came from a constituent's experience after her name and Social Security number were given to the police by a family member.

"It has been an absolute nightmare for this person to get her record cleared," said Tobin. "The time and money that an innocent has spent trying to rectify this problem is very troubling."

Under the bill, anyone who provides a false name, or Social Security number or the name and Social Security number of another person may be fined or receive jail time. The bill's penalties are "staircased" depending on whether the arrest is on a misdemeanor or felony charge.

The heaviest fines and prison terms are levied for arrests for a felony charge that may be punished by a $1,000 fine or a one-year sentence in state prison. The bill would allow a victim to receive restitution for resulting losses.

Under Massachusetts law, a misdemeanor carries a prison term of less than 2 1/2 years to be served in a House of Correction. Crimes which call for a sentence of any term in a state prison or a sentence which exceeds 2 1/2 years qualify as a felony.

The bill is headed to the Senate for debate in that break.

NEW PLAYGROUND was dedicated recently at the Parker Elementary School in North Quincy. Fifth graders from Susan Dillon's class gave a demonstration of the playground's use entitled "Are You Ready, America?" as part of the ceremonies.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment Project Hero Campaign Reaches $22,448 Rung

Project Hero is now only about $2,500 shy of the halfway point of its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its 10th week at the $22,448 rung and is starting its 11th week with $27,552 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units—helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

Anita Ricciuti-Coolen, Conor, Kyle and Stephen Roche; United Quincy Alliance, Paul and Fiona Cavanaugh, Frances Haleky, H. Jean Manning, Americo and Claire Speranzo, Robyn O'Donnell, Congressman William Delahunt, Lorri

Crane, Mary Granahan, Joan Delaney-In Memory of Robert J. Granahan, Quincy Retiree Association Inc., Misha Leister-Lowry and Michelle Leister, Robert and Ruth Gordon, American Legion.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

'Quarry-To-Wharf' Tours In June, July, August

Survey Sees Better Retail Mix Needed In Center

"good to excellent" totaled 85 percent. However, over 50 percent rated the selection of shops "poor to fair."

Kolson said results also indicate that in addition to a better retail mix, people want a "prettier" Quincy Center with brighter lights and longer store hours. She also noted that no one expressed any interest in a proposal formerly before the City Council to increase the height limitation of downtown buildings to 10 stories.

The "Keep It In Quincy" Commission, appointed to a one-year term by the City Council, has been meeting biweekly since February. In addition to conducting survey research, the commission has met with members of the business and real estate communities to gain their insight into market conditions and possible retail opportunities.

Kolson said after the results of the residential survey are tabulated, the commission will work in collaboration with the City Council, Quincy 2000 and Quincy Center Business and Professional Association to identify and attract new businesses.

"The ultimate goal is to improve shopping in Quincy Center for residents and employees alike," she said.

FIBER IS CONFIRMED

Is fiber really so great for your heart, or is it just that people who eat a high-fiber diet also happen to choose a lot of foods such as fresh fruits and vegetables, which are healthful in many different ways? If you are one of the thousands of Americans who gag at the thought of a bran muffin, that's a question worth asking. However, whether you are a bran fan or not, the answer is becoming clearer all the time: Fiber DOES help protect the heart against disease. In recent studies carefully controlled to screen out other factors, fiber was found to be the key to lowering the risk of dying from heart disease by almost one-third. More and more, researchers are discovering that eating right and exercising routinely do wonders for one's health. We're here to help you find ways consistent with your lifestyle to make minor changes that can pay great dividends in living longer and in living well. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Eating more fruits, vegetables, and whole grain breads can help provide a heart-healthy 25-plus grams of fiber per day.

CLIFFORD H. MARSHALL Elementary School in Quincy Point will open in September. It was named in memory of the late Norfolk County sheriff who died in August 1996. A side view showcases some of the fine architecture that went into the building, which was designed by Cole and Goyette, Architects and Planners Inc. of Cambridge and built by A. Bonfatti & Co. of Norwood.

WARD 2 CITY COUNCILLOR Daniel Raymond and School Committeeman Ronald Mariano jointly proposed the construction of the school when the two served together on the committee.

Scheduled To Open In September

Marshall School: You'll Wish You Went There

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Take a walk through the Clifford H. Marshall Elementary School in Quincy Point and one thought will go through your head:

"Boy, I wish I were back in kindergarten."

The finishing touches are being put on the building, which will open its doors for classes in September. Located on Moody Street between Chubbuck Street and Southern Artery, the $10 million, state-of-the-art facility is sure to please students, teachers and parents.

Among the highlights are: a cafetorium that includes a stage for school plays and other events, a spacious media center, a gymnasium where the Boston Celtics would probably love to practice, complete accessibility for the disabled, and air-conditioned classrooms fully equipped for numerous computer terminals.

Two staff members of The Quincy Sun recently toured the building with School Supt. Eugene Creedon, Quincy Clerk of the Works Paul Hemphill, and the two men who first proposed the building in September 1995: Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond and School Committeeman Ronald Mariano.

Creedon said the school will have about 120 kindergarten students and 500 full-time students in Grades 1-5, with each of the school's 33 classrooms totaling around 18 to 21 students. The staff, which is being transferred from the Point-Webster Elementary School, numbers about 40, he said.

The first floor includes the administrative offices, classrooms for Grades K-2, cafetorium, gymnasium and more, while the upper level mainly will be used for the Grades 3-5 classrooms.

"This building clearly says to the children, 'you grow throughout the building,'" said Creedon. "The older kids, when they begin taking classes on the second floor, can say, 'we're moving on up; we're the bigger kids now. This is our side of the house,'" he said.

The Marshall School is the first new school to be built in the city—with the exception of the Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center in South Quincy earlier this decade—since 1975.

The school, paid for with city bond money, was built to help relieve overcrowding at the Sterling Middle School in South Quincy. Students currently from Point-Webster will attend the Marshall School, and Point-Webster will be renovated into a middle school slated to open in September 1999. After that, middle school students from Quincy Point no longer will need to travel to Sterling to receive an education.

The 72,000-square-foot Marshall School was designed by Cole and Goyette, Architects and Planners Inc. of Cambridge. The general contractor in charge of construction is A. Bonfatti & Co. of Norwood.

Creedon, Raymond and Mariano said there are several features they particularly enjoy about the school.

Mariano said part of the school's design was copied from the old Pollard Elementary School, which was located in the same area before it eventually was closed.

"What we took from the Pollard School is that all of the classrooms for the primary grades will open to a play area (outside)," said Mariano. "That's one of the things we wanted to make sure we did."

The school, in fact, will have a plaque dedicated to the Pollard School teachers which may be located on the outside of the building—where Quincy's city seal also will appear twice.

Raymond said the cafetorium will include a wireless microphone, which will be handy for community meetings and other special events that will be held

EMPTY HALLWAY at the new Clifford H. Marshall Elementary School in Quincy Point will be filled with students when it opens in September. About 500 students in Grades 1-5 and 120 kindergartners will attend the school.

STAGE LOCATED in the Marshall School's cafetorium will ensure that the gymnasium never has to be closed. The stage will be used for school plays and other events and the cafetorium also will host community meetings. From left are Quincy Clerk of the Works Paul Hemphill, School Committeeman Ronald Mariano, Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond and School Supt. Eugene Creedon.

there. Creodon added that having the stage in the cafeteria also is a plus.

"This way, we'll never have to shut the gymnasium down," said Creodon. "School events that might have been held in the gym will take place in the cafeteria."

There also are standard safety features such as classroom doors with no outside handles (to prevent vandalism), well-lighted hallways and a "safe-play" area with no lockers on the first floor for younger children.

The building has two access points, with a third to be added. Faculty will enter the school area from Germaine Avenue, while buses will travel down Moody Street to bring students to the front of the school. In addition, Raymondi said, a parent drop-off point off nearby Southern Artery also is planned.

Loam and stone in front of the building turned out, saying it will provide the students of culturally-diverse Quincy Point—there will be about 32 different languages represented at the school, he estimated—with all necessary advantages.

The superintendent said he is thrilled with how the building turned out, saying it will provide the students of culturally-diverse Quincy Point—there will be about 32 different languages represented at the school, he estimated—with all necessary advantages.

"I'm tremendously pleased with the results," said Creodon. "This building was made with quality construction, and it reflects all of the advances of technology."

Creodon added that he is especially pleased that the state, which will reimburse 63 percent of the school's $10 million price tag, plans to begin doing so by 2000, about 18 months earlier than expected.

Mariano, who also serves as a state representative and led the fight on Beacon Hill to get the reimbursement at the accelerated rate, said he is now looking forward to moving on to other components of a long-range, city-wide plan to upgrade all of the Quincy Public Schools, noting the problems at Sterling are a particular concern for him.

He added that he, too, is pleased with the Marshall School.

"It's going to be the star of the fleet, the focal point of our elementary school system," said Mariano. "It's going to be a great place for kids to come and learn, and it will have an immense effect on the quality of life and property values in Quincy Point."

Raymondi, who served on the School Committee

Eugene Creodon, and School Committeeman Ronald Mariano. Point-Webster students will transfer to the new school in September.

with Mariano when the two first proposed the building nearly three years ago, agreed.

"It's terrific," he said. "I'm more impressed every time I come here. This is going to be one of the finest teaching schools we have, and it has a lot to do with the redevelopment of Quincy Point. I'm looking forward to the day the school finally opens. It's just a tremendous asset."

Mariano, who proposed that the school be named after the late Norfolk County sheriff—who died in August 1996—said Clifford Marshall also would be proud of the facility.

"He'd love it," he said. "It's a tremendous testament to his memory."

O'Donnell Submits Nomination Signatures For District Attorney

William O'Donnell (D-Norwood), a Democratic candidate for Norfolk County district attorney, announces he has submitted over 4,000 nomination signatures to various town clerk's offices to secure a place on the September primary ballot.

O'Donnell is a former Norfolk County district attorney who served under former DA William Delahunt.

"Since the campaign for Norfolk County district attorney began, I have emphasized the importance of a grassroots organization," he said. "I am very proud of the dozens of volunteers who have gathered nomination signatures for my candidacy in each of the 28 communities comprising Norfolk County."

"I am particularly proud of the broad cross-section of the community who have signed my nomination papers: working men and women, the elderly, single parents, young people. I believe those who have lent their name to my candidacy believe as I do that first and foremost, the office of Norfolk County district attorney is about prosecution, particularly prosecuting violent criminals. There is no substitute for prosecutorial experience; there is no substitute for courtroom experience."

GIVING YOUR CAR A PLUG

Car owners are often guilty of LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO replacing spark plugs too frequently, discounting the fact that they may be designed to last up to 60,000 miles and more. Unnecessary replacement will not improve engine performance or economy. On the other hand, the ASE Certified technicians have the skills to handle it. You'll find us located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). Hours: Mon - Fri, 6am-6pm; Sat, 7am-9pm; Sun, 9am-5pm. We are 'A Place Where an engine analyzer. If one plug is bad, it is not necessary to replace all the others; however, if motor homes, and converted the set of plugs has been in vehicles.

HINT: Platinum-tip spark-plugs employ a platinum center electrode that resists wear and corrosion, thereby ensuring a long, useful life.

Mosquito Spraying Underway

The Quincy Health Department has been informed by the Norfolk County Mosquito Project that early morning application of the pesticide Resmethrin for the control of adult mosquitoes began Tuesday and will continue, weather permitting, through Sept. 15.

Applications will be made Tuesday mornings in selected areas of Quincy west of Rte. 3A, which may include Montclair, West Quincy, inland portions of Wollaston, South Quincy, and inland sections of Quincy Point.

Applications will be made Thursday mornings in selected areas of Quincy east of Rte. 3A, which may include Squantum, Atlantic, Norfolk Downs, coastal Wollaston, Merrymount, Houghs Neck, Germantown, and coastal Quincy Point.

Not all of the above areas will be entirely sprayed on a given date. The spraying will occur between 3 and 6:30 a.m. only if mosquito populations warrant an application. If inclement weather occurs or equipment fails, the application will be added to the next scheduled day or rescheduled.

Resmethrin is used due to its compatibility with the environment, very low toxicity to mammals, low irritation levels and the fact it does not harm other wildlife.

For more information, call the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project at 762-3681.

First City Yard Care Conference Saturday

The Quincy Park and Forestry Department will sponsor its first "Yard Care Conference" Saturday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery (next to Adams Field).

The conference will be free of charge and feature experts on turf care, gardening, landscape planning, tree maintenance and composting. There will also be giveaways featuring prizes of summer annuals, gardening supplies, gift certificates and more.

The conference will feature presentations from: David Gaspar of Prescription Turf Services, Paul Franz of L.B. Franz Services, Michael Nelson of the Norfolk County Agricultural School, landscape architect Mary Smith of Mary Smith Associates, and Quincy Tree Warden Frank McLaughlin. After the presentation portion of the conference, guests will be available to answer questions from audience members.

"I hope that we can offer Quincy homeowners a chance to improve their yards and gardens by providing them with valuable information from the experts in a variety of yard-care related fields," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

In conjunction with the Cleaner, Greener Quincy and the "Yard Care Conference," Park and Forestry Department will sponsor a "Neat Neighbors" contest this summer. Residents may nominate a friend, neighbor or family member who maintains his or her property in the spirit of a cleaner, greener Quincy. After Labor Day, 25 entries will be selected at random and be awarded a new tree or shrubs. There will be entry forms provided at the "Yard Care Conference."

"Mayor Sheets and the City Council have provided the necessary support to allow us to maintain our parks, playgrounds, beaches and open space areas," said Koch. "As a result, we now enjoy a cleaner, greener Quincy. We now hope to shift the focus of Cleaner, Greener Quincy to encourage people to maintain their yards and property in the spirit of the Cleaner, Greener program."

"Our Neat Neighbors contest aims to recognize those people who keep their properties beautiful, thereby aesthetically improving their communities and improving the value of their entire neighborhood."

For more information, call the Park Department at 376-1251.

Habitat To Hire For Three VISTA Positions

South Shore Habitat for Humanity (SSHH) is seeking to hire three people to fill new positions provided by the Americorps VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) program.

This is the second year that SSHH, a non-profit, ecumenical housing ministry dedicated to building homes in partnership with families in need, has been awarded VISTAs.

VISTA provides full-time volunteers to thousands of low-income communities across the nation to address a multitude of problems as defined by those communities. VISTA volunteers serve for a one-year term in return for the experience learned and a small living allowance paid by the government. VISTAs receive an educational award or stipend at year's end.

SSHH is looking for three people to work in its Braintree office:

*A public relations coordinator to address its publicity needs. The person must have strong written and oral communication skills and a background in working with the media. Computer literacy is a must.

*A Quincy community outreach specialist to reach out to the various elements of the Quincy community and to increase awareness of the work of SSHH. The position is a direct result of the 10-home neighborhood SSHH is building off Bower Road in Quincy Point. Applicants should be computer literate. Bilingual (Cantonese, Cambodian, Spanish or Laotian) not required but a plus.

*A re-store coordinator to establish a retail store for selling materials donate to SSHH. Applicants should be familiar with inventory control and experience in retail sales is a plus.

For more information, call (781) 843-9080.

What To Look For In A New Home

(NAPS)—Looking to purchase a new home this season? According to the Certain Teed Home Institute, there are two things you should examine—the structural construction and the materials used in the house.

For instance, while quality can be easily demonstrated by looking at a granite countertop or inspecting a brand of appliance, some things within a home are not easily evaluated. Insulation is one of these. Installed in sidewalls and other areas, it is not readily visible to potential buyers. How does a homeowner then know what material is in the wall and the quality of the installation? This is especially important with insulation as the product must be installed correctly or thermal performance is sacrificed which can lead to higher energy bills.

To ensure high quality installation, the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) Research Center has developed a Certified Contractor Program for insulation contractors. It is the only program of its kind where an independent third party certifies the insulation work in new homes.

Contractors who have made it into this program have established a recognized quality system, effectively trained their employees and passed a series of stringent criteria in a thorough third-party audit. Then twice a year they are again audited.

Today, nearly 100 insulation contractors across the country have been certified in the program. Because of the success of the program, the NAHB Research Center is looking to expand the effort into other sub-contracting fields.

For a brochure on the Certified Program and a list of certified insulation contractors, call 1-800-782-8777 or visit the Institute's web site at <http://www.certainteed.com>.

New Service Provides Information And Peace Of Mind To Home Buyers

(NAPS)—Buying a home is one of the biggest decisions anyone can make. Before taking the big step of purchasing a home, buyers need answers to questions like: "How good are the schools in the neighborhood? What are other houses in the area worth? Is the community safe?" But how can home buyers get this critical information before making a decision?

A new service provides the answers to those questions and many more. By asking for Know The Neighborhood® at a local real estate office, home buyers can get all of the information they need to make the right choice. Know The Neighborhood is a professional software service that offers important information on every neighborhood in the United States.

Real estate agents who have it installed at their office can provide easy-to-read reports on community facts, public and private schools, housing, crime rates, climate, houses of worship, and more.

The service allows a real estate agent to take a virtual snap shot of an entire city, one particular community, or even a specific address. Home buyers can view a full range of information about a selected site, including a detailed street map that displays landmarks such as schools and houses of worship. They can also look at values for any home in the country. Furthermore, home buyers can view side-by-side comparisons of two particular neighborhoods as well as consult current state and national averages.

Bill Reaver, a real estate agent at Century 21 Neighborhood Realty in Gettysburg, Pa., offers information from Know The Neighborhood to his customers.

"I recently provided an out-of-state couple looking for a home in Pennsylvania with printed reports comparing various school districts," said Reaver. "The ability to view side-by-side comparisons of student/teacher ratios and other statistics was invaluable to them. That information gave them the peace of mind they needed to make their decision."

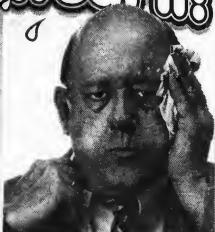

Know The Neighborhood has been endorsed by the United Homeowner's Association (UHA), the nation's largest non-profit organization concerned with the interests of homeowners. "By contacting a real estate professional who utilizes Know The Neighborhood, home buyers will be well informed and make better decisions," said UHA vice president Albert Clark.

Know The Neighborhood is available at real estate offices nationwide. Large national users of the service include Century 21, Coldwell Banker, ERA, RE/MAX and Better Homes and Gardens real estate offices. For more information, contact a real estate office in your area or have your real estate agent contact Lysias, Inc. at (215) 659-8800.

SPRING CAR CARE

Don't Let Brake Trouble Sneak Up On You

Like comfortable shoes, one's car eventually feels like almost a part of its owner. And, like our favorite shoes, gradual wear is almost imperceptible. We may hardly notice a minor irregularity in braking action, for example, until it becomes serious. We may subconsciously compensate for a slight pull to one side or the other when the brakes are applied. We may become so accustomed to pulsating or noisy brakes that we're unaware of deteriorating performance.

Don't take your brakes for granted, reminds the Car Care Council. Consider this: if an emergency were to arise on the Interstate when you're driving 65 miles an hour, chances are you'd travel 70 feet before your foot hit the brake pedal. Then you'd go another 250 feet before stopping, even on a dry road with good tires and brakes. Reason enough, says the Council, for a periodic brake inspection by a qualified technician. That's what peace of mind is all about.

For a free brochure entitled "How to Keep Your Brakes From Letting You Down" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Department SPE98-B, 42 Park Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Drive Train Inspection Can Save Costly Trouble

Nine Ways To Kill A Cat

A leading role in the reduction of harmful exhaust emissions is the catalytic converter, through which exhaust flows on its way to the atmosphere. The lethal components of exhaust gas are rendered harmless by the converter. This device should remain effective virtually forever unless it's damaged.

Its enemy number one originally was the lead in gasoline. Now, however, with all gas lead-free, nine other factors have become infamous as "cat killers."

Periodic checks and maintenance will disclose most of these discrepancies, which Car Care Council lists as "the nasty nine." The first three are critical sensors in the emissions control system: oxygen, coolant temperature and throttle position. If one or more of these sensors send the wrong information to the computerized fuel, ignition and/or emission control systems, unburned fuel in the exhaust will damage the converter.

Culprits four and five are a leaking fuel injector and ignition misfire, such as one or more worn spark plugs.

The next three are less common, but worth noting: bad gas, a leaking head gasket and a faulty fuel pressure regulator.

Finally, and not necessarily least common, is oil burning due to worn engine components. Oil exhaust can ruin a catalytic converter. Car Care Council points out that even the most advanced vehicle design still demands periodic and maintenance service.

A free pamphlet on tune-up is offered by the Council. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. SPE98-T, 42 Park Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Women Steering Their Cars In Right Direction

(NAPS)—Women are taking more control over their vehicle maintenance decisions. A report by the National Automotive Parts Association (NAPA) found that 61 percent of women took their cars in for tune-ups and 76 percent got their engine oil changed on a regular basis.

The NAPA Auto-Attitudes Report, based on a survey of over 1,000 vehicle owners nationwide, also showed that women and men are equally successful at negotiating price for service. Twenty-three percent of both men and women felt strongly about their ability to negotiate with an automotive technician.

"More women are acting as decision-makers on vehicle maintenance, and we think it's crucial for repair shops to make them feel comfortable with the service they receive," said NAPA President Robert McKenna.

As automotive consumers, women are just as likely as men to own vehicles, and, as customers, they are more loyal than men. Comparisons on the NAPA report reveal that, on average, women are about 15 percent more likely than men to maintain continuous relationships with their automotive technicians, doctors, dentists, dry cleaners and hair stylists.

Auto technicians ranked fourth in loyalty on this survey, well behind doctors and dentists. This fact is surprising because the Consumer Price Index shows that Americans spend $30 million more on auto care than health care in 1996. Here are some other interesting findings from the

A survey shows that more and more women are taking care of their cars. It also says women equal men in their ability to negotiate with an automotive technician.

NAPA survey:

- Nearly half of all women surveyed said they turn to a friend for advice on car repair before talking to an automotive technician.

- Only 16 percent of women feel nervous about dealing with auto repair.

- But, women would rather do their taxes than have to take a car to the shop.

- Women feel they are far more likely to get good advice from a hair stylist than from an automotive technician.

"It's easy to look in the mirror and know if you got a good haircut," said Jim Kiple, NAPA director of technical services, explaining that on-board computers require extended diagnostic time before repair service can begin. The extra time and resulting costs can raise concerns about reputable service and fair pricing.

The best way both sexes can find honest car repair is to make sure the shop employs ASE-certified technicians and offers a warranty on both parts and labor. And finally, once you have found a shop, get the service estimate in writing, up front.

Never Ask For Directions Again

(NAPS)—Don't risk straying further off your intended course while searching for a gas station to get directions. Deciphering mumbled directions from those offering assistance will be a thing of the past. Car navigation systems are now on the market to make all your journeys peaceful.

Car navigation systems use Global Positioning System (GPS) satellites in conjunction with computer software to illustrate the best route to a particular destination. Most navigation systems provide audio and visual instructions, distance updates and color maps from a small monitor mounted in the center console.

To indicate your destination, simply key in the address, or a major intersection, or pinpoint the location on the map display. Some systems allow the driver to choose his/her preferred method of travel such as: the direct route; the easy route; major roads with less turns; the minimized freeway route; or the minimized toll route.

If you miss a turn or encounter road construction, the system can automatically re-calculate your route. Most systems contain a directory for those need-to-know places such as hospitals, hotels, restaurants and automatic teller machines. Some directories include a list of places to visit for your enjoyment—museums, parks, shopping centers, etc.

To further enhance your safety on the road, many navigation systems can dial for emergency services automatically in cars equipped with cellular phones.

To ensure proper installation, look for the Mobile

Electronics Certification Program (MECP) sign. A nationally accredited program, MECP assures the competency and skills levels of installers. To locate an MECP retailer near you, call 1-800-767-MECP.

the 12-year-old human rights activist who was murdered in his homeland.

The youngster visited Broad Meadows School in 1994 while in this country to receive a Reebok Human Rights Award for speaking out against child labor.

Masih told how he had been sold into child labor at the age of four by his mother who was poor and desperately needed the slave wages he earned.

Masih was murdered the following year in Pakistan. He was silenced, many believe, for openly speaking out against child labor.

Broad Meadows students launched a "campaign to raise funds to build a school in Pakistan in his memory. They realized $100,000 to build the school which was opened in 1996.

Adams said the three eighth graders while in Washington three days this week were scheduled to meet with Labor Secretary Alexis Herman, White House Advisor on Human Rights Eric Schwartz and Leon Fuerth, National Secretary Advisor to Vice President Al Gore.

After the ILO Conference in Geneva, the Broad Meadows delegation will return to Quincy June 4.

But there is more to come.

Adams said that Grecia, Meagan and Stacey will return to Washington June 10 to testify before a Congressional sub-committee on Human Rights. And, hopefully, three other students will join them on that trip.

Adams said the trips to Washington and Geneva are being sponsored and virtually 100 percent financed by the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Center for Human Rights.

"It is not costing the kids anything," he said. "The students raised about $500 toward the trip through things like raffles and bake sales."

In a display of support, eight seventh graders spent Saturday in Quincy Square gathering e-mail messages on the school's web site and in-person petition signatures.

They plugged two of their lap-top computers into outlets at Abigail's Crossing to receive messages and also gathered signatures in front of City Hall and Bank-Boston.

The seventh graders were: Katie Sault, Alana Conso, Christine Diep, Alycia Weiner, Alicia Cappelano, James Munchbach, Michael Quigley and Julie Vallatini.

Their feelings about child labor:

"It's horrible!"

"Kids should be allowed to be kids!"

"They shouldn't have to work like slaves."

"They should have the right to get an education."

They collected 712 e-mail messages and signatures, bringing the total number gathered since last November to over 2,900.

Each message represents a mile. It is hoped the number will reach 3,000 before the trip to Geneva. The three eighth graders will have a lap-top computer with them in Washington to receive additional messages.

The 3,000 messages will symbolically represent a 3,000-mile march across the U.S. against child labor.

Two of the messages received Saturday were:

"I, Lucrena D. Rhodes, would like to see an end to abuse of children through child labor, especially for the 'sweat crops' of the South and West in this country."

"I, Laure Chaskes, say that children are not mere pawns for resources for use by capitalizing adults. Children should be able to spend their childhoods learning and should be given a chance to grow into healthy productive adults."

Prior e-mails received included those from:

George Kent, professor and chair, Department of Political Science, University of Hawaii, Honolulu: "The cycle of poverty which creates and sustains child labor must be broken."

Kamran Ifitkhar, Program Officer, Sudhaar, Pakistan: "Child labor is lifelong suffering. There can be no justification in depriving children from enjoying their childhood and subjecting them to harsh physical and emotional environments. We are wholeheartedly with you in your protest against this exploitive practice."

And, from Jill Leth, 12, of Quincy: "Way to go, Meadows! Keep up the good work!"

Ron Adams praised his Broad Meadows students:

"These kids have worked so hard. They are the best. They have big hearts. They are kids who can be a little silly one moment and serious human rights activists the next.

"They want to be involved and they have a lot to say.

"We need to give kids more opportunities to be involved in the community—local and national."

to be carried to Geneva you still have a little time.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Fire Safety

(NAPS)—Here are some tips from fire prevention experts on keeping your family safe at home.

1. Install and Maintain Smoke Detectors: Most fire deaths and injuries occur at night when people are sleeping. Smoke and toxic gases kill quickly. Smoke detectors warn you of the presence of smoke before it reaches you. Install one on each level of the home, especially outside bedrooms.

2. Plan Your Escape and Practice It: If a fire occurs in your home, you won't have time to think about the best escape route. You and your family should draw a diagram of your home showing all exits. Plan two ways out of every room. Have a design-nated meeting place outside where the family can gather.

3. Watch Out for Smokers: Tens of thousands of home fires start every year because of discarded cigarettes. Have large, deep ashtrays for smokers, and put water on the butts for a minute or two before you put them in the trash. Never smoke in bed.

4. Children and Matches Don't Mix: Matches are dangerous for youngsters. Store smoking materials where children can't reach them. Teach children that matches and lighters are tools for adults, and not for youngsters to play with.

5. Practice Barbecue Safety: Lighting charcoal and gas grills with matches is a potentially dangerous proposition, experts say. The danger of burning your hand is great. The goal is to keep as much space between you and the grill as possible. The Aim n Flame from Scripto Tokai is a good substitute for matches. Its longer, rounded nozzle allows for greater ease in lighting barbecues and other hard-to-light places.

6. Be a Cautious Cook: Always keep children out of the kitchen when you're cooking. Keep pot handles turned toward the back of the stove so they don't get knocked off.

If a fire starts in the pan, slide a lid over the edge of the pan and turn off the heat.

7. Use Electricity Safely: Replace any frayed or damaged electrical cords. If an appliance smells like it is burning, unplug it immediately. Never overload electrical outlets, and never run an electrical cord under a rug.

8. Crawl Low Under Smoke: If you get caught in a smoke-filled room, get down on your hands and knees and crawl to the nearest exit. The cleanest air will be closest to the floor.

9. Stop, Drop, Roll: If your clothes catch on fire, don't run. Stop where you are, drop to the ground, and roll over and over. Cover your face with your hands to protect your face and lungs.

10. Cool the Burn: If you do receive a minor burn, run cool water on the burned area for ten minutes. This minimizes the severity of the burn, and eases the pain. Never put oil, butter or salve on a burn. This only traps in the heat and makes the burn worse. It also invites infection. Seek medical attention immediately.

Children and matches don't mix and many parents have switched to utility lighters to increase safety in the home.

YOUR GARDEN

(NAPS)—White grubs. Even their name sounds, well, grubby. But the damage they can do to your lawn and garden is even worse, if you don't take steps to protect them now.

White grubs are the larval stage of scarab beetles, of which there are 1,500 different species in North America. Only a few, though, cause serious damage to lawns.

In general, adult beetles vary in color from light brown to green and brown to nearly black. You might recognize them as the beetles that fly into lights on summer nights. During June and July, adult beetles of most species feed at night on tree and shrub foliage, but cause little or no damage. One exception is the adult Japanese beetle which feeds during the day and can cause severe defoliation to nearly 300 plant species.

Females fly to lawn areas, burrow through the thatch and into the soil where they deposit eggs. The eggs hatch into tiny grubs within two to four weeks. These grubs are C-shaped, vary from white to off-white and, depending on the species, range from about 1/4-inch to 1-1/2-inches long when fully developed.

A few grubs won't hurt a lawn. But when populations are high, as they can be in many areas of the U.S., these pests feed on the lawn's root system and cause severe damage.

In the past, homeowners had to rely on grub insecticides that require carefully-timed applications. If they were busy and missed the exact few weeks for application, they risked costly grub damage to their lawns. Now there's a grub insecticide that requires only one application for the entire grub season. It's called MERRIT[®] Insecticide, developed and manufactured by the Bayer Corporation, and can be applied any time between April and mid-August for effective control of hatching grubs.

NQ Plays For OCL Title Today Red Raiders On A Roll Heading Into Tourney

By LIAM FITZGERALD

A late-season surge has the North Quincy High School baseball team playing for the Old Colony League title today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. against host Falmouth.

Winners of five straight games, the state tournament-bound Red Raiders (11-4 OCL, 14-5 overall) will look to avenge a 2-0 setback to the Clippers in the season opener.

Not only would a victory in the regular season finale clinch the league title, but it would also put North in prime position to receive a bye in the first round of the tournament. Seedings will be announced Sunday.

"This is big, and it would be nice to win it, because the kids have worked so hard to get to this point," said North coach Dave Perdios. "Falmouth's a good, solid team and is especially tough to beat at home."

"It's also important for seeding, because 15 wins may get us a first-round bye, which is a huge advantage to get in the tournament."

In recent OCL play, the North swept a double-header from Plymouth South on Monday at Adams Field.

In the opener, North trailed 1-0 heading into the bottom of the sixth, then erupted for seven runs en route to a 7-4 victory. Rob Celata improved his record to 4-1 with a strong outing, scattering five hits, striking out 11 and allowing just two earned runs.

North's Chris Gregoli, who made a key defensive play to snuff out a PS rally in the fifth, walked to lead off the seven-run sixth. Then, five consecutive hits by Chris Walsh (2 for 4, RBI), Greg Peck (RBI single), Adam Goodrich (1 for 3), Bill Walker (1 for 1) and Keith Doherty, along with a few PS miscues, resulted in the big inning.

"That play by Chris seemed to change the game around," said Perdios. "With a runner on second and one out, the batter hit a line drive that seemed to be headed to left. Chris dove and gloved it on hop and threw the runner out at third from his knees."

"He's been the key for us during this stretch, stepping up his game a notch with his leadership on the field and in the dugout. It's just what we needed."

The second game saw numerous lead changes and lasted nine innings, until NQ scored the game-winning run to secure a 9-8 triumph. Starter Matt McCann lasted 4 2/3 innings and was relieved by Keith Doherty, who shut down PS over the final 4 1/3 innings. Doherty (3-0) gave up three hits, fanned two and didn't allow an earned run.

Again, the North defense played a vital role, turning a double plays in the eighth and ninth innings. Gregoli led a balanced offensive attack with a 3 for 4 effort and two RBI. Other big hitters were Goodrich (3 for 5, two RBI), Peck (2 for 5), Celata (2 for 5, two RBI) and Walsh (2 for 6, RBI).

Last Thursday, NQ completed a sweep of rival Quincy with a 3-0 victory behind the terrific pitching of Kevin Walsh, who scattered four hits en route to the shutout.

North got on the board in the second when John Sullivan doubled and Peck followed with a triple. The next inning, Gregoli belted a shot to right for an inside-the-park home run after Quincy's right fielder lost sight of the ball. Matt Kiesel capped the scoring with an RBI single later in the inning.

Earlier in the week, NQ handed Bridgewater-Raynham a 15-7 defeat and nailed down a postseason berth with a 12-1 win over Silver Lake.

In the B-R game, Celata fanned 10 and was supported offensively by Sullivan (3 for 4, five RBI) and Peck (three hits, three RBI). Against the Lakers, Celata had three hits, including a two-run homer, and four RBI and Sullivan (three hits, three RBI) also contributed to Doherty's second victory on the mound.

Sunday's 5K Run At Pageant Field Uncle Sam Rounseville To Wear A Blindfold In Lions' Run For Sight

Running a 3.2-mile course blindfolded may seem unorthodox to most people, but that is exactly what Uncle Sam Rounseville will do at Sunday's first annual Quincy Lions Club Run/Walk for Sight.

Rounseville, a real estate salesman at Century 21 Abigail Adams in Quincy, said his reasoning behind the decision is two-fold.

"I'm doing it in honor of my parents, both of whom were Lions Club members who volunteered a lot of their time to helping the blind," he said.

His late father, Roy Rounseville, drove the blind to various activities, including Lions meetings, for over two decades. A Quincy florist, Roy was also a 49-year member of the Quincy Lions.

Rounseville's mother, Elda Rounseville, offered free piano and banjo lessons to the blind for many years. Years ago, she read six books day, until her sight began to deteriorate. Now 91 and legally blind, she serves as an inspiration to her son.

"I told her what I was doing and she thinks it's great," said Rounseville. "As someone who used to be able to see, she said people don't realize what it's like to be in total darkness, which is the other reason I'm running blindfolded."

"I want to show people how tough it is to be in darkness. It will be very difficult, because I've never done it before. You lose your equilibrium when you can't see where you're going, which is pretty scary."

To prepare for the race, Rounseville has been training for the past few months at Braintree High School's outdoor track, and has noticed how his other senses improve when his sight is impaired.

"It's amazing how keen my hearing has become," he said. "When you can't see, you have to rely on sounds to let you know what's around. I know it will be a lot different once I step onto the course, but I'll be ready."

Since Rounseville made his decision public, the response has been overwhelming. "People walk up to me on the street and make contributions—$25, $50, $100, sometime more," he said. "One man who saw the sign for the race whose mother had a cornea transplant made a sizable contribution. It's been great."

Rounseville's wife, Quincy Lions Club President Jean Kenney, originated the idea of a race to benefit the blind.

Serving as chairman of the event will be Steve Mansfield, a certified public accountant and president-elect of the Quincy Lions Club. Mayor James Sheets will be the event's honorary chairman.

The Run/Walk, which will be held at Pageant Field at 100 Southern Artery, includes a children's 1K race at 12:30 p.m. and a 5K run (3.2 miles) at 1 p.m.

Entry fee for the 1K is $5. Early entry fee for the 5K is $12 ($15 the day of the race). Pre-race number and T-shirt pickup will be held Sunday from 9 a.m. to noon at Pageant Field.

Among the festivities planned are pre-race entertainment, face painting and a raffle drawing.

Awards will be presented.

NQ Wins Six Of Last Eight Raiders Close Season With Four Victories

By LIAM FITZGERALD

The North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team wrapped up its season in impressive fashion, winning four in a row, including upsets over Boston Latin Academy and Cambridge Ringe & Latin.

"We missed the tournament by one game, but we played well down the stretch and gained a lot of needed experience," said North coach John Perkins. "For me, it was back to the drawing board, because I've always had veteran teams."

"It turned out to be one of my most challenging and most rewarding seasons. Fortunately, the younger players seemed to mature and take responsibility as the season went on. I want to thank the seniors for their commitment and for helping the younger kids improve and contribute."

Regarding the program's future, Perkins is quite optimistic with his returning players and the 15-5 mark the junior varsity squad compiled this spring under coach Kipp Caldwell.

"We lose five seniors, but we still have four sophomores and a junior back next season," he said. "We also have a strong feeder system and it'll be very competitive to make the team next year."

The Red Raiders (9-11) wrapped up their season with a hard-fought 2-1 triumph over South Alliance opponent Dighton-Rehoboth last Friday.

North won the opener, 15-11, lost the second, 10-15, then rebounded to take the deciding third game, 15-6. Leading the way for NQ were senior Tommy Tan (12 service points) and sophomore Kin Yun (eight kills, three blocks).

Last Thursday, NQ won by forfeit over South Alliance foe Wareham.

In a 2-1 triumph over Cambridge Ringe & Latin last Wednesday, North was led by senior Rob McCaully, who collected eight kills and nine blocks, and the strong defensive play of senior captain James Cheung and Anthony Greenwood.

Again, North won the opener, 15-11, dropped the middle game, 9-15, then clinched the match with a 17-15 win in the third.

The Red Raiders' first match of the week resulted in a 2-0 victory over state tournament-bound Latin Academy. North won, 15-10, 15-3, behind the serving of senior Jackie Cheung (20 service points) and the play of junior Al King (eight kills).

Quincy winning the opener, 15-6, before losing the second, 6-15, and bouncing back to capture the third game, 15-5, to seal the win.

"We started out great, dominating the first game, then we totally collapsed in the second," said Barrett. "It was like a completely different team. Then in the third game, we came out on fire, going up 8-0, and played exceptionally well to close out the match."

Sparkling the Presidents' effort were junior Jason Goldrick (10 kills, six blocks, four digs), senior co-captain Jared Downey (20 assists, seven digs), junior Matt Nicklas (five kills, five digs), senior DeMing Guan (six digs) and junior Brian Chen, who Barrett cited for his strong overall play.

Effort Never Lacking, Says Presidents Coach

Following recent setbacks to North Quincy and Silver Lake, the Quincy High School baseball team wrapped up its 1998 season Tuesday against visiting Dennis-Yarmouth.

Despite the Presidents' lack of success in the win column, coach Bob Sylvia was impressed with the players' never-say-die attitude and consistent effort.

"I give credit to the kids; they really hung in there and battled all year," he said. "We didn't get any consistent breaks all year, but they kept their heads up and I'm proud of them. This type of season is going to come; you just hope it doesn't happen often."

"Hopefully, this situation created a kindling in the young kids that it may take more effort on their part to succeed on a consistent basis. You have to put in the time before the season starts, because it's such a quick season that if you get in a hole, there's not much time to dig yourself out."

Reflecting on the season, Sylvia felt the Presidents (1-14 Old Colony League, 1-16 overall) could have made some noise in the OCL, which was not quite as strong as in years past.

BASEBALL

"If we had done better, we'd be in the thick of it, because the OCL was anybody's to win," he said. "Unfortunately, we weren't able to string some wins together and teams like North and Falmouth did."

In recent action, Quincy lost North Quincy, 3-0, despite a good outing on the mound by Ploof, who allowed a run in the second inning and two more in the third before settling down. Ploof's counterpart, NQ's Kevin Walsh, scattered four hits in the shutout win.

"Ryan did a real good job; we just didn't get him any runs," said Sylvia. "He had a little trouble early, but gave all he had against a good North team that's headed for the tournament."

"The game was indicative of our season: this time, we got pitching but not much hitting. Other times, we'll put some hits together, but the pitching isn't there."

Last Wednesday, the Presidents fell to OCL host Silver Lake, 5-3. It marked Quincy's fifth setback by two or fewer runs.

As the season winds down, Sylvia extended his gratitude to his assistant coaches Mike Draichio and Larry Taglieri, longtime statistician George Peechy, and volunteer assistant Eric Buckley.

"Eric did an outstanding job with the kids, along with Mike and Larry," he said. "The coaches put a lot of work in and I appreciate their efforts."

NQ Stuns Silver Lake, Sweeps Rival Quincy To Reach Postseason, Raiders Must Win Out

SOFTBALL

Heading into the final week of the season, the North Quincy High School softball team must win its final three games to qualify for the state tournament.

The Red Raiders (7-10) played a makeup game yesterday (Wednesday) at 3:30 p.m. against visiting Plymouth South. Today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. in another makeup, North hosts Falmouth. North also is slated to play Braintree, but the date for that makeup game had not been announced as of press time.

In recent action, North captured its sixth straight Mary. Eratt City Championship, defeating rival Quincy, 15-3, last Thursday at McCoy Field.

NQ coach Bob Doyle said the team dedicated the victory to senior Kristy "Deputy Dog" Deputala, who was injured the day before in a game against Bridgewater-Raynham.

"She's the heart and soul of this team," said Doyle. "She was our starting pitcher for two years and this one's for her. When she got hurt, it kind of demoralized our spirits, but she was here for this game, cheering the team on and giving Renee some advice. That's the type of dedicated team player she is."

In Deputala's place, Renee Gillan stepped in and picked up the victory, allowing four hits while striking out eight.

Quincy jumped out to a 2-0 lead after one inning, as Caitlyn Nichol singled and later scored on a wild pitch and Colleen Nichol scored when Andrea Verlicco was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded.

In the third, North threatened to get on the board when Rachael Powers tripled with one out. The next batter, Kristen Bowes flied to left and Powers tagged up and headed for home, but Quincy left fielder Aimee Groleau made a perfect throw to catcher Colleen Nichol, who applied the tag to end the inning.

Quincy added to its lead in the third when Colleen Nichol doubled to drive in Caitlyn Nichol.

After getting baserunners on in each of the first four innings but coming up empty, North erupted for nine runs in the fifth to take a 9-3 lead. Danielle Likas drove in Maura O'Brien with a double, then scored when Rachael Bonanni reached on an error. Powers (two hits) doubled in Bonanni and scored when Bowes singled to put NQ ahead, 4-3.

The inning's big hit came off the bat of Jessica Lorman (two hits, four RBI), who belted a three-run triple.

In the sixth, North picked right up where it left off, scoring six more runs. Bowes (two hits) ignited the rally with an infield single and scored on a single by Kerry Skehan (two hits). Laurie Flynn (3 for 3), who singled, then scored on a hit by Kristen Keohane. An error led to another run, before Powers drew a walk with the bases loaded and two more runs scored on a wild pitch and an error.

Among the players Doyle cited for their play was Skehan, saying "we have no captains per se, but she leaves it all on the field and comes ready to play every day. She's an inspirational player who has done a great job for the team."

Last Wednesday, North lost to host Bridgewater-Raynham.

The previous day, Deputala and North pulled off an upset of tournament-bound Silver Lake, edging the visiting Lakers, 3-2. Deputala went the distance and helped her own cause with two hits and two RBI. Skehan collected two hits and an RBI and Powers added two hits.

Presidents Preparing For Tourney Opener

A victory over Duffee capped a memorable regular season for the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team, which is currently preparing for the upcoming state tournament.

Tournament seeding was held yesterday (Wednesday), with preliminary round action set to begin Friday and continue through next Wednesday, June 3. The quarterfinals will be played June 4-8, followed by the semifinals on June 10 and the finals on June 12.

The Presidents, who enter the postseason with a 12-6 record and a second-place finish in the South Alliance, are focusing on tuning up their play and working on their conditioning in practice.

"In the tournament, it's the best three out of five, not two of three, so we have to be ready to play five games," said Quincy coach Christine Barrett. "We are in good shape, so that is one advantage we have. I'll get them ready as best I can, and hopefully we can achieve our goal of getting past the first round."

Last Thursday's 2-1 triumph over non-league opponent Duffee was a back-and-forth affair, with host

State Meet Next For North Girls'

Eighteen athletes from North Quincy High School's girls' spring track team will compete in Saturday's Class A State Meet at Plymouth South High School.

North's competitors and their events are: Nicole Bertone (discus, javelin), Sarah Beston (long jump), Kellee Conley (800m, 4x400 relay), Lisa DellaCroce (shotput), Jasmine Gonzalez (400m, 4x400 relay), Maureen Holleran (javelin, 4x100 relay), Sarah Houghton (4x800 relay), Kim Huerth (4x100 relay), Kellie Johnston (200m, 4x400 relay), Colleen Lahar (4x100 relay), Sharon Lee (4x100 relay), Ashley Murphy (javelin), Linda Nguyen (4x800 relay), Genevieve O'Brien (4x800 relay), KellyRose O'Brien (4x400 relay), Claire Quilty (shotput, discus), Ellen Tang (discus) and Lynda

Wilson (two-mile run, 4x800 relay).

At the Old Colony League Championships last Tuesday at Plymouth South, North Quincy finished sixth with 52 points. Three North athletes finished first: Beston (longjump, 16'3"), Wilson (two-mile, 12:05.1) and Gonzalez (400m, 60.5).

Beston's longjump was a personal best and she was the only OCL athlete to jump 16' this year. Wilson's time in the two-mile was her fastest outdoors and Gonzalez' win in the 400 was her second in three years.

Other NQ scorers were Johnston (sixth in 200 at 28.1), DellaCroce (sixth in shotput at 29'0"), Holleran (third in javelin at 92'10"), Bertone (fourth in javelin at 92'5") and Murphy (fifth in javelin at 92'4"). Murphy improved 8' in the javelin and qualified for the states.

Jaehnig Club Wins Four Straight; Keohane's, Colonial Also Triumph

The Jaehnig Chiropractic team has played excellent baseball of late, recording four victories in a row in Quincy Junior League play.

Patrick Maxey fanned 12 and yielded just 2 hits in a 5-0 shutout over Rotary. Mark Tobin (2 triples), David Jaehnig (single, triple, 2 runs) and Kyle Carmody (RBI double) provided the offensive firepower. Rotary pitcher Stephen Reardon had 12 strikeouts of his own and James Spellman hit the ball hard three times.

In a back-and-forth affair, the Chiropractic Club scored three runs in the final inning to upend Keohane's, 7-6. Steven Kelly was the hero, smacking a two-out, two-strike base hit to tie the game. Tobin and Chris Marinelli each had 2 hits. Jaehnig picked up the win with 2 innings of relief.

For Keohane's, Brendan McDonald fanned 14 and collected 2 hits, while Dom Delgado (3 for 3) and Mike Tetreault (two hits) shined offensively.

Ten-year-old Mo Al-Khatib blasted 2 hits, including a home run, to lead Jaehnig over Colonial Federal, 10-7. Carmody was 3 for 3 with a home run and 2 RBI, while Tobin had 3 hits and 3 RBI. Matt Tobin collected his first Junior League hit.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

On the mound, Maxey struck out 8 in five innings before Jaehnig came on to fan the last two batters for the save. Robbie Dolbec and John Fitzgerald continued their solid defensive play.

Colonial rallied for seven runs in the last two innings, paced by Nick Malvesti (2 hits, including a triple) and Chris Traetti (2 hits).

Mike O'Mahoney and Kevin Donovan were awarded game balls for their roles in a 7-4 Jaehnig Club win over Burgin Platter. O'Mahoney made two excellent catches while Donovan got his first hit, scored a run and drove in another with a squeeze bunt. Maxey had 2 hits and notched his third win, striking out 11. Jaehnig (2 hits) put out the fire again by striking out the last two batters with the bases loaded. Fitzgerald and Steve Kelley each had 2 hits, Marinelli had a two-run double and Al-Khatib belted a double.

Jim Burke paced BP with 2 hits and solid play at third base.

The Jaehnig Club found itself on the losing end of a 7-2 score to Beacon and powerful pitcher Dean Sandomato. Brian Donovan and Ben Kelleher hit safely for Jaehnig, while catcher Matt Tobin received the game ball for two outstanding defensive plays.

In other recent action, Keohane's rallied to defeat the Lions, 9-7, on Mike Tetreault's three-run home run in the bottom of the sixth, capping a five-run inning.

Brendan McDonald, who struck out 6 in two and a third innings, helped himself with 3 hits, including a homer, and drove in another with a squeeze bunt. Maxey had 2 hits and notched his third win, striking out 11. Jaehnig (2 hits) put out the fire again by striking out the last two batters with the bases loaded. Fitzgerald and Steve Kelley each had 2 hits. Losing pitcher Steve Loud tossed a strong game, striking out 8 and collected

2 hits. Matt Germain added two hits and Ledger belted a home run and had two RBI.

In earlier action, Keohane's edged Beacon, 2-0, sparked by winning pitcher Dominic Delgado (3 innings, 3 strikeouts) and reliever Brendan McDonald, who struck out 6 and earned the save. McDonald was the offensive star with 3 hits, including 2 triples, and 2 RBI. Steve Hettman (3 hits, 2 runs) and Mike Dunbar (2 hits) also contributed.

Matt Grazioso fanned 9 in for Beacon, which collected just two hits of Keohane's pitchers.

Colonial Federal picked up back-to-back wins. In a 9-5 victory over Burke, Steve Hawko and Chris Traetti (single, double, triple) led the way. Ed DeWitt belted a two-run single and Ray Marchand had a strong game with 2 singles. For Burke, Bill Cosgrove had 2 doubles.

Earlier in the week, Colonial upended Kiwanis, 9-6, behind the pitching of Sean Richardson. Dave Djerf hit a two-run double and Nick Malvesti collected 3 RBI. Jeff Green and Nick Manning both had big hits.

CNA Insurance, Quincy PAL Both Pick Up Two Victories

CNA Insurance and Quincy PAL each picked up two victories in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A action.

In a 14-2 victory over Yellow Cab, CNA broke open a close game with a 10-run second inning. Rob Richards pitched a strong game for CNA, striking out 10. Mike Merlis and Dennis Conway each belted a triple. Kellan Losi had a hit and Johnathan O'Connor played well behind the plate.

Also for CNA, Chris Garvey, Brian Cunningham, Matt Boyle, Chris Perkins, Justin Petkus, Tyler Lagrotteria and Harman Losi turned in solid efforts defensively and on the base paths.

A four-run first and a five-run second sparked CNA to a 10-2 triumph over Consumer Home. O'Connor earned the win on the mound, recording 12 strikeouts and helped his own cause by hitting for the cycle.

CNA's Lagrotteria did a great job catching and contributed with a hit. Richards led off the game with a triple and a home run. Jason Purves (two hits) got the PAL offense going with a bases-clearing triple.

Trailing Flavin & Flavin 10-0 after two innings, PAL rallied with four big innings en route to a 24-13 victory. The winners' offense was sparked by Domenic Poli (five hits) in the third when he lined a two-run single to get PAL on the board. Other big contributions were made by Villanueva (two home runs), Nicole Murray (three hits) and Mike Lally (three hits), who pitched all six innings, striking out nine to get the win.

In other recent action, Quincy PAL, behind the 15-strikeout effort of pitcher Peter Villanueva, defeated Consumer Home, 16-8. Villanueva helped his own cause with two doubles, a triple and a home run. Jason Purves (two hits) got the PAL offense going with a bases-clearing triple.

Trailing Flavin & Flavin 10-0 after two innings, PAL rallied with four big innings en route to a 24-13 victory. Fourth-Inning Outburst

An 11-run fourth inning propelled Mansfield CPA to a 22-19 victory over South Shore Buick in recent Quincy Youth Girls Softball action.

Winning pitcher Kristin Nogler recorded six strikeouts. Supporting Nogler offensively were Danielle Rogers (4 for 4, two doubles), Cassie Herd (3 for 4, walk), Julia McGunigle (double, triple), Meghan Holt (triple). Pam Jacobs and Lisa DellaCroce showed aggressive base running after reaching base. Defensive standouts were Rogers (third base) and McGunigle (shortstop).

Buick led 4-2 after one

A Thought For The Week

SCOTT DEWARE We are all fortified by traditions. They play an important part in our lives. Traditions provide patterns on which we can depend and they give us security, a sense of belonging. But sometimes when traditions are followed too rigidly they can be a block in the path of new progress... a block to new learning. True, we owe it to ourselves not to be so conditioned that we become stagnant...

How many of us ride the fence, walk the middle of the road, to keep from betraying a tradition that says we should do a certain thing - believe a certain thing - think a certain thought? To break out of the set molds in which we have been hand-pressed can be difficult for there are many invisible hands still pressing. But isn't the freedom and joy of being a new person worth all the effort?...

State Reps. Stephen Tobin, Ronald Mariano and Michael Bellotti and Quincy Cultural Council Chairman Arthur Keough announce the award of 47 grants totaling $44,830 for cultural programs in Quincy.

The grants were awarded for a pool of funds distributed to Quincy by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency that supports public programs and educational activities in the Arts, Sciences, and Humanities.

The Quincy Cultural Council is part of a grassroots network of 336 local councils that serve every city and town in the state. The program is the largest, most decentralized one of its kind in the United States. The state legislature provides an annual appropriation to the Massachusetts Cultural Council, which then allocates funds to each local council.

"The decisions about which activities to support are made at the community level, by a board of municipally-appointed volunteers, they make limited resources go as far as possible, and they make the tough decisions about which projects should be supported," said Bellotti.

"Thanks to these volunteers, the Arts, Sciences, and Humanities are part of everyday lives in every community across the state," said Mariano.

Statewide more than $4 million will be distributed by local cultural councils in 1998—almost 7,000 grants in all. Grants will support an enormous range of grassroots activities: field trips for schoolchildren, after-school programs, First Night celebrations, concerts, exhibitions and broadcasts. From the total distribution, almost $3 million will support educational activities for schoolchildren. Of this, more than $600,000 will go out through the PASS Program, which provides subsidies for young people to attend cultural events.

"My sincere gratitude goes out to the residents of Quincy who generously volunteer their time on the local council in order to make quality cultural programs available in the city of Quincy. It's the volunteers who really make this system work," said Tobin.

Some Quincy groups received more than one grant. Recipients and the totals they received:

Atlantic Middle School, $400; Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, $400; Charles A. Bernazzani School, $400; Broad Meadows Middle School, $400; Central Middle School, $400; Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, $1,230; Children's Theatre Workshop Inc., $300; Thomas Crane Public Library, $3,800; First Night Quincy, $1,000; Ruth Harcovitz, $750; Atherton Hough School, $200.

Andrew Knight, $1,000; Lincoln-Hancock Community School, $400; Robyn Su Miller, $800; Monclair School, $200; Music Serving the Elderly (MUSE) Inc., $1,000; North Quincy Alumni Theatre, $800; Francis W. Parker School, $400; Quincy Art Association, $3,500; Quincy Choral Society, $3,500; Quincy High School, $400; Quincy Historical Society, $5,500.

Quincy Public Schools Arts Council, $10,000;

Quincy South Shore Cultural Commission, $1,500; Quincy Symphony Orchestra Inc., $4,000; Joan Robb, $250; Sacred Heart School, $300; St. Ann's School, $400; St. Mary's School, $400; South Shore Art Center, $100; Squantum School, $400; Wollaston Glee Club of Quincy Inc., $500; Wollaston School, $400.

Bellotti Co-Sponsoring

State Rep. Michael Bellotti is co-sponsoring legislation that would allow family members and other victims to sue a drug dealer who has supplied their loved ones with "controlled dangerous substances."

The bill, titled "An Act Providing for the Civil Liability of Drug Dealers," is modeled after a California law passed with the support of actor Carroll O'Connor following the suicide of his drug addicted son Hugh in 1995.

"If potential drug dealers know they can be sued for selling drugs, they may think twice before going into the drug business," Bellotti said. "This is one more deterrence against selling drugs."

The legislation, whose main sponsors are Rep. John Rogers (D-Norwood) and Rep. John Binienda (D-Worcester), allows a parent, legal guardian, child, spouse or sibling of a controlled substance abuser, as well as the user's employee and insurer, to file a civil suit to recover economic, non-economic and punitive damages from a person "who knowingly participates in the illegal marketing of controlled substances."

Those damages could include monetary compensation for the cost of the user's treatment and rehabilitation, the loss of economic or educational potential, accidents or injury caused by the drug use, physical and emotional distress suffered as a result of the drug use and loss of companionship.

In addition, employers, insurers and facilities that provided or funded treatment programs for the user could sue to recover the money that they expended on behalf of the user's treatment.

O'Connor, best known for his portrayal of Archie Bunker in "All in the Family," recently came to New England to campaign for the bill.

"There's nothing more poisoned than these drugs," O'Connor said in a published report. "They're killing people. Are we as a country going to let these people rip the fabric of American society apart?"

The bill requires the victims to prove by clear and convincing evidence that the dealer knowingly participated in the illegal marketing of controlled substances and caused damages as a result of that participation.

Anti-Drug Legislation

Your Social Security

Social Security As A Safety Net

By LAURIE ZASTROW

The Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program provides financial assistance to people who are age 65 or older, or blind or disabled and who have limited income and resources. Many people who are eligible may not apply because they feel they are not destitute. However, the program is designed to help prevent destitution.

For this reason, SSI does not count things you own that you need for basic living, like a home and a car of reasonable value, or a burial policy. The assets we do count cannot exceed $2,000 for a single person or $3,000 for a couple.

Likewise, not all of your income is counted. Under SSI, income includes money coming in such as wages, net earnings from self-employment, Social Security checks and pensions. Non-cash items you receive such as food, clothing or shelter also count as income. We exclude a portion of your earned and unearned income. In fact, if all your income is from earnings, you can earn as much as $1,073 in 1998 before your SSI payment would be reduced to zero.

There are additional exclusions for disabled and blind individuals that help make it possible for them to work and still remain eligible for SSI. For example, we do not count earnings needed to pay expenses necessary for a blind individual to work. We also exclude income from a disabled individual's earnings needed to pay for certain expenses related to his/her disability and work.

Another provision allows disabled students under age 22 who live at home to have some of their earnings excluded. Finally, the Plan for Achieving Self-Support (PASS) program allows a disabled individual to submit a plan to us that defines his occupational goal, with an outline of how he plans to achieve it. If we approve the plan, we will not count income and things he owns that are necessary to achieve his goal in determining his eligibility or amount of his check.

SSI recipients are usually eligible for Medicaid coverage, food stamps and certain other services through the state, city or county in which they live. Certain states supplement the SSI check. People who live in those states may qualify for SSI with more income.

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

- ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Concentrate on improving income early in the week. Don't allow someone to talk you into unnecessary purchases. A travel plan or a legal matter needs further thought before taking action.
- TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You're excited about the this week's chances for success on the job and have a right to be. Do be careful, though, and don't be brusque with a friend whose prospects are not as bright. Be considerate of this person's feelings.
- GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Be the first to make up if you hurt someone's feelings. You're an independent soul, but you work best in partnership. Accent cooperation over the weekend.
- CANCER (June 21 to July 22) There are those who exaggerate and those who prevaricate. In either case, take what you hear with a grain of salt. Some signals could be crossed this weekend.
- LEO (July 23 to August 22) Responsibilities at home base are easily dealt with. You could make major purchases while out shopping. Banking, estate matters, insurance and mortgages come under scrutiny later in the week.
- VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Efforts to raise extra capital probably won't meet with luck. Although a domestic matter needs further thought, you will still enjoy entertaining others. You're quite the social butterfly during the weekend.
- LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is a time when shoppers could make a mistake in judgment. If someone seems too slick in business, seek advice. Guard against being extravagant.
- SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Judgment could be off with shopping and finances. An argument with a loved one could leave you frustrated, but wonderful chances for fun and romance occur over the weekend. You can patch things up.
- SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Indecision could make you too willing to take advice. Things aren't yet clear, so wait a bit longer for your inner voice to tell you what to do. Inspiration strikes during weekend meditating.
- CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Self-discipline gets you started, but when imagination takes over, you really make headway with creative work. Travel plans shape up nicely for you. However, look for bargains in this regard.
- AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It seems someone is trying to pressure you into making a business or financial decision. Watch spending. Accent moderation in social life if out and about this week.
- PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's a good time for creative work and getting your ideas across to others. There are still some things left hanging in business, however. Tend to those as soon as possible.

Eastern Bank Appoints South Shore Management Team

Eastern Bank Corp. has appointed its new South Shore senior management team.

Eastern recently expanded its banking network to the South Shore with the acquisition of Emerald Isle Bankcorp. Inc., and its subsidiary Hibernia Savings Bank.

Included in the South Shore senior management team are Mark Primeau, executive vice president of consumer banking; Joanne Sheridan, senior vice president of trust and private banking; and Bruce Haas, senior vice president of commercial banking. All three will be located at the bank's office at 730 Hancock St. in Wollaston, which will serve as Eastern's South Shore headquarters.

Eastern also currently has senior offices located in Lynn, Salem, Malden and Boston.

"Over the next several years, we are committed to building a franchise on the South Shore in the same successful manner we have on the North Shore," said Primeau. "Having a seasoned, senior team positioned in Quincy will bring the management depth and expertise necessary to build a successful banking business in our new marketplace."

MARK PRIMEAU

Primeau is executive vice president of Eastern's Consumer Banking Division. He will continue to be responsible for several lines of business including retail banking, consumer lending, mortgage banking, and marketing. He joined Eastern Bank in 1988.

Sheridan is senior vice president of the bank's Trust, Private Banking and Investment Management Division. She is head of the bank's Private Client Group, and is responsible for the Trust and Investment Management activities throughout Greater Boston. Sheridan holds a master of science degree from Boston University.

Haas is senior vice president of Eastern's Commercial Banking Division and is responsible for the bank's regional business lending activities. He joined Eastern Bank in 1991 and holds an MBA from Boston College.

The Truth about drugs

Volume 1 Issue 1

Parent Alert! Clubs, Drugs and the "Rave" Scene

What You Need to Know

The scene is all too familiar: a few kids are dancing the night away—there is nothing wrong with that—then a few start to feel just a bit dizzy. They think they are just overheating. Then one passes out. Then another starts to convulse. They are rushed to the hospital and undergo emergency treatment. These are not the first young people to arrive in the emergency room this night.

At another public dance party being thrown by some young entrepreneur, hundreds are given little test tubes that say, "Drink this if you are unafraid." They're kids. They know how to take a dare so many drink the contents. Dozens get sick and some go unconscious. This time at the hospital, emergency staff desperately try to figure out what the mysterious drug is. They never fully figure it out.

Worse yet is this scenario: Another party. Some men dose the drinks of two young women with a powder. The women become disoriented and fall into a stupor. They are whisked away and sexually molested. One of them dies. The other survives, only to tell the police that she has no memory of what had happened. The police have seen this before. They know what happened.

Promoted in pro-drug publications, such as High Times, as safe and natural, or generically herbal, what these headline-making new drugs do is produce stupors, drug euphoria, and mental blackouts, sometimes with sinister consequences as stated above.

They are called "designer drugs." They are slightly modified copies (or analogues) of existing, usually illegal drugs. The first historical drug analogue was developed by a German pharmacist when he derived morphine from raw opium. Later another European "designed" codeine. Even later, another distilled heroin. All the amphetamine drugs were designed in laboratory experiments.

Morphine, codeine, heroin and the amphetamines all began their existence as legal, medicinal drugs. At the turn of the century, heroin was being billed as the "wonder drug" of

Our Kids Need Our Help

*A Message from Bob Wiggins, Narconon Boston's
Senior Drug Prevention Specialist*

I lost five very close friends to drugs as well as a family member. By the age of twenty-seven, I was very close to death from drug abuse myself. It was in 1977 that I sought help from the Narconon program, and with a lot of hard work I came off drugs. In 1984 I realized that drugs had become a problem of such major proportions that I needed to do as much as I could to curb this problem, or we were headed for disaster. I began speaking to children that year and have since reached over 475,000 students in over 700 schools.

Our kids are educated to take drugs from the age of seven through media that glamorizes alcohol, cigarettes, marijuana and other drugs. What parents have to understand is that their kids are being "educated" to use drugs to feel good, to solve problems, to live the good life by the most brilliant marketing minds in the world.

My message is a simple one: OUR KIDS NEED OUR HELP.

I have two sons, seven and eight years old, and believe me, this message comes from the heart. I will work till my last breath to help these kids because they all need our help. In this way we can create a different future, where our children grow up to be drug-free.

the day. A few years later hundreds of thousands of American women had become addicted, having started using it only to lessen menstrual cramps. Others fell beyond addiction and died. Only then were these drugs restricted or outlawed, the damage already done.

What parents across the United States (and unfortunately the world) must realize is that this is not just an historical phenomenon. Today's children are not living in a world where all the "bad" drugs are illegal and all the "good" drugs are legal. It is more complex than that.

Every event mentioned in the first paragraphs are the result of recently created designer drugs. Some are overtly malicious; others are promoted as "recreational." All are damaging.

Ecstasy: Originally synthesized from nutmeg, a chemical known as MDMA has become the world's most popular hallucinogenic stimulant. Some varieties called "Herbal Ecstasy" are currently sold legally in drug paraphernalia shops. All varieties (herbal or otherwise) contain a plant extract called "ephedra" or variants of it. This substance is used in decongestants or diuretics, but can have serious medical and physical side effects—ephedra also causes the specific effect of an artificial euphoria. And it has shown itself to be addictive. The come-down from it, if one has been using a lot, is very unpleasant, like coming off speed. Eventually, all the variants of Ecstasy will probably be banned. Meanwhile, some people are making millions getting their children stoned on it.

GHB: Now called the "date rape" drug, GHB produces a hypnotic or semi-conscious state in which one cannot think rationally and so can be taken advantage of. Under many street names, such as "cherry meth," "liquid X," or "scoop," it can be dissolved in a liquid without affecting taste. It first produces giddiness and euphoria, then lethargy and drowsiness, finally blackouts. It can kill.

Rohypnol: Also tasteless, colorless and odorless, this restricted drug is under the same general class of tranquilizers as Xanax, Valium and Halcion. Manufactured by Hoffmann-La Roche, it is called "roofies" or "roches" by college students and others. Rohypnol produces all the effects of GHB and one worse: acute, deep loss of memory—thus prosecution involving abuse of this drug is difficult to carry through. It is available on many college campuses and elsewhere at about $1 to $2 a pill. Congress recently passed a bill making it felonious to possess Rohypnol "with intent to commit a crime." But it is still available on campuses.

Ketamine: Also called "Special K" among other names, Ketamine was first developed in the 1960s as a fast-acting anesthetic for humans. But like its cousin, PCP, it wound up being legal only for veterinary use. Persons who abuse Ketamine call its experience "going into the K Hole." This is a state in which one loses all motor functions of the body while experiencing compulsive dream-like hallucinations. Timothy Leary, the godfather of LSD, promoted Ketamine towards the end of his life.

Opiate Designer Drugs—Fentanyl, etc. Fentanyl is a narcotic painkiller used in as many as 70% of U.S. surgeries now, and it has many analogues, some of which are up to 6,000 times stronger than heroin. Like opiates, these are addictive and subject to abuse. Because of these drugs' ferocious potency, they have caused hundreds of fatalities. With the rising popularity of heroin among young people—it is considered a recreational drug now—cheap and toxic opiate variants pose a very dangerous threat.

The point is that parents and responsible citizens must keep alert. New drugs continue to be manufactured in ever new forms, and the names change regularly. Whether legally restricted or not, whether promoted as herbal or natural or legal or not, the truth is that substances that produce mind-altering, stimulant, pain-killing, doping or other such effects are DRUGS OF ABUSE. You must keep yourself informed.

Narconon staff hear the same thing coming from misinformed young people: "We know about drugs now. We won't make the same mistakes the last generation did. We know how to be careful using drugs." And the number of deaths in the emergency room from drug overdose escalates in nearly every country across the planet.

This is not just theory. The recent "Monitoring the Future Study" conducted on 50,000 youth across the country by the University of Michigan found that 37% of eighth graders found there to be no "great risk" in taking LSD once or twice or in trying crack! The number thinking that there is no great risk, in "having five or more drinks in a row once or twice a weekend" (meaning getting completely drunk) is 52%. Here's what is frightening: twelfth graders respond the same way at approximately the same percentages. Now can you see why effective drug education is important and why Narconon gives it so much attention?

Facts about "Rave" Dances

Probably every young generation has loved to dance till dawn. Nowadays, they're called "rave dances." It is a phenomenon that spans all national borders and languages. Young people can find out about the hottest new venue on the Internet, through advertised phone numbers, word-of-mouth, etc. Some entrepreneurs create moveable venues, putting on major dances in different locations every weekend.

Why different locations? Because rave dances are the accepted and best known drug distribution sites. Ask any narcotics officer of any modern city. It's not that dancing is bad. But with the ready availability of the drugs described on this page, along with already feared illicit drugs: crack, speed and heroin, not to mention alcohol abuse, the "rave scene" could become a raving nightmare.

A rave magazine recently conducted its own informal survey of the state of mind of its twenty to twenty-one year old international readership (60% enrolled in schools). Here are some of the results of how our young people are describing themselves:

- My reason for going out: To dance (88%). Drugs (31%).
- Feel informed about drugs through self-education or experience: 60%.
- State that they are not sober (that they ARE using drugs): 70%.
- Preference of drugs (in order): Marijuana, LSD, Ecstasy, Mushrooms, Nitrous Oxide (laughing gas), Speed, Cocaine, Alcohol.
- How would they describe their own generation? Violent (51%). Money-oriented (48%). Ignorant of history (42%). Addicted to TV (37%). No sense of unity (32%). Aimless (28%). Goal-oriented (22%). "Turn on, tune in, drop out" (17%). Politically aware (11%).

The True Story of Narconon

by Clark Carr
President Narconon International

From its inception, the Narconon® program has been based on key principles developed by philosopher and humanitarian L. Ron Hubbard. Mr. Hubbard is renowned as the founder of a 20th century religion, but from his very earliest days he made a special effort to make the fruits of his research available for use in helping to solve the world's social problems, such as illiteracy, drug abuse and crime.

Narconon, meaning "drugs no," was founded in 1966 by an Arizona State Prison inmate who read a book by Mr. Hubbard — Fundamentals of Thought — which he'd found in the prison library. William Benitez was an unlikely hero. This was his sixth incarceration, thanks to a heroin addiction that had plagued him from age thirteen. Having failed at virtually every rehabilitation method known at the time, he had not given up on himself. He kept looking for the "right tools" to get the job done.

Benitez saw in Mr. Hubbard's works that the keynote of true rehabilitation lies not in concentrating on one's disability, but rather in increasing one's ability to rise above personal difficulties, to learn how better to solve life's problems. The Narconon program is composed of the tools developed to do that. It soon expanded outside of prison to become a network of residential centers.

Incorporated as an independent non-profit public benefit organization, Narconon received Mr. Hubbard's permission to use his drug rehabilitation research. Narconon now has over forty centers doing drug rehabilitation and prevention work in eighteen countries.

For responsible citizens the bottom line of drug rehabilitation is contained in one challenging question: Is it really possible to get a long-term, lifelong result on a broad scale with hard core and other substance abusers?

Unfortunately, many noble attempts at rehabilitation fail. If we see many persons reverting to drugs and crime time after time, doesn't that mean that the prevailing theory must be true — "Once an addict, always an addict?" Not necessarily.

The Narconon® program is composed of tools developed to increase one's ability to rise above personal difficulties.

It is time for a second opinion.

The test of any method is in the statistical results it can produce with predictability. Narconon does not retreat from this challenge. It expects every person, no matter the severity of his earlier experiences, to achieve a stably drug-free, ethical life, one for one. And with Narconon, he or she does.

Independent studies done in both Sweden and Spain show that better than 75% of those who completed the Narconon program were still drug-free two years later.

A hard-won result when the all too common tale of drug rehabilitation programs is rapid reversion to drugs.

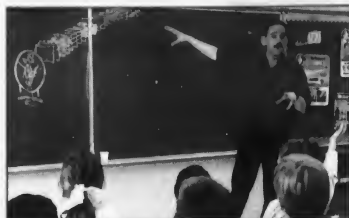

The most stringent accreditation criteria have been applied by the nationally recognized Commission for the Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF) to Narconon's premier treatment facility, the Narconon Chillicothe New Life Center, located in Oklahoma. The Narconon program and its methodology passed with flying colors.

In the words of a graduate of the Narconon program, Kelly Piper, a former 15-year heroin and crack user, "I tried five other programs before I came to Narconon and none of them addressed my physical cravings or why I took to drugs in the first place. Narconon helped me to not only overcome, for good, the desire to do drugs, but put me back in control."

The other important aspect of Narconon's social focus is drug education. Narconon has given a great deal of attention and effort to combating drug abuse through public-education lectures that impart the truth about drugs and promote the benefits of drug-free living. When becoming involved with drugs, most children, teenagers and even adults have no real awareness of what they're getting into or what changes they will face. If they did, they wouldn't start.

Unlike many other lecturers, Narconon representatives do not use the "scare tactics" approach. Experience has shown statistically that this is unwelcome. Narconon's series of talks, called, appropriately, The Truth About Drugs, contain hard data about what alcohol and other drugs are and do to a person, his mind, body, family and society.

We believe that our embattled societies need Narconon drug rehabilitation and education services. We are proud to make them available to the people of Boston and look forward to many more years of service to the community.

Bob Wiggins lecturing to an elementary school.

drug education methods; development of communication, presentation and tutoring skills; and the peer leader's practical application of these skills toward preventing drug use amongst his peers or younger students. What this means is that these young people don't just learn about drugs, but also about how to present their ideas effectively, individually, one-to-one, and to groups. They also learn how to tutor students having difficulty studying or understanding their messages.

Many of these peer leader students thus go on to present drug education talks to children in elementary and middle schools. Narconon considers this work to be particularly significant to its goal of teaching young people to think for themselves and to "stay smart" despite years of persuasion to use drugs.

Here are some student comments about peer leader training:

- "I can think of several instances where I could have helped people this summer if I knew what I know now, and I'm sure by knowing people better I can help people more in the future."
- "Speaking in public is not easy, but you taught us how to make it easier. Also, you were very knowledgeable about marketing and its effects on children in our society."
- "I think I'll be more aware of advertisements now!"

Training seminars have also been delivered to parents, police organizations and business groups. Drug education does not apply just to children. Adults, professionals and businesspersons need to keep informed on drugs and drug abuse, how to recognize symptoms of abuse, how to deal with it in a humane but effective manner. Most parents would usually admit that they could always improve their ability to communicate with their children, and Narconon considers this one of its most important targets: helping parents do a better job in their own homes to set the proper example and to stay in truly good communication with their children, despite the moral challenges and media distractions of modern life. Recent programs for these groups have produced responses such as these:

- "I especially appreciated the prevention and intervention techniques, especially the info about what drugs take from an individual's body."
- "I'm leaving with a sense of excitement because I have different techniques and info, like destroying the good/bad classification of drugs."
- Many New England corporations and foundations continue to support Narconon's regional effort, as stated for example in this letter:
- "We appreciate the record of last year's grant, and it was most gratifying to read the letters from various schools. Mr. Wiggins' presentations must be quite effective. We congratulate him and you on the work you are doing. It is with pleasure that we honor your request for five thousand dollars."

This coming summer Narconon Boston will team up with the World Literacy Crusade for a specialized training program for inner city teens that consists of basic, fundamental activities that young people can use to address illiteracy, drug abuse and crime in their neighborhoods. The youth leaders participating in the program will receive training in the key skills they can easily apply to tutoring, drug education, mediation and violence prevention.

Narconon Boston: On the Forefront of Drug Education

Changing the attitude of our children

In its continuing work to keep New England youth from using alcohol, tobacco and other drugs, Narconon Boston, based in Everett, Massachusetts, gave "Truth About Drugs" presentations to over 23,000 school children, in just the last few months. Hundreds of schools and youth groups throughout New England participated. The response to our program this year has been very positive, with student comments such as "I know I'll never use drugs again after hearing this talk" being routine and welcome. Here are a few samples of student responses to the post-lecture survey question, "Did your thoughts about drugs change after hearing the talk?":

- "Yes, especially about acid. I've never tried it before, and now I really don't want to."
- "Yes, because I have friends that smoke weed and all kinds of other drugs. They offered me some and I almost took it and now I know I'm not going to take it after this talk."

- "Yes, they sure have. The man said some things I have never heard in my entire life."
- "I think that if adults heard the talk, they would change their thoughts, too."

Teachers and school administrators have responded warmly to Narconon's approach, which does not employ "scare tactics." One said, "It was obvious from the hundreds of responses that the students did not turn him off as they so often do with adult speakers. We need organizations such as Narconon to tell the truth and to have this level of credibility among young people."

Another said: "I have been calling Narconon for speakers twice a year for ten years. Out of the twenty speakers the students hear in a semester they pick Bob Wiggins as one of the best. His message is low key but straight to the point."

In addition to the daily drug education presentations, delivered directly by Narconon drug prevention specialists, Narconon Boston trains hundreds of "peer leaders" each year. The training programs consist of successful

What Does an Independent Study Say about the Narconon Prevention Program?

An independent study done in the U.S. of the impact of the Narconon drug prevention program gave the following encouraging results:

86% who had indicated they might have used drugs in the future stated they no longer wanted to use drugs.

57% of those who earlier had been indifferent toward drug use now had a positive change of attitude.

42% who had previously supported drug use reported a positive change of attitude.

What Teachers and Educators Say

Through research, Narconon has developed a wonderful program. All of my students evaluated his presentations very highly. Many of them stated that they had learned more in his one-hour presentation than three years with other programs."

Health Educator

As Coordinator of Student Support Services it is one of my responsibilities to recruit speakers to come to our school to speak about problems confronting today's youth. Bob Wiggins of Narconon has been one of our most effective, entertaining and successful speakers."

Middle School Coordinator of Student Support Services

It is difficult to find good speakers about drugs. Speakers who relate well to kids and give a solid message about the dangers and risks. Bob Wiggins is one of the best at it."

Dean of Students

Our health program has had many speakers; Bob Wiggins has always been ranked as one of the best.

The students love his dynamic personality and the thoughtful anti-drug message he gives from the heart. Year after year, the students have been deterred from drug use because of the words from Bob Wiggins and the Narconon program. To us, Narconon's anti-drug program has proven positive results."

Mapping a Future Road

by L. Ron Hubbard

Happiness lies in engaging in worthwhile activities. But there is only one person who for certain can tell what will make one happy—one self.

One can feel at times like a spinning leaf blown along a dirty street, one can feel like a grain of sand stuck in one place. But nobody has said that life was a calm and orderly thing; it isn't. One isn't a tattered leaf nor a grain of sand; one can, to a greater or lesser degree, draw his road map and follow it.

One can feel that things are such now that it is much too late to do anything, that one's past road is so messed up that there is no chance of drawing a future road that will be any different: there is always a point on the road when one can map a new one. And try to follow it. There is no person alive who cannot make a new beginning.

It can be said without the slightest fear of contradiction that others may mock one and seek by various means to push one onto the verge, to tempt one in various ways to lead an immoral life: all such persons do so to accomplish private ends of their own and one will wind up, if one heeds them, in tragedy and sorrow.

If one keeps the edges on the road, one can't go far wrong. True excitement, happiness and joy come from other things, not from broken lives.

If you can get others to follow the road, you yourself will be free enough to give yourself a chance to discover what real happiness is.

The way to happiness is a high-speed road to those who know where the edges are.

You're the driver.

Exploring a Revolution in Drug Prevention and Treatment

Condemning drugs as the "single most destructive element present in our current culture," L. Ron Hubbard offered a solution to this social problem that has since proven workable many thousands of times over.

In the publication, L. Ron Hubbard—Rehabilitating a Drugged Society you can read about his exploration into the genesis of drug abuse. His revolutionary breakthroughs in effective drug rehabilitation methods are analyzed and commented upon by leading authorities.

In this, one in a series of specialized publications on various aspects of the life of L. Ron Hubbard, what leads people to begin taking drugs is explained, along with how the use of these substances interferes with communication skills, comprehension and ability—and how the body can be detoxified.

Narconon's Drug Education Video

Drug Education Series 1

Many, many parents have asked, "What do I say when my children ask me about drugs?" They want to know how to get the important truths about drugs across to their kids in a better way than "Just don't do it." Narconon has prepared an excellent twenty-eight minute video of Bob Wiggins talking to a group of young students that gets key data across and will start you off on the right track.

We had wanted to capture Mr. Wiggins in a real life situation, talking to children in his incomparable style. The video, entitled The Truth About Drugs: What is it?, captures the real responses of children to this data in a true-to-life situation. It communicates right through the screen.

City Could Get Second Cable Provider By Fall

Quincy could have a second cable television provider as soon as this fall.

According to a letter from Residential Communications Network Inc. (RCN) Vice President for Municipal Relations Thomas Steel Jr., the company—which has had months of unofficial discussions with the city—plans to file a formal license application next Monday.

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath said following Monday night's City Council meeting that if RCN does apply, a public hearing likely will be held next month. Negotiations between Mayor James Sheets and the Princeton, N.J. firm should then be completed by the end of the year, he said.

Although city officials are unsure how soon RCN could have its fiber-optic cable system in operation, the system would allow RCN to provide telephone and Internet service as well as cable television.

The city has a 10-year contract with MediaOne, the sole provider for Quincy's 28,000 cable subscribers. In February, however, the City Council authorized Sheets to make a deal with a competing service, hoping to keep rates down for subscribers.

Steel detailed RCN's planned application in a letter to Councillor Paul Harold, chairman of the council's Oversight Committee which discussed the matter Monday night. Steel did not attend the meeting, saying that would be premature before a public hearing is held.

Officials at MediaOne have said they would welcome the competition.

RCN operates cable systems in Boston and Somerville, recently signed franchise agreements with Brookline and Wakefield, and is seeking contracts in dozens of towns in the state, including Braintree and Weymouth.

Companies that serve the South Shore include MediaOne, Cablevision Industries, Adelphia and Time Warner.

Harold and other councillors have expressed interest in bringing a second cable provider to the city by the fall, saying the competition will benefit subscribers.

Walter McGrath, general manager of the Braintree Electric Light Department, told councillors such competition has benefited other communities.

"Do what you can to bring competition" he said.

He added that a second provider would not need to have even 50 percent of Quincy's subscribers to hold rates down.

Two months ago, 82 percent of Braintree voters supported a non-binding referendum for the light department to expand into the cable business. The town currently is served by Cablevision.

The Braintree Electric Light Department is studying whether to provide cable service directly through a $3 million fiber-optic network expected to be installed throughout the town by the end of 1998.

Walter McGrath told councillors the town is considering four possibilities: direct municipal service, a partnership with RCN, a partnership with Cablevision, or no change at all.

Shrewsbury currently is the only town in the state to operate its own cable television system, he said.

Council Votes $473,000 For Flood Relief

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Residents of the city's Hollis Avenue and Milton Road area should be receiving some relief from their flooding problems in the coming months.

The City Council unanimously appropriated just over $473,000 from Quincy's sewer rehabilitation fund Monday night to help residents in that neighborhood located near Wollaston Beach.

Department of Public Works Commissioner David

Colton said residents in the low-lying area have had to deal with the flooding for years. The city money will be added to $495,000 in Federal Emergency Management funds to build a pumping station and install additional sewers which should provide considerable relief, he said.

"It's an important project," said Colton.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers also urged his colleagues to support the project to the council vote.

Colton said a contractor has been hired and that the work could begin as soon as July 1 and be completed by the fall.

Raymondi Seeks Rezoning Of Presidents Plaza Parcel

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi is seeking to rezone the parcel on Quincy Avenue that includes the Bradlee's department store from Business "B" zoning to Planned Unit Development (PUD).

Raymondi noted at Monday night's City Council meeting that the property's owner, Presidents Plaza Limited Partnership, recently lost a major tenant at the site, Walgreen's Pharmacy. He said he wants to be proactive and rezone the parcel before the owner takes any future action—such as selling the property or developing it—in order to give residents additional protection.

The PUD zoning would give residents a stronger voice in what happens there in the future by making the City Council the special permit granting authority for the site, Raymondi said.

The parcel also includes the Strawberry's music store and other tenants.

At a public hearing Monday night, Raymondi was joined by four local residents in supporting the rezoning. The residents were Edward and Ann Gillis of 21 Richard St., Angelina Caldara of 212 Quincy Ave., and Arlene McLarnon of 9 Charlesmount Ave.

However, Atty. Paul

Killeen, representing the owner, called PUD "totally inappropriate" zoning for the parcel which he said has been assessed at $6.5 million. He urged the council to delay a vote on the matter, saying he had just learned of the proposed zoning change earlier in the day.

Raymondi said after the hearing he feels the change is appropriate since all of the other major developments in the area—including Roche Bros. Supermarket, Wal-Mart and others—are zoned PUD.

The council will hold a second public hearing on the matter Monday, June 29 at 7:15 p.m.

McDermott Has Hip Surgery, Faces Second

Ward 3 City Councillor Patrick McDermott is back home this week after having his left hip replaced at New England Medical Center in Boston on Friday.

McDermott, 28, who was released from the hospital Monday, must return June 25 to have his right hip replaced.

He said that under the circumstances, he feels fine.

"It aches, but otherwise I

PATRICK McDERMOTT

feel great," he said. "The surgery went fantastic. Now it's just a question of me doing the required physical therapy three times a day."

McDermott said the surgeries are necessary because of a degenerative hip condition doctors believe he has had since birth but has gotten worse since a skiing accident he had six years ago.

In Houghs Neck Park To Be Named After Former Councillor Kelly

Former Ward 1 City Councillor Leo Kelly will soon be honored with a park named in his honor at the corner of Manet Avenue and Sea Street.

The City Council unanimously voted to name the 2,500-square-foot parcel Leo J. Kelly Park at its Monday night meeting.

Kelly, first elected in 1973, served six terms as Ward 1 councillor. He also served two years, 1980 and 1981, as council president.

Councillors praised Kelly's longtime dedication to the city, both as a private citizen and a councillor. His efforts, they said, have resulted in the opening of the Manet Community Health Center and the beginning of the Quincy Evergreen Program held annually after Christmas.

"Councillor Kelly has never stopped working for the city," said Council President Peter Kolson, the current Ward 1 councillor.

"This is an exceptional, dedicated public servant," said Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond.

Councillor Francis McCauley said Kelly had longstanding family ties to the area that helped make him an effective councillor.

"Leo Kelly had strong roots in the Houghs Neck community," he said. "He wasn't someone who just showed up out of nowhere."

Members of the council said Kelly should especially be honored for his efforts to preserve the environment, noting that he was one of the first elected officials to champion the cause before it became fashionable to do so.

Councillors added that

Kelly currently serves on the Wollaston Beach Task Force and that his past efforts to preserve Quincy Bay eventually helped lead to the Boston Harbor Cleanup.

"His greatest accomplishment is his leadership role in preserving Quincy Bay," said Councillor Paul Harold who, like Raymond and McCauley, served with Kelly on the council.

"It's extraordinary, his impact on environmental issues," added Raymond.

Harold joked that his own 1973 loss to Kelly in the Ward 1 council race actually helped his future political career.

"You propelled my career as an at-large councillor and in the state Senate," he said with a laugh.

Kelly, who had not been told in advance why he was asked to attend Monday night's meeting, reacted humbly to all the praise.

"Thank you very much," he said.

Two More Sessions To Go Not Much To Cut In Sheets's Budget

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The City Council's Finance Committee will continue its sessions reviewing Mayor James Sheets's proposed $158.2 million Fiscal Year 1999 municipal budget next week.

The committee will continue its scrutiny of the budget Monday, June 8 and Tuesday, June 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall. The budget sessions are open to the public.

After two previous sessions, the committee has cut only $1,000 from the mayor's spending plan. That was a bank charge service taken out of the treasurer's office budget at the request of Councillor Francis McCauley.

In keeping with tradition, councillors have reviewed the proposed budgets for most of the city's smaller departments first before tackling the bigger budgets. For instance, the proposed budgets for the police and fire departments are among those to be reviewed June 8, while those for the school and public works departments will among those examined the following night.

However, those are the budgets that generally receive the fewest cuts, if any, because they pertain to public safety and education.

The City Council has the power to make reductions in the proposed municipal budget but cannot add to it. The budget must be passed in some form before July 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

Councillor Timothy Cahill, chairman of the Finance Committee, was unable to attend Monday night's regularly-scheduled council meeting but has said the council likely will pass the budget at its next regular meeting June 15.

The mayor's proposed spending plan is 5.6 percent or $8.6 million more than the Fiscal Year 1998 budget of $149.6 million. The increase is the largest since 1990, when the budget went up 10 percent or $10.7 million over the 1989 budget—a jump from $107 million to $118 million.

Sheets has cited several reasons for the budget hike, including negotiated salary raises with city unions—$2 million has been set aside for those raises—as well as increased special education costs, road resurfacing and increases in water and sewer reconstruction costs.

The mayor said he has raised the school department budget about $1 million with much of that earmarked for special education. In addition, he said, about half of the money put aside for salary increases is for that department.

The budget also calls for the creation of a new maintenance division that will consolidate the maintenance departments of the school, public works and parks departments. However, the consolidation does not call for any additional spending since staff and funding will be transferred from the individual departments.

Sheets has said he will not know what effect the proposed budget will have on Quincy's property tax rates until he learns how much local aid money the city will receive from the state, a figure that will not be known for a few weeks.

Debate Over Telephone Pole At Council Public Hearing

A mild debate broke out during a City Council public hearing Monday night over whether a telephone pole near a home on Narragansett Road in Merrymount should be removed.

Sharon and Steve Racette, owners of the house at 12 Narragansett Rd., said wires from the crooked pole run directly over a child's play area in their backyard. They said they fear for the safety of their child, who is autistic and has liver problems.

Bob Beresford, representing Bell Atlantic, said the firm supports the couple's petition to have the pole removed. He said although the pole services three residences on nearby Chickatabot Road, two new poles can be placed on Chickatabot to power those homes.

Beresford said with council approval, the problem can be resolved within four to six weeks.

Another resident, Robert

Spicer of 9 Chickatabot Rd., said the wires from the two new poles would ruin his "pristine" view of Quincy Bay and would be in direct line with the elements.

Saying he was speaking on behalf of several of his neighbors, Spicer added that there is a nearby easement that will allow a replacement pole to be put up without such interference.

The council will discuss the matter again at a future meeting.

PRESS AWAY NEEDLE PAIN

Many adults would never admit it, but fear of shots can be so great that it keeps people from getting the medical care they need. For such individuals, there is a technique that can reduce the sensation of pain from injections. Best of all, the procedure is totally safe, free, and easy to do: Ask the person giving the shot where it will be given. Press your thumb firmly against that spot and hold for 10 seconds, then have the injection promptly. That's all there is to it. The reason this technique works is that it stimulates the large sensory fibers, which in turn override the smaller pain fibers that are activated by the needle poke.

You might also try simply looking away and focusing on pleasant thoughts. Even momentary distractions can help ease the surprise of this discomfort. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Here's another technique to "blow away" needle pain: Pretend you're blowing out a candle when the injection is given.

Vietnam's 'Unfinished Business'

He was a Quincy boy and one of the tragic stories of the Vietnam War.

His name was Edward Alan Brudno, son of Dr. and Mrs. James C. Brudno, a well-known and respected Quincy family.

He was an Air Force captain who went to Vietnam in 1965 and was shot down just 30 days after arriving there.

He endured seven and a half years of mistreatment and often, torture as a prisoner of war.

Finally, in 1973 he was released with other POWs and like them, came home to try to put Vietnam behind him and restart his life.

But, in June of that year--less than four months after being freed--he took his own life in Westchester County, New York, where he was living with his wife.

He was the first of the returned POWs to die and it made headlines across the country.

Why did he take his own life?

His brother, Robert J. Brudno, now a management consultant in Washington, D.C., has a something-to-think-about answer in the June 1 issue of Newsweek.

His article is entitled "Unfinished Business" with the sub-head: "I think it's time for anti-Vietnam War Americans to recognize the pain they caused."

He feels too much comfort was given to the enemy during the war and not enough to those who came home from it.

Brudno notes his brother had nothing to be ashamed about. He received the Silver Star, two Purple Hearts and other medals posthumously.

He was paraded through Hanoi with other POWs who were called war criminals and subjected to incredible physical abuse, his brother writes.

His fellow prisoners said he refused to let his captors break his spirit. He was "hardcore tough," they said.

"Suicide never has simple causes, but his story reveals some unfinished business from the Vietnam War," Brudno writes.

The unfinished business, as he sees it, in these excerpts:

"He went to Vietnam in September, 1965 because he was told to. He did not go to bomb churches and hospitals or because he hated the North Vietnamese, or because he was a killer. He went because his country asked him to, as it would have against a Hitler or a Saddam Hussein.

"He survived (as a POW) because of his love of country, love of his wife and family and his belief that he sacrificed so much for something.

"But a warning of what awaited him came before he even set foot on U.S. soil. Someone close to him said to me, 'He has to know that the war was wrong.'

"After the euphoria of his release wore off, he realized that a lot of the propaganda that had accompanied his torture sessions was true. His own countrymen went beyond being against the war; many supported those he understandably viewed to be the 'enemy'... The enemy were the people who had beaten some of his comrades to death.

"Like my brother, few wanted to go to war, yet Americans on the left did not respect their sacrifices because somehow it conflicted with their passionate antiwar beliefs.

"He became a victim not just of the North Vietnamese but of the inability of so many in his own country, during that horrible war, to separate the war from the warriors.

"Today many antiwar protesters proudly claim that they were right about the war, in part as a result of Robert McNamara's belated admission that he was wrong. Whether the war was right or wrong, these were our boys. They deserved our support whatever the cause, whatever the result.

"The antiwar movement has yet to recognize the pain and heartache that it caused. My brother had no say in the politics that sent him to war. The lack of appreciation for what he had done, combined with the rationale of those who gave aid and comfort to the enemy, helped destroy the will to live that had kept him alive for all those years."

Brudno says that for years during the Vietnam War, Americans did not speak out against the mistreatment of POWs because to do so "would have been 'pro-war' somehow.

"Few Americans who were silent then have acknowledged much responsibility for the consequences of their actions on the home front. Whether the war was right or wrong then or now, is irrelevant."

Brudno recalls that some years ago he tried to get his brother's name added to the Vietnam War Memorial Wall.

"I was told that I could not, because the wall was for servicemen who were killed in Vietnam or died later from wounds received there. Technically, I guess, Alan Brudno was mortally wounded back here."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1933 postcard view of the Victorian style Squantum and Wollaston Yacht Clubs on Wollaston Beach. The Squantum club, on the left, was organized in 1890 and they opened this building in 1904. It was almost destroyed by fire in 1936, but was rebuilt and enlarged, with state-room lockers along the upper deck, only to be completely destroyed by another fire in 1976. The present contemporary styled clubhouse was dedicated in 1978. The Wollaston Club to the right, founded in 1898, is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year. The building as shown here was pretty much destroyed by fire almost 50 years ago. Only a small portion of this building and the deck are used today.

READERS FORUM

Thanks Those Who Helped Honor Mary McKinnon

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to thank all of the people of the Atlantic neighborhood who showed up on Tuesday, May 26 to dedicate the corner of Atlantic Street and East Squantum Street in honored memory of Mary J. McKinnon, a traffic supervisor since 1968, who spent the last 25 years at this street corner.

Back in early February, shortly after her sudden passing, many folks from the neighborhood decided that we needed to do something special in her memory. We worked with City Hall and Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers and, thanks to a combined effort, a plaque is now at the corner honoring Mary's long years of service to our community. Her family came to the ceremony and thanked us for what we had done for Mary and in turn we thanked them for all that Mary had done for us.

The bronze plaque was unveiled by Ryann Elizabeth McKinnon, Mary's 3-year-old granddaughter. As I told those assembled, "We are the neighborhood. We don't live in a neighborhood, the neighborhood lives in us."

I especially want to thank our City Councillor Bruce Ayers for all of his hard work and efforts on this community-wide project. I appreciated the former mayor, Joe LaRaia, for stopping by the ceremony. I also want to thank state Rep. Michael Bellotti, Police Chief Thomas Frane, School Supt. Eugene Creedon, Paul Curtin from the Traffic Division, Tom Koch from the Park Department, the North Quincy High School Band, all of Mary McKinnon's buddies who showed up in full uniform, and the people at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

We all joined together to honor Mary J. McKinnon, traffic supervisor, friend and neighbor. We came to honor Mary's years of dedicated service, and also to let Mary's family know that we will always remember her.

Now, every day as we pass "her" corner, we can stop and reflect on who Mary was. We teach our children a valuable lesson when we honor Mary. We took her for granted and now that she is gone, we realize who we had. We didn't say good-bye to her on Tuesday, May 26, we said hello because as long as we honor her memory, she will always live and be a part of our neighborhood life.

Court Upholds Woodward School Enrollment Restriction

By PAUL HAROLD

Probate Judge James Reynolds upheld the restrictions on Ebenezer Woodward's will that restricted the school in his name to Quincy-born girls.

City Solicitor Douglas Randall brought the case on behalf of a number of ministers in the city who were, by virtue of the positions, on the school's board of supervisors. Their daughters, however, were barred from the school because they were not born in the city.

Arguing against a re-interpretation of the will was Atty. John Barr Dolan, representing Dartmouth College. Under the terms of Dr. Woodward's will, the college would receive the residual of the estate if the city failed to live up to the terms of the original gift.

RECORD 25,000 VIEWED MEMORIAL PARADE

Memorial Day parade organizers reported that last week's parade that included 1,800 uniformed marchers and 13 bands, was viewed by a record 25,000 people.

The program at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery was led by Quincy resident Major General Richard Quigley, commanding general of the 26th (Yankee) Infantry Division of the Mass. Army National Guard.

City Council President Joseph LaRaia represented Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa.

Alma's Lemon Lush

If you're sweet tooth is clamoring for the ultimate, here is a heavenly dessert given to me by our daughter Nancy's mother-in-law Alma.

Lemon Lush

Crust

- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 cup margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Mix altogether and place in a 9 x 13 pan. Bake for 25 minutes in a 325 degree oven. While this is cooling, here is the recipe for the filling.

1 cup cool whip (a little more for the top)

- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 8 ounces cream cheese.

Combine cool whip, powdered sugar and cream cheese. Spread over the cooled crust. Here is the recipe for the top layer.

- 2 small packages of lemon instant pudding mix
- 3 cups milk.

Combine pudding and milk and pour over the first layer.

Spread more cool whip over the top, chill and serve. This recipe serves 12.

Maureen Ryan Wins Community Partnerships For Children Raffle

The Quincy Community Partnerships for Children Council, formerly the Quincy Early Childhood Advisory Council, announces that Maureen Ryan of Sea Street is the winner of $100 from the council's raffle.

Raffle entries were obtained from Quincy parents of young children who completed a survey about their child care needs during the summer, fall and winter of this past year.

Information collected from the surveys will be incorporated into the Community Partnerships for Children program which is funded by the Massachusetts Department of Education and administered by Quincy Community Action Programs Inc. The program works to improve the availability and quality of early care and education services and make them more affordable for Quincy families who have children ages 2 years, 9 months to 5 years or until they become eligible to enter kindergarten.

For more information about the Quincy Community Partnerships for Children Program, contact Alison Davis Taylor, QCAP director, at 479-8181, ext. 103.

QUINCY RESIDENTS Jim and Ellen O'Conner were among those who participated in Project Bread's recent 29th annual Walk for Hunger. Statewide, 40,000 participants raised $2.9 million for hungry children and families in Massachusetts.

Howard, Janet Crowley To Receive Richard Koch Youth Service Award

The Koch Club and the Quincy Flag Day Committee announce that Howard and Janet Crowley of Montclair are the winners of the Richard J. Koch Youth Service Award.

Each year, the Koch Club and the Flag Day Committee recognize a person who has made a significant contribution to the youth community in Quincy. The award will be presented to the Crowleys at a ceremony following the Quincy Flag Day Parade on June 13.

The Crowleys will be recognized for their years of service to the youth of Montclair and North Quincy through their support of a variety of community and charitable organizations.

The Crowleys served as

Walking Club For Seniors Begins June 8

The Quincy Department of Elder Services will be offering a Walking Club for Elders beginning Monday, June 8 at 9:30 a.m. at the Squantum Gardens Community Center, Saratoga St., North Quincy.

the coordinators of the Montclair division of the Koch Club for 24 years. They helped organize leagues for boy's baseball, girl's softball, basketball and bowling. Thousands of boys and girls from the Montclair area were allowed ample recreational opportunities because of their efforts.

Mr. Crowley is an active member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Council and previously served as Grand Knight. He also served on the Quincy Park & Recreation Board for 12 years.

Mrs. Crowley is active in the Quincy Community Action organization and the Catholic Women's Charities in North Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowley served as co-founders of the Montclair-Wollaston Neighborhood Association, and both are active in North Quincy's Sacred Heart Parish.

The Richard J. Koch

Youth Service Award was named after the late Park Department executive director founded the Koch Club in 1948. He expanded the program in 1951 to include athletic leagues for youngsters. Through the years, the club has offered programs for youth baseball, youth softball, bowling, and basketball. To this day, it still provides valuable recreational opportunities for Quincy's children.

Koch founded the Flag Day Parade in 1952. He led his band of flag-waving Koch Club troops around Norfolk Downs before conducting a flag ceremony at Cavanagh Stadium.

This will be the third year the award will be presented at the Flag Day Celebration. Past recipients were Anthony Delmonico in 1996 and Frank Brillo in 1997.

"The Crowleys have contributed years of service to this city without ever seeking fanfare for their good deeds. They have displayed a genuine concern for Quincy's youngsters and have volunteered countless hours to giving kids a chance to participate in positive programs. The committee felt that it is a fitting tribute to honor the Crowleys during the 50th anniversary of the Koch Club," said Flag Day Committee Chairman Thomas Koch.

WILLIAM B. RICE EVENTIDE HOME

Where Security and Friendship Go Hand In Hand.

Miriam Addison is proof positive that you're never too old to make new friends. She first met Gayle Davis after moving to Quincy's Eventide Home, where Gayle is a loyal volunteer.

Miriam came to Eventide from her Quincy home, after living alone became too much to handle and she needed nursing care.

Gayle began volunteering at Eventide after moving to Massachusetts from Maine 14 years ago. Miriam also lived in Maine for a time.

"Can you believe that we both started our first jobs at Union Mutual in Portland, Maine?"

Gayle asks. "What a small world!"

When Miriam expressed a desire to go shopping, Gayle responded and they became instant friends.

"We just gelled," Miriam says. "We discovered the Talbots outlet together."

Miriam Addison recently celebrated her 100th birthday, surrounded by family and friends at home, Quincy's Rice Eventide Home.

Retired Teachers Association Awards $71,800 In Scholarships

With a special program honoring its 1998 scholarship recipients, the Quincy Retired Teachers Association Inc. (QRTA) recently held its annual Spring Luncheon Meeting at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Twenty-seven students were awarded a total of $71,800 in scholarships. The program was dedicated to Mable F. Pratt and Louisa P. Beede, major benefactors of the fund.

Special guests included Lois Harper, president of the Retired Teachers Association of Massachusetts Inc. (formerly the Massachusetts Retired Teachers Association Inc.); John Keenan, executive secretary to Mayor James Sheets; School Committee members Christine Cedrone, Michael McFarland and Linda Stice; and the graduating seniors receiving QRTA Scholarships.

Harper brought greetings from the state retired educators association and shared some thoughts for QRTA members and the scholarship winners. Keenan brought greetings from the mayor, and Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, retired Quincy assistant school principal, spoke on behalf of Eugene Creedon, superintendent of schools.

Following the luncheon, President Henry Paterson turned the meeting over to Robert Mattsson, treasurer of the Scholarship Committee, who served as emcee. Mattsson introduced the members of the QRTA Scholarship Committee, Scholarship Chairpersons Dr. Linda Wilson of Quincy High and John Perkins of North Quincy High, and the Class of 1998 Scholarship winners. Patricia Drew and Mary Catherine Iannoni were recognized for handling all student arrangements for the day, and a round of applause was given for all who have served on the Scholarship Committee throughout its 18 years.

During that period, retired teachers' contributions helped the fund grow from an initial contribution of $1,000 in memory of Warren B. Findlay to $425,000 in 1997. Then Harry Beede, former principal of Broad Meadows Middle School, bequeathed the fund over $1 million. When all of the Beede funds are received, the Scholarship Fund will total $1.7 million.

In addition to awarding 21 other scholarships ranging from $500 to $5,000, this year the QRTA awarded the first of the Beede Scholarships. From the interest on the Beede gift, six Quincy students each received an $8,000 scholarship.

Before each scholarship was presented, Mattsson gave a brief history of the award. When possible, the presenter was an individual with some connection to the particular scholarship or donor. Recipients shared which Quincy schools they had attended, the college they plan to attend, and the major they expect to pursue.

Following the program, the scholarship recipients gathered for group pictures which were taken by QRTA member John Gostanian, retired teacher of photography at North Quincy High School.

The 1998 recipients of QRTA Scholarships are:

Quincy High School: Erin Barry, Evrim Berk, Janean Doherty, Erin Djerf, Pamela Gray, Kate Hutchinson, Tracey Jurewich, Kara McSweeney, Derek McTomney, James Quigley, Anthony Staffier, Shannan Whalen, Eva Wong.

HN Community Council Awards $6,800 In Scholarships

The Houghs Neck Community Council Scholarship Committee this year has chosen 12 students to receive $6,800 in book awards, based on academic records.

All are Houghs Neck residents of five or more years.

For the first time, a 44-year-old resident, Thomas Holmes of 222 Manet Ave., will receive a top award of $1,000. Holmes, a resident since 1968, a former roofer, is returning to Massasoit Community College for his third year after open heart surgery in March.

Other college students receiving book awards are Victor Davidson, second year at New York College; Amy Gibbons, senior at Bridgewater State; Colleen Clarke, junior at Bridgewater State; John Duffy, third year at Wentworth; Lisa Renzi, junior at University of Massachusetts in Amherst; and Sarah Gordon, junior at Boston College.

Quincy High School graduates receiving book awards are Pamela Gray, her college yet to be selected; Kerry Duffy, entering University of Massachusetts in Dartmouth; Leah MacPherson, entering Boston University; Derek McTomney, entering Stonehill College; and Christopher O'Hare, entering Massachusetts Maritime.

Since its first award of $250 in 1964, a total of $102,570 has been awarded to students in or entering college. Awards are based on scholarship only. Money comes from memorial donations to the Scholarship Fund with a $1,000 gift each year from Houghs Neck Community Council funds. Awards will be presented June 16.

David DiBona is chairman of the Scholarship Committee which includes Helen Beresen, William Murphy, Mary Collins, Francis McCauley, Margaret Radcliffe, Tom Timcoe, Laurel Wainwright and Ruth Wainwright.

South Shore Savings Breaks Ground For Quincy Branch

South Shore Savings Bank has broken ground for its new Granite Crossing Quincy branch at Quincy Ave. and Southern Artery.

Among those participating in the Friday were Congressman William Delahunt, state Rep. Michael Bellotti, state Rep. Ronald Mariano, Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, Arthur R. Connelly, president and chief executive officer of South Shore Savings Bank; Frank S. Lagrotteria, chairman of the bank's board of trustees and Arthur H. Sharp, chairman of the board of investment.

Architect Scott Towne of DRL Associates of Weymouth and Doug MacLeod of MacLeod Bros. Inc. of Rockland, general contractor also took part in the ground breaking.

The new Granite Crossing Quincy branch is expected to open in late 1998. At that time, the bank's East Braintree branch on Quincy Ave. will be closed. Current Braintree branch manager Peter Collins and his staff will move to the larger, more modern Granite Crossing site. The two locations are within a mile of each other.

DRL Associates of Weymouth were also the architects for the recent renovation and expansion of the bank's Poole's Corner branch and new corporate headquarters building in South Weymouth. Their design for the new two-story, 10,000-square-foot Granite Crossing branch includes two drive-up windows and a drive-up ATM. A portion of the building will be leased for professional offices.

The Granite Crossing site was the location for many years of Eddie's Diner, badly damaged in a 1993 fire. The stainless steel diner was recently moved to a New Bedford storage location, where it will undergo restoration.

South Shore Savings Bank, a new entity created with the merger of Weymouth Savings Bank and South Weymouth Savings Bank in October 1997, now has a presence in South Shore communities including Braintree, East Bridgewater, Hanover/Norwell, and Weymouth. The addition of Quincy location marks the start of the bank's announced plans for geographical expansion.

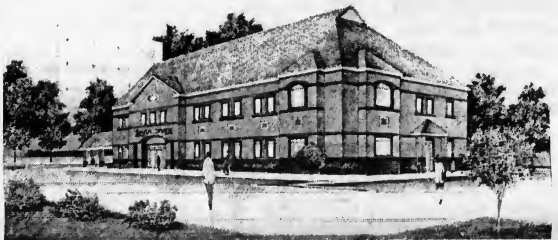

The bank today has nine full-service offices, and operates an Educational and Training Facility at Weymouth High School.

South Shore Savings Bank, which now operates under the state charter granted in 1833 to Weymouth Savings Bank, has assets in excess of $475 million. The bank is a member of the FDIC/DIF.

GROUND BREAKING WAS HELD last Friday for South Shore Savings Bank's new Granite Crossing Quincy branch at Quincy Ave. and Southern Artery which will open later this year. From left are state Reps. Michael Bellotti and Ronald Mariano, Frank Lagrotteria, chairman of the bank's board of trustees; Congressman William Delahunt, who served as emcee for the event; Arthur Sharp, chairman of the bank's board of investment; Scott Towne, architect from DRL Associates of Weymouth; and Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi.

Regular Inspections Can Help Maintain A Home

[The following is from Vin Moscardelli at ERA Central Real Estate, 128

Mayor McGrath Highway, Quincy.]

Q. How important is it to have regular home inspections?

A. While it is especially important to do a comprehensive home inspection when you are buying, selling or building property, periodic inspections can help maintain a healthy home.

In fact, inspecting a home regularly can help you detect early warning signs that could possibly result in major damage if left unchecked.

Whenever you decide to do an inspection, an inspector's findings will likely affect the house's sale price. How can you know what areas should be covered in a professional inspection?

I will be happy to answer any questions you may have when preparing your home for an inspection. Remember: if you are selling your home, you are more likely to get your original asking price if needed maintenance and repairs are done ahead of time.

Streamlining FHA Loan Limits Will Help Buying A Home

An increase in FHA loan limits may help make the dream of owning a home come true.

guarantees or insures mortgages, and like any insurer, it charges homeowners a premium to do so.

There is no cost to taxpayers. It's the premiums paid by borrowers—not tax dollars—that cover FHA-insured mortgages that may go into default.

Raising the loan limit means an estimated 300,000 more families will become homeowners over the next five years.

In fact, it's estimated that higher loan limits will generate an additional savings of $225 million.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

Protecting The Foundation Begins At The Gutter

(NAPS)—To help keep your home's foundation safe from water damage, you have to go straight to the top—to your gutters.

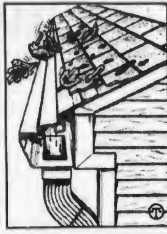

Clogged gutters and heavy downpours can leave homeowners with serious water damage. As rain-filled gutters overflow, water cascades onto the ground around a home's foundation, causing soil erosion and potentially leading to basement flooding problems. Debris-filled gutters also retain water after a rainstorm, providing an excellent breeding ground for mosquitoes.

Some telltale signs of gutter problems are troughs of eroded soil directly under the eaves of the gutters, new tree growth inside the gutter, and a damp or wet basement. Eroded soil indicates that rain water has been collecting in puddles next to the foundation instead of draining into the downspout. Troughs are often easy to spot, because runoff eventually strips vegetation off the shallow depression.

Fortunately, homeowners can help solve these problems with an inexpensive, labor-saving gutter guard system that helps prevent sagging gutters, roof-line water damage, marred landscaping, and water collecting around the foundation of a home. Using the scientific principle of liquid adhesion, Crane Plastics Company has designed a highly effective gutter guard system called PermaFlow®.

The PermaFlow system consists of a lowered plastic guard with tiered slats installed across the top of the gutter and under the edge of the first row of shingles.

As rainwater flows off the roof and over the sloping slats of the gutter guard, the natural surface tension of the water causes it to flow over the guard's contour and drain through small holes in its surface while leaves, twigs, needles, and other debris fall over the slats and onto the ground below.

The PermaFlow system is an easy, cost-effective solution to problems stemming from gutter runoff, such as increased hydrostatic pressure (the weight of wet soil) on the foundation walls caused by seepage along the exterior of the foundation, severe basement wall cracking in cold climates (a phenomenon called "frost heave"), and chipping damage to mortar, brick, or block.

The system can be installed in an afternoon, ending gutter-cleaning chores and gutter-induced flooding. Made of the same tough, weather-resistant material used in premium house siding, the gutter guard is available in standard three-foot lengths and can be cut with a hack saw or circular saw to fit corners. A flat tab tucks neatly under shingles and a flexible joint conforms to any gutter or roof pitch. The gutter guard then snaps onto the edge of the gutter for a snug fit that resists high winds.

Seniors Strive To Stay Behind The Wheel

Lane Hall's broad smile graces the pages of the Guinness Book of World Records because of an achievement to which many of us would aspire. He's the world's oldest known driver, having driven until he died at the age of 105.

Hall's record probably will fall as the average age of our population steadily increases. There now are more than 25 million drivers 65 years old or older and, according to National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the number of licensed older drivers will more than double in the next 25 years.

But, as we're taught from the time we first get behind the wheel, the right to drive bears an awesome responsibility, as evidenced by the tens of thousands of highway deaths each year. Driving is an entitlement one can lose all too quickly.

Determined to retain their freedom of mobility, 5 million older drivers have graduated from the 55 Alive/Mature Driving Program conducted by American Association for Retired Persons (AARP). In many cases graduates qualify for a discount on their car insurance.

User Friendly Cars
Car makers for years have cultivated the growing "gray" market, older buyers who opt for more comfortable, upgraded models with power accessories. These vehicles appeal not only to retired, recreational travelers but also to those seeking features that make their vehicles more "user friendly."

Included in the formula for driving success is good maintenance, reminds the Car Care Council. "Even the most alert driver is at risk if his vehicle is unsafe. Good vision, tires, brakes and steering are basic to safe driving," says Council Chairman Ted Thacker, "as are a dependable engine and drive train. Beyond required maintenance to keep a vehicle dependably safe, there are accessories and enhancements that can contribute to an older person's driving safety and comfort."

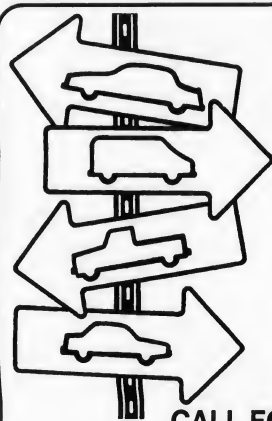

Consider, for example, the elderly woman who plans to keep her 6-year-old car, but wishes it had that newfangled button on the key chain. She could push it from a distance and the door unlocks or, with an arm load of groceries, the trunk opens. She doesn't have to trade in her car for these features. The remote keyless entry system, a feature desired by many owners, can be installed by her neighborhood service shop.

Equally appealing to some older drivers is the remote starting device. No need to go out on a cold morning to start the car. Just push that handy button on your key fob.

Other electronic accessories, including the remote security alarm and automatic headlight switch, an offspring of the automatic garage door opener, add safety and convenience to driving. Brighter halogen headlights, a recent development in the vehicle lighting industry, are easily installed by the owner or by any service shop to help improve night driving.

There are among the advancements that help people extend their driving years, but they're no "fountain of youth." Coping with split second decisions isn't as easy when eyesight, reflex time or medication interfere. Know when it's time to consider relinquishing one's "entitlement" to drive. At 105, Lane Hall and thousands of others may have been lucky to survive.

NQ Wins Six Of Seven To Earn Tourney Berth Raiders Embark On First Postseason Trip

By LIAM FITZGERALD

With its back against the wall, the North Quincy High School softball team responded by winning its last three games and earning its first-ever postseason trip.

North (10-10), seeded 17th in Division 1 South, was slated to play at No. 16 seed Fontbonne yesterday (Wednesday) at 3:15 p.m. in the preliminary round of the MIAA state tournament.

A victory would send North to play at top-seeded Taunton (19-1) Friday night at 7. The Tigers, winners of 10 straight Old Colony League titles, swept NQ in the regular season.

To qualify for the tournament, the visiting Red Raiders disposed of a strong Braintree team, 12-4, last Saturday morning. From the fourth inning on, it was clear which team wanted the game more—North Quincy.

"The girls didn't need much of a pep talk," said North coach Bob Doyle, who guided the team to six wins in its last seven games. "They deserve every bit of credit and I'm extremely proud of them. We had a rough start, but they bounced back and got the job done."

North senior pitcher Kristy Deputula fired a one-hitter and was supported offensively by seniors Laurie Flynn (3 for 5, home run, two RBI), Kerry Skehan (1 for 4, RBI) and Kristen Keohane (2 for 4, two RBI), along with junior Kristen Bows (2 for 4, home run, two RBI).

"Kristy's pitching was the key to the victory," said Doyle, who was recently selected as the OCL's Coach of the Year in his second season at the helm. "She was around the plate and worked out of a couple of jams, showing the type of competitive spirit you have to have to succeed."

In a must-win situation last Thursday, North doubled up OCL visitor Falmouth, 6-3, rallying from an

Quincy High Student Remains In Coma

Quincy High School senior Kevin Moore remains in a coma at press time following a car accident May 23 in Norwood.

Moore was listed in stable condition Tuesday afternoon, said a spokeswoman at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Moore, 18, an honor roll student and a captain on the football team, suffered serious head injuries in the accident.

Since he was hospitalized, many of Moore's Quincy High classmates have kept a vigil outside his room and have prayed for his recovery, said Quincy High football coach and teacher Peter Chella. Moore was the Presidents' starting quarterback last fall.

"It's very gratifying to see the kids rally around him," said Chella on Tuesday. "They're outside his room all the time, hoping like all of us that he pulls through. We're all still saying prayers and hoping for the best. That's all we can do."

KEVIN MOORE

Moore was also remembered at Monday night's City Council meeting, where Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond asked those in attendance and residents throughout the city to keep Moore in their prayers.

Chella cited Fr. Robert Monagle of St. Joseph's Church in Quincy for his guidance in the aftermath of the incident. Last Saturday, Fr. Monagle organized a Mass at the church to pray for Moore's recovery.

"Fr. Monagle has been instrumental in helping us focus our grief and our energies in the right direction," said Chella. "He came to the hospital when he heard what happened and has been right there, leading prayers and doing all he can. He's been wonderful."

The accident occurred when the car Moore was traveling in was struck by a vehicle that went through a red light. The accident happened at Route 1 and Everett Street in Norwood at 10:45 p.m., according to police.

Dora Velasquez, 20, of Hyde Park was charged with operating to endanger. Police say alcohol was not a factor in the accident.

Police said Velasquez was traveling northbound on Route 1 in a 1987 Toyota Celica.

According to witnesses at the scene, Velasquez sped through a red light and collided with the 1986 Chevrolet Celebrity driven by Steven Maze, 18, of Quincy, who was turning left at a green light.

The accident is being investigated by police and a state reconstructionist.

Mound St. Soccer Field To Be Named After Joy Hanlon

The Quincy Park and Recreation Board has approved the recommendation of Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond and the Quincy Youth Soccer League to name the new soccer field on Mound Street in memory of Joy M. Hanlon.

The field will be dedicated in a ceremony to be held at the field Sunday at 3 p.m.

Joy was a student at the Point-Webster School who died unexpectedly in 1992 at the age of 9. She was an active participant in youth soccer and very much loved the game. During the ceremony, there will be a stone unveiled at the park in her memory.

Hanlon Field will be the city's third field dedicated to soccer use only. It is part of the City of Quincy's Quincy Park and Recreation Board's plan to add more soccer fields to meet the growing demand for the sport. Two more fields will be constructed by the city this fall and plans are underway to add another soccer complex on Ricciuti Drive in conjunction with the Quarry Hills golf course project.

After the dedication, there will be a collation at the nearby Fore River Clubhouse. Refreshments will be served and all are welcome.

First Annual Lions Club Race A 'Grand Success'

Event Raises $20,000 For Eye Care, Research

Sunday's first annual Quincy Lions Club 5K Run/Walk, which included a blindfolded Uncle Sam Rounseville, was a "grand success," said the event's organizer, Lions Club member Steve Mansfield.

Approximately 300 people took part in the race at Pageant Field and as of press time, close to $20,000 had been raised for eye research and eye care for the visually impaired.

"We had a quite a good turnout, with a lot of people who weren't running coming to cheer on the runners," said Mansfield. "We'd like to do it every year. Everything went quite smoothly."

Rounseville finished the course in 32:14, saying afterwards that he would want a blindfold for next year's event, which is already in the works.

"It was quite an experience, and I never thought I'd finish," said Rounseville, husband of Quincy Lions President Jean Kenney. "I had a slight problem at the end, tripping on a piece of rope, tearing my tux and breaking my glasses, but I'm O.K. We put a lot of effort into the event, and it all paid off."

On behalf of the Lions Club, Mansfield thanked the numerous volunteers who lent their assistance, including Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management, and his staff.

The Lions Club offers free eye examinations and pairs of glasses to children whose parents cannot afford them.

To make a donation, contact Mansfield at (617) 479-2220. Donations may be sent to Steven R. Mansfield Co., 122 Quincy Shore Drive, Quincy, MA 02171. Make checks payable to the Quincy Lions Club.

Adelmo Couto of Cambridge, competing in the men's 30-39 age group, was the overall winner of the 5K run, finishing in 17:14. The top women's runner was Laura O'Keefe of Scituate, placing first in 21:18.

In the men's 60-69 age group, Quincy's Don Fay was first (29:30), followed by John Farmer of Quincy (57:58).

Placing second through fifth in the men's 50-59 age group were North Quincy resident Bob Rantuccio (21:23) and Quincy residents Ray McEachern (29:17), William Crowley (29:36) and Dan Dunn (30:08).

Quincy residents nearly swept the men's 40-49 age group, taking the top three and the fifth spots. In first was Mark Costello (19:36), followed by Russell Djerf (21:08) and Mike Linnane (21:32). Brian Scales (21:57) placed fifth.

UNCLE SAM ROUNSEVILLE, running Sunday's Quincy Lions Club Run/Walk blindfolded, is escorted by Joe Pereira, left, of Quincy. With them is Quincy resident Dave McCarthy pushing his son, Gerald, 5, who is legally blind. Gerald received a trophy as the first blind person to finish the 3.2-mile course.

In the men's 30-39 age group, Quincy runners John Timmins (19:52), Steve Kearney (20:35) and Billy Timmins (20:43), finished third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

Three Quincy runners excelled in placed in the men's 20-29 age group: Stephen Provost (second, 21:11), Derek Flannagan (fourth, 25:54) and Chad Feetham (fifth, 27:26).

James Coughlin of North Quincy was third in the boys' 12-18 age group at 42:08.

On the women's side, Quincy runners took the top four spots in the 60-69 age groups. From first to fourth were Sandra Baker (50:39), Joanne Nolan (54:48), Anne Baxendale (56:42) and Judy Farmer (58:00).

Quincy's Donna Berry placed third in the women's 50-59 age group with a (54:12). Another Quincy runner, Kathleen Riley, came in fifth at 58:02.

One Quincy runner cracked the top five in the women's 40-49 age group: Dianne McGuinige (fourth place, 27:25).

In the women's 30-39 age group, Debbie Kelly of Quincy finished second (25:46) and Darline Jones, also of Quincy, was fifth (30:15).

nated the women's 19-29 age group, taking four of the top five places. Finishing second through fifth were Kelly Keegan (26:18), Kathryn Tierney (27:07), Donna Sautter (27:19) and Stephanie Kish (28:48).

Kylie Mansfield of Quincy finished first in the girls' 12-18 age group, running the race in 25:34. Julia McGunige, also of Quincy, came in second at 26:27.

In the girls' 1-11 age group, Quincy's Erin Jones (second, 36:55) and Maria Della Croce (third, 38:11) both ran well.

Gerald McCarthy, 5, who is legally blind, was pushed in a stroller by his father, Dave McCarthy, of Quincy. Gerald received a trophy for finishing first in the blind category.

The wheelchair winner was Wayne Ross, who also was presented with a trophy for his efforts.

Quincy PAL Road Race Sunday At Pageant Field

The Quincy Police Athletic League will hold its eighth annual 3.5 Mile Classic Road Race this Sunday at 11 a.m.

Registration will be held at the entrance to Pageant Field, which will open at 9 a.m. the day of the race. Race organizers expect 600 to 800 runners to participate.

Proceeds from the race will go to the PAL program, which organizes youth activities in the city. The race's main sponsor is Roche Bros. Supermarkets.

Trophies will be awarded in a number of categories. The race, which will start and finish at Pageant Field, will include parts of Quincy Shore Drive and Furnace Brook Parkway.

For more information, call 328-9334.

North Girls Qualify For Allstate Track

Two North Quincy High School girls' spring track athletes—Maureen Holleran and Lynda Wilson—qualified for the Allstate meet with outstanding performances at last Saturday's MIAA Class A State Championships.

On a hot, humid day at Plymouth South High School, Holleran threw her personal best 108'4" in the javelin, placing second overall. Her previous best was 103'4" at the recent South Shore Principals meet. The throw was also the second best by a NQ sophomore, trailing only Georgia Traficante, a 1985 graduate (135'3").

Also a sophomore, Wilson placed third in the two-mile with a time of 12:09.6 and also had the best time (2:37.02) for North's 4x800 relay team. Other members of the 4x800 team were Sarah Houghton (a personal best 2:41.32), Genevieve O'Brien (2:49.26) and Linda Nguyen (2:54.38). The team total was 11:01.88.

Other highlights for North included the efforts of Kellie Johnston (27.7 in the 200), Jasmine Gonzalez (61.7 in the 400, seventh place), Claire Quilty (86'4" in the discus), Nicole Bertone (92'7" in the javelin, 85'0" in the discus), Ellen Tang (89'4" in the discus) and Sarah Beston (15'4 1/2" in the long jump, eighth place).

North's 4x100 relay team was comprised of Holleran (14.02), Colleen Lahar (14.32), Kim Hueth (14.60) and Sharon Lee (13.70). Total for the team was 56.64.

Running North's 4x400 relay were Gonzalez (62.03), Johnston (68.68), Kellie Conley (65.73) and KellyRose O'Brien (65.01). The team's total was 4:21.45.

Quincy Bounced From Tourney Presidents Battle Back, But Falter In Finale

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Despite a valiant comeback, the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team lost to Newton North, 3-2, in Monday's MIAA state tournament quarterfinal match.

The Presidents (12-7), who had not played in 10 days, came out sluggish and dropped the first two games of the best-of-five match, 12-15 and 16-14.

"After the second game, I told them we had nothing to lose," said Quincy coach Christine Barrett. "I also said they worked too hard to give up now, and told them to show me their pride, which they did in the next two games."

Trailing 2-0, the Presidents rebounded to win the third game, 15-12 and tied the match with a 15-13 victory in the fourth. That set up the fifth and deciding game, which Newton North captured, 15-5, to close out the match.

"We weren't out of gas; we just made some mistakes," said Barrett. "The kids battled back, giving it their all, and did all I can ask of them. I couldn't be any prouder of them."

Leading the way for Quincy were senior co-captains Jared Downey (36 assists, 10 digs and eight kills) and Eddie Smith (eight kills, 11 digs), both of whom were named to the South Alliance All-Star team, along with junior Jason Goldrick (16 kills, 11 digs, 12 blocks).

Quincy's other valuable seniors, DeMing Guan (seven digs) and Felix Chan (four kills, four digs) also contributed in the finale. Other key players were Juniors Matt Nicklas (nine kills, 10 assists, eight digs and five blocks) and Brian Chen (eight kills, 10 digs).

Guan and Nicklas received Honorable Mention honors from the South Alliance.

"The seniors led this team," said Barrett. "Their experience, leadership and commitment were so important to the success we had. I can't say enough about Jared and Eddie. They've been here four years, getting the team going, getting kids to play. We're definitely going to miss all the positives they brought to the team."

Reflecting on her first season at the helm, Barrett said she enjoyed the experience and looks forward to maintaining the tradition next spring.

"It was definitely a memorable season and I'm very pleased with how well it went," she said. "The kids were dedicated to the program and set a good example for future players to follow."

NQ's Tourney Opener Friday At Adams Field

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Following a successful regular season and a second-place finish in the Old Colony League, North Quincy High School's baseball team was justly rewarded in the MIAA state tournament pairings.

The Red Raiders (14-6), the No. 4 seed in Division 1 South, received a bye and will host a first-round game Friday at 4 p.m. at Adams Field. North will play the winner of No. 13 Brookline and No. 20 North Attleboro, a game which was played yesterday (Wednesday) at 2:30 p.m. at Brookline.

Although pleased with North's seeding and its bracket, NQ coach Dave Perdios is more concerned with his team's approach to the tournament opener.

"I'm happy with where we are in the tournament and that we'll get a home game, but we have to ready to play," he said. "The key for us will be coming to the game mentally prepared."

A victory in Friday's game would mean another home game for North next Monday at 4 p.m. at Adams Field. The opponent would be the winner of No. 5 Dennis-Yarmouth vs. No. 12 Walpole/No. 21 Milton winner.

North wrapped up the regular season last Thursday, facing host Falmouth in a battle for the OCL title. North outplayed the Clippers, but a six-run second lifted the home team to an 8-4 victory.

Falmouth scored the six runs on two bloop singles, two walks, two hit by pitches and two North errors.

"The better team lost that game," said Perdios. "We outplayed them in every facet except in that inning, and it cost us. We hit the ball all over the place and out hit them 12 to 6."

"I'm not disappointed with the way we played. It was disappointing for the kids not to win the title, but we have to look at the big picture. We have the tournament coming up, and that's much bigger."

North was paced offensively by John Sullivan, who had three hits, and Chris Bregoli, Chris Walsh, Bill Walker and Brian Linsky, who collected two hits apiece.

Rendle Volleyball Camp July 13-17

July 13-17.

The camp will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 2 p.m. Cost will be $95.

Rendle will team up with a number of college coaches and players, to instruct high school and college bound athletes in the skills and strategies of power volleyball.

Anyone interested in either camp should call Rendle at (617) 773-8522.

Jim Rendle, coach of the three-time state champion North Quincy High School girls' volleyball team, will conduct the third annual I Dig It Volleyball Camp at North Quincy High School

Raiders On Postseason Trip

Falmouth jumped ahead in its first at-bat, scoring three runs on an infield error with two outs. NQ came right back with two in the bottom of the first, then took the lead for good with a three-run outburst in the fifth. The Red Raiders added an insurance run in the sixth to seal an important triumph.

Deptula picked up the victory, scattering three hits and striking out two. She helped her own cause with two hits and two RBI. Junior Rachel Bonanni got the big hit, a two-run double in the third that pushed NQ ahead to stay. Flynn added an RBI on a sacrifice fly.

Last Wednesday, NQ edged visiting Plymouth South, 10-8. Junior pitcher

Renee Gillan started, but ran into control problems and was relieved by Deptula, who held PS to two hits over the final five innings. NQ broke open a 6-6 game with a four-run sixth and held off a two-run rally to win the game.

Skehan, who was named an OCL All-Star, sparked North's offense with a 4 for 4 effort, including three doubles and a single and two RBI. Keohane went 3 for 3, with a triple and two singles. Other offensive standouts were Bowes (2 for 4, RBI), Powers (triple), Deptula (2 for 3, three RBI), senior Danielle Likas (double, two RBI), sophomore Jessica Lorman (triple), Flynn (double) and Bonanni (RBI double).

The turning point in North's late-season success, said Doyle, came May 19 against OCL nemesis Silver Lake. Behind the excellent pitching of Deptula (four hits, three strikeouts, no walks), the Red Raiders rallied from a 2-0 deficit and won the game, 3-2.

"That was our biggest game of the season to that point," said Doyle. "Kristy pitched an unbelievable game and we finally beat them. We'd play them close, but couldn't pull out a victory—until now."

"I told them this would make their season and they wanted it more than anything. It was a very big win and kept our postseason hopes alive."

Deptula also came through at the plate, going 2 for 3 with two RBI, sparking North's three-run third. Skehan went 2 for 3 with an RBI, Powers went 2 for 3 and Flynn, Bowes and senior Jessica Flannigan each collected a hit.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Since earliest times anger has been of concern to religious people. Primitive rituals frequently centered around the problems caused by the anger of people or of the gods. Anger separated Enos and Jacob. Moses, in anger, smashed the tablets containing the Law. Saul threw a spear at David. And so on.

In our own time we continue to be concerned with anger because, as in Biblical times, there is still a lot of anger felt and expressed. Children angry at parents; parents angry at children; anger in the home; anger in the privacy of our own thoughts. Politicians angry at one another.

The Biblical attitude toward anger is quite realistic. On one hand, anger is recognized as potentially destructive. Admonitions directed toward the control of anger are recorded; as examples, "A soft answer turns away wrath" (Proverbs 15:1) and "... do not let the sun go down on your anger" (Ephesians 4:26). On the other hand, anger is recognized as a normal human emotion: "Be angry but do not sin" (Ephesians 4:26), and even at times as a divine attribute: "... God's wrath has come upon them at last" (I Thessalonians 2:16). God is, however, also pictured repeatedly as being "slow to anger," and Christians are encouraged to avoid angering either God or other people: "Fathers - do not provoke your children to anger..." (Ephesians 6:4).

Could it be said that a better life is in store when these Biblical expressions are understood and practiced? ...

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS
FOR ENGINEERING REVIEW AND EVALUATION
OFNORTHWEST QUINCY AREA
DRAINAGE IMPROVEMENT PROJECT STUDIES

The City of Quincy, acting through its Commissioner of Public Works, is soliciting proposals from qualified Engineering firms to evaluate an existing hydraulic study, conceptual drainage system layout and the schematic designs for the North Quincy Drainage Improvement Project. Sealed proposals, in triplicate, must be received by 1:00 p.m., local time, on Tuesday, June 16, 1998 at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works at 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169.

The project objective is to modify and/or upgrade the existing Drainage System to provide an adequate runoff carrying capacity and to eliminate local flooding during storms.

The design and related services shall consist of, (but not be limited to) technical review and evaluation of existing hydraulic studies, engineering criteria, system layout and schematic designs of the proposed improvements for the existing drainage system which shall include:

- Installation of new or upgrading of existing drain lines and appurtenances.
- Restoration of all roads, sidewalks and other amenities/facilities impacted by the proposed improvements.
- Field work as related to the verification of design restraints such as utility interferences, soil conditions, flood plain/resource areas and physiographic features.
- Permitting aspects of project designs as proposed and charges required for conforming with the applicable regulations.
- Project Cost Estimates based on the preferred design layout.
- Estimated number of man hours and fees for services as outlined in items (a) through (e).

The proposal forms may be obtained during business hours from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works on or after May 13, 1998. Prospective applicants may view existing documentation in the Engineering Division of the Dept. of Public Works, 55 Sea Street on or after May 13, 1998.

A non-refundable deposit of $10.00 in cash or bank check, payable to the City of Quincy, will be required for each set of proposal forms. Firms requesting proposal forms by mail shall also include a separate non-refundable check payable to the City of Quincy, in the amount of $5.00 per set to cover the costs of shipping and handling.

"Within the last year, I had gotten to the point of no return with the pain," he said.

McDermott said he should be walking without crutches within two weeks, at which point he still will require the aid of a cane. He plans to attend next week's City Council Finance Committee sessions on Mayor James Sheets's proposed municipal budget June 8 and 9 and the council's next regular meeting June 15, but he will miss a special meeting June 29 because of the second surgery.

He added that hopes to be at full strength and resume bicycling and other activities by Aug. 1.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment

Project Hero Campaign Reaches $23,285 Rung

Project Hero is inching closer to the halfway point of its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its 11th week at the $23,285 rung and is starting its 12th week with $26,715 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units--helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

Anthony and Carol Broccoli, Marguerita A. Malono-In Memory of Aloysius R. Tobin, Lt. Q.F.D.; Gene and Katherine

Lee, Merrymount Association, James and Ruth Craig, Charles and Faye Vlassakis, Whitridge Associates Inc., Jack Kelley, Thomas and Kathleen Zuffante, Ann R. McCarthy-In Memory of Ruth W. McCarthy, Dr. Jeremiah and Gail Ryan, Thomas and Lorraine Holbrook.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

Remember Me?

Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star-Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your flag, the flag of the United States of America.

I remember some time ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade, and naturally, I was always there, proudly waving in the breeze.

When your daddy saw me coming, he immediately removed his hat and placed it over his heart. Remember? And you, I remember you standing there straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat but you were giving the right salute.

Remember your little sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you, with her hand over her heart. Remember?

What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have added a few more stars since you were a boy, and a lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago. But I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street, you just stand there with your hands in your pockets. I may get a small glance but then you look away.

I see the children running around and shouting. They don't seem to know who I am. I saw one man take off his hat and look around. He didn't see anybody else with his hat off so he quickly put his back on. Is it a sin to be patriotic anymore? Have you forgotten what I stand for and where I've been? Anzio, Normandy, Omaha Beach, Guadalcanal, Korea and Vietnam.

Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls some time. Look at the names of those who never came back in order to keep this Republic free. One nation, under God. When you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So, when you see me, stand straight, place your right hand over your heart. I'll salute you by waving back. And I'll know that you remembered.

(The above poem was submitted by Debora Nigro of Pelican Road, Adams Shore, who says it is read each year on Memorial Day at a little chapel in Sebago, Me. She feels it is also appropriate for Flag Day, which it certainly is. She doesn't know who wrote the poem. We don't either. Does anyone?)

Kolson To Set Public Hearing

Quarry St. Project Plan Filed With City

By MICHAEL WHALEN
A Cambridge firm has filed its plan to build a luxury apartment and senior residential community on Quarry Street in West Quincy with the city.

City Council President Peter Kolson said he plans to schedule a public hearing to gather community input on whether Congress Group Ventures, a real estate development firm, should be allowed to develop the 75-acre parcel. The project would total about 1,600 units, he said.

"This is the most serious application as yet for the site," said Kolson, who did not have a date for the planned public hearing at press time. "I know it's going to spark an awful lot of controversy because of the size of it. It's a big, big, big project."

PETER KOLSON
"It's a big, big, big project."

Kolson noted that several community meetings already have been held on the project, which would be built on a parcel that includes several quarries—including Fallon's and Hardwick—and formerly was used as a dump site. Currently, it is vacant land zoned Planned Unit Development (PUD).

Because the City Council and the Quincy Planning Board both would have to approve the project, Congress Group Ventures filed its PUD permit application with the City Clerk's Office and the Planning Department, according to City Clerk Joseph Shea.

Congress Group Ventures purchased the parcel for $8.5 million last year. Officials from the firm told The Quincy Sun in February that the construction costs for the proposed development could total around $100 million.

At that time, the Congress Group officials also said they see a number of positives for the city resulting from the project, including construction of a state-of-the-art luxury apartment and senior residential community, elimination of contamination problems at the site, increased real estate and excise tax revenue for the city, the end of drainage and runoff problems at the parcel caused by rain, a "passive open space" component that will remain open to the public, construction jobs, and more.

City officials—including Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, whose ward includes the proposed site and Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico, whose ward borders it—have cited traffic and other concerns about the Congress Group plan, saying residents have similar reservations.

Still, both councillors told The Sun in February they want to be open-minded about the proposal.

Council Looks Into E-911 Call

The May 6 death of a resident at Tobin Towers in Wollaston was among the topics of a City Council Public Safety Committee meeting Monday, June 15 at 6:45 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, also will hold a meeting open to all Tobin Towers residents to discuss the incident tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. on the 12th floor of Tobin Towers, 80 Clay St.

Claire Jones, 75, suffered a stroke at Tobin Towers on May 6 but died after an ambulance initially went to O'Brien Towers in Germantown, another building under the jurisdiction of the Quincy Housing Authority.

The police department dispatcher sent the ambulance to the wrong location because the department's Enhanced 911 (E911) screen incorrectly showed the call came from 73 Bicknell St., the address of the Germantown facility.

Although the ambulance eventually got to Tobin Towers, Jones died five days later at Boston Medical Center.

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday the mistake that caused the problem—which he blamed on a Bell Atlantic mistake in labeling and wiring phones lines—has been corrected but added that he wants the incident to be further investigated.

The Public Safety Committee, at its June 15 meeting, also will receive an update on modifications to the E911 system recommended by the Quincy Firefighters Union.

No QHS Student In Dynamite School Threat

John "Butch" Mahoney says he wants to set the record straight about an incident last Friday involving a high school student who threatened to strap dynamite around his body and blow himself up in school.

Mahoney, social health coordinator for the Quincy Public Schools, said at press time the student was a freshman at North Quincy High School, not a Quincy High School student as reported in Tuesday's Patriot Ledger.

He said he wanted to assure parents who would be attending Quincy High's graduation this week they would have no need to fear for their safety because of any kind of bomb threat.

"All they know right now (from the Ledger story) is that there's a bomber at Quincy High, and that's totally untrue," said Mahoney. "The story was inaccurate, and that's very unfair to the parents."

Meanwhile, the North Quincy High freshman—who was arrested by Mahoney on Friday and later arraigned on a charge of threatening to commit a crime, three counts of assault and battery and a charge of disorderly conduct—has been released on

Flag Day Parade, Celebration Saturday

The city's 47th annual Flag Day Parade and Celebration will be held Saturday beginning at 7 p.m.

Simone Koch will be the grand marshal for the event. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Koch Club, founded by her late husband, Richard Koch. He was also the founder of the Flag Day Parade.

Sponsored by the City of Quincy, the Quincy Partnership and the Koch Club, the festivities will feature a parade, a flag-raising ceremony and an impressive fireworks display.

The fireworks show following the parade will commence at approximately 9 p.m.

The parade will feature many marching bands, color guards, floats, mounted units, veterans organizations, antique vehicles, community organizations and the old-fashioned pomp and circumstance of years past that has made the event one of the finest family-oriented celebrations on the South Shore. The highlight of the parade will be the participation of 2,500 flag-waving youngsters from the city's various youth organizations.

This year's musical contingent will feature the Boston Crusaders Drum Corps. The Crusaders were established in 1940 and have competed nationally and internationally for many years. They currently perform with 128 members. They have been a semi-finalist in the International Drum Corps Championships for 10 consecutive years.

In addition, the following bands will participate: Quincy High School, North Quincy High School, Crann Tara Pipe Band, Boston Gaelic Fire Brigade, Boston City Band, Tulach And Ard Pipe Band, Bourne High School, New Bedford High School, and New Bedford Jr. High School.

The parade will feature a variety of specialty units including: The Quincy Police Mounted Unit, Silver Dolphin Drill Team, the Cycling Murrays, the National Flag Track, antique fire engines from the Bare Cove Fire Museum, US Army military vehicles, and many color guards in historical-period uniform.

In 1952, Mrs. Koch founded the Koch Club girl's softball program in North Quincy. After starting with 14 girls, the program soon expanded to other areas in the city, allowing thousands of young girls a valuable recreational opportunity in a time when there were few such opportunities for females.

The parade route will begin on Coddington St. near Quincy Center. It will proceed up Coddington St. to Hancock St. before heading north to Southern Artery. The parade will then head down Southern Artery and end at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park.

The parade route will be lined with flags donated by the families of deceased veterans. The flags pay homage to those who fought to protect our great country. The display adds significantly to the patriotic atmosphere of the parade. Those interested in donating a loved one's memorial flag, may contact Ed Keohane of Keohane Funeral Homes on Hancock St., Wollaston.

Immediately after the parade, there will be a flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field. The 45 foot by 90 foot Mount Rushmore flag will be raised during the playing of the National Anthem.

Once the flag-raising ceremony is complete, spectators can remain at Pageant field and enjoy the fireworks celebration. The show will be conducted over Black's Creek. The best viewing areas will be at Pageant Field and along the eastern portion Quincy Shore Drive.

The Atlas Fireworks Company has coordinated their efforts with Quincy's WJDA-1300 AM to simulcast their display with patriotic music. Please listen to WJDA for any parade-related information.

MAKING THE GRADE

Viscosity index is a measure of an oil's thickness, which is denoted by numbers ranging from 5W (5-weight) to 50-W. The higher the number, the thicker and slower-flowing the oil. While high-viscosity oil provides better lubrication, they find it hard to circulate through the engine in cold ambient temperatures. Lower viscosity oils flow more easily, but do not provide as thick a cushion of lubrication. Thus, multi-grade oils were developed to combine the best characteristics of each. Such multi-grades as 5W-30 and 15W-40 remain thin at low temperatures to help circulation and ease engine starts, but thicken at higher temperatures for optimum protection. This is accomplished by adding polymers to low-viscosity oil, which expand to make the oil thicker at higher temperatures.

Our ASE Certified service technicians at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO will do their part in making sure your car is properly maintained, whether it is something as simple as an oil change to more complex engine work. Here at 288 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree, (781-843-1550), we look forward to meeting you and to giving your car the same level of personal attention we give our own. We use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: The polymers found in multi-grade oils contract at low temperatures and do not affect the viscosity of the low-viscosity base to which they are added.

THOMAS W. FRANE
CHIEF OF POLICE

Hanna Named Community Policing Commission Director

Quincy Police Department Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna has been selected by Police Chief Thomas Frane and Mayor James Sheets to be the director of the city's new community policing commission.

Hanna, a 29-year veteran of the force, was named to the position after Sheets and Frane asked the City Council to cut the $42,500-a-year salary for a civilian director from the mayor's proposed municipal budget for Fiscal Year 1999, which begins July 1.

Sheets said Frane wanted someone from within the department to be the director, and he agreed.

"The chief felt it would be best to have an in-house person assume that responsibility, and I supported that position," he said.

Neither Frane nor Hanna could be reached for comment.

Hanna, who earned nearly $67,000 last year with overtime, will continue to earn his regular salary.

Sheets said Hanna's responsibilities as coordinator of Quincy's community crime watch and Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE) programs make him more than qualified for the community policing position. He added that Frane initially recommended Hanna for the job.

"He's certainly going to do a great job," said Sheets.

Hanna's selection as the commission's director coincided with the announcement by Sheets and Frane that Kathy Bandera, the part-time civilian director, would not be rehired.

Last month, Bandera caused some friction by accusing police of failing to respond to reports of neighborhood crime and complaining that her $30,000, 20-hour-a-week salary was too low. The $42,500 originally placed into the mayor's budget would have allowed her to be rehired full-time.

The City Council Finance Committee, at the request of the mayor and the chief, voted 6-3 Monday night to eliminate the position. Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymonds, who authored the city's community policing ordinance establishing the commission, was joined by Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers in voting to keep the position in the budget.

Frane has said the shift of the director's duties will not affect the community policing position because the chief serves as chairman. He said he hopes to have the 21-member commission, which is still being formed, hold an informal session this summer before it begins its official meetings in the fall.

The City Council vote to eliminate the $42,500-a-year position brought the total amount the Finance Committee has cut from the mayor's proposed $158.2 million Fiscal Year 1999, which must be passed in some form by this month, to $48,500. A sum of $5,000 was omitted from the police contractual line Monday night, while a $1,000 bank charge service was subtracted at a previous meeting.

The City Council has the power to make cuts in the mayor's proposed budget but cannot add to it.

It's Back To The Beachcomber

The old Beachcomber on 797 Quincy Shore Drive will revert back to its original name from Nostalgia.

The License Board Tuesday granted permission to owner James P. McGettrick to change the name back to the Beachcomber. It's been called Nostalgia for almost 20 years.

Chairman Joseph Shea said "I always called it the Beachcomber" even when it changed its name to Nostalgia.

McGettrick answered "so did everyone else".

When asked why he was changing the name back, McGettrick said "approaching almost 40 years of owning the business, I thought it was time to go back to my roots."

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers said McGettrick has a good reputation in the city and said he helps the community "behind the scenes."

Head Of The Household

The women's equal rights movement appears to be still pretty much alive.

The city of Quincy is in the process of updating its annual street listing of residents as required by the state.

One of the categories on the form mailed out some weeks ago seems to have some women a little miffed. That's: The head of the household.

The names of past listed residents are already on the forms and with one in each residence already designated by computer as the head of the household.

The letter "Y" for "Yes" appears beside that name, usually that of the husband. And the letter "N" for "No," usually beside the wife's name.

One wife sent the form back to the city clerk's office with an arrow pointed to the letter "N" and the comment "very sexist."

Another sent hers back with the acid comment: "We are equal in this house."

But, according to the city clerk's office, it isn't about sexism or equality. It's about age.

The date of birth for each resident also appears on the form.

So, the "Y" for head of the household goes beside the oldest person according to the date of birth. And, usually, the husband is the oldest person in the household.

The woman of the house can get the head of the household designation if she is older than the man of the house. Or, by fibbing she is older.

But what woman would ever fib about that!

But some women, no doubt, will take offense to the head-of-the-house designation regardless of the age factor. And probably won't be happy until they somehow get that category off the form.

But right now, though, there is no hint of any planned protest march on City Hall. Or the State House.

MAYORAL MILESTONE: Mayor James Sheets turned 63 last week and the office staff surprised him with a birthday cake.

The job seems to agree with him. He doesn't look any older now than when he first took office eight years ago.

Maybe it's because he keeps active. Even when he's on vacation.

Did you know that when he does go on vacation he takes along a laptop computer to keep up with his workload?

Flag Day Fireworks Synchronized With Patriotic Music On WJDA

The Flag Day Committee announces an agreement has been reached to synchronize the Flag Day fireworks with patriotic music to be broadcast on WJDA AM-1300.

The fireworks display will be held after the Flag Day parade Saturday. The fireworks show will commence at approximately 9 p.m. over Black's Creek.

WJDA has collaborated with Atlas Advanced Pyrotechnics to create the coordinated audio and visual display. The computer-choreographed display will be synchronized to a variety of patriotic music. Songs featured include: "You're a Grand Old Flag," "1812 Overture," the theme for each branch of the military and many other patriotic favorites.

Atlas Advanced Pyrotechnics has been in the fireworks business for over 45 years. In 1994, they won first place in the North American Fireworks Competition. They have also competed in many international fireworks competitions.

The fireworks show will feature over 1,200 colorful shells. The best viewing location will be at Pageant Field. Spectators are urged to bring a lawn chair or blanket for seating.

The show can also be seen along the Merrymount side of Wollaston Beach. Even those who cannot attend the fireworks can enjoy the patriotic arrangement on WJDA.

The fireworks will cap off an evening of celebration. At 7 p.m., the 47th annual Flag Day parade will feature: bands, floats, color guards, specialty units and thousands of flag-waving youths.

After the parade, there will be a flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field which will be highlighted by the raising of the 45' by 90' Mt. Rushmore flag.

JUST CAN'T LET Bill Ketter leave town without wishing him well.

Ketter has left the Patriot Ledger after 20 years as editor there. During his watch, the newspaper racked up some national and regional awards and upped its circulation.

The Ledger, as you know, is under new ownership (Newspaper Media LLC) and Ketter says for him "it's time to move on."

He is doing some consulting work for other newspapers, including The Boston Globe. And, if he likes it, he may open his own newspaper consulting firm full-time.

He's got the talent and know-how to be an asset to any newspaper. And besides that, he's a classy guy and a straight shooter.

I've enjoyed our relationship these past 20 years and wish him success in whatever he decides to do.

Thanks for the friendship, Bill. And many good headlines ahead.

POLITICAL BUMPER STICKER combinations seen around town. On one car, not too surprising: Bellotti (Sheriff), Ayers (State Representative), Tobin (State Representative). And on another, a little intriguing: Flood (Sheriff), O'Donnell (District Attorney).

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS AN EARLY 1930's postcard view of the beach along the north shore of Houghs Neck. Great Hill is in the distance, beyond what was known as the North Harbor. With the Boston Harbor cleanup nearly completed, Quincy's beaches like this one should see increased usage. Perhaps some day residents will be able to dig clams here again. Hopefully the access will be less precarious than that afforded by the trail in the foreground.

We Need To Listen To Our Children

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It's interesting how we lament the changes to institutions in our community: long-standing businesses that close down or are swallowed up by a larger business. It shakes our confidence in what we have come to rely on.

What really worries me, however, is the failing of a more fundamental institution. Thirty years ago, Webster defined family as "the basic unit in society having as its nucleus two or more adults living together in the care and rearing of their own or adopted children." For too many kids, that definition is a fantasy.

For some, even when there are two parents, the "parenting" doesn't happen.

Too many kids left to their own devices have closed down emotionally. Some of them have made their mark literally in places like Edinboro, Pa.; Jonesboro, Ark.; West Paducah, Ky.; Pearl, Miss.; and Springfield, Ore. where over the past 16 months, school shootings by seven children have left a teacher, principal and a dozen fellow students dead.

The experts have their rationale. They point to the violent images that saturate our media, or the culture of guns that permits children (in some cases) as young as 6 to possess guns and be trained in shooting. Globe columnist Jeff Jacoby lays it at the feet of American public schools that he claims are devoid "of rigorous education, clear values, and serious discipline."

I suppose it is far easier to blame a system to which we have abdicated so much parental responsibility than it is to stand back and take a look at ourselves. Too many adults today are hearing- and sight-impaired when it comes to what our kids really want or truly need.

Although we have much to be proud of and grateful for in our own little corner of the world we call Quincy, we can't be lulled into thinking that we have somehow mastered that which has created such heartache elsewhere. It's important that we pay attention.

There's an old expression that says we were given one tongue and two ears so that we could listen twice as well as we speak. Today, as a parent and a professional, I'm going to try even harder to be a really, really good listener. For our kids' sake, as well as our own. It's something we all need to do consistently.

Thanks Those Who Helped With Reilly Park Cleanup

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On Saturday, May 16 the second annual Richard M. Reilly Cleanup took place.

I would like to publicly thank Caryl Kennedy for organizing the event, arranging for donations from the area businesses within the city. Thanks to Sen. Michael Morrissey for tirelessly working with the City of Quincy and the MDC Commissioner's Office to get the water turned on.

Also the many corporate sponsors, Fleet Bank, Home Depot, Stop & Shop, Regal Egg & Produce, Newcomb Farms, Eagle Farm, Cathay

Pacific. Without their sponsorship and donations this event would not have been such a success.

I would also like to thank Glen McAuliff, manager of Wollaston Beach Operations, for the MDC who had all the equipment on hand and removed the debris from the area, and the many family, friends and neighbors who came out to help or donated flowers.

In addition to Sen. Morrissey, others representing the city were Ward 6 Councilor Bruce Ayers along with his spouse, Maureen, and State Rep. Michael Bellotti. The high turnout of volunteers was a tribute to my brother's memory. On behalf of the Reilly-Barriere family, I would like to say thank you. It makes me quite proud to live in a city where acts of kindness and generosity are still alive and well.

Wollaston Yacht Club To Rebuild

By PAUL HAROLD

Following a fire that totally destroyed the Wollaston Yacht Club, the members voted at an emergency meeting to rebuild at existing site.

M.D.C. Commissioner William Morrissey told Commodore Philip Doherty that the commission would support the club's efforts. Meanwhile, the Squantum Yacht Club's acting Commodore Stanley Rawson extended a fraternal hand, offering the use of the club's facilities to the WYC boatsmen.

Total replacement costs were estimated at $100,000, while news reports pegged the insurance coverage at only $21,000.

Killed in the fire was Hugh Tobin, the newly hired caretaker.

BRIDGE FROM QUINCY TO LONG ISLAND SEEN

City of Boston representatives testified before a legislative committee this week, pushing for legislation that would provide for a $2 million bridge connecting Long Island to the mainland at Squantum's Moon Island. The need for the bridge was evidenced by the high cost of shipping supplies to the city's Long Island Hospital.

The 3,500-foot-long span was proposed for the "Big Way" in lower Boston Harbor between Long Island and Moon Island. The 50-foot clearance would allow for boats to pass underneath.

MERCHANTS PROTEST PARKING METERS

Realtor Nelson Riggs, speaking on behalf of Wollaston businessmen, called on the city to remove the recently installed parking meters along Beale St. He said that the new meters were driving away business.

Councillor Edna Austin also spoke out against the meters at this week's council meeting. She said that women in particular were opposed to the use of parking meters in the city. She said women were not opposed to the cost or the skill required to maneuver into the space, but noted that the one-hour limit was not long enough to get a permanent.

Michelle Proude Performer At USS Constitution Museum

Michelle Proude, a 1985 graduate of North Quincy High School, regularly plays the role of Ann Hull at the USS Constitution Museum in Boston.

Proude, a Hull resident who has been involved with the City Stage Acting Company for six years, next will play the role during the museum's Harborfest Celebration from Tuesday, June 30 to Sunday, July 3. Admission to the museum and performance are free.

Ann Hull was the wife of Capt. Isaac Hull, commander of the USS Constitution during the War of 1812.

For more information about the museum and its events, call 426-1812.

Abigail Adams Re-Enactment At Adams Birthplace Sunday

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site will conduct a re-enactment on Sunday, June 14, to commemorate the experience of Abigail Adams on the day of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Participants will assemble at the Adams National Historic Site Birthplaces, located at 133-141 Franklin St., Quincy at 1 p.m. where they will be greeted by "Abigail Adams." Informed of the battle underway in Charlestown by a soldier who recently returned from Boston, Mrs. Adams enjoins the crowd to accompany her to the top of Penn's Hill (500 yards away - comfortable shoes suggested) to witness the conflict from this vantage point.

She shares with participants a letter she has composed to her husband, John Adams, who is at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, of the events of June 17, 1775.

The day's events will also include an opportunity for participants to "join, train, and fight" with the local Revolutionary militia in a mock battle with Red Coats.

Light refreshments will be served at the end of the program.

Limited street parking is available on Franklin St. and on Presidents' Ave.

For more information, call Adams National Historic Site Visitor Center at (617) 770-1175.

YOUR TRANSMISSION SPECIALISTS

Ask yourself what the basic function of the foot is, and you might reply that it has something to do with supporting the body when walking or standing. Actually, the foot's job is not that simple. With its 28 bones and six principal ligaments, the foot is a complicated structure designed to transmit the basic support provided by a walking surface (hardwood floor, concrete, etc.) to the upright body. In this pivotal role, the foot becomes a shock absorber as it hits the ground, then uses the information it receives from that contact to either hold the body stable and upright or propel it forward, transmitting the critical information about the pressure or resistance supplied by the ground surface.

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. Feet that must function on hard, non-resilient supporting structures such as concrete floors are prone to developing problems.

Walsh's Owner Receives Plaque, Commendation N.Q. Restaurateur Honored By Council

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Longtime Walsh's Restaurant owner Andy Walsh was honored last week by the City Council.

Walsh recently announced he is selling the 65-year-old North Quincy establishment—which he took over in 1972 after his father Michael's death—to Quincy real estate broker Daniel Flynn, citing the increasing popularity of fast food and take-out restaurants as a major reason.

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers presented Walsh with a special City Council commendation and a plaque commemorating the year Walsh took over the family business.

Ayers praised Walsh for his longtime support of local sports teams and the North Quincy Business and Professional Association. He said small business owners like Walsh have helped Quincy's tax base and created jobs for many individuals.

"They (businesses) are basically the backbone of the community," he said.

Councillor Paul Harold

called the honor "a well-deserved tribute." Added Councillor Francis McCauley, "Your establishment had a very good reputation over the years."

Council President Peter Kolson said Walsh is the type of business owner and "good neighbor" who helps build up a community such as Quincy.

"You weren't just there to make a buck," said Kolson. "You became a part of the community."

Walsh, joined by several family members at the council meeting, said he was "deeply honored" by the praise but added it should really go to his late father and brother Alan whose funeral he attended last week in Baltimore. He said he appreciated the support he received over the years from the City Council and the Quincy License Board.

He also noted that although the business is being sold, he has no plans to pack up and leave the area.

"I'll be around," he said. "I love Quincy."

Economic Specialist Hired At Quincy 2000

Quincy 2000, the city's public-private planning corporation, announces the hiring of Ann Fisher of Boston as its new economic development specialist.

Fisher previously worked as the loan fund coordinator for Jewish Vocational Services (JVS) in Boston, where she drafted and analyzed business plans, packaged loans for review by the Loan Committee, and managed loan funds.

She also provided technical assistance to clients and administered the Loan Review Committee at JVS.

"Ann has approximately seven years of experience in the economic development field," said Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino. "She has worked extensively with start-up businesses, assisting with both writing business plans and locating capital. She has also worked with existing businesses that experience financing, expansion and consolidation issues.

"Ann's responsibilities at Quincy 2000 include managing the Loan Pool Program, assisting new and existing businesses prepare business plans, and providing business support services to businesses. These services are available to any new or existing Quincy business that can show a need."

The Quincy 2000 Loan Pool is a $5 million loan pool funded by BankBoston, Citizens Bank, Century Bank, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Fleet Bank, Eastern Bank, Rockland Trust, State Street Bank, US Trust and Weymouth Savings Bank.

Fisher said, "One of my first goals will be to develop a Business Resource Development Center in Quincy 2000's office. In the Center, individuals will be able to access useful resources, put together a business plan, and explore business financing options such as the Quincy 2000 Loan Pool."

Fisher, a graduate of Barnard College in New York and Georgetown University, replaces Charnan Bray who left Quincy 2000 in March after about a month on the job. Bray took a position in Waltham because she wanted to change careers and work closer to her home, Mannarino said.

Bray had replaced Downtown Development Coordinator Bruce Arons, who left Quincy 2000 after about 18 months to accept a job in Middleborough.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

'Relax, Enjoy, Restore'

Christine's Electrology & Day Spa Offers Wide Variety Of Services

By LIAM FITZGERALD

In this hectic, fast-paced society, it's often difficult for people to set aside time for themselves, away from the stresses of everyday life.

At Christine's Electrology & Day Spa, located at 1073 Hancock St., Suite 401, Quincy Center, you can do just that—and more.

Christine Sardina, a registered electrologist and instructor, and her experienced, professional staff offer a wide variety of services from facials, manicures and pedicures, to massage and electrology, a permanent hair removal procedure.

"We invite you to step into our world of pampering, our casually elegant atmosphere and discover what you've been missing," said Sardina, who has been in the business for 12 years, the last six at her present location. "Our priority is taking time with each client, to allow the person to relax before and after the treatment without feeling rushed."

When you walk into the spa, a sense of calm and well-being takes over. The air is softly scented and sweet music plays in the background.

"We're unlike other spas," said Sardina, "which are exposed to the street. A saying we often use here is 'relax, enjoy and restore.'"

For those unfamiliar with what electrology is and what its benefits are, Sardina explains: "Electrology, which involves disposable needles, is the only method allowed to be advertised as permanent hair removal. At the consultation, we explain the procedure, and the client leaves each appointment completely free of hair. It is a series of treatments, though, not a one-shot deal."

At Christine's, the electrology is done by the most qualified, registered and state licensed electrologists.

"Electrology's been around since 1878 and is very popular, but people seem to try everything else first to get rid of unwanted hair," said Sardina. "That stimulates the hair and makes it stronger and more difficult to remove. We recommend electrology first, so as not to make it harder on yourself."

Initially, Sardina's business was strictly electrology, until she expanded it into a full-service day spa to offer a complete range of treatments for the body and the mind.

CHRISTINE SARDINA, registered electrologist and instructor at Christine's Electrology & Day Spa, invites the public "to step into our world of pampering, our casually elegant atmosphere and discover what you've been missing." The spa, which offers full electrology treatment, various facials, massages, body and nail services, is located at 1073 Hancock St., Suite 401, Quincy.

"I needed to expand about a year ago," said Sardina, a graduate of the Kelly School of Electrology in Quincy. "The electrology business got very big and things have gone very well."

Another popular service, the facial, includes a number of types for all kinds of skin: European-style deep cleansing facial, which is thorough but gentle and suitable even for sensitive skins; hydrating facial; the four-layer facial and the collagen facial.

Sardina also recommends the various massages her business offers, citing how beneficial they are to one's health.

"Massages can do so much for your well-being," she said. "Having it done weekly may seem indulgent, but new research has suggested that it can have major health benefits."

As Sardina points out, anyone who has rubbed a stiff neck knows that massage relieves pain and muscle tension and leaves the client feeling energized and refreshed. Massage also reduces blood pressure and boosts the immune system, among other benefits.

"They're great for people with stressful jobs and for parents busy with raising families," said Sardina. "And also for women who've had mastectomies and have had lymph nodes removed. When they have that procedure, lymphatic fluid collects and causes swelling. Massage alleviates that by dispersing fluids."

But the benefits don't stop there. Massage also eases the inflammation of sprains and other injuries and aids those who are plagued by insomnia or who just need to relax.

"A Swedish massage, with its soothing strokes, may be all you need," said Sardina. "For muscle spasms and related problems, a deep tissue massage may be more helpful."

If that wasn't enough, Christine's also performs a number of body services, including a peppermint sea twist (body wrap), eyelash and eyebrow tint, paraffin treatments, therapeutic massages, and anti-fatigue foot treatments.

Sardina is especially proud of the peppermint sea twist, which won the 1996 Abby's Award for best new salon treatment. The twist is a full-body thermal wrap with the aromatic combination of peppermint oil with fresh marine seaweed to stimulate, rejuvenate and oxygenate, according to Sardina. The treatment improves circulation as it helps detoxify the body of unwanted toxins while nourishing the skin.

For weddings, proms or other special occasions, Christine's can take care of the makeup aspect and offers special packages for brides and bridal parties. Also, you are able to create your own package. Gift certificates, including a half day and a day spa of beauty, are also available.

A Quincy resident for 15 years and currently living in Wollaston, Sardina has found the spa's location to be quite to her liking for a variety of reasons.

"It's convenient for everyone," she said. "It made sense to open in Quincy, because a lot of people either work or travel through the city and have access to the spa."

"It's also five minutes from the Quincy Center T station and easily accessible from the highway. You also don't have to worry about traffic going into Boston and then having to find parking."

Speaking of which, the business has ample parking in front and back, so clients never have to worry about locating a parking spot.

Open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sardina said she occasionally extends her hours to accommodate her clients. For an appointment, call 786-1620.

"Our busiest time is usually from 3 to 9 p.m.," she said. "Sometimes we're open until 10. Also, sometimes we'll open at 7 a.m., so we're pretty flexible when it comes to our hours."

Up to this point, Christine's has thrived on clients' word of mouth and the Yellow Pages, but would like to attract an even larger following.

"I want to get the word out and let people know we're here," said Sardina. "I'd like them to come here and experience the best."

O'Connor & Drew Leases 20,000 Sq. Feet Downtown

O'Connor & Drew, PC of Quincy has leased 20,000 square feet of office space on the fourth floor of 1515 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, announces Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino.

In making the announcement, Mannarino was joined by O'Connor & Drew partners Harry Salerno, Joseph Greenspan, and William Lucey.

"Approximately one year ago Quincy 2000 discovered that O'Connor & Drew were planning to relocate," said Mannarino. "We worked hard to ensure that they would remain in the City of Quincy. Quincy 2000 is pleased to announce O'Connor & Drew will be relocating within the city, from 400 Crown Colony Drive in Quincy Center. We are extremely pleased that they have chosen to remain a member of the Quincy business community."

O'Connor & Drew, PC—a 50-year-old certified public accounting firm—moved to Quincy's Crown Colony Office Park in 1987. The company will move its 80 employees to their new home in Quincy Center following renovations that will be completed in August.

Salerno, president of O'Connor & Drew, said the company had been searching for a new headquarters in the Quincy area for over a year. "Our company has made a commitment to the City of Quincy. The Quincy Center location offers us easy access to the Burgin Parkway and Routes 3, 93 and 128. More importantly, there are amenities located in Quincy Center that are just not available in office park settings."

Locating our office among the new restaurants and retail stores in Quincy Center is a big benefit to our employees and clients," said Lucey, principal at O'Connor & Drew. Lucey cited Quincy's business friendly attitude among the primary reasons they chose to remain in the city.

"Mayor Sheets and the staff at Quincy 2000 made a concerted effort to assist us in locating a quality site for our firm," said Lucey.

According to Lucey, other reasons for locating their office in Quincy Center include the construction of the Concourse roadway connecting Burgin Parkway and Hancock Street, the MBTA's Red Line and Old Colony Rail Line stations in Quincy Center, and the public and private investments that have stimulated a revitalization of Quincy Center.

Georges Island Trip For Realtors Assn. June 23

The South Shore Association of Realtors Social Committee will host the fifth annual "Aweigh We Go Again" Boston Harbor trip to Georges Island on Tuesday, June 23.

Olde Bostonian: Preserving Architectural Antiques

By LIAM FITZGERALD
In the market for architectural antiques to give your modern home an Old Victorian look?

Then stop by Olde Bostonian, a business that has preserved and refinished doors, windows, mantels and cabinets, among other items which date back a few centuries, for the past 17 years.

"We specialize in stripping and refinishing, making whatever piece it is, no matter how old, look brand new," said David Greenwood of Quincy, owner of Olde Bostonian, located at 66 Von Hillern St., Dorchester. "It's all about beautifying the house; that's our main objective."

Greenwood and his experienced, knowledgeable staff focus on recovering the antique's original beauty while ridding it of harmful lead residue.

"That's one of the biggest things, making things lead-free, because most dust from doors is lead dust, which is how kids have gotten sick," he said. "Everything we do is environmentally sound; all the waste goes to the right place."

While the Olde Bostonian staff specializes in doors, windows, mantels and cabinets, it can beautify any antique item, regardless of age or wear.

"We can do anything the customer wants," said Greenwood. "Old windows, old mirrors, stained-glass windows, French glass doors, columns, ornamental items, posts, cement work, marble mantels, old Clawfoot bathtubs, shutters, rot-iron fencing, anything for the house."

Olde Bostonian also has hard-to-find antiques available for purchase, some of which date back 250 years.

"You can't get an old set of pocket doors elsewhere," he said. "From a house in Canton that was built in 1742, we saved the thin wood doors, along with the additions that were made in 1860."

For those interested in antiques who are unsure of where to begin, Greenwood invites anyone with questions to visit the business or call him at 282-9300. Olde Bostonian is open Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"A lot of people who come in aren't sure how to do what they want done," he said. "When they come by, we help them out, give them information and lend our expertise.

"Some just stop in for ideas and suggestions, which we're happy to give. They'll tell their friends about us, which is 'good public relations for the business.'"

With clients from all over the state, including a number of contractors and homeowners, there's not much time for Greenwood and his staff to relax.

"We're pretty busy all year, which I like," he said. "The five guys I have working with me have all been around about 14-15 years, so I know they can handle the workload."

Greenwood recalled a well-known client who purchased 15 antique doors for a home she was having built in Martha's Vineyard.

"Judy Blume, who has written many children's books, bought doors from us, which we stripped and brought to her," he said. "While the house was new, she wanted all old items inside."

For Greenwood, who ventured into the business in 1980, Olde Bostonian's location is everything.

"We're right off the expressway at Exit 15, off Dorchester Avenue," he said.

"We want to stay in a good area, near the expressway, with the MBTA in back of us. It's easy for people to find us. We're very lucky to have this location."

Before he went into the antique field, Greenwood admits he never had much of an affinity for older items, but has grown to enjoy working on them over the years.

"I wasn't into antiques prior to opening this business, but now I love it," he said. "I like preserving old stuff; it's a lot of fun."

Meet Your Carpet's New Best Friend

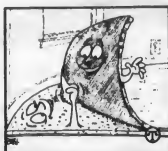

(NAPS)—It's good to know who your friends are. If you choose your friends wisely, chances are the relationship will last for a long time. The same can be said for carpet and carpet cushion.

Carpet cushion can be your carpet's best friend, so it's important to know which styles and construction of cushion will provide the most benefits throughout the life of your carpet.

Carpet cushion is available in many different types including rubber, polyurethane, and synthetic fibers.

By selecting the highest quality cushion to be installed with your carpet, you can help protect your investment, preserve its fresh new look, and provide additional benefits.

Installing The Proper

Carpet Cushion Under Your Carpet Will Help You...

• Keep it longer: Carpet cushion absorbs most of the impact from foot traffic, helping to reduce the wear on your carpet.

• Keep it quiet: Carpet with quality cushion can significantly improve noise reduction.

• Keep it clean: Carpet with quality cushion is often easier and less expensive to clean and maintain.

• Keep it comfortable: Proper carpet cushion can improve your comfort by greatly reducing walking fatigue.

The Carpet Cushion Council recommends using better than the minimum grade of carpet cushion to provide more support and cushion for your carpet because cutting corners on cushion might mean cutting the useable life of your carpet short.

So, when buying carpet, be sure you know your options and make sure that you choose the right cushion for your home.

High-quality carpet cushion can be your carpet's best friend and if you introduce it to your carpet during installation, you can watch the relationship continue for years to come.

To learn more about carpet cushion and how to purchase the right cushion for your carpet, please contact the Carpet Cushion Council, PO Box 546, Riverside, CT 06878, or call (203) 637-1312.

Tips On Cutting Your Water Heater Energy Costs

(NAPS)—Did you know that your water heater is usually the second largest energy user in your home after your heating and cooling system? According to Appliance magazine, the typical lifetime of a water heater is about 13 years. If your water heater is 10 to 15 years old, you may soon be shopping for a replacement. When you shop, keep these tips in mind:

• Water heaters that run on natural gas cost about half as much to operate as electric models;

• A high efficiency natural gas water heater may cost a little more than a low efficiency model, but it will pay you back in savings within a few years; and

• Before you go shopping, check with your natural gas utility to see if it is offering an incentive or rebate for purchasing a high efficiency natural gas water heater, or for switching from electric to natural gas.

With any water heater, you can reduce your energy costs and use hot water more efficiently by:

- Turning the thermostat down to 125° Fahrenheit;
- Insulating exposed pipes to reduce heat loss;
- Replacing an older shower head with a low flow shower head; and
- Using the "warm" or "cold" water setting on the clothes washer, instead of "hot."

Water heaters have come a long way since the energy crises of the 1970s. It's now possible to purchase a water heater that produces hot water 30 percent more efficiently than older models. And that makes for better showers for all of us!

Home Tips

BE SAFE — Peek out of the peephole or a window before opening the door to leave your house or when someone knocks.

Have keys ready to avoid fumbling.

Immediately lock car and house door upon entering.

Be alert! Glance around before unlocking car doors to exit; it only takes a second.

When no one's at home, leave a light on at night and a loud radio or TV on during the day.

Check the house door before entering to see if it's been unlocked when nobody's supposed to be there. If so, don't enter; call the police. Jenny K., Norwalk, Conn.

SHARP SCISSORS — Needing sharper scissors, I drew my emery board carefully along the length of the blades, using first the coarse and then the fine side of the board. It worked for me. Try it! Linda K., Port Huene, Calif.

DRESS THEM UP — Here's a tip you might be interested in that I've been using in my own home.

For attractive wastebaskets, buy baskets for large plants in the garden department of any discount store. They are lined with plastic, which is a big plus!

Also, some of them are decorated to make them more appealing. Chris L., Ottawa, Kan.

SPRING CAR CARE

Potholes Can Cause Damage To Your Car

Has your car been steering erratically lately? Have you noticed an unfamiliar "clunking" noise coming from under your car? Are your tires wearing unevenly?

These symptoms can be the after-effects of hitting a pothole.

Hitting a pothole or rough railroad crossing can do more than jar your teeth; it can damage a tire or certain under-car parts. Car Care Council advises that, to minimize the jolt and potential damage, you should apply the brakes before you reach the obstruction, releasing the brake during the impact. If your foot remains on the brake, causing the wheel to slam into the pothole rather than to roll over it, damage may be aggravated.

The Council also urges a close inspection underneath the vehicle of tires and other components after a serious alteration with a pothole, curb or other obstruction.

Worn Parts Can Exaggerate A Problem

The effects of an impact with a rut, or series of ruts, are amplified when chassis parts are worn. Rubber bushings wear with time and mileage, as do the swivel joints that support and steer the car. Weak shock absorbers or struts, which help absorb the blow, cause a vehicle to be especially vulnerable to damage.

The life expectancy of steering and suspension components such as ball joints, tie rod ends and idler arms is shortened more by travel over rough roads than by long-distance driving.

Never underestimate the value of a semi-annual alignment check along with tire rotations and balance, says the Council. It can disclose an undercar problem than not only can save tire wear but also can affect driving safety. Remember, too, that your front-wheel drive car may require four-wheel alignment.

The Council offers a free pamphlet on the subject of shock absorbers and struts. Just send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Car Care Council, Department RC, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

A Stalled Car Can Lead To 'Road Rage'

An all too common situation at rush hour: cars moving quickly in all lanes when, suddenly, traffic piles up and tempers flare. There's a stalled car ahead, with the hood up.

The stalled car syndrome, more noticeable on our roadways than in our driveways, has been with us for generations. But it becomes more critical with increased population. Beyond missed appointments or being late for work it also results in the condition known as road rage. Not only can a disabled vehicle have an annoying "ripple effect" that goes beyond the immediate scene, but it can also be disastrous for the driver who is left vulnerable to roadside crime or to the elements.

"Don't blame your car," says Car Care Council's Donna Wagner. "It can't drive itself to the shop and ask for an oil change or new spark plugs. Considering how dependent we are on our cars, it's surprising how we take them for granted. An old battery or badly worn tire has its way of forewarning us that it's going to let us down, but we tend to wait for the inevitable."

"Nearly 90 percent of the thousands of vehicles driven through our check lanes during National Car Care Month fail inspection. Most discrepancies are due to owner neglect and can be corrected at little or no cost."

The Council stresses the value of periodic checkups. This not only helps prevent traffic jams due to mechanical breakdowns, but also ensures the optimum safety and efficiency of our vehicles.

For a free brochure entitled "How to Find Your Way Under the Hood and Around The Car" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Department

Mary Vallier Honored By First Parish Church Council

MARY VALLIER

Mary Vallier of Quincy was honored by the congregation of United First Parish Church during its recent Children's Sunday worship service for her long and devoted service to the Church School.

Each year on Children's Sunday in June, Vallier years. She is also well-known for her active service to the Quincy community as a founder and current board member of DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) and as a member of many other boards and city commissions including those on human rights, the elderly, and the family.

The church presented Vallier with a Passion Flower plant with a flower in bloom as a token of its appreciation. In making the presentation, church member Janice Porter said the Church School at first planned to present Vallier with a tomato plant, but decided the Passion Flower is even more symbolic of her devotion and service.

In 1993, Vallier was named The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" as a founder of DOVE, for aiding battered women and abused children and for her church work with children.

would present each of the children with a tomato plant grown in her garden or, in more recent years, out on her apartment balcony. She had been giving the children tomato plants faithfully than "more years than anyone could remember." They would take the plants and grow them over the summer as a reminder of their church community.

Vallier had been an active member of the Religious Education Committee of First Parish for many

Sheets To Speak At Coalition's Annual Meeting

The South Shore Coalition of Workers for the Elderly will hold its annual meeting on Wednesday, June 17 at noon at Hancock Park and Rehabilitation Center, 164 Parkway, Quincy Center.

Guest speaker will be Mayor James Sheets, who will discuss senior initiatives in Quincy.

The coalition is a grassroots, community service partnership which represents 78 social service agencies and private businesses that provide services to older adults residing in the South Shore area. The purpose of the coalition is to provide a forum for coordinating and communicating resources among persons working with older adults.

Hancock Park, owned and managed by Norwell-based Welch Healthcare and Retirement Group, is a 142-bed skilled rehabilitation and nursing center that also provides sub-acute care, specialized Alzheimer's programs, Adult Day Health, and Assisted Living residences.

For more information, call (781) 749-4774.

Free Modeling Auditions June 14

Laureen Krol, executive director of the Barbizon Modeling Agency, will conduct complimentary modeling auditions Sunday, June 14 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Sheraton Tara Hotel in Braintree.

Krol will be looking for girls ages 10 to 25 to train for television commercials, films, magazines, fashion shows and other modeling opportunities in the Boston area available through the nationally-affiliated agency.

No experience is required. Reservations are needed. Girls of a junior age must be accompanied by a parent.

For reservations or more information, call (617) 266-6980.

Board Hears Complaints Against Imports Firm

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Complaints of alleged peddling without a license, noise, littering and illegal parking against M & G Imports, 397 Hancock St., North Quincy, were aired at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

The hearing was continued until June 30 with the firm told to meet with the Zoning Board of Appeals and Building Department officials on new parking requirements.

According to manager Steve Schatvet, M & G Imports import small electronics, novelties, children's toys, calculators from overseas and then re-distribute the products for re-sale. He told the board that no peddling is done in Quincy.

However, Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers disagreed and said persons had called him about peddling. Ayers said the company is in "chaos" and said he was at his "wit's end" in trying to answer complaints from neighbors about noise and illegal parking. Ayers said the company had "no accountability" and said he had written several times to the owner Ernest-Jean Jacques, but never received a reply.

He presented the board with a three page petition signed by many of the abutters citing all of the complaints.

Ayers called for the owners of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Chu to appear at the June 30 meeting.

Although managers Steve Schatvet and Chris Graham tried to address the complaints, they seem to come to a dead end, when abutters came forth discounting their claims including noise and traffic early in the morning and later in the afternoon.

Patricia Thorley, director of the Atlantic Neighborhood Center said solicitors are in the neighborhood "every day" with large crowds gathering and even playing football in the afternoon.

She said many of the elderly in the area and mothers with children in baby carriages are "intimidated" by crowds standing on the sidewalk forcing them to use the street.

Chairman Joseph Shea asked that the company reassess the situation, stagger times of day for deliveries, and present information to the Building Department and the Zoning Board.

Police Chief Thomas France said he would put the owner of the business, who did not appear at the meeting, on notice and the police would "keep an eye on the place" with a warning to violators.

The hearing will be held June 30 in the City Hall Council Chambers.

Think we can't do better fighting crime and drugs?

You don't know Jack.

JACK CORRIGAN. TOUGH. INNOVATIVE. EXPERIENCED.

As a top Assistant District Attorney for nearly eight years, Jack Corrigan helped Bill Delahunt make the Norfolk County DA's Office one of America's most innovative and respected crime fighting organizations.

As our next DA, Jack's experience — and fresh ideas — will restore that office's reputation for innovation and excellence.

Uniquely qualified.

No Democrat running can match Jack's years of experience prosecuting every type of crime from drugs and domestic abuse, to drunk driving and murder.

Jack and Kathleen Corrigan live in Brookline with their children, Patrick, Megan and Matthew.

As Chief Prosecutor in Bill Delahunt's Civil Rights Unit, and Chief Prosecutor in the White Collar Crime Unit, Jack prosecuted hate crimes, complex financial crimes, and scams against the elderly. In his last two years as Assistant District Attorney, he managed the office's $5 million budget, while carrying a full caseload of major felonies in Superior Court.

The values we need.

Graduating with honors from Harvard Law School, Jack might have been expected to move into a lucrative private practice. But if you knew Jack's background, you'd understand how his lifelong dedication to justice and public service led him instead to become a prosecutor in Bill Delahunt's office.

Son of a mailman and one of five children, Jack Corrigan worked his way through BC High and Harvard, where he graduated cum laude. Tough, smart and passionate, Jack's management skills propelled him to the highest levels of national Democratic politics — earning him a reputation as one of America's top organizers.

Fresh ideas

When Bill Delahunt went to Congress and was replaced by a well-connected Republican political appointee, Jack resigned and later opened a private practice in Quincy. But Jack knows we can do a lot better in the fight against crime.

That's why Jack Corrigan is running for District Attorney. And that's why, in the days ahead, Jack will present his detailed, innovative plan to fight crime in Norfolk County, and make our neighborhoods safe from drugs and violence.

Weigh the evidence. Think about what is at stake.

Then please join us, and help Jack in his fight against crime!

Last Graduation As Principal NQHS Bids Fond Farewell To Chrisom

By MICHAEL WHALEN

North Quincy High School didn't just say goodbye to the Class of 1998 at its graduation ceremonies Tuesday night.

It also bid a fond farewell to Peter Chrisom, the longtime principal who has served the Quincy Public Schools for 37 years.

Chrisom, 67, is retiring after more than 25 years as North's principal. He notified School Supt. Eugene Creedon and the School Committee of his decision in a letter last week.

Chrisom said Tuesday morning he was a little sad to be attending his final graduation as principal.

"I've enjoyed it thoroughly," he said of his career. "I'll miss it."

He said his proudest moment was probably the addition of the "new" North Quincy High School wing built onto the school in the late 1970s. At the time, he noted, the school had about 2,300 students, compared to just over 1,300 today--despite the fact the school was only about half its current size.

PETER CHRISOM

"It was so overcrowded back then, and there were so many crazy plans," recalled Chrisom. "We have a great school now."

A North Quincy native who now lives in Milton, Chrisom received bachelor's and master's degrees at Boston College before starting his career as a teacher at Randolph High School, where he worked for six years.

He then spent nine years teaching at Quincy High School, where he also served as chairman of the history department, before becoming North's assistant principal in 1970. Eighteen months later, he was named principal.

Chrisom said he has formed many great relationships during his years with the school system.

"There are some great friends of mine both at Quincy and North," he said. "And we'll remain friends. The camaraderie has been great."

Asked what he will miss most, Chrisom replied, "I would say what any educator would say: the students. And it's not just a cliché. The students will make you younger. They're so full of life, you have to stay younger to keep up with them."

Chrisom's retirement follows that of Quincy High School Principal Lloyd Hill, who stepped down in the spring. Hill will be succeeded by Robert Keuther, who previously headed a Quincy Public Schools program for children with behavioral problems.

Creedon has said he does not yet know who will take over as the next principal at North Quincy High.

William McWeeny To Receive Outstanding Teacher Award

The National Association of Biology Teachers, in conjunction with Prentice Hall Publishing, will present William McWeeny with the 1998 Outstanding Biology Teacher Award.

The honor, given annually since 1961, identifies a teacher from each of the states who has made valuable contributions to the profession and to his/her students. Criteria for the award include teaching ability, experience, inventiveness, initiative, inherent teaching strengths, and cooperativeness in the school and community.

McWeeny has been a life science eighth grade teacher at Central Middle School since 1970 and he also teaches at the Center for Technical Education. A graduate of North Quincy High School, he received his B.A. degree from Northeastern University and his Ed.M from the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

Active in many local organizations, McWeeny directs the Ecology Club and the Science Fair. He has traveled with students to Cape Cod and to Belize teaching marine and land ecology. He has helped develop the Global Laboratory Curriculum which his students use regularly. An avid reader of books on nature and the environment, he encourages students to link what they are learning to global issues.

At a special Honors Luncheon at the NABT convention in Reno in November, McWeeny will be presented with a plaque, a precision pair of binoculars by Prentice Hall and a microscope from Leica, Inc. A local award ceremony will also be held at as yet an undetermined date.

QHS, NQHS Students In Robotics Competition June 18

A team of students from Quincy and North Quincy high schools will be among those participating in a robotics competition sponsored by Congressman William Delahunt and his colleagues in Washington, D.C.

The "Capitol Hill Robotics Invitational" will be held Thursday, June 18 from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the foyer of the Rayburn House Office Building, directly across from the U.S. Capitol.

The competition also will include a team from Plymouth North High School.

Overall, 11 states will be represented by 12 teams. The event is designed to underscore the work of a foundation known as FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) and its nationwide student robotics program.

More than 9,000 students on 200 teams participated in regional contests leading to FIRST's national finals earlier this year in Florida. Each team is given an identical trunkful of raw materials and a $425 credit to purchase additional supplies and then has six weeks to build a robot that will compete in a designated event.

Students taking part in the Congressional expo have built remote-controlled robots capable of picking up and maneuvering 20-inch rubber balls around a hexagon-shaped playing field to score goals while competing against other robots.

"These remarkable projects are educational models," said Delahunt. "These kids emerge with a keen sense of their own potential and with the tools to succeed in a rapidly-changing workforce."

Four Residents Graduate From St. Anselm College

Four Quincy residents recently graduated from St. Anselm College in Manchester, N.H.

They are: Brian M. Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Flynn; Richard M. Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Gorman; Erin K. Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Charles E. Murphy; and Maura H. Sugrue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sugrue.

Carole Cataldi Receives Emmanuel Degree

Carole Cataldi of Quincy has been awarded a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Emmanuel College in Boston.

While a student at Emmanuel, she earned Dean's List honors.

Cataldi is a registered nurse at St. Elizabeth's Medical Center in Brighton.

North Plays Durfee Tonight In Semifinals

Dominant Pitching, Clutch Hitting Spark Raiders In Tourney

By LIAM FITZGERALD

No high school baseball team from the city of Quincy ever reached the sectional semifinals of the Div. 1 state tournament--until now.

Following Monday's 6-2 quarterfinal victory over Dennis-Yarmouth, North Quincy High School advanced to the Div. 1 South semifinals and will play Durfee tonight (Thursday) at 7 at Braintree High School.

Durfee (13-9), the No. 16 seed, advanced with a 2-0 victory over Brockton Monday. The winner of tonight's game goes to the Div. 1 South finals. (The date and location had not been determined as of press time.)

"This was a big win for the kids and the program," said North coach Dave Perdios of the triumph over D-Y. "No one thought we'd be where we are, but these kids worked hard and deserve all the credit. It's been a long, long time since this program has been successful, and I think we turned the corner."

The numbers don't lie: in his three years at the helm, Perdios has guided North to 34 victories, the same amount the program totaled over the previous seven years combined.

Leading the fourth-seeded Red Raiders (16-6) to their second tournament victory was sophomore pitcher Matt McCann, who fired a complete-game four-hitter, yielding two runs (both unearned), striking out five and walking just two (both in the first inning).

One of NQ's most reliable hurlers, McCann shined in his first postseason appearance, retiring the last 10 batters he faced, including the side in order in the final three innings to close out the game.

"Matt pitched a great game," said Perdios. "He started getting his changeup and breaking ball over, and they couldn't adjust. He stepped up and did a great job."

Early on, it appeared NQ would bust the game open, scoring three runs in the first without the benefit of a hit. D-Y starter Matt Humber couldn't find the plate, walking the first four batters he faced. The fourth walk, to senior John Sullivan, forced in senior Bill Walker with the game's first run.

D-Y reliever Dave Bushnell walked senior Greg Peck (2 for 3, 4 RBI), allowing sophomore Rob Celata to cross the plate.

NORTH QUINCY SOPHOMORE hurler Matt McCann fires a pitch during his complete-game four-hitter against Dennis-Yarmouth. North won the tourney quarterfinal, 6-2, Monday at Adams Field.

Senior Bryan Linskey followed with a sacrifice fly, driving in junior Chris Brelogi for a 3-0 lead. Bushnell retired the next two batters to end the rally.

Trek Begins Monday In Seattle

NQ Man To Bike Across Country For Lung Assn.

A month ago, David Riley of North Quincy was $2,500 short of the $6,000 minimum necessary to participate in this summer's GTE Big Ride, and time was running out.

However, as a result of his tireless fundraising efforts and the generosity of others, Riley has raised more than enough to participate--$7,780 as of May 31--and extended his appreciation to all who made contributions.

"I want to thank everyone for their support," said Riley, who left his job in Boston last Friday to make preparations for the trek. "I couldn't have done it without you."

Riley departs Saturday to join the 1,000-plus bicyclists when the 6-1/2 week, 3,000-mile Big Ride begins next Monday in Seattle, Wash.

The Big Ride, which will conclude in Washington, D.C., on Aug. 1, benefits the American Lung Association, the nation's oldest volunteer health organization. To date, Big Ride participants have generated $2.8 million to help fight lung disease.

The trek is comprised of five segments: June 15-24 (Seattle, Wash., to Missoula, Mont.), June 24-July 5 (Missoula, Mont., to Rapid City, S.D.), July 5-17 (Rapid City, S.D. to Madison, Wisc.), July 17-24 (Madison, Wisc., to Sandusky, Ohio) and July 24-Aug. 1 (Sandusky, Ohio to Washington, D.C.).

Nine days have been designated as rest days, to give the riders a chance to recuperate before resuming the trek.

"We'll be riding approximately 100 miles a day, with pit stops about every 25 miles," Riley said in a previous interview with the Quincy Sun. "We'll ride from dawn to dusk, about 15 hours a day. When I think that I might be in over my head, I realize all the people I can help and that makes me want to stick to it."

Local Boxers On Card At Sports Resort

Several local boxers will be in action Monday night, June 15 on O'Malley's Gym's monthly fight card at the Sports Resort located at the junction of Route 53 and 18 in Weymouth.

Among the boxers are Quincy's Timmy Connors and Vinny Traietti, Brian Nagle of Milton, Dave Dirksmeier of Weymouth, Jimmy Donnelly of Rockland, Dorchester's Ryan Conway, and Morgan Sheehy, a transplanted welterweight from Dublin, Ireland.

For more information, call the Sports Resort at (781) 335-1000 or O'Malley's Gym at (617) 786-9547. Tickets, which are $12 general admission and $6 for kids and seniors, can be purchased in advance at O'Malley's Gym in Quincy or at the Sports Resort on fight night.

deficit to 3-2 in the top of the second, as Bob Callahan laced a two-run single following two North infield miscues.

McCann shut the door at that point, limiting D-Y to just two hits the rest of the way: a single in the third and a single in the sixth.

North padded its lead in the sixth when Peck belted his third triple of the tournament, driving in three runs with a blast to deep center field. Through two games, Peck has been North's offensive star (5 for 8, two runs scored, 4 RBI).

"The big thing was the triple by Peck," said Perdios. "Their outfielders were playing shallow all game, and he hit it over their heads. He did the same thing against Brookline, and this time he gave us a nice cushion."

In the tournament opener last Friday, Celata pitched a 12-inning masterpiece and Walker drove in the game-winning run as North edged Brookline, 2-1.

To open the 12th, Peck (3 for 5, two runs) ripped a shot over the left fielder's head and raced all the way to third for a triple. After Brookline starter Alex Ruane retired the next two hitters, Walker singled sharply to left, igniting a celebration as Peck crossed the plate with the winning run.

Celata, North's No. 1 starter, was practically unhittable, scattering five hits and allowing one run, which was unearned. He walked three and fanned 14 (including 11 after the fifth inning). Ruane was up to the task, going the distance for Brookline in a losing effort (nine hits, five walks, four strikeouts).

"Rob was the story of this game," said Perdios. "We got a very good performance from him, and we needed it, because their pitcher was tough. He (Celata) was relaxed and focused and threw strikes."

Before the 12th, all the scoring was done in the fifth inning, as Brookline scored its only run on a groundout. NQ came right back in the bottom of the fifth to tie the game. With one out, Peck tripled to right and scored on a sacrifice fly by junior Adam Goodrich.

Legion Baseball Openers Pushed Back

As a result of the North Quincy High School baseball team's recent success in the state tournament, the starting dates for the city's two American Legion baseball teams have been pushed back.

The Morrisette Legion squad, which includes a number of North Quincy players, was slated to play tonight (Thursday) at 8 against Canton, but postponed it due to North's semifinal game tonight in Braintree.

Coaching the Morrisette team is Tom Malvesti Sr., who assisted Dave Perdios at Morrisette before Perdios left to take the head coaching job at North Quincy.

Quincy Legion, guided by third-year head coach Larry Taglieri, is set to open Friday at 8 p.m. against Cohasset at Adams Field, but that also could be moved to a later date, pending North's tournament results.

The two Legion teams are scheduled to face off

Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Adams Field in what may be the season opener for both.

The schedule for next week includes Morrisette hosting Weymouth Monday (8 p.m., Adams Field), Cohasset visiting Quincy Tuesday (8 p.m., Adams Field) and Morrisette traveling to Braintree for a 7:30 p.m. game Tuesday. Thursday, Braintree is slated to visit Quincy for an 8 p.m. contest at Adams Field.

Quincy Boys Lacrosse Drops Two Games

The Quincy Lacrosse Boys 12 and under team dropped two tough games this weekend.

Sunday, Quincy lost a difficult game to Norwell, 9-1. Ryan Tobin scored a goal and Ben Kelleher played a strong game in goal. Kyle Carmody had several shots on goal and Steve McGrath, Steve Hawko and Pat Maxey turned in solid defensive performances.

Saturday, Quincy played Braintree's 14 and under squad and lost, 7-1. Pat Casper notched a goal for Quincy and made eight saves while playing goalie. Strong performances were turned in by Matt Baker, Ryan Feldhoff and John O'Donnell.

This Saturday in Acton, Quincy will play in the Mass Bay Youth Lacrosse Jamoree, which features 48 teams from Eastern Massachusetts.

RICH KENNEDY, left, and Marty Levenson, the organizers of the first annual Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS, present Mayor James Sheets with a T-shirt from the upcoming race. Sheets will kick off the event, which will be held Saturday (rain or shine) at 11 a.m. at Veterans' Memorial Stadium. Proceeds go to the Angel Fund at Massachusetts General Hospital to promote ALS research.

First Annual Event Saturday At Stadium Friends Keep Memory Of Jimmy Kennedy Alive Through Memorial Run

By LIAM FITZGERALD

What began as a brain-storm will soon become a reality for Rich Kennedy and Marty Levenson, the organizers behind the first annual Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS.

Saturday at 11 a.m. at Veterans' Memorial Stadium in Quincy, Mayor James Sheets will start the race, organized by Kennedy and Levenson to raise funds for ALS research in hopes of finding a cure.

Kennedy lost both his brother, Jimmy, and father, Christopher, to ALS, a progressive neurological disease that removes a person's ability to function normally and eventually results in death.

The goal for the first year, said Levenson, is to raise $20,000, which will be presented to Dr. Robert Brown of Massachusetts General Hospital. Dr. Brown is the head of neurology at Mass. General, where the Angel Fund was established to promote ALS research.

"We both threw in $100 to get it rolling at the end of last year, and now we're over $14,000," said Levenson. "It's mind-boggling. I do think we'll hit our goal."

Since they began organizing the race, Kennedy and Levenson have been impressed and amazed by the generosity of everyone they've come in contact regarding the event.

"I'll talk to one person, who then would contact another and another and it would go from there," said Kennedy.

Added Levenson: "It's not a comfortable thing to do, fundraising, but people recognized what we were doing and were proactive in the generosity. Things have gone better than we hoped. This is not a one-shot deal; we want to make it a long-term event and this is a nice start for it."

Lending their support are Stop & Shop, Law Firm of Smith & Brink, Vin Moscardelli of ERA Central Real Estate, Boston Athletic Club, Thomson & Thomson, Jack Raymer of Quincy Cable, Kerry Driscoll and the Mayor's Office, Nantucket Nectars, Domino's Pizza, Radio Disney and Dunkin' Donuts. Lucia Carroll of Falmouth will coordinate the race's timing.

Levenson also extended his appreciation to Lou Tozzi, Levenson and Kennedy's track coach at North Quincy High School, for Tozzi's overall assistance.

Among the dignitaries scheduled to attend are former Gov. Michael Dukakis, Atty. General Scott Harshbarger, Speaker of the House Thomas Finneran, City Councillor Paul Harold, and Olympic Silver Medalist Eric Flaim. Former Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn may also participate.

outing is limited to 120 players.

Entry fee is $75 and includes greens fee, golf cart, dinner and prizes.

The dinner will be held in the church hall.

Those wishing to enter

Levenson said he expects over 500 runners to participate, though that number could double if the weather cooperates.

"We have close to 500 in pre-applications, and if it's nice, we may have over 1,000," he said. "We have extra volunteers ready to help with late sign-ups, which will be taken until 10:30 a.m. Saturday."

The 5-mile race, which will start and finish at the Stadium, is being billed as a day-long family event with activities for all ages. Kids' relay races, water balloon fights and a dunk tank are among the activities planned for children.

Participants will each receive two race T-shirts at registration, plus a 100th Boston Marathon commemorative T-shirt, donated to each entrant by Long's Jewelers.

"We're expecting a big turnout and a memorable event," said Kennedy, adding that he will probably run the course early Saturday morning—before the actual race. "Jimmy wouldn't forgive me if I made everyone else run it and didn't run it myself."

For those who would like to contribute but cannot attend, donations may be sent to: The Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS, 5 Norman Todd Lane, Cohasset, MA 02025.

may contact Bob and Jan Kelly, 15 Bower Rd. (479-9045) or Bill and Jean Donnelly, 33 Charlesmount Ave. (479-1440).

Entry checks may also be mailed to them.

QUINCY TENNIS CLUB will offer a free junior tennis clinic Tuesday, June 16 for children ages 7 to 11. The clinic will run from 1 to 3 p.m. at the club, located at the rear of 17 1/2 Glendale Road. Pictured here are youngsters participating in a recent clinic.

Quincy Tennis Club Junior Clinic June 16

The Quincy Tennis Club is offering a free junior tennis clinic Tuesday, June 16 from 1 to 3 p.m. for children ages 7 to 11. Rain date is Tuesday, June 23.

The club is located at the rear of 17 1/2 Glendale Rd., Quincy Center.

Children must be accompanied by an adult for registration and orientation purposes. Children are asked to bring their own tennis racquet.

The Quincy Tennis Club, which has an average junior membership of 125 children, has highly qualified instructors such as Dick Mount and Pam Trafton and finishes the summer season with its own junior tournament.

The club is also open all summer for individually scheduled adult tennis lessons.

Advance Testing Friday At L-H Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold an advance testing program Friday from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Pool in preparation for registration for its summer instructional swimming program.

The prerequisite swim tests for boating and sailing will also be held at that time.

The testing program is for people who are unsure of their child's swimming ability, as well as people who have not previously enrolled their child in swimming lessons.

Registration for classes will be held next Monday and Tuesday at the pool. Children are registered according to their swimming ability.

Pool lessons are open to Quincy residents over age 6 who have a current pool participation card issued by the Quincy Recreation Department. Youngsters ages 1 through 5 are eligible for parent and tot lessons.

For more information, call the Recreation Department at 376-1-FUN. The regular recreation swimming schedule will be canceled during the hours of testing.

Setback Ends North's Season Underdog Red Raiders Fall To No. 1 Taunton

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Throughout the season, the North Quincy High School softball team learned to deal with adversity and perform under pressure time and time again.

The Red Raiders had to—they lost their first five games and nine of their first 13, putting their postseason hopes in jeopardy. Winning six of its last seven, North turned its season around and secured a state tournament berth in its final game.

Though North's memorable season ended last Thursday in a 4-1 first-round setback to No. 1 seed Taunton, North coach Bob Doyle expressed his appreciation to the players for their tireless efforts, especially when the situation looked bleak.

"It was a privilege to coach this group of girls," he said. "I thank the seniors for their leadership. They helped the team stay focused when we got off to a rough start."

"Without the efforts of my eight seniors, we wouldn't have made it this far. Hopefully, making the tournament will build the program up for the future."

Playing Old Colony League champion Taunton (20-1) for the third time this season, North looked to improve upon losses of 15-0 and 11-3 to the Tigers.

Facing Taunton ace Adrienne Leone, North (11-11) got off to a good start when sophomore Jessica Lorman drove in junior Rachael Powers with a groundout in the first. Subsequently, North could not muster much offense as senior Kristy Deptula (2 for 3) and junior Kristen Bowes (single) collected the team's only hits.

Taking the hill for the NQ was junior Renee Gillan, who shut out the vaunted Tiger lineup until the third, when the home team tied the game at 1-1.

"Renee pitched a phenomenal game, especially when you consider the offensive power Taunton has," said Doyle. "To limit them to one run into the sixth inning is remarkable."

The contest remained deadlocked until the bottom of the sixth, when Taunton collected three hits and scored three runs to gain some breathing room.

Stepping in for senior Kristen Keohane, who moved to shortstop in the absence of senior Laurie Flynn, junior Meredith Hutchinson made some sparkling defensive plays at third base. Bowes made a spectacular shoestring catch in left and Lorman turned in a fine defensive effort in center.

"This was an incredible performance by North Quincy, for the girls to raise the level of their games against a strong opponent," said Doyle. "The girls came ready to play, and they showed it."

NQ earned the date with Taunton following an 8-4 preliminary-round triumph over host Fontbonne last Wednesday. Deptula, in her final career start, pitched a six-hitter, walked five and struck out one. She helped her own cause by going 2 for 4, including a solo home run, and three RBI.

Deptula's homer broke a scoreless tie in the second, before North added to its lead with two runs in the third. Senior Kerry Skehan (2 for 4, three RBI) hit a two-run single to drive in Bowes and Gillan.

In the fourth, North's offense struck again when Powers belted a two-run home run, driving in senior Danielle Likas, who reached on a single. The Red Raiders scored again in the seventh when Bowes (2 for 2, two walks, two runs) doubled, Skehan and Keohane singled and Deptula collected a two-run single.

The Red Raiders' defense again played a major role in the team's success, with Flynn starting a double play to kill a sixth-inning rally. Fontbonne threatened again in the seventh, scoring two runs, but North was able to close it out.

"Laurie played the best defensive game of her career," said Doyle. "She was sensational. On the double play, she dove to stop the ball, got up quickly, stepped on second and threw to first to complete the double play."

"That gave us a big adrenaline boost and was the turning point of the game. If she doesn't make that play, the momentum would've shifted to their side. This was a great win for the girls; they deserved it for playing so well down the stretch."

North's Wilson, Holleran Excel At Meet

North Quincy High School's girls' spring track wrapped up its season in grand style at the recent Allstate Championships at Norwell High School.

North Quincy sophomore Lynda Wilson ran 11:47.3 in the two-mile event, the fastest time for an NQ sophomore in over 10 years. The time was the second fastest by a girl from Class A and earned Wilson a 16th place overall finish. The time also marked a 22-second improvement from the Class A meet the previous week.

The Allstate appearance was the second for Wilson, who has now qualified in both indoor and outdoor track. Her best indoor time is 12:04.6. Wilson and senior captain Jasmine Gonzalez were named to the Old Colony League All-Star team and senior Claire Quilty received the OCL Sportsmanship Award.

North's other competitor, sophomore Maureen Holleran, did not score in the javelin event despite throwing 95'3", her third best outing of the spring.

Several North girls will compete in the Bay State Games and Junior Olympics later this month.

Five Deceased Members To Be Enshrined In QHS Baseball Hall Of Fame

The Quincy High School Baseball Alumni Association Hall of Fame Committee announces that five deceased members will be inducted into the Quincy High Baseball Hall of Fame at next week's banquet.

The five deceased inductees, who will join the 19 other inductees announced in May, are Lawrence "Orrie" Carella (Class of 1924), Frank "Doug" Herbert (Class of 1925), Ernest J. Goguen (Class of 1945), Carl Leone (Class of 1947) and Jack McDermott (Class of 1950).

The banquet will be held Wednesday, June 17 at the Quincy Sons of Italy, beginning with a social hour at 6 p.m. Tickets are $25 per person and can be purchased by calling Joe Brill at (617) 770-4813.

The banquet will be emceed by Joseph Amoroso, a sports reporter for WHDH-TV Ch. 7 in Boston. Amoroso's father, Joseph Sr., is a former Quincy High basketball coach who currently serves as a scout for the NBA's Charlotte Hornets. His mother, Janice, is a retired Quincy public school teacher.

Beacon Sports Wins Five Games; S.S. Buick Remains Undefeated games, also excelled defensively.

In a 5-3 triumph over Colonial Federal, Cafano hit a two-run, inside-the-park home run to spark Beacon. Sandonato fanned six and got the win, while Grazioso pitched well in relief, recording three strikeouts. Desaulniers collected two singles and Stephen Maggio and Matt Rhode both had key hits. Cafano and Flaherty turned in solid defensive efforts.

For Colonial, losing pitcher Sean Richardson struck out five and Nicholas Malvesti had a inside-the-park home run. Ray Marchand had a multiple-hit game, including a double, and Ed DeWitt and Dan Reggiannini both ripped doubles. DeWitt and Stephen Hawko were the defensive standouts.

A four-run first, courtesy of a grand slam by Lennon, put Beacon ahead to stay in an 8-4 win over Rotary. Feldhoff, who struck out two and earned the win, also contributed offensively with two hits. Grazioso pitched well in relief and Lennon was solid on defense.

Rotary's top hitters were James Spellman (two hits), Malcolm Lynn (two doubles), Stephen Reardon (triple), Moses Lynn (double). Losing pitcher Christopher Livingstone picked up six strikeouts and Spellman played well defensively.

Beacon defeated Jaehnig Chiropractic, 7-2, behind the pitching of Sandonato, who tossed a two-hitter with six strikeouts. He also collected a few hits, including a double. Also picking up a couple of hits were Grazioso and Feldhoff (double). Defensive standouts were Lennon and Joe Cafano.

For Jaehnig, Kyle Carmody belted a triple and Matthew Tobin and Stephen Kelley both played well in defense.

In other recent action, South Shore Buick improved its league-leading record to 9-0 with two wins.

In the first game, Buick defeated last year's runner-up, Jaehnig Chiropractic, 16-2. Buick's offensive explosion was sparked by Steve Williams (two home runs), Ryan McHugh (home run) and Greg Tregelis (home run). John Folino pitched six innings and improved his record to 7-0.

Buick's offense was the story again in a 12-2 triumph over Police. Home runs by Williams and Brian Weeks led the attack, while McHugh posted his first pitching victory of the season.

Locker Room Erupts Offensively, Defeats Three Latest Opponents

TRIPLE A

Locker Room's offense exploded in victories over Quincy DARE, Flavin & Flavin and Spillane & Epstein.

In a 16-6 victory over Quincy DARE, Steve Beliveau (two doubles, single), John Morris (two doubles, two singles) and Danny Jacobs (double, two singles) led the offense. Pitcher Andrew Pangrazz fanned seven and received defensive help from shortstop Frank Feeley and second baseman Colin Mooney.

DARE's Sean Joyce, Chris Chenette and Pat Maloney had strong game, as did Brian O'Dea, who made a great defensive play.

In a 13-5 victory over

Flavin & Flavin, Locker Room was sparked by Danny Jacobs, Tommy Pasquantonio, Steve Beliveau and David Casey (two hits apiece). Alex Jorgenson was a speed demon around the bases. Winning pitcher Joe Renken and John Morris combined to scatter seven F&F hits.

F&F was led by shortstop Steve Cassidy, who collected three hits and made a tremendous diving play. Andrew Potter, Harvey Chan and Steve Dunn all turned in solid efforts.

A six-run second propelled Locker Room to a 10-3 win over S&E. Andrew Pangrazz pitched a strong game, striking out 15 for the winners. The LR offense was led by Frankie Feeley, Colin Mooney, Ian Jorgenson and Ross Pasquantonio. Jimmy Bleiler made an excellent play at third and Robert Ladner played well in left.

For S&E, Gerard Verisotky singled and doubled and Brian Marsters also hit well. In the field, Jarrod Abbott and Tom Cabral turned in solid efforts.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Couldn't it be said that the oft-repeated question, "What is Life?" can be answered in many different ways. Some anonymous quotes come to mind: Take life as you find it but don't leave it that way... If you find life empty, try putting something into it... Life is not a goblet to be drained, but a measure to be filled...

We especially like this quote: Life is a winding road through the years that are allotted to us. It passes through pleasant valleys and over steep hills. It threads its way through wastelands, too. No one can see far enough ahead along the road to know which he will be required to travel on any given day, but each has within him the strength for the hills and the courage for the wastelands. Only those who childishly insist that all the road must be through pleasant valleys fail. And they fail because they never learn to use the inner strength God gave them for the hills, nor to call upon the inner courage He gave them for the wastelands.

The Quincy License Board Tuesday told Thomas Donahue, president of T-Jam Productions that his proposal for weekly concerts at the Quincy Masonic Temple "needs more planning."

Donahue, a member of the Masonic Temple told the board that the planned concerts would be held in conjunction with the Temple, 1170 Hancock St. and hoped the first concert to be July 1.

However, Chairman Joseph Shea told Donahue,

Seeks Board Approval For Masonic Temple Concerts

"If you try to do this in three weeks, you will either have a 'disaster' or 'flop financially.'"

Donahue said he expected about 500 persons to attend the alcohol and cigarette free concerts with many of them using the T to return home.

Shea told him to reconsider his request and return to the board after he had talked with ward councillor and the mayor and to alert officials of the MBTA that 200 to 300 persons would be boarding the trains after midnight.

Donahue told the board that many of the young adults have "no place to go" and he said he was offering the concerts as an alternative.

Although Police Chief Thomas Frane said he "agreed with Donahue's concept" he asked that Donahue consider waiting until towards the end of summer.

Donahue, who said the concerts would be a 'springboard' to having a Performing Arts Theatre in Quincy within five years said with Quincy's history, the city "deserved" a theatre of that caliber.

Marilyn Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said she also agreed with the concept, but had concerns about what happens after 12 midnight when the concerts ended. She told Donahue, he should have security for at least an hour after the performances.

The next meeting will be held June 23.

William M. Nagle, 68 Longtime Boston Firefighter

A funeral Mass for William M. Nagle, 68, of North Quincy, was celebrated June 5 at Sacred Heart Church.

Mr. Nagle died June 3 at home.

He was a firefighter in the Boston Fire Department for 32 years. He worked for Engine 11 in Roxbury, Engine 1 in South Boston and Engines 20 and 21 in Dorchester. He retired in 1994.

He was a member of the Gaelic Fire Brigade, Boston Firefighters Local 718, the International Association of Firefighters and the Society of St. Florian.

He served in the Army during World War II.

Born in Boston, he later lived in Dorchester. He lived in Quincy for the past 25 years.

He is survived by his wife, Eleanor A. (Coyle)

Nagle; two sons, David M. Nagle of Weymouth and Mark E. Nagle of Pennsylvania; four daughters, Kathleen M. Nagle and Regina M. Nagle, both of Quincy, Christine M. O'Neil of Franklin, and Mary Ellen Maiullo of East Boston; a sister, Mary Creaven of Quincy; and five grandchildren.

Burial was in Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to St. Jude Children's Research, P.O. Box 50, Memphis, TN 38101-9929, or Hospice of the South Shore, P.O. Box 9060, Braintree, MA 02184.

The Quincy Park and Forestry Department requests that Quincy residents who have received new trees in the past year help in watering them during dry spells of the spring and summer months.

"During the first months after a tree has been transplanted, it is imperative that they receive proper care and attention. We hope that residents may protect the trees that they have been given by helping out with the required watering," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park and Forestry Department.

Residents are asked to give the trees a good watering on a weekly basis for a year after the initial planting. Extra watering may be required during dry spells of the summer. If your tree requires any further maintenance, call 376-1251.

There were 467 new trees planted along Quincy's streets during the past fall and spring. The majority of new trees were of the Patmore Green Ash variety, but there were also Callery Pear, Pioneer Elm, Red Oak, Flowering Cherry, and Honey Locust trees planted. Quincy was recently named "Tree City USA" by the National Arbor Day Foundation largely in part because of its efforts to plant and maintain urban trees.

"Beyond the obvious benefits of cleaner air and valuable shade, our trees significantly improve the aesthetics of our neighborhoods," said Koch. "In addition, trees increase residential property values.

Mayor James and the City Council have made an investment in the future of our city by allocating monies for tree-planting. We as residents would be wise to protect that investment through proper maintenance and care."

New Monthly Fare At Harbor Express

Harbor Express in Quincy Point is introducing a new reduced monthly fare to downtown Boston's financial district.

The fare is now $136 per month or $34.00 per trip. Officials said Harbor Express initiated the fare reduction due to requests from commuters and parking constraints and boat capacity issues at the Hingham commuter boat.

Harbor Express operates up to 24 round-trips per day beginning with a 5 a.m. departure from Quincy and ending with a last departure from Boston at 10:50 a.m. on Monday through Friday. Saturday and Sunday service runs from 7 a.m. to 10:05 p.m.

The Harbor Express service was initiated by Massport, BRA, EOTC and Mayor James Sheets in an attempt to provide commuters with a convenient alternative to driving to Boston. It is located at the Fore River Bridge at the Route 3A rotary.

Passengers who take the boat to Long Wharf can walk to their destination in the nearby financial district or board the MBTA Blue Line. Those who travel on Harbor Express to Logan Airport are met by free shuttle buses that take passengers to their terminals.

For more schedule or fare information, call 376-8417.

Firemen's Memorial Services Sunday

The Quincy Fire Department will hold its annual Firemen's Memorial Services, honoring its deceased members Sunday at 9 a.m. at the Firemen's Memorial Monument in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Firemen's Memorial Sunday is always held on the second Sunday in June by departments throughout the state in order to pay respect to their deceased members.

A detail will form at the cemetery gate on Sea Street at 8:30 a.m. The procession will then march to the Firemen's Memorial Monument. The program will commence at 9 a.m.

Treasurer Harold Shedd and Vice President Noel Balducci will place the wreath at the monument. Secretary Ernest Arnti will read the Roll of Honor. Following the reading, "Taps" will be sounded.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be held at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy.

At the conclusion of the exercises, there will be refreshments served at the Bryan Post.

his mother. The student, who was not identified because he is a juvenile, was ordered to wear a monitoring bracelet confining him to his home and to have a mental health evaluation.

The threat by the freshman followed an earlier incident involving a North Quincy High senior who remarked that if he did not graduate this year there would be "another Oregon," referring to the recent slayings of two students in that state killed by a classmate who opened fire in a high school cafeteria. Twenty-two others were injured.

Although the North Quincy senior was initially arrested and suspended, the comment was later determined to be a joke, Mahoney said. The senior graduated with his class on Tuesday night.

Flea Market Saturday At Christ Church

The John Adams Continuing Care, 211 Franklin St., South Quincy, will hold a Flea Market Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Sale items will include used furniture, household items and more. Proceeds will benefit the residents' activity fund.

Alice A. Helfrich, 84

A funeral Mass for Alice A. (Savage) Helfrich, 84, of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

Mrs. Helfrich died June 3 at the Crestview Nursing Home after a long illness.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, she graduated from Quincy High School and Bridgewater State Teachers College.

Before she married, she was a teacher at the Adams School.

Mrs. Savage was a member of the Quincy Women's Club, the South Norfolk District Medical Wives Society, the Quincy Catholic Club and the Neighborhood

Club of Quincy.

Wife of the late Dr. William R. Helfrich, she is survived by two sons, Dr. William R. Helfrich Jr. of Weymouth and Dr. John S. Helfrich of Champaign, Ill.; a daughter, Alice Marie Helfrich of Quincy; eight grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Disease Support Group of the South Shore, P.O. Box 109, Hingham, MA 02043.

Quincy Foursquare

Rev. Bill Donahue, pastor, will preach on "So We Can Say With Confidence" at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday at The Lord's Planting, Quincy Foursquare Church, Sagamore St. and Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Sunday activities include a Prayer Meeting at 7:30 a.m., animated Bible Stories for children and Adult Sunday School at 10 a.m., and Sunday School for children at 11:30 a.m.

On Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., a Yard Sale will be held. Proceeds will help underprivileged children to camp this summer.

For more information on church services, activities, or transportation, call 847-4444.

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Work interests at a distance prosper. Check to see what's happening. Creative types should meet with agents, while children's interests are accentuated.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) There are still things to be worked out concerning a trip. You'll be doing more home entertaining in the near future. You could spruce up your living quarters over the weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) For a while, you'll grumble about work that interferes with socializing. But there will be no complaints about the new career opportunities that come your way. A phone call brings good news toward the latter part of the week.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Work problems are on your mind and you're not at your gregarious best till the later part of the week. Accepting invitations for happy times will be indicated. A question a child takes you by surprise.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Manners and little niceties seem to count in business. Social life finds you quite popular. Accept invitations for enjoyable times during the weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Background maneuvers are favorable for your career. It's a time for preparation and research, rather than action. You need some time for yourself once the weekend arrives.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) First, you argue about how to have fun. Then, you could overstay your welcome while out visiting. Reasoning in social matters is not at its best.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You could complain about not having enough time to do your work and then when left to your own devices, you could dawdle the time away. Listen to a friend. This person's advice is sound.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Home-based activities are best. Catch up on sleep and relaxation once work is done. Some shoppers find a wonderful bargain, but don't dwell on a career problem.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Romance is favored over friendship. Put aside career concerns and let yourself have a good time. Happiness comes through children, love and leisure events this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) If you are given enough time by yourself, there's no telling what you'll accomplish. You're the one who's pulling the strings from behind the scenes. Keep this to yourself.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Slow down and do the job right. Both an old and a new friend are important to you. Doors seem to open for you and good will breeds benefits.

Streetwise & Safe: In Your Car, Home

In The Car

There's more to auto safety than being a good driver. Things like keeping your doors locked and windows rolled up - whether you're driving or parking your car. Or looking into the car before you get in to make sure you don't have an uninvited passenger. And parking in well-lit areas.

Copyright 1994 The Advertising Council, Inc.

If you get into trouble, know what to do:

• If you're being followed, don't go directly home. Instead, drive to the nearest police station, hospital, or other safe public place.

• If your car breaks down, pull over. Put up the hood, turn on the flashers, and tie a handkerchief to the antenna. Then get in the car, lock the doors, roll up the windows and turn the engine off. When someone stops, roll your window down just enough to ask them to phone for help.

• If you have a cell phone or a CB radio in your car, use it to call for help.

One other thing: Be careful about your keys. Leave only the ignition key with parking or service station attendants. That way you won't run the risk that your house keys will be duplicated.

In Your Home:

Everybody knows that it's important to lock the doors when you go out. But did you know it's just as important to keep them locked when you're in?

All the locks in the world won't do any good if you let the crook in yourself.

So follow these tips:

• Install a peephole in the door and check the identity of all callers, including repairmen, delivermen, or salespeople.

• Keep windows locked. Buy special key locks or try the "pin" trick. Drill an angled hole through the top frame of the window partially into the frame of the lower window. Then insert a nail or an eyebolt. You can open the windows by simply removing the nail or eyebolt. IMPORTANT - only use this method on wooden windows.

• Don't let strangers in to use your telephone. Offer to make the call for them.

• When you move into a new home, re-key or change all the locks.

• Make sure you don't hide keys outside. Crooks know all the best hiding spots.

Be careful about phone calls, too. Don't give your name or address to unidentified callers. Never say who's at home - or tell anybody that you're home alone. And make sure that children and baby-sitters know not to give strangers that information either.

One final thing: If you're a woman, don't list your first name on the mailbox or in the phone directory. Use initials and last name only or use a man's first name, perhaps your father's first name or brother's first name.

INVITATION TO BID

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for East Howard Street/South Street/Quincy Ave. Watermain Reconstruction Contract - Spring/Summer 1998 on Thursday, June 25, 1998 at 10:00 AM at the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work under this Contract includes, but is not necessarily limited to the removal of approximately 4500 l.f. of existing watermain of different sizes and installation of new mains in the same trenches. The various watermain lengths and sizes consist of approximately 200 l.f. of 6-inch new ductile iron (D.I.) watermain; and 700 l.f. of 8-inch new ductile (D.I.) watermain, and approximately 3600 l.f. of new ductile iron (D.I.) watermain, including temporary bypass pipes, all valves, valve boxes, fittings, hydrants, appurtenances, connections to existing watermain, residential/commercial service connection, watermain cleaning, pressure testing, testing of all materials for quality and workmanship, disinfection, chlorination of the newly installed piping and all else incidental thereto.

All work shall be performed in accordance with the Massachusetts Highway Department Standard Specifications for Highways and Bridges and Construction Standards, and the American Water Works Standards, all as last revised, unless specified or directed otherwise.

A non-refundable fee of $75.00 by company or bank check payable to the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will be required for each set of contract documents. Bidders requesting contract documents by mail shall also include an additional $15.00 per set to cover the costs of shipping and handling.

The contract documents may be obtained during the business hours of 8:00 AM to 3:30 PM at the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works Engineering Division on or after June 10, 1998.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of 5% of the total value of the bid in the form described in the Instructions to Bidders. The Successful Bidder shall be required to furnish a one hundred percent (100%) Construction Performance Bond and a one hundred percent (100%) Construction Payment Bond from a surety company acceptable to the City.

All work under this contract shall be completed in 180 calendar days.

The bidding and award of this contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised. Bidders attention is called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid, as determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries, under the provisions of Mass. General Law, Chapter 149, Sections 26 to 27D, inclusive.

All Federal, State and local regulations in relation to Minority Business Enterprise, Women's Business Enterprise, Minority Work Force, Employment of Quincy Residents, as required under City Ordinance No. 532, Municipal Ordinance Chapter 12.28 in relation to Apprenticeship Training and Minimum Wage Rates shall be complied with.

Goals for this project are as follows:

1. The Contractor shall maintain on this project a not less than ten percent (10%) ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.

2. A minimum of ten percent (10%) Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) participation and five percent (5%) Women's Business Enterprise (WBE) participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs will be required and maintained on this project. The bidder shall submit complete MBE/WBE forms with his bid, including SOMWBA Certification letters for each MBE/WBE.

3. Compliance with the City of Quincy's Municipal Code Chapter 12.28 relating to City Residency Requirements and Apprenticeship Training is mandatory. Copies of the City Council Orders detailing these programs are included in the project specification manual for reference.

4. All workers on this project shall be paid the "Minimum Wage Rates" as mandated by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries for each type of work classification.

Failure to comply with these requirements may render the bid non-responsive and thus ineligible for further consideration. No waiver for any of these provisions shall be granted.

The City reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all Bids when such an action is deemed in the best interests of the City. The City does not condone submissions of unbalanced bids. Such bids may be summarily rejected.

Lexington, MA 02173	Needham, MA 02194

A pre-bid conference will be held on Thursday, June 16, 1998, 2:00 p.m. at the Point Webster School, Lancaster Street, Quincy, MA 02189. All prospective bidders are urged to attend.

General bids and sub-bids shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total value of the bid in the form described in the Instructions to Bidders. The successful bidder shall be required to furnish a 100% Construction Performance Bond and a 100% Payment and Materials Bond from a surety company acceptable to the City. The bidding and award of this contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within 60 calendar days after the actual date of the opening of bids.

All prospective bidders must be certified by the Division of Capital Planning and Operations (DCPO) in the General Building Construction category. The bid will only be valid when accompanied by a Certificate of Eligibility issued by the DCPO, showing that the Bidder has been approved to bid on projects on the size and nature of that advertised, and an update statement summarizing the Bidder's record for the period between the latest certification and the date the bidder submits a bid for this project.

All federal/state and local regulations in relation to minimum wage rates, minority business enterprise participation, women's business enterprise participation, minority workforce, equal employment opportunity, apprenticeship training and employment of Quincy residents must be complied with.

The project goals in these areas are as given below.

1. The contractor shall maintain on the project a not less than 10% ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category (Minority Workforce).

2. A minimum of 10% MBE participation and 5% WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs will be required and maintained on this project. The bidder must submit completed MBE/WBE forms with his bid.

3. Compliance with the City of Quincy's Ordinance Chapter 12.28 and City Council Order No. 532 and 97-104, requiring contractors working on City-supported construction projects to hire a certain percentage of Quincy residents and to maintain a bona fide apprenticeship training program are mandatory.

4. The Contractor shall pay minimum wage rates, as mandated by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries.

Failure to comply with these requirements may render the bid non-responsive, and thus ineligible for further consideration. The City reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all bids if deemed in the best interest of the City.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment

Project Hero Reaches First Helmet Mark, On The Way To Second

Project Hero has collected more than enough money for one of the two specially-designed, life-saving helmets for the Quincy Fire Department that are its goal.

The community campaign completed its 12th week at the $26,940 rung and is starting its 13th week with $23,060 to go. The second helmet now becomes the next goal for the campaign.

A $2,500 donation from Loomis-Sayles & Co. in Boston and a $300 donation from Sacred Heart School in North Quincy, in addition to those from local businesses and residents, helped push the total to over $25,000.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

See Project Hero Donor Listing On Page 16

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units—helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

Joseph, Carolyn, Eric, John, Elizabeth and Rebecca

Leuchte; Doris Folger, James J. Niland, Louis and Nancy Sordillo, Louise Praderio and Dorothy Brooks, Linda Carr, Tobman Insurance Agency, John and Mary Kearney, John and Susan Bertram, In Memory of Robert J. Granahan, Loomis-Sayles & Co., and Sacred Heart School.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

PROJECT HERO, the community campaign to raise $50,000 for the purchase of two high-tech helmets for the Quincy Fire Department passed the halfway mark this week thanks to a $2,500 donation by Loomis-Sayles & Co. of Boston. Public Hearing June 15 On Fire Protection Assn. Project

The City Council will hold a public hearing on a project proposed by the National Fire Protection Association Monday, June 15 at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The NFPA has filed an application proposing the construction of a five-story, 160,000-square-foot office building within the existing Batterymarch Office Park in West Quincy. The project site has access to Willard Street via the existing Batterymarch Park Drive.

A copy of the plans may be examined at the Department of Planning and Community Development at City Hall weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Support, Opposition For NFPA Office Building Plan

A plan by the National Fire Protection Association to construct a 5-story, 163,000-square-foot office building in West Quincy was the subject of a lightly-attended City Council public hearing Monday night.

Residential support and opposition of the plan was evenly divided at seven apiece. The new building would be located near the NFPA's current facility on Batterymarch Park Drive.

Following a presentation by the plan's proponents, seven residents signed in favor, although no one voiced support. Two residents spoke in opposition and an additional five signed against the plan.

The proponents included Atty. David Mahoney, NFPA Senior Vice President Jim Shannon, an architect and two engineers. They said the project will add 600 parking spaces to the 400 utilized by the existing NFPA building but also $150,000 in improvements, including upgraded traffic signalization, a new left-hand turn designed to further improve area traffic, and a man-made pond.

It also was noted by the proponents the Quincy Planning Board has voted its unanimous approval of the project, which, combined with the original NFPA facility, would take up 26 acres.

Robert Romeri of 744 Willard St. said the NFPA has been a good neighbor but the thought of more traffic caused by yet another area development is troubling.

"It's ongoing, and we've been mitigated to death with traffic," said Romeri, who suggested that more community meetings should be held before a vote is taken on the project.

Robert Naples of 18 Montilio St. agreed.

Following Atlantic Middle School Incident City To Spread Awareness Of The Dangers Of Drugs

The city hopes to increase the awareness of the dangers of drugs among Quincy's youth following an incident last Thursday involving three Atlantic Middle School students hospitalized after taking prescription pills.

Two of the three 14-year-old girls were taken to Quincy Hospital while the third was treated at Carney Hospital in Boston after ingesting pills apparently belonging to one of the girl's mothers. All have been treated and released.

Officials have said no criminal charges are planned.

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday the Quincy Public Schools and the city's DARE (anti-drug) program will release information about the incident to use it as an example to students that they should not experiment with drugs.

The mayor said he was pleased with the city's response to the incident, including the fact a press conference was quickly held so media outlets that became aware of the incident could receive the facts quickly and efficiently.

"I thought, overall, the city handled it very well," he said.

He added he is grateful the girls have all experienced a complete recovery.

"We're thrilled that they're OK," he said.

Council Approves $158.2 Million

Budget Up $8.6 Million

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council has unanimously passed a Fiscal Year 1999 municipal budget totaling $158,217,712, a figure $8.6 million more than the Fiscal Year 1998 budget it approved last year.

The council approved the budget Monday night after making a total of $113,471 in cuts to Mayor James Sheets' spending plan.

Councillor Timothy Cahill, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, said he is confident councillors did all they could to trim the budget but the mayor's plan for the new fiscal year, which begins July 1, is lean.

"There's not room to make many cuts, and we didn't make many cuts," he said. "But I'm confident we went through everything and looked it over carefully."

Councillors made only a handful of cuts, most notably the position for a civilian community policing commission director that would have commanded a salary of $42,500. The commission will instead be directed by Officer Robert Hanna of the Quincy Police Department.

The mayor's proposed spending plan is 5.6 percent or $8.6 million more than the Fiscal Year 1998 budget of $149.6 million. The increase is the largest since 1990, when the budget went up 10 percent or $10.7 million over the 1989 budget—a jump from $107 million to $118 million.

Cahill, however, has called the budget "realistic," saying it includes expenditures the council eventually would make later in the year anyway by dipping into its "free cash," or cash reserve, account.

Duty Shuffle, Raises For Mayoral Staff

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Financial problems at Quincy Hospital have resulted in a reorganization of duties at the mayor's office translating into temporary pay increases for five staff members, according to Mayor James Sheets.

The mayor said Tuesday that reorganization will result in Bernice Mader, his administrative assistant, spending about 80 percent of her time with hospital officials working on a plan to have the hospital privatized or partnered with another medical institution as soon as possible.

The hospital has lost about $5 million in the last two years and that situation must be resolved quickly or taxpayer money will be needed to provide it with assistance, he said.

Because of a number of realities in today's health care industry, Sheets said, Quincy and Haverhill are the only two communities left in Massachusetts that own hospitals—and Haverhill is selling.

"Cities really shouldn't be in the hospital business," he said.

Sheets's comments followed the City Council's passage of Quincy's $158.2 million Fiscal Year 1999 municipal budget Monday night. The budget, including the pay increases for the mayor's staff, takes effect July 1.

Councillors passed most of the budget, including a $50.6 million spending plan for the Quincy Public

Rescheduled Because Of Weather

Flag Day Parade, Celebration Saturday

Due to inclement weather last weekend, the Quincy Flag Day Parade and Celebration has been rescheduled to Saturday.

Sponsored by the City of Quincy, the Quincy Partnership and the Koch Club, the celebration will feature the parade, a flag-raising ceremony and fireworks display. The parade will begin at 7 p.m. and the fireworks will commence shortly after 9 p.m.

"Our rescheduled event will contain all of the good old-fashioned fun that people have come to expect on Flag Day. We will be conducting almost the exact same event as originally planned," said Thomas Koch, chairman of the Flag Day Committee.

The parade will include floats, marching bands, color guards, specialty units and 2,500 flag-waving youths. This year's grand marshal will be Simone Koch, founder of the Koch Club's girls softball program and co-organizer of the Koch Club program. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Koch Club, the organization that founded the Flag Day Parade.

After the parade, there will be a flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field. The highlight of the ceremony will be the raising of the 45-foot by 90-foot Mount Rushmore Flag. Also at the ceremony, Howard and Janet Crowley will be presented with the third annual Richard J. Koch Youth Service Award.

Shortly after 9 p.m., the fireworks display will commence over Black's Creek. Atlas Advanced Pyrotechnics will conduct the 20-minute display featuring over 1,200 shells. The fireworks show will be simultaneous to patriotic music on WJDA Radio (1300 AM). For more information about the Flag Day Parade and Celebration, call 376-1251.

Final Signage Ordinance Vote Seen June 29

A new citywide signage ordinance recently passed by the City Council should reappear before the council for final approval later this month.

The law initially was passed on May 18, but the council later rescinded that position so it could vote again on the ordinance with last-minute amendments included.

Although the matter was on the City Council's agenda for this week's meeting, it was put on hold at the request of City Solicitor Stephen McGrath because of what he termed "some legal concerns."

"We're still kind of working out some of the details on it," McGrath said Tuesday. "It wasn't ready for passage. I'm sure it will be ready by the council's next meeting (June 29)."

McGrath said he has been reviewing the law with Assistant City Solicitor Kevin Madden, Quincy Director of Inspectional Services Walter White, and Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to Mayor James Sheets who spent over two years chairing a special committee that worked to revamp the city's previous signage ordinance.

Mader said the city's law department had some minor concerns over the language in the new ordinance and wanted to make sure all of its provisions are completely enforceable under both state and local zoning laws.

"These were not huge, major objections," she said. "It needed to be looked at again with a lawyer's eye, from their perspective."

Proponents say the new law will allow business owners more freedom and flexibility than the previous ordinance. The ordinance received only support at a joint public hearing held last month by the City Council and the Quincy Planning Board, which has also given the law a positive recommendation.

At Southern Artery, Washington St. Raymondi Seeks Beat Officer For Quincy Point

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi has asked Police Chief Thomas Frane to assign a full-time beat patrol officer to the intersection of Southern Artery and Washington Street in Quincy Point.

In a letter to Frane, Raymondi said that although an officer is currently assigned to the area during the morning commute, he feels the time has come to reinstate the beat once held by retired Officer William Draicchio, now a member of the Quincy Board of Voter Registrars.

"Not only did Officer Draicchio direct traffic and cross children at the intersection of Southern Artery and Washington Street but he also provided a public safety presence for the Washington Street business community and for the home owners in Quincy Point," he wrote.

Raymondi also cited several factors in his letter he termed "justification" for the request:

"The opening this coming September of the nearby Marshall Elementary School, which will have about 650 students and additional traffic generated by teachers, parents, staff members and others.

"The abutting roadways of Southern Artery, Chubbuck Street, Quincy Avenue and Washington Street "are heavily trafficked and very dangerous."

"The intersection of Southern Artery and Washington Street "is one of the busiest and most dangerous intersections in the City of Quincy."

"An anticipated traffic increase from the build-out of Falls Boulevard and planned reopening of the Fore River shipyard.

"Frane recently informed the City Council the Quincy Police Department wants to hire more officers.

"It is in the public interest that we ensure the public safety of our school children and to notify parents that we are doing all that we can to provide a safer environment," Raymondi added in his letter. "In the interest of public safety, therefore, I respectfully request that you reinstate Officer Draicchio's old beat.

"Retired Officer Draicchio was a very respected and much-loved police officer and the return of a police officer to his old beat will have a tremendous positive impact on the Quincy Point community."

Ayers Calls Meeting On Sewer Project

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers has scheduled a neighborhood meeting for Thursday, June 25 regarding the Hollis Ave. sewer improvement project.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Center, 440 East Squantum St.

"I have been working for the last two years with city and state officials and engineers and have secured funding for a pumping station to be located on Hollis Avenue to alleviate flooding problems that have plagued residents for so long," Ayers said.

"The station will also have a positive affect on the surrounding area and will work in conjunction with the Wollaston Beach clean-up project."

Ayers said representatives from D & C Construction Company have been invited to attend the meeting and present its plans and answer residents' questions.

Ayers urged residents to attend the meeting and said they could also meet with him during his office hours at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center and also at his place of business.

That Name Sheets

The name Sheets has been on Quincy election ballots a quarter century and could be there well into the next century.

After James Sheets—maybe—Luke Sheets.

James Sheets made his political debut in 1973 and an impressive one, defeating incumbent Albert Barilaro for the Ward 4 city council seat. And has been winning ever since.

JAMES SHEETS

LUKE SHEETS

And he will probably carry the name on ballots into the new century. Now in his fifth term as mayor, he is expected to run for a sixth—and maybe—a seventh term.

At the completion of his current term in 1999 he will have served 10 years in the mayor's office—longer than any other mayor under the Plan A form of government. The late Charles Ross holds the title now with nine years.

But, what's this about Luke Sheets?

His Honor thinks his son could follow him into the political arena.

Luke followed him to Eastern Nazarene College where he graduated a few weeks ago. He majored in history and theology with a minor in music and has been writing gospel music.

At this point, apparently the furthest thing from Luke's mind is politics. But his father thinks that could change.

"Of my four children," he says, "Luke is the one more likely to go into politics."

Why?

"Well, for one thing, he loves to debate. He likes the give and take of it. He's quick witted. He likes to give credit where credit is due. But he really loves to debate.

And, what better place to debate than in politics?

Luke could be a political chip off the old block but doesn't realize it—yet.

Quincy had father-and-son presidents in John and John Quincy Adams.

Could there be a father-and-son mayors in James and Luke Sheets in the future?

That may be stretching it at this point.

But, you never can tell.

COUNCILLOR PAT McDERMOTT is "doing well" recovering from surgery May 29 at New England Medical Center to replace his left hip.

Well enough to make it on crutches up the long gang-plank at the USS Salem for the Mayor's Boy Scout breakfast last week.

McDermott is undergoing therapy daily at his home. He had a scare the other day with a sudden excruciating pain and had to be rushed to the hospital by ambulance.

"The new hip dislocated," he says. "Would you believe it. I was just sitting reading the newspaper when it happened!"

He is carrying on his city council duties from home, checking City Hall each day for calls from his constituents which he returns.

He has been able to get to two council meetings and hosted a Ward 3 neighborhood meeting the other night.

And, he is getting special care from Tracy Wilson whom he has been dating for several months. She's even doing some of the cooking.

"She's been terrific," says Pat. "And boy, she makes a fantastic pasta."

Pat has to go back to the hospital June 25 to virtually do it all over again. This time his right hip will be replaced.

If that surgery goes well as the first, he expects things to be back to normal by Aug. 1.

CITY EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT Deputy Director Tony Siciliano is a patient at Quincy Hospital.

Tony, one of Quincy's most popular public figures who never says no to anyone in need, was admitted to Quincy Hospital June 9 with an infection in his left foot.

"I'm making good progress," he says, "and should be out of the hospital in four or five days."

And with all the heavy rain and flooding he's been championing at the bit to get back into action.

But he's been staying on top of things by phone from the hospital, checking with the mayor's office and Rita Tosone, administrative secretary to the Quincy Emergency Management Agency and offering advice if needed.

But he says things are in good hands.

"My people are well trained and experienced," he says. "They are doing very well without me."

Tony is in Room 516 in Transitional Care which has seen a fruit basket from Mayor James Sheets and flowers from friends.

FORMER SCHOOL Committeeman Charles

Sweeny seems to get younger at heart as each year goes by.

Charlie, who is 81, turned in his Pontiac Firebird and is now spinning around town in his new Chrysler convertible—candy apple red with black top.

He just couldn't resist it.

But now he's concerned about his skis. He could get them into the Pontiac but he's not too sure about squeezing them into the convertible. (He won't, of course, have the top down during the winter).

He also didn't realize until he got the car home that, when it arrived from the factory, it didn't have an ash tray or cigarette lighter. Nowadays they come as options and he didn't opt before he bought.

Undaunted, he solved that little oversight a few days later. Back to the dealer he went and had them install an ash tray and lighter.

And this made his friends who have been trying to get him off cigarettes a little suspicious. He's been telling them he has kicked the nicotine habit.

So, if he's off the butts, they wanted to know, how come the ash tray and cigarette lighter are so important?

"Well," he says, "they're for guests in the car. I want them to feel at home."

THOSE QUINCY ROTARIANS are at it again.

The Chamber's Terry Fancher paid a Happy Buck to charity at a recent meeting to ask if anyone liked Ron Zooleck's (his boss) high school picture on the flyer advertising the mayor's Boy Scout breakfast at which Zooleck received an award. (That's living dangerously, Terry.)

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1930's postcard published by the Quincy Trust Company. The purpose of the card was to inform the recipients of the installation of a new bookkeeping procedure at the bank known as the Recordak System of Single Posting. The view is of their main office at Hancock Street and Cottage Avenue in Quincy Center. Later known as the Hancock Bank, all identity as a small community bank has been lost in a series of mergers that have reshaped the banking industry. This building has been most recently used as a Chinese restaurant.

Thanks Supporters Of New Atlantic Neighborhood Center

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a member of the board of directors of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, I was quite pleased to see so many folks show up for the grand opening and ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new Atlantic Neighborhood Community Center at its new location at 11 Haywood St., North Quincy, across the street from the famous Wheelhouse Diner.

Over 100 members of the community showed up at the June 10 opening, including many public officials such as City Councillor Bruce Ayers from Ward 6, state Rep. Michael Bellotti, School Committeewoman Linda Stice who also chairs Quincy's Commission on the Family and City Councillor and former state Sen. Paul Harold. However, the members of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association were uplifted by the so many ordinary neighborhood folks who showed up, including many who use the services provided at the center.

The Atlantic Neighborhood Center isn't a building but rather a commitment to the community to help members of the community. The elderly. The children. Members of Quincy's growing Asian community.

I appreciated the kind words of Mike Bellotti who praised Pat Thorley, the center's executive director who has always given 1,000 percent to the center. This isn't just a job to her, it appears to be her mission. As Bellotti noted, when others might have packed it in rather than fighting the bureaucracy, Pat Thorley fought on harder. When funding was a big question mark, Pat rolled up her sleeves and fought tooth and nail.

In the end, the grand opening of the Atlantic Neighborhood Community Center symbolized what can be done if you never give up. I'm sure Pat knows how hard she's worked for the center and its programs over the years. She didn't need Bellotti validating her, but I'm sure it made her smile hearing him speak so kindly of her.

I've known Pat for nearly three years now since getting active in the association and I know few people with more energy than her. She is tireless because she knows she has to be.

I also want to thank City Councillor Bruce Ayers who worked with Pat at finding the appropriate site for the center. It wasn't an easy task and he also shares the credit for the open house celebration. There were many "Scissorhands" cutting that bright red ribbon.

The center works because everyone cares enough to make it work. It is a partnership between the neighborhood and the city. It gives government a chance to become a partner in the life of a neighborhood.

Finally, thank you to Neil and the whole gang at the Wheelhouse Diner for a terrific catered brunch. I got a free lunch that day thanks to Neil working with Pat. But in reality, when it comes to serving people in the neighborhood there are few free lunches, only hard work.

Thanks again to all for making June 10 a day to remember in North Quincy.

SkatePark Would Be A 'Positive Step' For Quincy

[The writer of this letter submitted a copy to The Sun for publication.]
Dear Mayor Sheets:

I am attaching a copy of a lesson my 9-year-old son, Robbie, did in class this year at the Lincoln-Hancock School. The petition he is referred to was done last August by my sons, their cousin and some of their friends.

These kids, ranging in age from 8 to 13, collected over 200 signatures on their own in support of the building of a SkatePark in the City of Quincy. It's almost a year later and nothing has been done about building a park where skaters can go where they won't be kicked out, arrested and considered a bother by almost everyone. These kids aren't trying to destroy property or be a nuisance—they just want to skate.

There are many other towns that have built SkateParks such as Scituate, Duxbury, Beverly and Weymouth and Hull are trying to get parks built. If these towns can deal with the liability, which is no different than that of a playground with swings and a jungle gym, then Quincy should be able to deal with the liability issue also.

If the City of Quincy can build many baseball fields and some soccer fields—which I know was a long and hard battle for Quincy Youth Soccer—and a golf course, why can't they build one SkatePark? One SkatePark built of concrete which would require very little maintenance would provide a place for these kids to go so they would be out of the way and not bothering anyone. The SkatePark would be built specifically for skating so it would be safer than skating on the streets.

The city could make money by selling helmets and protective pads which all skaters should be wearing. The city could include in their summer recreation camps some Skating Camps to teach skating basics for rollerbladers and skateboarders and even bike riders. This would also provide summer jobs for teens who could teach these things.

The building of a SkatePark would be a positive step for the City of Quincy and its kids.

City Launches Drive For Victims Of Worcester Tornado

By PAUL HAROLD

Mayor David McIntosh kicked off a city-wide campaign to aid the victims of the recent Worcester tornado.

The city's civil defense unit, under the director of Thomas Macdonald, had already deployed lighting trucks to Worcester, and was coordinating the distribution of money and blood donations to the stricken area.

Numerous city fraternal and charitable groups, including the Red Cross, the Elks and Sons of Italy, had collected sheets, blankets and mattresses for distribution to the needy.

Meanwhile, there were numerous reports of personal letters and other items being found in Quincy, having been blown half-way across the state by the force of the storm.

CITY EYES CHURCH PROPERTY

Former Mayor Thomas Burgin, who was also a trustee of the First Parish Church, announced that a committee had been formed to begin negotiations with the city for the purchase of small parts of the church property for highway purposes. Specifically, the city wanted to "round off" the corners at Washington, Temple and Hancock Sts.

Burgin noted that such a sale would not affect the beauty or dignity of the church. It was estimated that the cost to the city would be the $20,000 assessed value of the land, plus 25 per cent land damages.

BROAD MEADOWS PLAN PRESENTED

The Grossman Company presented its development plans for 110 acres at Broad Meadows to the Merrymount Association this week.

Robert Fay, who headed the committee studying the proposal for the association, said they were not opposed to the plan, but wanted to make sure it was properly planned and not done haphazardly.

Further, he said that land should be set aside for a possible school site and there should be reasonable buffers between the development and the church and existing residential area.

Belles & Beaux Celebrates 50th Anniversary

A group called Belles and Beaux which began in St. Mary Church in 1948 celebrated its 50th anniversary recently with an appreciation dinner held at the Torre dei Passeri Social Club in Quincy Point.

Founded by the late Andy Dirksmier, the group toured military hospitals, camps and bases and also did a Jimmy Fund show with Ted Williams, Jimmy Pearsall and the Red Sox, with many sport celebrities helping to raise money for the children.

They also performed at the Chelsea Naval Hospital when the Enterprise burned, and the amputee Veterans DAV show at the John Hancock Hall with Gene Jones from Radio Station WBZ.

Members of the Dirksmier family including Trudy Dirksmier, director, her brother Joseph Dirksmier and sister Ann Tullis are still active and performing with the group.

The group started out by doing one show a month, then two and after five years began keeping records of their appearances. They have appeared at over 250 places doing more than 2,400 shows. They still average 90 shows a year.

At Sunday's gathering, charter members were recognized and presented certificates of appreciation.

Charter members included Nina Caporale, Reno Litterio, Irene Dirksmier, Louise Dirksmier, Marie D'Olimpio, and still performing, Rita Callahan, Mary Redmond, John Ragusa and Ann Tullis.

ROBYN TURCOTTE and BRIAN MCCLELLAND

Robyn Turcotte Engaged To Brian McClelland

Robyn Marie Turcotte and Brian Joseph McClelland, formerly of Quincy, have announced their engagement.

Miss Turcotte is a graduate of Shawshen Valley Regional Vocational Technical High School in Billerica. She is attending Arizona State University studying for a Bachelor of Science in nursing. She is employed part-time for a physician who specializes in sports medicine in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Mr. McClelland is a graduate of North Quincy High School and employed at Fry's Food Stores as a distribution manager in Phoenix, Ariz.

A September wedding is planned.

EYLEM BASALDI, a student at Quincy High School, recently received BankBoston's $1,000 Robert E. Brown Scholarship Award for 1998. Basaldi, who is in her second season as a member of the first violin section of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, won the award because of her exceptional musical ability.

Purple Pages Second Edition Ready For Circulation

The Purple Pages, a free booklet distributed by the City of Quincy's Commission on the Family, is in circulation for the second year, announces Commission Executive Director Linda Stice.

The booklet lists nearly 70 Quincy programs and activities for young people, from canoeing and ceramics to scouting, sailing and in-line skating.

"The Purple Pages are a fast, inexpensive way to get information to children and teenagers about fun stuff to do in Quincy," Stice said.

Other activities listed include cheerleading, chess, computers, concerts, cooking, crafts, sewing, singing, ice skating, skiing, soccer, softball, special events, special needs programs, sports camps, story telling, story times, summer enrichment and swimming.

This year is the booklet's second edition.

"We're printing 12,000 copies this year. A year and a half ago, we did 9,000, but we found that wasn't enough. This book is really popular," said Jack Lydon, operations supervisor for the city's Data Processing Department.

The Purple Pages are given to every elementary and middle school student in the city and are available at all libraries, neighborhood centers, Recreation Department, the Mayor's Office, The Quincy Sun (1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center) and by calling Stice at 376-1421.

THE SECOND EDITION of the city's Purple Pages, a free booklet published by the City of Quincy's Commission on the Family listing nearly 70 Quincy programs for young people, is ready for circulation. QHS Honors Over 100 Students At Science Awards Ceremony

More than 100 students were honored for excellence in achievement and effort in their science classes during this school year.

The Robert B. Woodward Award is presented annually by the Friends of Quincy High School to the graduating senior who has maintained the highest average in science for four years. The award was established by the Friends to honor the memory of Dr. Woodward, a Quincy High School graduate who became a Nobel Prize winner in chemistry. This year's recipient was Kara McSweeney.

The Arnold A. Rubin Scientific American Award was presented to Joseph Doyle. He will receive a subscription to the Scientific American Magazine. He was selected to receive the award by the science faculty members because of his inquisitive nature and his interest in chemistry.

The M.I.T.-New England Science Teachers Award for achievement in science and technology was presented to Scott Desmond. The award included a book for the student and a plaque which will be placed in the Pride Room. Desmond's name and those of future winners will be engraved on the plaque.

Marisa Ross received a special Recognition Award for completing seven advanced courses with distinction. These included four Advanced Placement courses.

Advanced Placement Book Awards were presented to: Joanna Cullen, Environmental Science; Kara McSweeney, Chemistry 2; and Elder Tam, Biology 2.

Students maintaining the highest average for the year in each of science were honored with a trophy. They were: Sheena Williams Earth Science; Lily Quan Biology 1; and Thomas Slowe, Chemistry 1 and Physics 1. (Slowe, a sophomore more currently taking advanced level courses in both chemistry and physics, is the outstanding student in both sciences.)

Students receiving Science Recognition Awards for outstanding achievement and effort in their science classes for the 1997-1998 school year included:

Biology: Holly Archer, Amanda Bagarella, Patrick Creedon, Patrick Del Val, Michael Demeo, Cheryl Hillier, Michael Kelley, Dianne Lynch, Shira Maher, Jill Miller, Kelly Ann Mullen, Russell Mullen and Jennifer Myers.

Biology For Health Science: Michelle Coull, Jenn Halvorsen and Jenn Hettman.

QUINCY HOSPITAL administrators and staff, along with Mayor James Sheets and Lou Mazzini (right), chairperson of the hospital's Board of Managers, thanked their volunteers in a recent ceremony. Among those honored, from left, were Shirley Mason, for 7,000 hours of service; Pearl Quint, 8,000 hours; Alice Cook, 11,000 hours; and Charlotte Pollack, 6,000 hours.

Matthew Chan Honors Scholar At WPI

Matthew Kaichung Chan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chan of Quincy, has been selected as a Charles O. Thompson Scholar, an honors designation for outstanding first-year students at Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

The designation is named in honor of the first president of the Institute.

To be eligible as a scholar, students must receive all As and Bs, with a minimum of six As, in their academic subjects during the first three terms at WPI.

WILLIAM B. RICE EVENTIDE HOME

Where Security and Friendship Go Hand In Hand.

Miriam Addison is proof positive that you're never too old to make new friends. She first met Gayle Davis after moving to Quincy's Eventide Home, where Gayle is a loyal volunteer.

Miriam came to Quincy from her Quincy home, after living alone became too much to handle and she needed nursing care.

Gayle began volunteering at Eventide after moving to Massachusetts from Maine 14 years ago. Miriam also lived in Maine for a time.

"Can you believe that we both started our first jobs at Union Mutual in Portland, Maine?"

Gayle asks. "What a small world!"

When Miriam expressed a desire to go shopping,

Gayle responded and they became instant friends.

"We just gelled," Miriam says. "We discovered the Talbots outlet together."

"And don't forget about your favorite lunch spot overlooking Hingham Bay," adds Gayle.

Miriam Addison recently celebrated her 100th birthday, surrounded by family and friends at home, Quincy's Rice Eventide Home.

Squantum Point Park -- 2nd Public Meeting

Everyone interested in Squantum Point Park in North Quincy is invited to a second public meeting:

Tuesday, June 23, 1998 at 7:00 p.m.
Marina Bay Company, Cafeteria
500 Victory Road, Squantum, No. Quincy

At the meeting, the landscape architect firm of Carol R. Johnson Associates, Cambridge, will address the comments received at the last public meeting (May 28) when conceptual plans for Squantum Point Park were presented to the public.

The public meeting on June 23 will be the final meeting before the landscape architects begin the actual design of the park. All public comments will be welcomed.

Park Plans Presented on May 28

Park development will be consistent with the MDC's Master Plan for the Lower Neponset River Reservation.

Conceptual plans outlined on May 28 focused on preserving Squantum Point as a passive recreational park and sanctuary. Trees and shrubs will be planted and several pathways will be developed around the park. A public boat ramp, leading to the harbor, and other facilities were also proposed.

Computer Workshops At Quincy College

Quincy College's Community Development Office is offering three one-evening workshops in basic personal computing on June 23, 25 and 30.

Each workshop lasts three hours and will provide an introduction to personal computers and a review of some of the software options on the market. Space is limited, and tuition for the workshop is $15 per evening.

Classes will be held in Coddington Hall from 6 to 9 p.m.

On Tuesday, June 23, students will learn the basics of the personal computer and the Windows operating system. The workshop will include discussions about hardware, software and basic information on purchasing a computer. This is ideal for beginners and novice computer users.

On Thursday, June 25, students will sample the Microsoft Office Suite and discuss desktop publishing options. Basic keyboarding and mouse skills are recommended.

On Tuesday, June 30, the workshop will involve Internet sites, online services and a review of how computers can assist people in daily living.

There is no additional fee involved. Students will use personal computers and have an opportunity to ask questions and sample some of the newer software programs available. Anyone over the age of 16 is welcome to enroll in the classes.

The Community Development Office of Quincy College also manages the Computer Instruction Academy, a non-credit professional training resource offering full-day and multi-week programs in computers and programs.

To register for either of the workshops, call Bob Baker at 984-1662.

Boston Gas Warns Customers To Check Worker's Identification

Boston Gas reports it has been informed of several incidents involving a scam in which individuals have posed as utility workers to gain access to private residences.

At this time, the incidents have been limited to the City of Boston, and have only resulted in reported thefts of cash, the company said.

Boston Gas said all residents should scrutinize claims by individuals representing themselves as utility workers. Whether natural gas, electrical or communications workers, these service people should present appropriate identification.

Boston Gas workers wear clothing emblazoned with a Boston Gas logo.

They all drive a service vehicle displaying a Boston Gas logo. And all Boston Gas employees carry photo identification. Inspect the photo to make sure it matches the individual.

Should customers still be suspicious, a call to Boston Gas at (617) 723-5512 will confirm if a service vehicle is at work in the neighborhood.

State statute enacted in January 1997 imposes severe penalties for impersonating a natural gas or electrical utility worker, including up to two years of incarceration and a $1,000 fine.

COMPUTERS TAKE A STEP FORWARD

Computers have moved into seemingly every aspect of our lives, from personal finance to medicine, and foot care is no exception. If a person's biomechanics - the way an individual walks and runs - are out of whack, the painful result may require orthotics (shoe inserts).

Orthotics have traditionally been fitted using an impression of the foot and observing the foot in action. In some cases, computerized gait analysis may now help produce a clearer picture of how the foot is malfunctioning. A patient walks across a plate that transmits data to a computer. A printout can then show precisely how weight is being distributed with every step, and an orthotic can be fashioned to help correct any imperfections.

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. Stop-action videos are another high-tech tool sometimes used in evaluating foot problems, especially among athletes.

Memorial Plaque At Hospital

You can remember a loved one or honor a friend by putting their name on the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary plaque in the Hunting Hall of Founders at the hospital.

Name plates cost $85 each and become a permanent part of the auxiliary plaque.

The Hunting Hall of Founders recognizes the contributions of the many individuals, businesses and organizations who have provided financial support to Quincy Hospital over the years. It is named for Dr. Nathaniel S. Hunting, a member of the medical staff of Quincy Hospital since 1890, who became the first Chief of Staff when the City of Quincy assumed responsibility for the hospital in 1919.

Proceeds from name plate contributions help support the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary, which raises funds for equipment and services benefiting patient care at Quincy Hospital.

To place an order for a name plate in memory of or to honor a family member or friend, call Natalie Fosatti in the hospital gift shop at 376-5509.

Real answers on crime

"Burglars work 24 hours. Why can't our DA's office?"

— Jack Corrigan

Burglary is the crime of choice for career criminals, because they like the odds.

Last year in Norfolk County thousands of burglaries were reported ...but fewer than 30 burglars were indicted by Norfolk County's appointed District Attorney.

As our next DA, Jack Corrigan will change the odds in our favor with a plan that targets career criminals, solves more burglaries, and makes our homes safer. All that stands in our way is inertia.

Open 24 hours.

Jack Corrigan's plan will make trained prosecutors available around the clock to assist police investigations. "As DA, I'll make sure experienced attorneys are always on duty to provide assistance with investigations, interrogations and search warrants," the former assistant district attorney said. "That'll mean more convictions, and fewer criminals freed on technicalities and loopholes."

Taking a computer byte out of crime.

While criminals long ago entered the computer age, the Norfolk County DA's office is still in the stone age. Jack Corrigan will create a state-of-the-art fingerprint division with a computerized Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS) connection to help all local police departments solve more crimes by quickly matching fingerprints with known felons.

"I'll also create a criminal offender database to give every police department in Norfolk County instant access to fingerprints, police reports, warrants, photos, and other key data on suspects."

Community Prosecution.

Community prosecution programs in other counties have lowered crime rates and helped citizens reclaim their neighborhoods. "By meeting regularly with local leaders, prosecutors gain a real understanding of local problems, and crime goes down," Corrigan explained. "Like community policing, community prosecution works. Norfolk County needs it now."

He'll get the job done.

As Assistant District Attorney for nearly eight years, Jack Corrigan was Chief Prosecutor in Bill Delahunt's Civil Rights Unit, and Chief Prosecutor in the White Collar Crime Unit. He also managed the office's $5 million budget, while carrying a full caseload of major felony cases in Superior Court. An honors graduate of Harvard and Harvard Law School, Jack has what it takes to restore innovation and excellence to the Norfolk County District Attorney's office.

Think we can't do better fighting crime and drugs? You don't know Jack.

'Historic Quincy' Prints Available At Hospital

Prints of "Historic Quincy" are being offered for sale through the Quincy Hospital Health and Education Foundation.

"Historic Quincy" is an original watercolor lithograph by local artist Bill Beyer. Each lithograph is individually signed and numbered by the artist. The painting depicts an array of historic sights in Quincy, such as the USS Salem, Granite Railway, the Adams Birthplace and Mansion and many more familiar landmarks. A copy of the framed print is available to view in the Gift Shop located in the main lobby of the hospital.

Prints are available at a cost of $35 unframed, $75 framed. The framed version is available in a choice of two different frames and mats. Proceeds from the sale of prints help to enhance health care services at Quincy Hospital.

To order a print, or for more information, call Jean Parker at 376-5495.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment Project Hero Campaign Reaches $29,065 Rung

Project Hero continues to climb toward its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its 13th week at the $29,065 rung and is starting its 14th week with $20,935 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units—helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

TIRE ROTATION AND WHEEL BALANCING

Over time, a vehicle's tires are subjected to stresses that may lead them to wear unevenly. Not only do the front tires steer the car, but they bear the brunt of the load of braking. With front-wheel-drive cars, these stresses are particularly pronounced because the front tires must also carry torque from the engine. It makes no sense, therefore, to adhere to the owner's manual suggestion of rotating your tires to complex intervals as a Quincey Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place and maximizing tire life. At the Longer." Hours: Mon. - Fri. 6am to 5pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. Doing so removes imbalances that otherwise lead to shimmying, which spoils the car's comfort and ride.

HINT: Check the inflation of tires at regular intervals to ensure proper wear and good mileage.

Multi-Family Housing Sales Up

Sales of two-, three- and four-family homes rose 5.4 percent in Massachusetts during the first quarter of 1998, increasing from 1,096 units closed in the first three months of 1997 to 1,155 in the same period this year, according to data compiled by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR).

"The multi-family market continues to gain popularity, especially in multi-ethnic urban settings where immigrants and first-time buyers are purchasing homes to escape soaring rent prices," said MAR President Mary Crowley. "In several major cities throughout metropolitan Boston and Worcester County, where apartment vacancy rates are quite low and rents have risen an average of 13 percent this past year, the demand for two- to four-family properties has been particularly strong."

During the first three months of this year, sales rose sharply in both central Massachusetts and greater Boston, where multi-family home sales increased 18.2 percent and 17.6 percent, respectively, in the first quarter of 1998 as compared to the same period last year. Sales also increased by 5.1 percent in the South Shore region from January to March this year versus the same period in 1997, and remained stable in western Massachusetts and on Cape Cod and the Islands.

The MAR report also found the total dollar volume for multi-family home sales increased 18.5 percent during the first quarter, climbing from $134,496,045 in the first three months a year ago to $159,319,425 in the same period in 1998. While price comparisons are not available for two-, three- and four-family homes separately, the overall increase in dollar volume suggests the average value of multi-family property has risen 12.4 percent statewide since the first quarter of 1997.

"The multi-family market looks to be on very solid ground," said Crowley, "and the strong rental market here, as well as the recently approved reduction in the federal capital gains tax should spark additional interest in two-, three- and four-family homes for many months to come."

NATIONAL HOMEOWNERSHIP WEEK was recently proclaimed in Quincy by Mayor James Sheets (right) who is joined by John Buckley, executive officer of the Builders Association of Greater Boston. The BAGB, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, is conducting a month-long effort to raise public awareness about the benefits of homeownership, and to provide consumer oriented information to the public about a variety of subjects. The BAGB points out the importance of homebuilding and homeownership. Last year, home remodeling expenditures were $120 billion, and 66.7 million Americans own their own homes.

ARM Yourself With The Right Loan

When it comes time to buy a home, there are so many different financing options to consider.

You've studied the rise and fall of interest rates over the last several months, but still don't have any idea of the type of financing that is best for you.

One option is to apply for a conventional loan, which has a fixed interest rate for the life of the loan and the monthly mortgage payments are always the same. However, there is another option: adjustable rate mortgages.

Adjustable rate mortgages (ARMs) contain interest rates that change according to the market. The rate usually includes the current index plus a few percentage points to account for the lender's profit. Monthly payments can change at various intervals.

If you choose an ARM, you even have a few more options. There are ARMs with interest caps and other ARMs that contain payment caps.

The interest-cap mortgages set limits on how high the interest rate can go at each period of adjustment.

A payment cap is put on the amount of the monthly mortgage payment. This cap states that the payment cannot increase by a certain percentage, even if the interest rate rises. This type of cap, usually in effect for a year at a time, benefits home buyers who purchase a home while still owning the former home. This allows the buyer to keep payments at a manageable level, even if the interest rate goes up.

As your ERA Real Estate associate, I'll be glad to answer any questions you may have about adjustable rate mortgages or anything to do with your real estate needs.

First New Independent Bank On South Shore In 30 Years

Horizon Bank And Trust Company Opens

Horizon Bank & Trust Company, the first new, independent bank to be chartered on the South Shore in more than 30 years, opened yesterday (Wednesday) at its new offices at 550 John W. Mahar Highway, Braintree.

"The bank's opening is a culmination of nearly two years of hard work by a lot of people including our staff, our founders and our board of directors," said Donald Olson, chairman and CEO of Horizon Bank & Trust Company.

"Now South Shore residents will have a clearly defined choice in banking. As a community bank, we look to fill an important role—providing personal banking service to local individuals and businesses. We look forward to knowing our customers on a first name basis and helping them with all their financial services needs," Olson said.

More than 500 stockholders responded to the bank's stock offering which raised in excess of $10 million, more than the $8 million necessary to open under state banking laws.

According to James Barbieri, president of Horizon Bank & Trust Company, "All of our staff come from a community banking background and many have a loyal following among local business owners, professionals and consumers. We are anxious to help individuals and business owners grow their nest egg and attain their entrepreneurial goals."

In addition to Olson and Barbieri, John Fanciullo will serve as executive vice president and chief financial officer of the bank, which will initially employ 12 people.

The community bank will be initially housed in two oversized trailers next to the construction site of their more permanent offices, which are scheduled to be completed by fall.

"Our bricks and mortar will be up soon enough, but we wanted to provide community banking services to customers as soon as possible. We will roll up our sleeves and give people the attention and consideration they need and deserve," said Olson.

Directors of the bank include:

Anthony Agnitti, presi-

Could Help Prevent Oregon, Arkansas, Similar Tragedies Locke Cites Cooperative Program Aimed At Curbing Youth Crimes

Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke says a program he and his office have implemented in an effort to cut down on youth crime could help prevent tragedies such as the recent slayings in Oregon, Arkansas and other states.

During a recent visit to The Quincy Sun, Locke outlined efforts his office has made in curbing youth crime as well as crimes against seniors, those involving drugs, and white-collar crime.

He said those efforts are seeing positive, albeit gradual, results.

"We're slightly ahead criminally and way ahead politically," said Locke, his latter comment referring to the challenge he faces from three Democrats currently running for his seat. A Republican appointed district attorney by former Gov. William Weld when William Delahunt vacated the seat to run for Congress, he will face one of those three challengers in November's final election.

Locke said he is particularly proud of the efforts to prevent crime committed by youths. They are based upon two mechanisms: a "memorandum of understanding" signed by the D.A.'s office and school and police officials in a given community about how to deal with youth crimes—such as a student bringing a weapon to school—and a "roundtable concept" that has those officials meeting regularly to discuss crime-preventing strategies.

Locke said the effort helps officials get to the root of the problem: why youths commit such crimes.

"The program helps you take a first-time offender and say, 'What are the real issues here?'" he said.

It also calls for punishing offenders with such devices as mandatory counseling, volunteering or schoolwork.

The effort has been successful in a number of local communities, including Quincy. For instance, Locke said, a recent program for 69 youths—more than half from Quincy—resulting in 64 successfully completing it and only five dropping out.

He added that while local officials currently do not have all of the tools to combat situations such as those in Arkansas and Oregon—where youths killed fellow students and others—efforts by the D.A.'s office are starting to move in that direction.

"There is a potential to prevent an Oregon," said Locke.

Other areas in which Locke is concentrating:

"Drugs. Locke said he and other officials at his office are looking at individual communities to learn about their drug-related problems. For example, after learning that cocaine was being regularly sold in Avon by dealers in cars, police arrested more than 30 separate buyers—many of whom later cooperated with authorities—and subsequently made 11 or 12 separate police "buys" resulting in the arrests of drug traffickers.

"Crimes against seniors. Successful Seniority, an educational program started by Locke that shows senior citizens how they are vulnerable, has been very popular, according to Locke. Noting that fraud, and not physical violence, is the most frequent crime against seniors, the D.A. said 30 groups comprising a total of 1,600 seniors already have been exposed to the program.

"White-collar crime. Locke said he wants such crime prosecuted more aggressively. Citing one case in which a Randolph bookkeeper embezzled $163,000 from a small firm, he said, "It's wrong that we would treat white-collar crime differently from blue-collar crime."

Locke said such efforts symbolize what he enjoys most about serving as district attorney: fighting criminal activities in a creative way.

"What makes the job exciting is you're looking at different ways to fight crime," he said. "It forces look to look at innovation."

POINTERS ON TAKING PILLS

See if this sounds familiar: You pop a pill into your mouth and chase it with a gulp of water, as you've done a thousand times before, only this time there's a second when it feels like the pill has gotten stuck, and your life flashes before your eyes, and . . . and then the pill slides on down and you forget the whole panicky episode. If you want to avoid problems taking pills, here are some tips. Never swallow a pill lying down. Stand up, if possible, so gravity can help the medicine go down. Drink some water before taking a pill, to lubricate the throat, then put the pill on the back of the tongue and take several swallows of water. Drink water, rather than another liquid, unless otherwise directed by your doctor, to avoid stomach upset or adverse drug interaction. If you think the pill may be stuck, take a bite of banana, followed by more water.

While taking medications can be tiresome sometimes, overall, we are fortunate today that so many symptoms can be alleviated and medical conditions can be brought under comfortable management. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Don't break up pills without your doctor's okay. Broken pills may catch in the throat, and crushed drugs may dissolve at the wrong rate.

Lecture Series On Presidents Begins June 22

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site will hold its 1998 Lecture Series June 22 to June 26.

The event will investigate the significance of the residences of Presidents George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams as symbols of each chief executive. The five-day series, entitled "At Home with the Early Presidents," will be held at the historic estate of the Adams family in Quincy.

The week's programs will include lectures by nationally-renowned experts and dramatic first-person character interpreters to provide a greater understanding of the historic significance of these men and the homes in which they lived.

The schedule:

•Monday, June 22 at 11 a.m., "George Washington: A Most Remarkable Man," by James Rees, resident director of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association.

•Tuesday, June 23 at 7 p.m., "The Squire of Mount Vernon: An Evening at Home with George Washington," by William Sommerfield, vice president and artistic director of The American Historical Theatre, world-renowned first-person character interpreter of George Washington.

•Wednesday, June 24 at 11 a.m., "President John Adams: The Old House as Paradise," by Paul Nagel, author of "Descent from Glory," "Adams Women," and "John Quincy Adams: A Public Life, A Private Life." A book signing will follow the lecture.

•Thursday, June 25 at 11 a.m., "President John Quincy Adams, The Old House as Fortress," by Nagel. A book signing will follow the lecture.

•Friday, June 26 at 11 a.m., "Monticello: Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow," by Daniel P. Jordan, director of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, contributor to "Thomas Jefferson's Monticello: A Photographic Portrait" and "Monticello: A Guidebook." A book signing will follow lecture.

•Friday, June 26 at 5:30 p.m., "The Sage of Monticello: An Evening at Home with Thomas Jefferson," by Bill Barker, world-renowned first-person character interpreter of Thomas Jefferson.

The lectures and dramatic portrayals will be held at the Carriage House on the grounds of the Adams National Historic Site, 135 Adams St. The one-hour programs are free. Refreshments precede and questions and answers follow all lectures.

For more information, call the National Park Service Visitor Center at 770-1175.

Squantum Point Park Conceptual Plans Unveiled

Landscape architect planners unveiled conceptual plans for the development of Squantum Point Park in North Quincy at a recent public meeting at Marina Bay.

More than 30 people were on hand to hear the preliminary plans for the 50-acre site and to comment on specific design concepts prepared by landscape architects John Amodeo and Randy Sorensen from the firm Carol R. Johnson Associates Inc. in Cambridge. The final park design will be consistent with the Metropolitan District Commission's Master Plan for the Lower Neponset River Reservation.

Sen. Michael Morrissey, MDC Planning Director Julia O'Brien, and Frank Smith, project director for Massachusetts Electric Company's and New England Power Company's Dorchester to Quincy Underground Electric Cable Project, which is sponsoring the park design, also spoke at the meeting.

Working with the MDC, Massachusetts Electric and

New England Power, which are NEES companies, are sponsoring the park design as one of several community benefits for Quincy associated with the underground cable project. Massachusetts Electric and New England Power are responsible for the design work, and will contribute to the initial development of the park as part of the cable project. The MDC will oversee the work at the site.

Conceptual plans outlined at the meeting focused on preserving Squantum Point—one of the largest open-space parcels of land in the Boston Harbor area—as a passive recreational park and bird sanctuary. The landscape architects suggested planting additional trees and shrubs at the site and creating several pathways throughout the parcel which will enable people to walk, jog, roller-blade, or bicycle around the park.

The landscape architects presented the concept of putting in a soccer field on the southern portion of the existing parking lot or nearby. A public boat ramp, leading to the harbor, was also discussed. If included in the park design, the boat ramp would be accessed through the existing parking lot.

One key issue under discussion was the size of the parking lot, which would be used for park access. Development of the soccer field could impact the final size of the parking facility.

The landscape architects said the shoreline protection of the harbor side of the site has substantially deteriorated and should be repaired or replaced.

If the conceptual plans are carried forward for Squantum Point Park, visitors will be able to exercise along the trails, to observe migrating birds and other wildlife, to fish along the shoreline, to sunbathe, and to look at the vistas of Boston's skyline and harbor.

To comment on the preliminary phase of Squantum Point Park's design, write to Mr. John Amodeo, Carol R. Johnson Associates Inc., 1100 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, MA 02138.

Flood To Officially Announce Sheriff Candidacy June 24

Jack Flood plans to officially announce his candidacy for Norfolk County Sheriff Wednesday, June 24, making appearances across the county to greet voters and outline his campaign themes.

Flood will be joined by family, and supporters on an old-fashioned trolley car nicknamed the "Jack Flood Bandwagon," which will stop at five locations countywide - Quincy, Brookline, Canton, Franklin and Wellesley.

"I'm excited about the chance to speak to voters and tell them all that we have accomplished in my tenure as sheriff, and more importantly, to tell them what I plan to do after I'm elected," said Flood, a Canton resident.

Flood was named by Gov. William Weld to succeed the late Clifford Marshall in December, 1996. He is a former state legislator and one-time computer company executive.

He cites the following accomplishments:

•Establishing the first drug and alcohol abuse treatment program for female inmates in Norfolk County history.

•Cutting nearly $200,000 in costs from the budget, while generating $70,000 in new, non-tax revenues.

•Reforming the Civil Process Division into a profit-making entity whose revenues will be shared with Norfolk County communities through public safety grants.

"I want the chance to build on my record. That will include strengthening partnerships with other law enforcement agencies, expanding the use of our tough, cost-saving intermediate sanctions program, and creating a juvenile diversion program to deter young people from a life of crime," Flood said.

The Quincy Trolley Stop will be at 6 p.m. at the Quincy Senior citizens Complex, 1000 Southern Artery.

The day's festivities will conclude with a 7 p.m. fundraiser at La Casa Bianca restaurant, One Whitman Road, Canton. Tickets are $20 per person. For more information, call the Jack Flood Committee at (781) 828-3500.

Raiders In Div. 1 South Final Following Delay, North To Resume Title Quest

By LIAM FITZGERALD

If all goes as planned, the North Quincy High School baseball team could be playing for the state championship Saturday at venerable Fenway Park.

Before that, though, the fourth-seeded Red Raiders (17-6) had to overcome two major obstacles: the Div. 1 South title game against No. 3 seed New Bedford, and a showdown with the Div. 1 North champion, either Peabody or Arlington.

After three postponements due to inclement weather, the Div. 1 South championship was slated for yesterday (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at Braintree High School.

If the Red Raiders are victorious over New Bedford (17-6), they will play the Div. 1 North champion at Lowell Alumni Field. The game will likely be played today (Thursday) at a time to be announced.

The winner of the Div. 1 North/South game advances to the state championship against the winner of the Div. 1 Central/West tilt. The state final will be held Saturday at Fenway at a time to be announced—if the Sectional finals were not postponed.

"This is a one-day opportunity," said Quincy Public Schools Athletic Director William Walker. "Fenway Park is only available for state championships on Saturday. If those other games aren't done by Saturday, the state championships will be played elsewhere."

In recent Div. 1 South semifinal action, North captured a dramatic 5-4 win over Durfee last Thursday at Braintree High School.

North senior John Sullivan's two-out double in the bottom of the ninth drove in junior Chris Gregoli with the game-winning run.

"It was an unbelievable rollercoaster game, but the kids hung in there," said North coach Dave Perdios. "It was a big, big win."

Though they went on to win the game, the Red Raiders received an early scare when senior catcher Bill Walker was drilled in the head by Durfee starter Kris Stokes leading off the bottom of the first.

Walker, who was taken off the field on a stretcher and brought to the emergency room at Quincy Hospital, recovered from the beating and was cleared to play in North's next game.

"He's very lucky, because he flinched at the last second," said Dave Perdios. "Otherwise, the ball would've hit him square in the forehead. It was definitely a scare, and we're glad he's O.K."

Taking Walker's place, senior Adam Delorey stole second and scored North's first run on a rundown. He also excelled defensively, catching two foul pop-ups and another near the plate.

North freshman pitcher Keith Doherty got the start and allowed two runs and four hits in six innings.

The Red Raiders gave Doherty some additional support in the third when hot-hitting senior Greg Peck lined a shot off the center field fence, driving in two runs for a 3-0 lead.

Doherty kept Durfee off the board early, working out of a jam in the second, with runners on second and third and nobody out. Doherty retired the next three hits to escape the frame unscathed.

Durfee got on the board in the fifth with an unearned run. A Mike Hunsinger home run cut NO's lead to 3-2 after six and led to Doherty's departure.

Against sophomore Rob Celata, Durfee scored two runs in the seventh, taking advantage of two North errors. Celata settled down, holding the opponent scoreless over the final two innings to earn the victory.

Trailing 4-3, North knotted the score in the bottom of the eighth when Peck (three RBI) came through again, with a sacrifice fly that scored Celata.

"Greg's our hot hitter, and we needed him to come through," said Perdios. "He had a 1-2 count and fouled off a few pitches before hitting a line shot to right. That was huge."

Peck's sacrifice fly set the stage for North to win the game in the final frame and move on to its first-ever Div. 1 South final.

Team To Rely On Veteran Leaders Quincy 'More Than Competitive'

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Under the guidance of third-year head coach Larry Taglieri, nine returning 18-year-olds look to lead the Quincy American Legion baseball team to the next level.

"Last year was a step back from the previous year, but I'm very optimistic about this group," said Taglieri, joined on the coaching staff by third-year assistant coaches John Cristiani (outfield coach) and Wayne Chambers (pitching coach) and second-year assistant coach Mark Chambers (infield coach).

"It's a strong group of 18's, with a lot of leadership qualities," added Taglieri. "They're prepared to take the next step and be more than a competitive team."

Among the veterans back for another season are 18-year-olds Dennis Palardy, Dan Toland, Jon Caliri and Bryan Linskey, who will comprise the pitching staff, along with newcomer Joe Tower, 16.

Legion Baseball

"We're excited about the pitching staff and feel it will be one of our strengths," said Taglieri. "We also have decent team speed and have shown a good work ethic in practice. If we hit the ball, we'll be in good shape."

Linskey and Palardy will likely see action at third base, while Caliri could see playing time in the outfield and behind the plate, backing up 18-year-old Adam Delorey. Toland is among the players who will roam the outfield grass, along with Greg Peck, 18, and 16-year-olds Louis Bell, Mike Keddy and Tim Pezzulo.

fier at shortstop, 18-year-old Pat McGann and rookies Frank Alibrandi and Matt Graham at second base. At first base will be Steve Wiltshire, 18, along with first-year player Kris Ricupero, 17.

Quincy, which had its first six games either postponed by weather or the high school tournament, hoped to open its season Tuesday at 8 p.m. against Cohasset at Adams Field.

Today (Thursday), Quincy is slated to host Braintree in an 8 p.m. tilt at Adams Field. Friday at 8 p.m., the home stand continues against Randolph.

Sunday at 4 p.m. at Adams Field, Quincy begins a home and away series with Milton. Monday at 5:45 p.m., Quincy visits Milton. The next day (June 23), Quincy is back home for an 8 p.m. contest against Weymouth.

In off the field news, the Quincy Legion team raised $1,000 for The Make-A-Wish Foundation by participating in a 3.1-mile run on June 7. Pledge sheets were handed out to the players, who raised money for the charity.

The run was organized by the president of Network Plus, Rob Hale. Network Plus, a telecommunications business on Willard St., is a major sponsor of the Quincy Legion Baseball program. Legion player Jon Caliri finished first in the race's 18 and under division.

NQ Freshmen Defeat Quincy

The North Quincy High School freshman baseball team recently defeated rival Quincy, 5-1, to sweep the two-game season series.

Chris Lockhead picked up the complete game victory, scattering five hits and striking out seven. He helped his own cause with two hits.

North took advantage of four walks, scoring three runs in the second inning and two more in the fourth. In the second, North's Sean Cote and Frankie Alibrandi collected RBI singles.

In the fourth, Alibrandi and Joey Holleran both walked, stole a base and came around to score on passed balls. Vin Traietti added two hits for the victors.

Chris Duffy collected two hits for Quincy.

Event Raises $12,000, Attracts 620 Runners

Gilmar Pazello of Revere and Sherrin Gallagher of Foxboro were the first male and female runners to cross the finish line at the recent eighth annual Quincy Police Athletic League 3.5-mile Classic Road Race.

The race was dedicated to late Quincy Police Detective Richard MacDonald. His daughter, Debbie MacDonald, spoke at the race and extended her appreciation to all who participated in the event.

Pazello, competing in the men's 30-39 age group, was the overall winner, completing the course in 18:05. Gallagher, in the women's 20-29 age group, ran it in 23:00, taking first place in the women's division and 38th overall.

Some 620 runners, walkers and wheelchair competitors from throughout Greater Boston and the South Shore participated.

Quincy PAL officials said approximately $12,000 was raised through the race, including $5,000 from the race's main sponsor, Roche

FRAN REAVEY was the top wheelchair competitor, finishing the course in 14:51.

Step One Golf Tourney Raises Over $10,000

Despite cold winds and driving rain, 120 golfers helped raise over $10,000 during Step One Early Intervention's recent second annual Golf Tournament at Pembroke Country Club.

Proceeds will be used to renovate the Hilda Mahoney Learning Center play yard in Squantum, which will allow Step One to meet new regulations required by the Office of Children's Services.

Lunch and awards ceremony followed the golf tournament at the Sons of Italy in Quincy.

Step One extended its appreciation to all the businesses who donated gifts and services and to the parents currently active in Step One and its alumni members.

Chairing the event were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Marty Nazzaro, Mr. and Mrs. James Nazzaro, Mr.

and Mrs. Thomas Nazzaro, and Mr. and Mrs. Roger White. Special thanks also went to Parent Liaison for providing the staff support to the committee.

Step One is a program of South Shore Mental Health, a non-profit behavioral health care organization. For the past 22 years, Step One has several area children from birth to three years of age who are at risk for developmental delays.

P.A.L. On A Big Winning Streak; Local 2222, CNA Also Victorious

In recent Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A action, Quincy P.A.L. reeled off five wins, Local 2222 captured three victories and CNA Insurance won two games.

Fourteen runs over the final two innings sparked P.A.L. to a 27-14 victory over Kenny's Lock and remained unbeaten at 7-0. Alex Hardy got up his second win and added 2 hits.

Nicole Murray was the top offensive star for P.A.L., collecting 5 hits, including her third home run. Peter Villanueva belted his 10th homer, John Murray had 2 hits and scored 2 runs, Jason Purves (2 hits) made a sparkling defensive play, and Domenic Poli (4 hits) also played well. Catcher John McGuigan received the game ball for an outstanding game: 3 hits, 4 runs scored, 5 RBI. Steve Yovino turned in a solid effort at the plate, on the baspaths and in the field.

P.A.L. withstood a six-run rally by Kenny's Lock and held on for an 11-10 triumph. Mike Lally pitched a complete game, striking out 14 and helping his own cause with 2 hits. Dan Poggi received the game ball for lacing 2 hits to spark the offense. Defensively, Domenic Poli and Jason Purves threw runners out at the plate to preserve the victory.

Scoring at least four runs in every inning, P.A.L. went on to defeat Consumer Home Mortgage, 25-1. Peter Villanueva threw a two-hitter, fanning 15 and helping himself with 5 hits, including 4 big home runs. Other contributors were Mike Lally (5 hits, home run), John Grillo (2 hits, triple), Nicole Murray (home run), Anthony Narvaez (home run), Alex Hardy (4 hits, home run), David Corridor (3 hits, triple) and Jason Purves (2 hits). Purves also turned an unassisted double play.

TRIPLE A

For Consumer Home, Steve Drago made some sparkling defensive plays in his first game at shortstop, Mike Donnelly made a diving catch in center field, and Dan Duval cracked a home run to break up the shutout.

In a 12-5 win over Quincy D.A.R.E., Domenic Poli was the winning pitcher, tossing six strong innings and striking out 13. He also contributed offensively with 2 hits, 2 walks and scored 3 runs. Peter Villanueva added 4 hits, including a home run. John McGuigan collected 3 hits and played well behind the plate and in left field. Dan Poggi picked up his first Triple A hit, a solid single.

Replacing the starting pitcher at the last minute, Alex Hardy went the distance for P.A.L., striking out 8 in an 8-2 victory over Locker Room. Hardy also had two hits and got the game ball. Other big hitters were Nicole Murray (2 hits, home run), Mike Lally (home run) and John McGuigan (2 hits).

In other recent action, Local 2222 put 10 runs on the board early en route to a 13-5 victory over Quincy P.A.L. Ryan Barter went the distance for the win and also picked up 3 hits. Artie Barrett led the offense, going 5 for 5 and scoring 3 runs, while Joe Norris was 4 for 5 and scored 3 runs and Joe McManus was 3 for 3 and scored a run. Chris Tierney (hit, two runs) made the game's defensive play of the game with a tremendous catch in left field.

For P.A.L., Alex Hardy went 3 for 3, Mike Lally had 2 hits and scored a run, Nicole Murray tripled and scored, and Peter Villanueva belted a home run which played well at shortstop.

A nine-run fifth propelled Local to a 15-14 victory over Yellow Cab. Matt Palmer pitched 2 strong innings in relief to earn the win. He also had 2 hits and scored twice. Mike Barter made two outstanding catches and Tommy McKenna also played well defensively. For the Cab, John Kozak played a solid overall game.

After an early offensive outburst, Local held off a late Quincy D.A.R.E. rally and won, 12-9. Local, which collected 16 hits, went up 12-0, after 3 innings. For the winners, leading hitters were Joe Norris (4 hits) and Artie Barrett (3 hits). Tim Sumners pitched 5 strong innings to get the win and chipped in with two hits.

The D.A.R.E. attack was paced by Todd Schofield (2 hits, 2 runs), Steve Bell (2 hits, 2 runs) and Pat Maloney (1 hit), who also played well behind the plate.

In other recent action, CNA Insurance held off Locker Room in a back-and-forth game, winning 10-9. O'Connor struck out 12 to pick up the victory and Richards collected 4 hits for CNA. Also collecting hits for the winners were Hardiman, M. Boyle, Perkins, Garvey, Merlis and O'Neill. Kellan Losi turned in a strong effort behind the plate, while Boyle, A. Losi, Lagrotteria and Verocchi also had strong defensive games.

CNA took advantage of 12 walks to score 14 early runs en route to a 14-2 victory over Yellow Cab. Richards, the winning pitcher, struck out 12. Also for CNA, Merlis and Dennis Conway both tripled and Kellan Losi singled. Richards, O'Connor and Petrus hit the ball hard and Lagrotteria, Garvey, Verocchi, M. Boyle, S. Boyle and Perkins drew walks.

Woodward School To Hold Summer Basketball Camp

The Woodward School in Quincy will present Hoop Time, a basketball camp for girls ages 8 to 14, in two summer sessions at the Quincy Armory.

Morrisette Edges Granite City, Rallies To Defeat Barry's Deli

In recent Quincy Babe Ruth League Baseball action, Morrisette Legion picked up close victories over Granite City and Barry's Deli.

Morrisette's Chris Doherty fired a complete-game six-hitter, fanning 3 and walking 6 in a 12-9 triumph over Granite City. He helped his own cause, going 3 for 4 with 4 RBI, driving in the winning and pad runs with a double in a five-run sixth inning.

After Granite City jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first, Morrisette scored four runs in the bottom of the inning. After James Lafleur walked, Doherty, Brendan Bowes and Kris Kamborian (2 for 3, RBI) hit consecutive doubles and Billy O'Brien collected an RBI single. In the fifth, Morrisette's Dennis Thomson singled, Andy Mannix doubled and Lafleur drove in both with a double. Lafleur then scored on a single by Doherty, tying the score at 7-7.

Granite City came back with two runs in the sixth, but Morrisette again answered with a five-run outburst. Marc Darois and Thomson (2 for 2) doubled and Matt Yohe (3 RBI) singled them in to tie the game at 9-9. After Lafleur singled, Doherty got his game-winning hit and Bowes (2 for 4, 3 RBI) followed with an RBI single. Kamborian made an outstanding running throw from center to home, where Bowes tagged out a runner to end a fifth-inning rally.

BABE RUTH

For Granite City, Sean Crowley yielded 15 hits, walked 3 and fanned 2. Offensive leaders were Matt Holt (RBI single), Steve Barkowski (single, RBI, 3 runs), Tom Hughes (single, 2 runs), Wayne Moynihan (1 for 2, 2 BB, run) and Zappata (2 for 2).

In earlier action, Morrisette again came from behind, scoring three runs in the bottom of the seventh to secure a 7-6 win over Barry's Deli. Winning pitcher Matt Yohe went the distance, striking out 7, walking 8 and yielding 7 hits.

Leading Morrisette offensively were Andy Mannix (2 for 4, two runs), James Lafleur (2 for 3, 2 runs), Chris Doherty (2 for 3, run), Brendan Bowes (2 for 3, RBI, run) and George Phipps (2 for 4, 3 RBI). Phipps drove in the tying and winning runs with one out in the seventh. Defensively, Morrisette's infield turned three double plays, with third baseman Doherty, shortstop Lafleur, first baseman Billy O'Brien, second baseman Marc Lopez and Yohe combining on the plays.

For the Deli, Conrad Leger fanned 8, gave up 12 hits and walked 4 in 6 1/3 innings. Top hitters were Matt Joyce (2 for 3, 2 runs), Dave Centrella (3 for 4, triple, 2 RBI, 2 runs) and Ted McGillicuddy (2 for 4).

Martinson, Ledger And McAllister Pace Lyons Club In Two Victories

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Bret Martinson garnered his second victory as Lyons edged the Elks, 5-4, in recent Quincy Junior League Baseball.

Martinson pitched five innings, holding the Elks to four runs while fanning nine and displaying excellent control in allowing just two walks. Martinson gave way to Nick Ledger in the sixth due to an arm injury. Ledger closes and was credited with the save.

A close game, this pitcher's duel ended in dramatic fashion. Trailing 5-4 and down to their final out, the Elks threatened with runners on first and third. As Schifone came to bat, the Elks attempted a do-or-die double steal. As Ledger's initial offering reached the plate, Graceffa took off for second. Andrew McAllister, Lyons' veteran catcher, anticipating the play, rose from his crouch and fired a strike to shortstop Drew Loud, who caught the throw, wheeled and returned a rope to McAllister, who applied the tag to the sliding Oronte charging in from third for the game's exciting final out.

Josh Hershey, the Elks hurler, suffered a heart-breaking loss, surrendering just two hits. Loud drew first blood, unloading on a 2-2 count and drilling the ball to deep left center for his first home run of the season. Matt Germain's third-inning single was the second and last safety mustered by the Lyons.

Joe Berlo added defensive support in the late innings and continues to display sure-handed play in left field. Ryan McCarthy worked Elks' Hershey for a free pass in the fourth and scored the tying run. The winning run was scored when Martinson's bid for extra bases was denied. Martinson's drive to center was deep enough to score McAllister from third.

Not to be denied, the Elks played with character and determination. Both teams exhibited a competitive spirit, giving all they had right down to the final out. Parents, fans and coaches can take pride in the performance and level of play put forth on this day.

In other recent action, Andrew McAllister notched his third win of the season as Lyons defeated Beacon, 13-7. Matt Germain was the sparkplug who ignited the Lyons' hitting attack, belting a triple and two homers.

Germain turned in a defensive gem in the second as he robbed Beacon's Ryan Feldhoff of a home run. Taking off at the crack of the bat, Germain raced towards the fence in deep right center, timing his leap perfectly and while fully extended, caught the ball and crashed to the ground. He immediately sprang to his feet, clutching the ball in his glove, with outstretched arm held high in the air. He capped off the day by quelling a Beacon rally as a gutsy effort to come from behind fell just short. Germain put out the fire, hurling 3 1/3 innings of shutout ball. He turned in a truly stellar performance with his all-around play.

Bret Martinson nearly hit for the cycle as he singled, doubled and belted a three-run homer. Martinson, a heady and solid ballplayer, works hard at his game and comes to play every day.

First baseman Nick Ledger scored three runs, going 3 for 4, including a triple. In his final year with the Lyons, Ledger continues his power hitting and has rocketed several memorable shots this season. McAllister had a perfect day at the plate, going 3 for 3. Sean Kane tripled and made an excellent one-handed grab, going to his left and throwing to J. Cafano from second base. Brendan Craig caught two fine defensive innings. Craig's ability to play infield and his recent development into backup signal-caller adds versatility to the Lyons defense. Brian Carney came in to play second and immediately made a heads-up play, scampering to cover first to retire Beacon's M. Grazioso in the final frame.

Danny Graham keeps coming along in right field for Lyons. He has made a number of good catches and was the Lyons' DH against Beacon. Rounding out the Lyons' roster is rookie Glen Gibbons, who is a real burner on the basepaths. He works hard and is developing at the plate. His lightning speed adds to the Lyons' offensive punch.

Bolea-Buonfiglio, Sweeney, Studio 1400 All Victorious

The Bolea-Buonfiglio Giants, Sweeney Funeral Services and Studio 1400 all picked up victories in recent Quincy Youth Baseball St. John's League action.

Chris Akoury's two-out, two-run single in the bottom of the sixth lifted the Giants to a 7-6 win over the Dairy Freeze Yankees. Akoury's hit drove in Randy Santini, who walked, and Ray Marchand, who singled.

The Yankees got on the board in the first with two hits and a steal of home by Steve Sullivan. Giants pitcher Chris Kirschner struck out two to end the inning. The Yankees went ahead 2-0 when Ian McKrae doubled in Jared Fontaine. The Giants tied it up in their half of the second with a single by James Collins, a double by Kirschner and a deep fly by Frankie McMurrigh, which drove in both runners.

After a scoreless third, the Yankees erupted for four runs on hits by Ben Hamlin, Doug Smith (RBI single),

ST. JOHN'S L.L.

Trevor Vallone, Chris Deyesso, Fontaine (RBI single) and McKrae (RBI single) and an RBI by Steve McGee. The Giants started their comeback in the fifth when James Collins tripled and scored on Kirschner's sacrifice fly. Dan Garrett's single, McMurrigh's double and Geoff King's base hit drove in two more runs to close the gap to 6-5.

Marchand, in relief of Kirschner, earned the victory with three strikeouts in the top of the sixth, setting the stage for the Giants' comeback in the bottom of the inning.

In other action, a seven-run fifth propelled Sweeney Funeral Services to a 9-8 victory over S. Matarazzo Dentistry. SMD jumped out to a 7-0 lead after two, but SFS slowly crept back with a run in the third and the fourth.

David Regan (two hits) of SFS singled to score Cliff Chan in the third and teammate Tom Power (two hits) blasted a homer in the top of the deficit to 7-2.

In the fifth, Regan belted a two-run double and Taylor Hutchison (three hits) and Power both collected singles. Regan and Hutchison scored the tying and game-winning runs after Denny Wright and Brian Nelson got on base. Katie Cernicki and Scott Klotzbecher both had two hits and Andrew Dwan also had a hit.

In other action, SFS scored seven runs in the fourth, but Studio 1400 won the game, 12-7. The big hit in the seven-run fourth was a three-run homer by Corey Lumaghini that drove in Nathan Simmons and Sean McCarthy. Denny Wright (two hits) added an RBI single. David Regan and Andrew Dwan also singled for SFS.

Play It Again Sports Riding Four-Game Winning Streak

YOUTH SOFTBALL

Play It Again Sports reeled off four victories in recent Dorothy Quincy Softball League play.

In an 11-9 win over Quincy DARE, Play It Again was led by the defense of Rose Devlin, who made several outstanding plays, and the hitting of designated hitter Samantha Farina.

Play It Again captured a 9-8 triumph over Councillor Durkin. Leading the way for the winners were catcher Christine Perry, who made two tremendous catches, and designated hitter Katie Walker and center fielder Nicole Lewis, who came up with big hits.

In Play It Again's 19-4 victory over Harvard Vanguard, pitcher Mary Bloomer threw a strong game and picked up the win. Laura Carroll, the designated hitter, was the offensive leader for the winners.

A 15-2 win over Councillor Durkin was sparked by the defense of first baseman Joni Ranstrom and third baseman Mary Bloomer, who turned a double play. Designated hitter Zoia Varmed led the offense for Play It Again.

Lindsey Langille Hockey Champion

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD Lindsey Langille of Quincy Point was a member of the Assabet Girls Squirt Hockey Team, which recently won the Tier One National Women's Hockey Championship, defeating Team Wisconsin, 1-0, in the final. Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Behind-the-scenes developments are important in your career. You'll maintain a low profile, but you will be very much aware of what's going on. Don't give credence to a rumor that's been circulating.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You could argue with a family member about a career concern. Judgment could be off in these matters and you should forgo making any major business moves.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Despite some minor problems with friends, generally, the good will clearly outweigh the bad in your social life. Romance is likely. Good news comes this week concerning a family matter.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Inviting others over makes for a pleasant time for all concerned. However, you could be a little hard on a family member. Work developments are positive.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You'll profit from advice about a business matter. Guard against being extravagant and making ill-advised purchases. Home and real estate matters are favored later in the week.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Get those clothing accessories you need. Travel plans take shape. Your energy seems to fizzle out late in the week when there's a tendency to goof off.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A family member may not be in the mood for company, but social opportunities for you are glorious. Welcome new friends and new ideas. However, be sure not to burn the candle at both ends.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Freelancers meet with new assignments. Shopping for the home is favored provided you don't overspend. Enjoy family interests during evening hours this week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Though new friends are made through business, it's not the best time for mixing business and social life. Morning hours this week are best to get things accomplished. This weekend, pursue quiet, relaxing activities.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Either you or a partner tends to be extravagant. Local visits have romantic overtones. Benefits come from siblings, so accent charm in personal dealings.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Someone could get on your nerves at work early in the week. Dating picks up in the coming weeks for singles and couples spend more time with the children. Evening hours this week accent friendship.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Nobody seems to understand what you're feeling early in the week, but a turnabout in your affairs brings better communications with others. Travel plans change for the better. Enjoy!

A Thought For The Week

A child sees his Dad as a one-of-a-kind personality. He may be rich or poor, ambitious or otherwise, but like a mother, he, too, is a special person.

Father's Day, like Mother's Day, is a sentimental day founded in American custom. For some it is just another sales promotion event to ring up sales in gifts of ties, shirts, pajamas or other items including sentimental and funny cards.

It has been claimed most Dads frown on the ransom of gifts advertised for Father's Day. Perhaps this is true. But one thing is certain. Most Dads have no distorted notions of importance and prefer not to be lavished with loot from loved ones just because it is Father's Day. Actually, it seems most Dads would really prefer a "Family Day" celebration, not a special Father's Day event. We hope all Fathers who read this share the happiness of a "Family Day" on Father's Day...

Duty Shuffle For Mayoral Staff

Schools, with little discussion. The pay hikes for the mayor's staff, however, raised some debate, with Councilors Francis McCauley and Paul Harold opposing the raises. (The entire mayor's office budget eventually passed 8-1, with McCauley the lone dissenter.)

The five raises total $18,000 and will be paid for by Quincy Hospital, Sheets said. When the hospital situation is resolved, the staff members will go back to their original duties and salaries, he added.

The hospital again will fund the increases in the event they must be carried into Fiscal Year 2000, Sheets said.

Half of the $18,000 will go to Helen Murphy, Sheets's assistant, whose pay will jump from $37,320 to $46,320. The salaries of Mader and Executive Secretary John Keenan will rise from $52,917 to $54,917 apiece. The pay of secretary Kerry Driscoll will go from $33,746 to $37,746, while that of clerk/receptionist Mary Phelan will rise from $28,965 to $29,965.

Sheets, whose own annual salary will remain at $75,000, said Murphy will take on about 80 percent of Mader's duties, and she therefore deserves the largest increase. Driscoll will take on many of Murphy's responsibilities and Phelan will do the same for Driscoll, while Keenan also will be given added tasks, the mayor said.

"If someone's going to assume a higher level of responsibility, and work longer hours, they deserve to be paid for it," he said.

But when Keenan told councilors the same on Monday night, McCauley said there are a number of city employees who work long, hard hours without receiving extra compensation.

"The mayor's office is the only department where there's across-the-board raises for the staff," said McCauley.

Harold backed McCauley and expressed skepticism about the salaries of the staff eventually returning to what they are now, saying he doubts he will "live long enough to see a salary reduced."

Harold also suggested that a temporary position could be created to help compensate for the extra work at the mayor's office, rather than raising the pay of five employees.

Seven of nine council members opted to side with the mayor, however. And when asked about Harold's suggestion on Tuesday, Sheets said a new employee would need to have extensive knowledge of city and hospital issues and other matters affecting the mayor's office.

The only budget-related topic other than the salaries of the mayor's staff that raised any real debate at Monday night's council meeting was whether the city's waste collection budget should be reduced by $500,000 to prompt the mayor to begin a program of trash collection at Quincy's condominiums.

Ward 2 Councilor Daniel Raymondi, who originally proposed the program, noted that Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton said last year the city was eyeing Fiscal Year 1999 as a starting date for the condo waste collection. Only Harold and Ward 3 Councilor Patrick McDermott, however, joined Raymondi in voting for the $500,000 cut.

Still, Council President Peter Kolson said the mayor plans to ask the council for a $50,000 pilot program in one part of the city to determine if it would be worth an estimated $350,000 a year to provide the trash pickup service for condo owners throughout the city. It has not yet been determined what neighborhood will be chosen for the pilot program, he added.

Budget Up $8.6 Million

Sheets has cited several reasons for the budget hike, including negotiated salary raises with city unions—$2 million has been set aside for those raises—as well as increased special education costs, road resurfacing and increases in water and sewer reconstruction costs.

The mayor has raised the school department budget about $500,000 with much of that earmarked for special education. In addition, he said, about half of the money put aside for salary increases is for that department.

The budget also calls for the creation of a new maintenance division that will consolidate the maintenance departments of the school, public works and parks departments. However, the consolidation does not call for any additional spending since staff and funding will be transferred from the individual departments.

Sheets has said he will not know what effect the proposed budget will have on Quincy's property tax rates until he learns how much local aid money the city will receive from the state, a figure that will not be known for a few weeks.

NFPA Office Building Hearing

too much," he said.

Ward 4 Councilor Michael D'Amico assured residents that he plans to hold more meetings before the council votes on the project. He said he wants to be certain neighbors are comfortable with the plan before it is passed.

"We've got our work cut out for us," said D'Amico.

Fire Dept. To Join E911 System Next Month

The Quincy Fire Department will likely become part of the city's Enhanced 911 telephone system next month, officials said during Monday night's City Council meeting.

The city, when that happens, will become the first in the state to operate a dual E911 system.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman and other members of his department have said the extra monitoring by firefighters should provide extra protection against misdirected emergency response.

The dual system will allow the fire department to dispatch some calls, including medical emergencies and fires, without first having the call transferred from the police department.

According to City Data Processing Director Charles Phelan, Bell Atlantic will test the city's second E911 system on June 26 and it should be ready to operate by the end of July. He added that the system, designed by SESCO of Hingham, will cost Quincy about $14,000 to operate.

Phelan, Gorman, and Police Chief Thomas Frane were among those who provided the City Council with an update on the new system Monday night. Quincy is the only community in Massachusetts that has received permission from the state Legislature to install a second E911 site.

The update the council received Monday night also included discussion of a May 6 incident that involved an ambulance being sent to O'Brien Towers in Germantown instead of another Quincy Housing Authority property, Tobin Towers in Wollaston. The mistake was caused by a Bell Atlantic wiring mistake, according to Mayor James Sheets.

The mistake also caused a delay in ambulance service to Claire Jones, 75, a resident of Tobin Towers who suffered a stroke on that night. She died five days later at Boston Medical Center.

Gorman said Monday night the mistake might have been avoided, however, if the fire department could have monitored the call in question as a backup.

And Frane acknowledged that proper procedure was not completely followed by the dispatcher, who relied on the address shown on the E911 computer screen instead of the one the caller gave.

Frane told the City Council he has issued new directives ordering dispatchers to follow proper procedure in order to catch computer glitches such as the one that happened during the May 6 incident.

Phelan and Quincy Housing Authority Director Jack Mather also planned to begin testing all of the authority's phones beginning this week.

Principal's Gift To QRTA $178,000 Larger Than Expected Bequeath For Scholarships Now Over $1.2 Million

The Quincy Retired Teachers Association has received $178,000 more than anticipated from a late Quincy educator who bequeathed 75 percent of his estate to the association two years ago.

And there's still more to come.

Robert Mattsson, treasurer of the association's scholarship fund, said the QRTA has received $1.2 million from the estate of Harry Beede, a former principal of three Quincy schools and science teacher at what is now Quincy High School who died in 1996.

Mattsson said another $25,000 is anticipated at a later date. That transaction must be approved by officials at the Sun Trust Bank in Florida, where Beede was living at the time of his death, he said.

The Sun reported on July 18, 1996 that Beede, who died April 7 of that year, bequeathed a total of $1,022,000 to the QRTA for the benefit of its scholarship fund. But although that was a sizable enough amount, Mattsson said Beede's skillful management of his finances will allow the association to receive an even higher total.

"He left us 75 percent of his estate, and he had all kinds of money invested," he said. "That's why we'll be getting more."

Currently, the QRTA has about $1.7 million in its scholarship account, and it awards annual scholarships to students from North Quincy High School and Quincy High School out of the account's interest, according to Mattsson. The amount given out now will increase because of Beede's endowment, he said.

Beginning next year, he added, the QRTA will award 10 $8,000 scholarships from the Beede money alone. That $80,000 will be well over half the total amount of $110,000 in scholarships to be awarded.

All of the QRTA's money has been donated by retired Quincy teachers. The scholarship accounted was started with a $1,000 donation by retired Quincy High School teacher Warren Findley about 14 years ago.

Beede, a QRTA member, was principal of Broad Meadows Junior High School (now Broad Meadows Middle School) from the time it opened in 1957

Sheets Backs Concept Of 'SkatePark' In City

Mayor James Sheets is working with the head of the Quincy Park Department to see if a special area for skateboarders and rollerbladers can be incorporated into one of the city's parks.

Sheets, in response to a letter printed in last week's Quincy Sun—which previously had been sent to the mayor's office—said he wholeheartedly supports the concept of a "SkatePark" in Quincy.

"I think these kids deserve a skating park," he said. "I'd like to see it done.

We take (issues like) this very seriously."

The mayor said Park Department Executive Director Thomas Koch is checking to see if the "SkatePark" could be built into an existing park in Quincy. Although the letter in last week's Sun suggested that a special, separate park be built for skating, he said that would be too much of a liability for the city.

"It's a real liability issue," he said.

Sheets, who noted that he enjoyed rollerskating as a child and thinks "skateboarding is great," would not give an estimate on what it would cost to add such activities to an established park area but said the amount would be minimal.

Last week's letter came from Jane Sullivan of 183 Liberty St. who wrote that her sons, their cousin and some of their friends collected over 200 signatures last August in support of the construction of a Quincy "SkatePark."

By Working For City Part-Time Seniors Can Earn Tax Bill Credit

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A program proposed by Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi that will give Quincy residents 60 and older a chance to earn a substantial credit toward their property tax bills is about to get underway.

The Senior Workers' Abatement Program (SWAP) will allow the seniors to work for various city departments and earn a gross pay of up to $600 they can put toward their tax bills.

Raymondi's original proposal in October 1996 called for the bills of SWAP seniors to be automatically reduced because of their participation in the program. He said this week, however, that because of state and Internal Revenue Service guidelines the seniors had to be made city employees in order for the program to succeed.

"But the intent of the program is still intact," he said. "That's to provide seniors with work opportunities that will help them reduce the cost of their property tax bills while providing the city with stable, dependable, capable workers."

The SWAP proposal was backed by the City Council and Mayor James Sheets when it was first introduced. A task force co-chaired by Raymondi and Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to Sheets then set about putting the program together.

Other task force members included Quincy Council on Aging Director Brian Buckley, Personnel Director James Chicco, Treasurer Dana Childs, Board of Assessors Chairman Marion JIRO ISHIHARA of Concord visited recently with students from Quincy High School. Ishihara spoke of how he lost his identity as age 16—becoming known as “non-alien 9862”—because of Executive Order 9066 signed by President Franklin Roosevelt which ordered all persons of Japanese descent out of their homes and into relocation camps. His visit was related to earlier studies of the subject by the Quincy High students.

House Subcommittee Backs Adams Site Restoration Funds

A key House subcommittee has endorsed a proposal by Congressman William Delahunt to perform restorations at the Adams National Historic Site in Quincy as part of his ongoing effort to promote the legacy of John Quincy Adams.

The House Interior Appropriations Subcommittee approved $1.724 million to revive the Adams estate's Carriage House, which has undergone only minor renovations since it was conveyed to the National Park Service decades ago.

For years, Delahunt said, the structure's space constraints have threatened the integrity of its artifacts and prompted public safety concerns.

"This is an important first step toward making overdue restorations," he said. "These repairs would not only help the park preserve its artifacts, but also help visitors feel more welcome and enjoy the overall Adams tradition."

The planned renovation project includes new safeguards for the site's extensive historical collection, renovations to the "Caretaker's Wing," and upgrades to make restrooms accessible to disabled visitors.

The 1999 Interior Department Appropriations bill goes next to the full House Appropriations Committee. As legislative deliberations continue in Washington, Delahunt said the Park Service also will continue work on another ongoing initiative—to accelerate innovative public-private partnerships through a regional Adams Museum Services Center.

The Carriage House was constructed in 1873 to provide carriage and stable space, basement pens for a small number of livestock, and an attached residence for the Adams estate caretaker. In 1946, the park was designated a National Historic Site to preserve the homestead of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

The site encompasses the birthplaces of both Presidents as well as the family's "Old House," which was occupied by four generations of the family. The United First Parish Church, where the Presidents and their respective First Ladies (Abigail and Louisa) are buried is also affiliated with the site.

Building Dept. New Permit Policy July 6

Effective July 6, the following changes will take place regarding the policy of the Quincy Building Department relative to the issuance building permits:

•Permits issued "over the counter" will be limited to permits which require minimal plan review. Typically such permits concern re-roofing, re-siding, window replacement and others.

•Permit applications requiring more extensive plan review will be accepted by either the Building Inspector on duty or the office clerical staff. Applications will then be reviewed by the Building Inspectors or Plan Examiner in the order of submittal. Applications which are complete will have permits issued immediately. Applicants requiring corrections or additional information for their plans will be so notified by the Building Department. When the additional information or corrections are found to be in conformance, the building permit will be issued immediately.

•Permit applications will be accepted from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. There will be at least one Building Inspector on duty at the counter during those hours to accept applications, review plans, and answer inquiries. Inspector Office hours from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. will cease as of July 6.

•Building Inspectors will be assigned to geographic territories and will have the primary responsibilities for inspection in their respective areas. Inspectors will be assigned counter duty on a rotating basis to staff the counter during business hours.

The purpose of the changes is to make the permit-issuing process more efficient and more thorough. The Massachusetts State Building Code has recently upgraded from the Fifth Edition to the Sixth Edition. There are many changes and it requires a more thorough plan review by the Building Department.

The changes in Inspector Office hours will make inspectors more available for field inspections. Contractors and homeowners will get better service and experience less delays when they call for inspections.

There will be an informational meeting for all contractors, homeowners, and other interested parties to discuss the changes on Monday, June 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

For more information, call Director of Inspectional Services Walter White at 376-1456.

Ayers Calls For Hearing To Support Unions

Ward 6 Councillor has called for a City Council public hearing regarding local unions and The Newton Group to be held Monday, June 29 at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

Ayers said the hearing will be held to support the unions because The Newton Group has not fulfilled its obligation to its commitment to meet community standards and hire only local union workers.

"I have walked the picket lines with local union workers and will do everything in my authority to support the local unions," he said.

EXERCISE CONTROL OVER BREAST CANCER

Despite advances in detection and treatment, breast cancer remains one of the more frightening health threats for many women. This is partly because women have no control over some of the disease's risk factors, such as family history of breast cancer and early onset of menstruation. On a positive note, however, researchers are concluding that regular moderate activity can help reduce the risk of breast cancer in premenopausal women by as much as 60 percent. The greatest benefit seems to come from exercising four hours a week or more at such vigorous activities as jogging, swimming, or tennis. Even just a couple of hours of activity a week, though, evidently reduces the risk of the disease risk. Exercising regularly does much more than lower the risk of heart disease—it provides greater ease in our bodies, increasing functioning of our circulatory and respiratory system, and just makes us feel better! At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Other factors that seem to protect against breast cancer include childbearing before age 20 and breast-feeding a baby.

Quincy Square Shopping

Would you like to take a nostalgic trip down memory lane?

Down Hancock St. of the 1940s and early 1950s and to the stores that were there then.

Jean Ann (MacLean) Phinney takes you there in an affectionate "I remember" article she recently wrote for a writing course.

It is her fond remembrance of shopping in Quincy Square during that era before the coming of the malls and when Quincy was the undisputed shopping capital of the South Shore.

Mrs. Phinney is a well known educator now retired. During her career she was, at different times, principal of the Myles Standish, Adams and Point-Webster Schools. Her husband, William, is a retired Quincy assistant school superintendent. And her father, the late Munroe MacLean, was a legendary football and basketball coach at Quincy High School.

But, let me get out of the way and let her "remember when."

Her article entitled "Quincy Square Shopping" follows:

I remember the Quincy Square shopping area of my childhood — with nostalgia.

Giant shopping malls, "strip malls" and outlet meccas had not even been conjured up in the minds of realtors and retailers. No one shopped through TV clubs or on the Internet.

The centerpieces of the Quincy Square shopping district were Remick's and Sheridans.

I loved going with my father and mother on his rare shopping visits to Remick's when he treated himself to a new suit or sport coat. It was an era when salesmen had been trained in salesmanship. Ray Josephine or Ellis Hughes would take us downstairs and select the perfect tie (and maybe a shirt) to complete the ensemble. All the while there was conversation about Quincy High football or basketball — or how the Celtics were doing.

The Remick's Gift Wrap department was always intriguing to me. As a perhaps-twelve-year-old I thought a job in that department would be a wonderful round of elegant paper and unlimited, lovely ribbon. The distinctive "Remick's" on the gold and white striped gift boxes can still be found in our home — holding trinkets and treasures. We are patching a gold, vinyl, zipped Remick's garment bag which we want to last forever.

The Christmas decorated windows at Remick's drew people from near and far. It was a tradition for many families to set aside an evening and enjoy the display together. Each year there was an intriguing theme and animation worthy of a Disney production. Later, as a first-grade teacher I participated in the Remick's Field Trip. Every first grade class in the city was transported by bus to view the lovely animated scenes.

Perhaps not as distinctive, but equally busy, was REMIK'S WAS A key store and one of the most popular on Hancock St. when downtown Quincy was the shopping capital of the South Shore in the 1940s and 1950s. The store closed in 1987 and the loss is still felt today. This view is from the Parkingway.

Sheridans Department Store. Located opposite Cottage Avenue it was a prime retail location. My first recollection of a visit to Santa was at Sheridans.

Other stores, smaller, but nonetheless important were Westland's Sporting Goods, Sanborn and Damon Hardware, Winer's Hardware, Lincoln's and the Enterprise. In high school I had a pre-Christmas job working in the Enterprise Toy Department and was laid-off when all the toys were gone!

There were specialty shops such as Bessie Twobling's Millinery — when women were ladies and ladies wore hats. There was a shoe store at the corner of Hancock Street and Cottage Avenue. Shoe boxes lined the walls from front to back and floor to ceiling. A ladder was required to retrieve the shoes on the upper half! Mr. Pactovis, either the owner or manager or both, took great care to fit small feet with the proper shoes. Being a family man he knew that shoes were a major investment and wanted his customers not only to be satisfied, but also to be pleased.

Guay's Bakery was a small bakery — deep and narrow — but the aromas wafting from it were mighty — freshly made donuts, bread, pastries, cakes, cookies and even Saturday night's baked beans.

You could smell the aroma of freshly ground coffee when someone got on the streetcar or bus after a stop at Kennedy's Butter and Egg Store. And they made the most delicious fresh peanut butter!

The Quincy Market in the block bounded by Chestnut and Foster Streets was a cavernous store. To a little girl who loved fish but didn't like to smell it, the Fish Department seemed to take up a large portion of the store.

It is said that "you can't go back", I suppose because things wouldn't have the impact that they once did. Still, I would like to spend an afternoon in Quincy Square as it was in the late 1940's on a nostalgic shopping trip.

'Historic Quincy' Prints Available At Hospital

Prints of "Historic Quincy" are being offered for sale through the Quincy Hospital Health and Education Foundation and proceeds benefit the hospital.

"Historic Quincy" is an original watercolor lithograph by local artist Bill Beyer. Each lithograph is individually signed and numbered by the artist. The painting depicts an array of historic sights in Quincy, such as the USS Salem, Granite Railways, the Adams Birthplace and Mansions and others. A copy of the framed print is available to view in the Gift Shop located in the main lobby of the hospital.

Prints are available at a cost of $35 unframed, $125 framed. The framed version is available in a choice of two different frames and mats. Proceeds from the sale of prints help to enhance health care services at Quincy Hospital, as the hospital continues to serve the communities south of Boston.

To order a print, or for more information, call Jean Parker at 376-5495.

The largest legacy willed to a dog was by Miss Ella Wende of New York, who bequeathed her standard poodle Toby $75 million in 1931.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1910 real photo postcard is a rare view of the Square at the end of Sea Street in Houghs Neck. The view is from the Quincy Yacht Club. The club house had just been moved out over the water from this location on the right. The construction materials in the foreground were being used to expand the club with a two-story addition on the back. The site of Nortemans Pavillion is now the club's parking lot at the foot of Sea Avenue which goes up Great Hill to the right. All the buildings shown here including the large hotel in the background were torn down years ago.

Federal Government Must Support Public Education

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thanks for that great editorial "What About The Kids" in Sunbeams. Our priorities in this country are certainly off the mark so far as education is concerned despite all the rhetoric.

Not only do we not support fully the current needs in public education, the bulwark of democracy, but we allow insidious sex and violence to pervade all the media for the sake of the almighty dollar. We seem to expect the public schools to counteract what students see and read outside of school by counseling about sex, violence, tobacco, alcohol and drug abuse yet still teach all the subjects so vital to attaining a solid education for today's technological and global world.

You hit the nail right on the head, Henry, pointing out what, on the federal level, we spend millions on, often with the answer "it creates jobs." We apparently forget that the students we're supposed to educate provide the work force for those jobs!

It is interesting to note that, according to the N.Y. Times Service, "a group of business leaders have pledged $200,000 for a national voucher program for 50,000 inner city public school students to attend parochial and other private schools to prod failing public schools into improving by subjecting them to market forces." A very suspect premise!

Why don't those business leaders form partnerships with inner city schools and support them with mentoring efforts and outreach efforts for those public school students desperately in seek of such help? Business leaders also could help by supporting government efforts at the national, state and local levels to fund much-needed repair and renovation of schools to provide decent and healthy places for students as well as provide after-school programs such as the Light-house Program in Chicago.

At the federal level, the House Budget Committee for '99 has cut $4.4 billion for a five-year cut in education and related programs such as building modernization, class size reduction, after-school programs and improving teacher quality. The state proposes a $1 billion cut in education funding. Some or all these cuts affect funding for grants to help qualified, needy students to attend college.

In this technological information and communication age, a college education is becoming ever more vital. Public school students who manage to steer clear of all the debilitating distractions surrounding them and still attain the academic credentials to later college should be able to get the financial help they need. They deserve it and we need such students for our future welfare as well as theirs. As Henry points out, escalating tuition costs makes federal government help more than ever needed. Scholarships and financial aid from various sources are not just sufficient, anymore for too many students.

We happen to be very fortunate in Massachusetts, and especially in Quincy, to have supportive state and local help from our legislative representatives and senators and our mayor and council. We also have very supportive business partnerships in our schools. However, we need to put pressure on the current Republican leaders in the House and Senate in Washington for support from them for public education funding.

A Condominium Is A Home

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Please permit me to thank Mayor James Sheets and the City Council for considering to fund a pilot program of trash collections at city condominiums.

In a recent race for Ward 6 city councillor, I met many condominium owners who as property tax payers felt they were not receiving city services. In response, our campaign took pride in distributing over 1,000 leaflets to condo owners supporting the view that a condominium is a home. We are therefore now pleased to see that this view has gained wider support.

I urge the City Council on June 29 to initiate the pilot program with the condominiums in Ward 6. Our condominiums are some of the largest and more established in the city. The pilot program should begin in Ward 6, since these owners have gone the longest without a city service such as trash collection.

The parcel of land was currently under state jurisdiction because of its proximity to the Southeast Expressway.

ADAMS' ROSE BUSH ABLOOM

Mrs. Frank Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site, reported that the 176-year-old Adams' rosebush was full of flowers. The white "Yorkish" rose, the symbol of the House of York in the War of Roses, was brought from England by Abigail Adams in 1788.

The bush stopped blooming until it was transplanted in 1920 at the suggestion of Brooks Adams, who noted that it had to be moved every 150 years to keep it flowering.

Quincy Couple's Renewed Wedding Vows Extra Special

For many husbands and wives, the renewal of wedding vows has become a very popular way to express their love for one another and to show that if they had to do it over again, they would not change a thing.

For Carmela and Bob Mood of Quincy, the renewal of their wedding vows on their recent 30th anniversary not only symbolized the love shared by the two, it was also the culmination of a medical comeback that displayed the true power and resiliency of the human spirit.

For more than 15 years, Carmela has suffered from a string of medical problems that have required extensive care and hospital stays. In December 1996, she was diagnosed with a life-threatening hemoptysis that left her ventilator dependent and bed ridden.

In July 1997, Carmela was admitted to Vencor Hospital Boston, where she has undergone intensive pulmonary, speech, physical and occupational therapy aimed at restoring her lost physical abilities.

After months of hard work and to the amazement of the hospital staff, Carmela has been weaned from the ventilator and today is able to sit upright in a wheelchair. Recently, her determination paid off as she and her husband Bob were able to renew their wedding vows during a ceremony at the hospital.

Fr. William Mulligan, a frequent visitor to Carmela's the past few months, performed the ceremony. On hand were members of the Mood family, including their four children and two grandchildren, and hospital staff members who have witnessed her success first hand.

"Carmela's progress has truly been a miracle," said Rita Patrylo, a nurse at Vencor Hospital. "We have all been awe-struck at how hard she has worked to get to this point and are thrilled we could be on hand to witness this ceremony."

"I wouldn't have missed this for the world," said Mary Anne Burakoff, a respiratory therapist at the hospital. "All during her time with us, Carmela has displayed an unbelievable warmth and sense of humor which has made caring for her a real pleasure."

July 4th Program At Adams Site

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site will hold a program on Saturday, July 4 to commemorate the passage of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress on July 4, 1776.

The event, which will feature audience participation, will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Adams Site's "Old House," 135 Adams St., Quincy.

Audience members will assume the roles of delegates to the Continental Congress and represent their colony in a debate to determine the fate of the nation. They will be led by a Park Ranger portraying John Adams.

After the debate, each delegate will sign the document, ring the Liberty Bell, receive a copy of the Declaration of Independence and have a slice of "Liberty Cake."

Following the evening program only, all will be invited to be in a candlelight walk to United First Parish Church in Quincy Center where the Declaration of Independence will be read. Cake and beverage will follow at the Adams Site Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St.

Programs are free but reservations are required. Space is limited. To reserve a space, call 770-1175.

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Stuffed Artichokes

Over the week-end, my husband, the shopper found artichokes on sale and purchased a half dozen. Even though he and I would eat only one each, the rest were disbursed to our little darlings. So I dropped everything from washing windows to ironing some summer clothes and prepared the tasty treats.

STUFFED ARTICHOKEs

6 artichokes (any amount will do)
6 slices of bread (soaked in water) a half cup or so of seasoned bread crumbs 3 tablespoons tomato sauce garlic powder
1/4 cup grated Romano cheese
1/2 teaspoon basil
salt and pepper to taste
stems of artichokes (cut up after boiling in small pieces (optional)) 2 tablespoons olive oil some extra sauce for the bottom of the pan.

1 cup water for bottom of the pan

Place the artichokes in a large pan, cover and boil until they are a darker green in color (about 10 minutes)

While they are boiling, soak and squeeze the bread (one slice per artichoke). Place in a bowl and add all other ingredients except the oil. Blend until mixture is the consistency of mashed potatoes.

Cool the artichokes, clip the sharp edges off the leaves with a scissors, and after removing the stems, they should sit well in a pan. Open the top of each artichoke and place the stuffing. I usually place stuffing in each layer of leaves and tighten. In a deep pan put a cup of water and some tomato sauce.

Arrange the artichokes side by side. On top of each, sprinkle a bit of the olive oil. Add a cup of water on the bottom of the pan and some of the tomato sauce. Cover and bake in a 350 degree oven for about 45 minutes (or until leaves are tender). You can also cook them on top of the stove well covered for about the same time. When served, they can either be cut in halves or enjoyed as a whole.

Friday Deadline For Ayers Councillor's Award Program

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers announces his annual Councillor's Award Program which recognizes an exemplary child of middle school age living in Ward 6.

Ayers said he recognizes that the middle school years are very important in terms of the development of a child, and he feels that providing positive reinforcement is invaluable.

"It is my hope that this award helps to set an example for younger students as well as for the peers of the award recipient, giving them an incentive to work to the best of their ability in school and to take an active role in the community," he said.

The winner will receive a $100 savings bond along with an award which will be presented July 4 at the Squantum Playground after the neighborhood's parade.

Those who know of a student who they believe to be worthy of the award should submit a written explanation of why the student is deserving. The award recipient will be judged on his or her academic achievement and contribution to the community.

Nominations must be received by June 26, and should be mailed to: Councillor Bruce J. Ayers, Councillor's Award Program, City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Keating Announces Candidacy For District Attorney

WILLIAM KEATING

Sen. Bill Keating officially announces his candidacy for Norfolk District Attorney with a promise to bring the same leadership and innovation to the DA's office that he has shown in the Massachusetts Senate.

"A modern district attorney needs to see the effective prosecution of criminals as only the beginning of his job," said Keating.

"The district attorney is in a unique position to implement crime prevention programs and take the lead in combating drugs, juvenile crime and domestic violence," Keating said.

Keating noted he is effective district attorney is most important, he said.

The Massachusetts Victim/Witness Public Policy Board recently gave Keating its top award for excellence for the second time in his career, citing his success in juvenile justice reform and his work to curb domestic violence.

Keating said major police and public safety organizations in and around Norfolk County say they want Keating in charge of prosecuting those they arrest. They include the Massachusetts Police Association, the Massachusetts Coalition of Police and the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association.

Former Attorney General Francis Bellotti, five past presidents of the Norfolk Bar Association and more than a dozen lawyers who have served as assistant district attorneys are backing Keating for Norfolk District Attorney.

Other Quincy leaders endorsing Keating include Senator Michael Morrissey, former Senator and City Councillor Paul Harold, city Council President Peter Kolson, Councillor Patrick McDermott and Councillor Michael D'Amico and Democratic City Committee Chairman Michael Cheney.

responsible for the laws creating drug-free school zones, dedicating assets seized from drug dealers to drug prevention efforts, increasing penalties for the exploitation of children in the drug trade and strengthening prosecution of drug trafficking. Keating worked closely with Parents of Murdered Children to craft the law allowing juvenile murderers to be tried as adults, he said.

Keating said in his leadership positions on the Judiciary, Criminal Justice and Public Safety Committees, he has worked with victims, prosecutors, police and social service agencies studying how to deal with crime inside the courtroom and in the community. His innovation and hard work have earned him a long list of awards and endorsements from those for whom a strong,

Boston Harbor Cruises Offering Weekend Service

Boston Harbor Cruises, in conjunction with the MBTA, is now offering summer weekend service between Hingham and Boston in addition to its regular weekday departures.

The ferry leaves from Hewitt's Cove in Hingham, located off Rte. 3A, and arrives in Boston at Rows Wharf. Parking at Hewitt's Cove is free. The fare is $4 each way. Commuter passes are valid for weekend service.

Several of the trips also include a stop at George's Island, part of the Boston Harbor Islands National Park System.

For exact schedules or more information, call (617) 227-4321.

Boston Harbor Cruises also will offer whale watch safari cruises beginning July 4. The five-hour tours depart daily from Hewitt's Cove at 10 a.m. through Sept. 8. Fares are $23 for adults, $20 for senior citizens, and $17 for children under 12.

The Quincy Police DARE Program would like to thank all the people and companies that supported the DARE/Owen O'Leary's Golf Tournament. Without assistance from the community, the DARE Program could not work, helping youth to resist drugs and violence.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment

Project Hero Campaign Reaches $29,510 Rung

Project Hero is close to the $30,000 rung of its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its 14th week at the $29,510 rung and is starting its 15th week with $20,490 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

See Donor Listing On Page 20

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units—helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

Mary Sullivan in memory of John J. Sullivan Sr. and Jr., Violet Moyes, Jean Smart, Deirdre Durkin, Marie Bryan Murphy in memory of Charles F. Murphy, Virginia Holdstock, Howard McAllister in memory of Lucille McAllister, and Kathleen Cryan in memory of Mary K. and Fire Capt. James U. Cryan, Lowell F.D.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

Farmers' Market Opens Friday

The Quincy Farmers' Market will kick off its 16th season Friday at 11:30 a.m. at the Hancock Park Lot across from Quincy District Court on Chestnut St., Quincy Center.

The market will be held every Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., rain or shine, through Oct. 30.

"Shopping at the Quincy Farmers' Market keeps local production viable," said Anneli Johnson, market specialist from the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture. "It is a fun and festive way of shopping outdoors in the sunshine under the farmers' colorful umbrellas for local season fruits and vegetables. Farmers' Markets are a window to local agriculture."

"I am always looking forward to the Farmers' Market opening, not only on behalf of our city but also for my own vegetable shopping needs. I love of the freshness of the produce, as well as the camaraderie with my fellow citizens and friends that I meet there," said Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to Mayor James Sheets.

Johnson said the market is grateful to its loyal supporters, including the mayor's office, Quincy 2000, The Quincy Sun, WJDA, The Patriot Ledger, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, Faith Lutheran Church, St. John's Church and others.

This season, an organic farm from the Long Island Shelter will join the Farmers' Market and will feature a variety of herbs and vegetables. Stillman, River Bend and Freitas farms practice "Partners With Nature" farming and are certified IPM (Integrated Pest Management) farmers. "Partners With Nature" information will be available at the market.

Among the products initially offered at the Farmers' Market will be lettuce, radishes, strawberries, broccoli, hothouse tomatoes, peas, fava beans, scallions, geraniums, bedding plants and others. Additional produce will be available as the season advances.

Consumers are encouraged to bring their own shopping bags to save on packaging. Home-growers, full-time farmers and garden clubs are invited to host plant sales and other fund-raising events.

On Aug. 21, the Farmers' Market will celebrate National Farmers' Market Week with a "Taste of Farmers' Market" event. Local restaurants are invited to participate and promote their establishments.

Volunteers also are needed. For more information, call 479-1601 or 727-3000, ext. 175.

Real answers on crime

"I'll seize drug dealers' homes as shelters for abused women and kids."

— Jack Corrigan

Jack Corrigan served for nearly eight years as a prosecutor in Norfolk County, working alongside former DA Bill Delahunt as he mobilized an entire community in an innovative, effective battle against domestic abuse.

As our next DA, Jack Corrigan will expand and revitalize that nationally-recognized effort to prevent violence against women and children.

"Bill Delahunt's outstanding work with police, the courts, hospitals, schools and victim's advocates helped lower the rate of domestic violence," Jack Corrigan said. "Unfortunately, Norfolk County's present DA has dropped the ball when it comes to moving forward aggressively to protect families in trouble."

75% of abuse victims denied shelter.

Lack of space means three times as many women and children are turned away from shelters as are accepted — leaving them trapped in dangerous, and sometimes deadly, situations.

Jack Corrigan's plan will help prevent violence to innocent victims.

"As DA, the first home of a drug dealer my office seizes will become a shelter for battered women and their children. I'll also dedicate a portion of the DA's office drug forfeiture account to battered women's shelters, and I'll be a vocal advocate for securing more state funding for shelters."

Breaking the substance abuse link.

As a former prosecutor, Jack Corrigan knows substance abuse frequently triggers outbursts of domestic abuse, and often has a role in the escalation of domestic abuse into violence and murder.

"Drugs or alcohol are involved in 90% of domestic abuse incidents," Jack explains. "We need to force batterers to refrain from substance abuse before violence occurs. As DA, I'll use coerced abstinence — forcing abusers to take random drug tests — whenever we see signs of substance abuse. Failing to test clean will mean jail for batterers on parole or probation."

The ideas and experience we need.

Jack Corrigan's years of experience as a top prosecutor — and his tough, new crime fighting ideas — will help restore innovation and excellence to the Norfolk County District Attorney's office and make our communities safer.

Join Jack's fight against crime!

Quincy Flag Day Parade, Celebration Draws 25,000

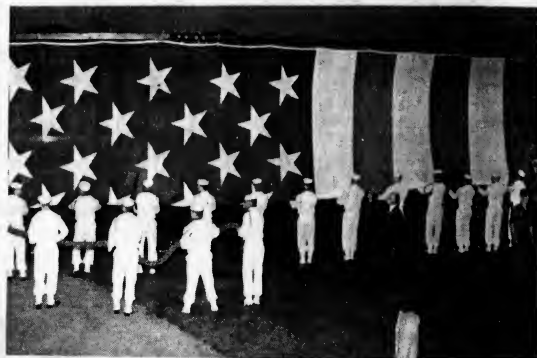

QUINCY FLAG DAY PARADE and Celebration was sponsored last Saturday by the City of Quincy, The Quincy Partnership and the Koch Club. The 47th annual event drew an estimated 25,000 spectators and concluded with a fireworks display at Pageant Field. Fire trucks from Quincy Ladder 5 and Boston Ladder 16 create an arch bearing the American flag behind members of the Quincy Firefighters Color Guard.

SIMONE KOCH was grand marshal of the 47th Quincy Flag Day Parade last Saturday. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Koch Club, founded by her late husband, Richard Koch, who also was the founder of the Flag Day Parade. Nightspot License Extension Granted

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

On a 4-1 vote Tuesday, the Quincy License Board Tuesday granted Ed Kane of WaterWorks at Marina Bay a permit for an extension of premises of their liquor license to an additional tent adjacent to Waterworks.

The tent is for an event involving the Utilities Communications Council, a professional association, and will be held June 30 from 6 to 10 p.m.

Before the vote was taken, Det. Sgt. Robert Perchard praised Kane and said he has been a "good neighbor" and that he had "no complaints" this summer.

However, Roger Wallin, sitting in for Director of Inspectional Services Walter White told the board that he received complaints in a letter from neighbors of WaterWorks and said he had "mixed feelings about the place." Wallin voted against granting the request.

Although Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, chairing the board in the absence of Joseph Shea read the letter he disagreed with Wallin and said he would "go along with Perchard."

Gorman said that Perchard is "around all the time" and that he was "satisfied" with his opinion.

Gorman added that Kane has done a "lot of work and has worked with the community." He added he did not "want to get into this thing at this time."

Kane told the board he had cut down on his speakers from 12 to 8 and down to 4, and had not seen the letter of complaint until Tuesday's meeting.

Gorman told Wallin the letter should have been made public before the meeting.

Gorman said, although names of the complainers were on the letter, the "letter is not signed."

Kane said he expected about 1100 to attend the event. He said, transportation will be by bus. There will be an early cocktail hour followed by dinner and dancing. All participants will depart by bus, Kane said.

The 80' by 190' tent will be installed and permitted by Peterson Party Rental of Winchester. It will occupy the portion of the WaterWorks parking lot closest to the front entrance.

Gary Coe, Jr. Enlists In Army

Gary M. Coe Jr. as joined the United States Army under the Delayed Entry Program at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in Quincy.

The program gives young men and women the opportunity to delay entering active duty for up to one year.

The enlistment gives them the option to learn a new skill, travel and become eligible to receive as much as $40,000 toward a college education. After completion of basic training, soldiers receive advanced individual training in their career specialty.

Coe has reported to Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla., for basic training.

He is the son of Gary Coe Sr. of 1069 Washington St., and Debra Meghan of 433 Sea St., both of Quincy.

Chretien Reception Tonight

Presidents Plaza Rezoning Public Hearing Topic June 29

A public hearing on a proposal to rezone the Presidents Plaza parcel on Quincy Avenue will be held by the City Council Monday, June 29 at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond is seeking to rezone the site, which includes the Bradlee's department store, from Business "B" zoning to Planned Unit Development (PUD).

Raymond noted at the council's June 1 meeting that the property's owner, Presidents Plaza Limited Partnership, recently lost a major tenant at the site, Walgreen's Pharmacy. He said he wants to be proactive and rezone the parcel before the owner takes any future action—such as selling the property or developing it—in order to give residents additional protection.

The PUD zoning would give residents a stronger voice in what happens there in the future by making the City Council the special permit granting authority for the site, Raymond said.

The parcel also includes the Strawberry's music store and other tenants.

At a public hearing held during the June 1 meeting, Raymond was joined by four local residents in supporting the rezoning.

However, Atty. Paul Killeen, representing the owner, called PUD "totally inappropriate" zoning for the parcel which he said has been assessed at $6.5 million. He urged the council to delay a vote on the matter, saying he had just learned of the proposed zoning change earlier in the day.

Raymond said after the hearing he feels the change is appropriate since all of the other major developments in the area—including Roche Bros. Supermarket, Wal-Mart and others—are zoned PUD.

For Would-Be Home Buyers

Imperfect Credit Report Doesn't Mean Rejection

By CAROL BULMAN

Imperfect credit once spelled doom for would-be home buyers, but not necessarily today. There are a variety of mortgage programs to fit most any financial situation.

At one time, a less-than-stellar credit report often resulted in a rejected mortgage application. Developments in the mortgage industry during the past five years, however, have produced a variety of mortgage programs to fit most financial situations.

While a good credit history is always helpful when applying for a mortgage, a less-than-perfect report doesn't necessarily mean rejection. If you're contemplating applying for a mortgage and think your credit might be a problem, here are some suggestions for smoothing the process:

Assess the situation. Whether you think you have good credit, bad credit or somewhere in-between, it's always advisable to have a review of your credit report done before applying for a mortgage.

With your permission, a CFS mortgage specialist will obtain your credit report (normally at no charge) and will sit with you to gather a full picture of your financial situation.

Keep in mind that the past 12 months is the most important window in terms of payment history. This is the period that a lender will examine most closely to determine how consistent you are in making your payments. In addition, any loans on which you have 10 or fewer remaining payments, in most cases, will not be considered in determining your mortgage.

[Carol Bulman is president of Conway Financial Services in Quincy. The company's MA Mortgage Broker Number is MB1174.]

Houghs Neck Family Fun Day July 3

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board granted a one day permit to residents of Houghs Neck for their 6th annual Houghs Neck Family Fun Day July 3 to be known as "Zero Tolerance Day."

Mike Cheney, chairman of First Night Committee told the board that First Night will sponsor the entertainment.

The alcohol and drug free holiday celebration will be held on Edgewater Drive starting at 9 a.m. and ending at 9 p.m. Quincy police will be on hand to enforce the city's open container law.

Cheney said persons with alcoholic beverages will be arrested.

Games, races, basketball games, a giant moon walk, dunk tank and road races for kids are among the events planned. First night Quincy will sponsor a six piece band.

Food and beverages will be available by the Edgewater Drive 3rd of July Committee.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, chairing the board in the absence of Joseph Shea said the event is a "nice time for persons to return to Houghs Neck to see some of their old friends."

Band stand music will be from 6 to 9 p.m.

Committee members include Wink Wakelin, Walter Jacobs, Steve Connelly, D.J. Davis, Paula Clarke, Ed Gallant, Jack Walsh, Mary Trahan.

Victoria Wright Graduates Suffolk Law

Quincy resident Victoria "Tori" Wright, the daughter of Wampanoag Tribal Council Chairperson Beverly Wright, recently graduated from Suffolk University Law School.

Wright has spent her life in a household intricately involved with the struggles of her tribe, as it sought recognition from the federal government and struggled for economic self-sufficiency. That's why Wright, a member of the Wampanoag Tribe of Gay Head, enrolled in Suffolk University Law School. She hopes to find work in a law firm concentrating in tribal and government law following her graduation.

While attending law school, Wright worked part time for Wynn & Wynn, the law firm that serves as legal counsel for the Gay Head Wampanoag Tribe. Before attending law school, she lived in Seattle for several years, working as program coordinator for the non-profit American Indian Tribe and Development Council, where she researched economic opportunities for Native American Tribal organizations in domestic and international markets.

Wright is the first female Wampanoag tribal member to graduate from law school, and her commencement was an international celebration of sorts. During high school and college, she was an exchange student, staying in Tokyo and in Invercargill, New Zealand. He host sisters flew in for the graduation.

Seniors Can Earn Tax Bill Credit

Fantuccio, Council on Aging Board of Directors member Gerard Weidmann, Family Commission Director Linda Stice, union representatives Carol Block and Richard Carnali (there is no intent to replace union workers with the seniors, Raymond stressed), and Michael McFarland, then executive secretary to Sheets and now a member of the School Committee.

Raymond said the task force worked with city department heads to devise the application process and create timeliness. It was decided to pay the seniors an hourly wage of $6 instead of the originally-planned $5--so the amount would exceed minimum wage--and keep the original limit of 100 annual work hours per senior, he said.

Services performed by an individual senior will include clerical work and other duties, depending on which of the 17 participating city departments hires that person, he added.

Raymond said there is $25,000 for the program in Quincy's $158.2 million municipal budget for Fiscal Year 1999, which begins July 1. He said as many as 41 seniors should be able to join the program.

Currently, there is a pool of about 30 seniors "ready to take the next step and see department heads," according to Raymond. He said he would like to see that number grow.

"I think it's going to be a tremendous opportunity for seniors living in their home who still want to work," he said. "The original intent of this was to help seniors living on fixed incomes."

Raymond said some

SWAP seniors will be allowed to continue in the program after the new fiscal year but "the idea is to allow as many seniors as possible to participate." Therefore, some may be replaced if other qualified people who have not yet participated are available.

Recommendations about which seniors to hire will be made by Buckley, but individual department heads will make the final decisions, Raymond said.

Each participating senior must be a Quincy resident, at least 60 years old, the owner of the property for which the SWAP money will be used, and the only member of the household participating in the program.

For more information about the program or an application, visit the Quincy Department of Elder Services, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy or call 376-1245.

Col. Joseph Dunford Selected To Attend War College

Marine Corps Colonel Joseph F. Dunford Jr. has been selected to attend the U.S. Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Carlisle, Pa.

The 12-month curriculum of the Army's senior officer school prepares officers of all services, as well as civilian officials of the federal government, to serve in top-level command and staff positions with the U.S. armed forces throughout the world.

Dunford is a battalion commander at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

He is the son of Joseph F. Dunford of 93 Narragansett Rd., Merrymount.

He graduated in 1973 from Boston College High School and received a bachelor's degree in 1977 from St. Michael's College in Vermont. He earned in master's degree in 1985 from Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.

Quincy Hospital Expands Transitional Care Unit

Imagine waking up in your private room and then going to breakfast in a sun-filled room with an ocean view.

Afterwards, you go to the beauty parlor, only a few doors down the hall, and have your hair done. Sound like a fancy resort in a luxurious destination? Would you believe it will be the new Transitional Care Unit at Quincy Hospital?

The Transitional Care Unit (TCU) at Quincy Hospital opened four years ago to meet the needs of patients who have progressed during their acute hospitalization, but still require additional nursing and rehabilitative services before going home. Patients receive care from a multi-disciplinary team which includes, among others, physicians, nursing staff, physical and occupational therapists, and social workers.

Due to increased demand for this service, Quincy Hospital expanded the unit from 28 to 38 beds encompassing the entire fifth floor of the hospital. The new unit features all private patient rooms, making it the only unit in the area to offer all single-person rooms.

In addition to enhancing privacy, the hospital is renovating space to create a rehabilitation suite with a private room for speech therapy and a physical therapy gym. The occupational therapy area will allow patients to practice daily activities in a kitchen and bathroom so they will be prepared to go home. Patients will also have access to a beauty salon/barber shop that will be located on the floor.

The TCU at Quincy Hospital offers a warm, home-like environment where patients participate in rehabilitation and nursing programs designed to help them increase their independence in living skills, mobility, and communication.

Bai Zhu Offered ROTC Scholarship From Air Force

Bai L. Zhu of Quincy, has been offered an Air Force ROTC (Reserve Officer Training Corps) scholarship.

The cadet was selected on the basis of comprehensive tests, high school scholastic achievement, and extra-curricular activities.

Upon graduation and completion of the ROTC program, she will be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Air Force.

Zhu is the daughter of Kwong Chu and Danna Li of 127 East Elm Ave., and a 1998 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Legion Baseball

Quincy Hits Sour Note, Loses To Milton Twice

By LIAM FITZGERALD
After numerous weather and state tournament delays, Quincy's American Legion baseball team finally opened its 1998 season this week.

Following two setbacks to Milton, Quincy hosted Weymouth Tuesday and is slated to visit Canton today (Thursday) at 5:45 p.m.

Sunday at 5 p.m., Quincy plans to make up a game against visiting Randolph. Next Monday, Quincy hosts a doubleheader against Cohasset, at 5:30 and 8 p.m. Quincy's busy schedule continues next Wednesday with an 8 p.m. home game against Milton and next Thursday at 5:45 p.m. at Weymouth. Quincy's home games are at Adams Field.

In recent action against Milton, Quincy yielded four runs in the third inning and lost Monday's contest, 6-2.

Quincy head coach Larry Taglieri cited the team's lack of offensive output as a contributing factor in the two defeats.

"We're just not hitting; Greg Peck's hitting the ball, but that's about it so far," he said. "Defensively we're playing well and the pitching has been O.K. We fell behind in both games and we weren't able to come back."

Peck picked up right where he left off for North Quincy High School in the recent state tournament, where he led the team in hitting. In Monday's loss, Peck led off the game with a triple to right and scored on an RBI groundout by Steve Wiltshire. Peck collected both of Quincy's hits.

In the third, Milton picked up three hits and took advantage of an error to score four runs off starting pitcher Joe Tower, making his first-ever Legion start. Tower lasted four-plus innings, allowed four earned runs on five hits, struck out two and didn't issue a walk.

Quincy cut the deficit to 4-2 in the fifth when Tim Pezzulo drew a two-out walk, stole second and scored on Peck's RBI double. Milton added two runs in its half of the fifth to put the game out of reach.

In Sunday's opener, five walks led to seven Milton runs in the first inning as the visitors defeated Quincy, 9-2, at Adams Field.

Quincy relievers Dennis

Palardy and Mike Clark combined to shut out Milton over the next four innings. Palardy came on in the first and recorded the third out to end the rally, then pitched two more scoreless innings. Clark pitched the next two innings and kept Milton off the scoreboards.

After Milton scored twice in the sixth, Quincy capitalized on four walks and scored two runs in the seventh. After Matt Graham reached on an error and Pezzulo and Wiltshire (2 for 3, double and single) walked to load the bases, Adam Delorey drew a walk to force in Graham. Jonathan Caliri followed with another walk, allowing Pezzulo to cross the plate. Quincy's Tower and Frank Alibrandi each had a single.

Taglieri was impressed with the defensive efforts of Wiltshire, a Legion veteran, and Graham, a first-year Legion player.

"Wiltshire played outstanding at first base, making a couple of tremendous plays diving to his right," he said, "and Graham looked good at second, starting a couple of double plays."

New Bedford Blanks NQ, 5-0 North's Season Over After South Final Loss

If North Quincy High School's baseball team can take any solace from losing in the Div. 1 South final to New Bedford, it's that the Whalers went on to pound their next two foes and win the state championship.

Regardless, last Wednesday's 5-0 setback at Strong Field in East Bridgewater ended a memorable run for the Red Raiders, who finished the 1998 season with a 17-7 record.

"The kids played hard, and we went as far as we could go," said North Quincy coach Dave Perdios. "This was no accident, though. Destiny had nothing to do with it. These kids worked their tails off all year, taking flies and grounders every day."

"There was no luck involved; we just worked harder than the 22 other qualifiers. I felt we were the best team in the Old Colony League, and we have nothing to be ashamed of."

Nine seniors wrapped up their North Quincy careers, including the four captains Adam Delorey, Bryan Linskey, John Sullivan and Bill Walker, and Shawn Manning, Mike McEvoy, Greg Peck, Adam Goodrich and Matt Kisiel.

"We're a relatively young team, but we were carried by our seniors, who showed a lot of maturity and leadership," said Perdios. "They played a huge role in helping turn this program around the past few years. Hopefully we can build on this and come back next year."

Against high-scoring New Bedford, the Red Raiders knew they had to put runs on the board and keep the game close. But New Bedford starter Pat Reedy was in control from the start, tossing a complete-game five-hitter with four strikeouts and two walks.

Reedy's counterpart, North sophomore Rob Celata, struggled with his control early, walking lead-off hitter Marc Fatula, who stole second and scored the Whalers' first run on an NQ miscue.

Again in the fourth, a free pass came back to haunt Celata. New Bedford's Dante Balestracci drew a one-out walk, proceeded to steal second and score on Alfred Medeiros' RBI single for a 2-0 lead.

Meanwhile, Reedy was keeping North's hitters off balance, allowing just a single to Peck and a walk to Sullivan through the first four innings.

The Whalers broke the game open in the fifth, collecting three hits and capitalizing on an error, a mis-pitch and a wild pitch to score three runs. Fatula got the inning started with a single, then headed for third when Lang singled to right. The ball took a strange hop and eluded Peck, allowing Fatula to score and Lang to reach third.

One out later, Brian Pereira tripled to right on a shot that Peck broke in on, only to watch it sail over his head. Lang scored on the play, and Pereira crossed the plate for the Whalers' fifth and final run on a wild pitch by Celata.

"We made some mistakes, and they cost us," said Perdios. "You can't make mistakes against a good team and expect to win. We were a little shaky on defense, and they took advantage of every mistake we made. We also didn't hit the ball, and you don't win if you don't put runs on the board."

From that point, Celata (eight innings, five runs, six walks, six strikeouts) settled down and pitched three scoreless innings, but North's offense couldn't muster the clutch base hit.

NQ had its chances to get on the board throughout the

Time Constraints Hurt Morrisette In Opener

As a result of inclement weather and North Quincy High School's tournament success, the first time the entire Morrisette American Legion baseball team got together occurred just hours before its season opener.

Morrisette, which had eight players on the North Quincy squad, finally began play last Saturday, three days after North was eliminated from the tournament. Morrisette dropped its opener, 16-4, to a strong Braintree squad and lost its second game, 9-4, to Randolph Monday night.

"We're off to a rough start, but we have a decent team and I think we'll be fine," said Ray Cattaneo, Morrisette's manager. "It's been tough, because half the team is coming off a successful high school season, while the others have been waiting around and were tired of just practicing."

"There just wasn't enough time before the first game for them to gel as a team. The more they play together, the better the team will be."

After visiting West Roxbury on Tuesday, Morrisette hosted a team from Worthington, Ohio in an exhibition yesterday (Wednesday) at 8 p.m.

Starting Friday, Morrisette is scheduled to play six games in six days, beginning with an 8 p.m. home game against Cohasset. Saturday at 4:30 p.m., Morrisette hosts Weymouth. The following day at 7:30 p.m., West Roxbury visits Morrisette.

Next Monday at 5:45 p.m., Morrisette travels to Weymouth and next Tuesday, Morrisette hosts Braintree at 8 p.m. Next Wednesday at 6 p.m., when Morrisette visits Randolph. Morrisette's home games are at Adams Field.

In Monday's setback to Randolph, Morrisette jumped out to a 3-0 lead, but Randolph rallied late and went on to the victory.

Keith Doherty, who recently completed his freshman year at NQHS, took the loss in his first Legion start. He went the distance, giving up five earned runs on 11 hits, striking out nine and walking three.

Morrisette got to Randolph starter Dan Bates early, as Jim Cunio smacked a two-run double in the first inning. Morrisette threatened in the second as Steve Clarke (2 for 3) belted a leadoff triple, but Bates fanned the next three to halt the threat.

After tying the game in the fourth, Randolph broke it open in the sixth, collecting two hits, two walks and taking advantage of three errors to score five runs.

Morrisette also got contributions from John Sullivan (2 for 4), Bill Walker (1 for 3, triple) and Shawn Manning (single).

In its season opener last Saturday, Morrisette was victimized by a potent Braintree offense. The game marked the debut for new Morrisette head coach Tom Malvesti, a former Morrisette star player, assistant coach, athletic officer and manager.

Ryan Ploof, in his first year, started for Morrisette and allowed six earned runs on four hits over 1 1/3 innings. Manning relieved Ploof and pitched 4 2/3 innings, giving up eight earned runs on eight hits. Host Braintree's seven-run second put the game out of reach early.

Morrisette's top hitters were Sullivan (2 for 3, RBI), Chris Bregoli (1 for 3), Doherty (1 for 3, 2 RBI) and Walker (1 for 2, RBI).

Organizers To Contribute $25,000 To ALS Research Despite Wet Weather, First Kennedy Run A Rousing Success

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Not even Mother Nature could prevent the Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS from happening June 13 outside Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

Despite torrential downpours from start to finish, over 500 runners and walkers participated in the first annual 5-mile race to raise funds for ALS (Lou Gehrig's Disease) research.

Race organizers Rich Kennedy and Marty Levenson were overwhelmed by the turnout, especially the 100-plus volunteers who arrived early and stayed late, doing their part to help the event run smoothly.

"Under the conditions, we were blown away by the number of people who volunteered their time," said Kennedy, who lost his father, Christopher, and brother, Jimmy, to ALS. The race was named in Jimmy Kennedy's honor.

"By 8:30 a.m., we were knee-deep in volunteers asking what they could to help out," added Kennedy. "They were a tremendous asset; the race couldn't have gone off without them."

Prior to the event, Kennedy and Levenson's goal for the first was to raise $20,000 for the first year.

QUINCY'S TRACEY TIMMINS, a former track standout at North Quincy High School, was the first female to complete the course, finishing with a time of 30:14.

However, with the $7,000 collected the day of the event, the race organizers will donate upwards of $25,000 to Dr. Robert Brown at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. Dr. Brown is the head of neurology at the hospital, where the Angel Fund was established to promote ALS research.

"We're going to hit our goal, despite the horrible weather," said Levenson, a classmate of Rich Kennedy's at North Quincy High School (Class of 1977). "It's a testament to all our friends and family who wanted to help out. We're absolutely thrilled. It was still a great event, thanks to everyone who came and contributed in some way.

"We just ignored the weather. All that mattered was what we did this for, to raise money to help find a cure for ALS. This is just the beginning, and if we can do it in bad weather, look out for next year."

Levenson and Kennedy said they plan to make the donation to Mass. General within the next few weeks and then turn their attention

Among the dignitaries in attendance were former Governor Michael Dukakis, Massachusetts Speaker of the House Thomas Finneran, Mayor James Sheets and Olympic Silver Medalist Eric Flaim, who fired the horn to start the race.

Levenson was particularly impressed with Dukakis, who made an appearance despite the fact his 95-year-old had recently been hospitalized.

"He (Dukakis) came to the event after visiting her that morning, then went right back to the hospital," said Levenson. "That just shows what type of man he is, to take the time to show his support for this event. It's simply inspiring."

The race's overall winner was Joel Rich of Newton, finishing in 25:13. George Rose of Kingston was second, running the course in 26:18. Rose, a track teammate of Levenson's at Bates, ran against Levenson as a student at Weymouth North High School.

The first female runner to cross the finish line was Tracey Timmins of Quincy, a former track standout at NQHS, who ran the race in 30:14. Linda Kennedy of Scituate was the second female finisher (33:13).

Paul Picarski was the first Quincy runner to finish, clinching seventh place overall (29:18).

In the over 40 age category, Jimmy Bunnell of Duxbury was the first male (30:03) and Rhea Panta-zopoulos of Milton was the first female (39:34).

Former NQHS track star James "Gav" Gavigan placed second in the over 40 category and 16th overall (32:05).

Quincy's William Azar, running in the open male age category (ages 19-39), came in 17th overall (32:26). In the open female age category (19-39), Eileen Bertoni of Scituate was the third female to finish the race and 24th overall finisher (33:28).

Former Quincy distance standout Brian Hurley, now of Norwell, placed 37th overall (34:19).

Tom Nee of Quincy, a former NQHS football player and classmate of the race organizers, ran in the open division and came in 81st overall (37:19).

Recreation Department Summer Programs Begin

Barry Welch, director of recreation, announces the opening of a variety of Recreation Department-sponsored programs, including summer playgrounds, boating and sailing instruction, and instructional and recreational swimming to be offered this summer.

Beginning next Monday, the department will supervise 20 neighborhood playgrounds. The playgrounds will be supervised Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. for an eight-week period. Activities such as sports, games, arts and crafts as well as field trips and special events are scheduled for children ages 6 to 16. Playground leaders will have additional schedule information.

The department's William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing Facility will conduct registration for its annual program of rowing, sailing, windsurfing and canoeing instruction beginning Friday and next Monday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The first day of lessons will be next Tuesday at the facility adjacent to Black's Creek in Merrymount Park. Registration will continue weekdays through the summer.

The boating and sailing program, which will be divided into age and skill classes, is open to Quincy residents on a fee basis.

Youths ages 8 to 16 who have passed a qualifying swim test will be offered classes in rowing, sailing, canoeing and windsurfing from beginner to advanced levels. The program will be offered daily, with classes scheduled at various times.

Adults may receive one-on-one instruction in boating and sailing weekdays from 4 to 8 p.m. Adult and family recreational sailing is conducted on Fridays from 4 to 7 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 6 p.m. The boathouse entrance is the road adjacent to Adams Field that proceeds through Pageant Field to the boathouse parking lot.

Applications Available For 'Twilight Hoop'

Team applications are available for the 1998 "Twilight Hoop" League to be sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department.

Applications are available at the Recreation Department and at all supervised recreation programs. Entry deadline for the free program is Thursday, July 2.

The unique feature of the league is that all participants will have the opportunity to form their own teams.

This junior and senior basketball league will be comprised of three divisions for boys and girls. Senior teams will consist of boys and girls entering Grades 10 through 12. The junior divisions will be for boys and girls entering Grades 7 through 9.

Participants will form their own rosters (no less than eight players and no more than 12). Individuals can submit their name to the department to be assigned to a team. All games will be played on outdoor basketball courts.

For more information, call the Recreation Department at 376-1386.

Hospital Golf & Tennis Tourney Raises $64,000

Quincy Hospital Health & Education Foundation's recent 9th annual Golf & Tennis Tournament raised more than $64,000, with proceeds to benefit patient services at Quincy Hospital.

The event, held at Co-hasset Golf Club, attracted 144 golfers and tennis players. Each golfer received a complimentary professional Par 3 Highlights video, with commentary by Quincy Hospital employees Rick Cove and Pat Powers. The tournament concluded with dinner and awards followed by a raffle and live auction.

The tournament committee, comprised of more than 50 local business leaders, was co-chaired by Don Uvanitte of Allied American Agency Inc. and Daniel J. Flynn III of Daniel Flynn & Co. Quincy Hospital physicians Peter Barrett, MD and George Gales, MD were honorary co-chairmen. Eric Cohen, MD was the tennis chairman.

For more information about the foundation, call 376-5495.

game. In the second, Peck (two hits), North's leading hitter in the tournament, smacked a one-out single to center but was left stranded. Linskey led off the fifth with a single, but Reedy retired the next three batters to halt the threat.

Walker led off the next inning, reaching on an error, but was erased on a fielder's choice groundout. In the seventh, Peck led off with a solid double, but couldn't advance as Reedy induced Linskey to pop out, then struck out Chris Walsh and retired pinch hitter Jody Bravo on a short fly ball.

North squandered its best opportunity in the ninth, when Celata led off with a single and Sullivan followed with a single. Celata took a gamble and raced for third, but was thrown out by center fielder Darryle Morris. Peck then grounded into a fielder's choice and Linskey flew out to end the game.

In off the field news, four North Quincy players were named Old Colony League All-Stars: Peck, Sullivan, Walker and junior Chris Bregoli.

Travel Soccer Round-Up

The final weekend of the Quincy Youth Soccer Travel Division season (June 6-7) was a washout, with all the games cancelled. League standings were based on results through May 30-31.

Five Quincy teams advanced to the South Shore Soccer League playoffs: Under 12 Girls Div. I (coach Don Martin), Under 14 Girls Div. I (coach Tom Herlihy), Under 17 Girls Div. I (coach Nancy Stone), Under 16 Boys Div. I (coach Bill Desher), and Under 16 Boys Div. II (coach Arch Acton).

A few teams rescheduled their games as friendlies with the following results:

Under 10 Girls Div. I shut out South Boston, 3-0, with goals by Caitlin McCleary, Katelyn Keeley and Kaitlin Fish. Keeley and Julianna Eagles each collected an assist and Megan Campbell, Jennifer Reidy and Molly Griffin all played well.

Under 10 Girls Div. IIA blanked Sharon, 4-0, on goals by Sarah Giudici, Courtney Hall, Rachel Stavros and Lindsey Clifford.

Under 10 Girls Div. IIB lost to Hanson, 3-2. Molly Mansfield and Kayla Lenane each scored a goal, while Brianna Casciello, Krysta Guerrero and Caitlin Wilson all played well.

Under 10 Girls Div. IIB edged Raynham, 1-0, on a goal by Melissa Mendall, assisted by Donika Hajrizaj. Goalie Bridget Coleman picked up the shutout, while Kristen Keane, Jena McEachern and Kathleen Forde turned in solid efforts.

Under 10 Boys Div. II fell to Stoughton, 3-1. Brendan Mulcahy was the goal scorer, assisted by Chris Rooney. Other standouts were Jason Thomas, Ian Flaherty and Zach Keating.

Under 10 Boys Div. III defeated Bridgewater, 10-0, sparked by the efforts of Chris Burke (six goals), Mike Maxey (three goals) and Jeremiah Foley (goal). Other key contributors were Justin Grimmel, Ben Tubo and Michael Valente.

Receiving winter track awards were Mike Costales and Jasmine Gonzalez, MVP; Adam Drake and Kristy Deputa, Coaches Award; and Vinny Pivnicny and Sharon Lee, Unsung Hero.

Spring track awards went to Claire Quilty and Brian Wells, MVP; Nicole Bertone and Conor Quilty, Coaches Award; and Peter Chan and Kellie Johnston, Unsung Hero.

North Quincy's athletes presented gifts and cards of appreciation to the members of the coaching staff. Senior athletes recognized were Sarah Beston, Jasmine Gonzalez, Sharon Lee, Kristy Deputa, Claire Quilty, Nicole Bertone, Matt Kane, Mark Stanton, Shawn Manning, Conor Quilty, Brian Wells, Adam Drake, Vinny Pivnicny, Mike Costales, Joe Linsky, Colin Shea and Steve Wilson.

Patrick Bregoli Selected To Play For N.E. Mariners AAU Baseball Team

Patrick Bregoli of 80 Willow Ave., Wollaston, was selected to play for the New England Mariners 14-Under AAU baseball team this summer.

Bregoli, an eighth grader at Central Middle School, will play for the Mariners for the second consecutive year. Last summer, the Mariners won the New England Regional Tournament and competed in Chickasha, Okla., in the

PATRICK BREGOLI

National AAU Tournament where they finished 20th in a field of 64 teams.

This season, Bregoli is the Mariners' starting center fielder and leadoff hitter. In a recent regional playoff against the Bay State Tides, Bregoli went 8 for 18, leading the Mariners to a 3-2 series win.

This summer's National Tournament will be held July 28-Aug. 6 in Charlotte, N.C.

Local 2222, CNA Insurance Win Three Games Apiece

Local 2222 and CNA Insurance picked up three victories apiece in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A action.

In Local's 16-4 triumph over Consumer Home Mortgage, Matt Palmer tossed a complete game (11 strikeouts) and also went 4 for 4 and scored 3 runs. Dan Gallagher also hit well (double, home run).

Another Local contributor was Tom McKenna, who reached base twice, scored both times, and made a sparkling defensive play. Ryan Barter added 3 hits, including 2 triples, and Tim Sommers and Paul McCann collected 2 hits apiece.

For Consumer, Pete Karapatsas, Dan Duval and Joe Corita (home run) all picked up 2 hits each.

Scoring in every inning, Local 2222 outslugged Spillane & Epstein en route to a 19-10 triumph. Leading the way offensively for Local were Joe McManus, Joe

TRIPLE A

Norris and Ryan Barter, with 3 hits apiece. Alex Tringale added 2 hits and played well defensively, earning him the game ball. Chris Tierney, Tom McKenna and Mike Barter also turned in solid defensive efforts.

Jim Mendez led the way for S&E, going 4 for 4 with a home run. Frankie Sorrento had 2 hits and Brian Marsters collected a hit and 3 walks in 4 plate appearances.

In a 15-3 victory over Flavin & Flavin, Joe McManus led the way for Local, pitching 6 strong innings and helping his own cause with a 3 for 3 effort and 2 runs scored.

Other big Local hitters were Joe Norris and Tim Sommers, who had 2 hits apiece and scored 2 runs. Alex Tringale made the defensive play of the game with a tremendous catch in center. Anthony Danner played a strong game and was awarded the game ball.

Steve Sachetti paced F&F with 2 hits and 2 runs scored, while Jon Griffith collected a hit, 2 walks and scored a run. Harvey Chan also played well, belting a double and turned in a solid defensive effort.

Meanwhile, CNA reeled off a winning streak of their own, including a 13-9 win over Quincy P.A.L. Winning pitcher Kellan Losi struck out 12 and helped his own cause with 2 doubles, a single and scored 3 times.

Rob Richards (2 hits, double, 2 walks, 3 runs), Jonathan O'Connor (3 hits, 1 run), Matt Boyle (two-run triple) also contributed for CNA, as did Joe Verachi (run), Harman Losi (2 runs) and Steve O'Neil (single, 2 walks, run). Dennis Conway played well defensively.

In other action, Steve O'Neil pitched a complete game for CNA in a 9-7 victory over Quincy D.A.R.E. He also had 2 hits, including a triple, and scored a run.

Also hitting well were Rob Richards (2 hits, home run, 2 runs), Mike Merlis (hit, 2 runs), Paul Hartman (triple), Kellan Losi (2 doubles, single), Tyler Lagrotteria (walk, run), Harman Losi (walk, run), Chris Garvey (2 hits) and Chris Perkins (2 hits). Johnathan O'Connor played solid defense at short and hit the ball hard twice.

Behind the 12-strikeout performance by Mike Merlis, CNA picked up an 8-5 triumph over Flavin & Flavin. Merlis also collected 2 hits and scored twice. Rob Richards doubled, tripled and scored twice and had a strong game behind the plate.

Morrisette Wins, Improves to 8-2; Granite City Defeats Firefighters

Morrisette Legion improved its record to 8-2 by defeating Quincy Police, 13-3, in recent Quincy Babe Ruth League Baseball action.

Dennis Thomson fired a complete-game nine-hitter, striking out 3 and walking just 1. He helped his cause by going 2 for 3 with 2 RBI. Other contributors were Brendan Bowes (RBI), Jimmy Johnson (2 RBI), George Phipps (2-run double), James Laffleur (1-2, 1 RBI), Chris Doherty (2 for 3, RBI) and Kris Kamborian (2 for 4, 2 RBI).

Defensively, Morrisette's infield turned two 6-4-3 double plays to end the second and also close out the game, with Doherty making two excellent stretches at first base.

For the Police, John Lupo and Chris Lockhead singled and scored and Brian Kenny and Rice both collected two singles.

In other action, Morrisette rolled over Golden Print, 9-3, sparked by the hitting of Chris Doherty (2 for 3, triple, 3 RBI) and relief pitching of James Laffleur (4 innings, 6 hits, 2 runs, 3 strikeouts, no walks).

Morrisette scored twice in the second, as Brendan Bowes (2 for 2) walked, stole second and third and scored on a Kris Kamborian single. Dennis Thomson (2 for 2) followed with a single to drive in Kamborian. In the fifth, Laffleur sacrificed to score Mannix with the eventual game-winning run. Matt Yohe, who singled, scored on a Doherty single.

In a four-run seventh, Morrisette erupted for 5 hits, including an RBI singles by Laffleur and Bowes and a two-run triple by Doherty. Defensively, Kamborian made a diving catch and doubled off a runner to end a third-inning threat.

For Print, hitting stars were John O'Connell (2 for 3, 2 singles, run), Pete Turowski (triple), T. J. Traietti (double), Chris Goreham (single) and Pat Duff (single, 2 RBI). Traietti caught a runner stealing second with a throw to Matt Petit.

In other action, Granite City Electric topped Quincy Firefighters, 14-5, behind the four-hit pitching of Matt Holt, who also fanned 12 in the win. Holt was backed by the strong performances of Matt Millerick (3 hits, 2 RBI, 2 runs), Brian Scott (2 hits, 2 RBI), Dave Germaine (2 hits, RBI) and Sean Crowley (2 hits, RBI).

Also contributing for GCE were Wayne Moynihan (3 hits, 2 runs), John Norton (RBI single), Mike Boyle, Dave Armstrong, James Zapata and James Chiochio.

For the Firefighters, Joe Duffy had an RBI triple and Dan Sheehan collected an RBI double. Shortstop Mike McCarthy played well, as did Brandon Sleeth, Joey Holleran and Neil Gavin.

Sweeney Brothers, Nation One, Reggie's Oil Among Winners bases) and Brian Sorenson (2 singles, 2 stolen bases). Sean Regan executed an unassisted double play and Alex Smith threw out three would-be base stealers.

Impressions Plus jumped out to a 10-0 lead, taking advantage of 14 walks, after three innings and went to a 16-4 win over Sweeney Brothers. Leading players for SB were Ed Laura (2 singles, stolen base, 1 RBI), Robert Getchell (2 walks, 3 stolen bases) and Carter Dufrane (diving catch on the run in right field).

In other action, Impressions Plus withstood a late Dairy Freeze rally and held on for an 11-9 victory. Top hitters for DF were Steve Sullivan (three-run triple), Jeremy Craig (single, triple), Ian McRae (single, double), Joe Salvucci (2 singles, RBI), Joshua Sawtelle (RBI single), Chris Deyesso (single) and Ben Hamlin (single).

Impressions Plus defeated Family Tire & Auto, 18-9, powered by the hitting of Anthony Calley and Steve and Joe Priscella. Pitcher Liam Powers allowed only 1 run to pick up the win. In a victory over Dairy Freeze, IP built a big lead with good hitting from the Priscella brothers and Calley, then held on against a good comeback by DF.

In a 6-2 victory by Sweeney Brothers, Dairy Freeze trailed by three runs after one inning and could not recover. For DF, Steve McGree reached base and stole home and Joe Salvucci picked up a single.

Dairy Freeze beat Impressions Plus, 17-15. Chris

Deyesso was DF's star hitter, belting a grand slam, a three-run homer and an RBI triple for a total of 8 RBI. Also hitting well were Joe Salvucci (single, triple, RBI), Steve Sullivan (RBI triple, steal of home), Ian McRae (RBI single), Trevor Vallone (single) and Doug Smith (single). Jared Fontaine and McRae both reached and stole home.

In Dairy Freeze's 9-4 win over Family Tire & Auto, the winners were led by Ian McRae (single, two-run homer), Doug Smith (2 singles, steal of home), Ben Hamlin (RBI single), Spencer Peterson (single, steal of home), Jeremy Craig (double), Trevor Vallone (single), Steve Sullivan (single) and Joe Salvucci (single). Chris Deyesso and Keith Lasordo reached and stole home.

In other action, Sunshine Fruit jumped out to a big lead and defeated Sweeney Brothers, 12-3. Top hitters for SFS were Taylor Hutchinson (2 singles), Tom Power (single, double), Denny Wright (single, run), Patrick Hamlin (double), Scott Klotzbecher (single), David Regan (RBI single, run) and Lammy Papalambros (double).

A.H. Campbell & Sons took an eight-run lead into the fourth and went on to defeat SFS, 11-9. Leading SFS were Lammy Papalambros (2 singles, 2 RBI), Tom Power (two-run triple, single) and Scott Klotzbecher (2 singles). Adding singles were Denny Wright, Andrew Dwan, Patrick Hamlin, Corey Lumaghi and David Regan.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Someone once asked, "Must the mood, manner and motives of youth fade away with the years?" Before you answer quickly - look around... You will see plenty of proof that youth is not always measured in years. Youth need not be a time of life. It should be a state of mind. Youth, regardless of years, should be an adventure in life. When enthusiasm for life exists, wrinkled skin will not wrinkle a mind. Youth only fades away when worry, doubt, distrust, fear and despair burden the body and bow the head. Youth remains when life is faced cheerfully; when a mind wonders and is amazed with the stars, the sun, the moon and the grandeur of God's world. Youth stays on with an attitude of today is another day and what can be done with it.

Youth is faith and hope. It is enjoying beauty, being of good cheer. Cast these out and youth and maturity are gone. Retain them and youth remains. Faith, hope, appreciation of beauty and good cheer... all can be regained.

Yes, the fountain of youth can only be found in a state of mind... no other place...

Streetwise & Safe: For Children

By MCGRUFF THE CRIME DOG

Special Guest Columnist

We all have to be careful when we're outside. But kids can face some special problems. So pass these tips along to your children.

Kids should be careful if a stranger:

- Tries to give them candy or money
 - Asks them to go somewhere or get into a car with him/her
 - Tries to follow them
 - Hangs around playgrounds
 - Tries to touch them
- Instruct your child to run away if a stranger does one of these things and then tell parents, teachers, or a police officer what happened.

Copyright 1994 The Advertising Council, Inc.

Make sure you know where your children are going, when they go out. Ask them for their friends' names and telephone numbers so you can reach them in an emergency.

Encourage your children to play with other kids. It's not only more fun, it's safer. Make sure they understand that they should play in places where people can see them, never in a deserted building or alley.

Above all, the most important thing for children to know is that there are certain people they can depend on: parents, teachers, and police officers.

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although you have a tendency to get bogged down in minor details, you're efficient. Bigwigs take note of your accomplishments. Keep working on your special project, but take time off this weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Beware of people who are too outgoing and forgiving. They have a hidden motive. On the home front, don't allow petty matters to cause upheaval.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) While you tend to be overly extravagant sometimes, you find good deals. On the job front, paying a little more attention to your duties can reap rewards.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It isn't a good week for seeking advice from a confidant, who is concentrating on his or her own problems. Self-reliance is the key to achieving solutions. By week's end, you're satisfied with what transpires.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) While a new source of money could be coming your way soon, don't spend your gift foolishly. In your heart, you know your limitations. Sound judgment eventually wins out.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) If you are in the mood for redecorating your home, begin planning. Take one step at a time, however, and avoid extravagance. A friend has a good idea over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Think before you speak. While you feel strongly about your personal and political beliefs, be open-minded and understanding of those who disagree. Differing viewpoints make life more interesting.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You're somewhat nervous about a work-related dilemma. All will turn out fine eventually. In the meantime, do not make any snap decisions.

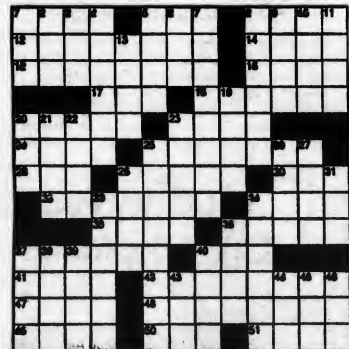

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Be alert for a tendency you'll have this week to procrastinate. You can make some progress midweek if you speak up. People are likely to listen and to respect you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't put any stock into what you're hearing at work. Instead, keep your concentration on the duties that are expected of you. The weekend brings romantic surprises.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're feeling self-confident and ready to tackle the world. However, be careful. You could go overboard and appear overbearing to those around you.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) If you happen to be traveling, don't be surprised by some unexpected delays. Partners could be on edge, but things settle down by week's end. Avoid extravagant shopping binges over the weekend.

EASTERN NAZARENE COLLEGE baseball player Michael Santoro, left, was unanimously voted by the coaches of the Commonwealth Coast Conference as its All-Scholastic Player of the Year. Santoro, who lettered in golf, basketball and baseball at North Quincy High School, received the award following a successful senior baseball season during which he was named CCC Player of the Week. With Santoro is ENC baseball coach Todd Reid.

Family Tire & Auto, Dairy Freeze, Sweeney Brothers Among Winners

Impressions Plus, Family Tire & Auto, Dairy Freeze, Nation One Mortgage, Huntington Realty, Sweeney Brothers and Bolea-Buonfiglio picked up wins in recent Quincy Youth Baseball St. John's Little League play.

Winning pitcher Liam Powers helped his own cause with 4 hits, including a grand slam, as Impressions Plus defeated Sweeney Brothers, 20-8. Joe Priscella had 2 hits, including a grand slam, and Tim Randall and Tom Chernicki also chipped in with good games for IP, which improved to 10-3.

For Sweeney Brothers, Richard Sweeney drew 2 walks and played good defense, while Sean Regan collected a hit and a walk and in one inning on the mound, struck out 2. Alex Smith walked twice and stole 2 bases.

In other action, Family Tire & Auto edged Sweeney Brothers, 10-9, when John White (double, walk, 2 runs) stole home for the winning run in the final inning.

For the victors, winning pitcher Dean Sandomato pitched 3 innings, allowing 1 run and striking out 7. Jim Hutchins pitched 2 strong innings, while Sean Warwick, Alpesh Patel and Marc Hutchins played well defensively. Also turning in strong efforts were Shayne Murray, Andrew Masse, Steve Eaton, Justin Grimmel, Joey Connolly, Carl Morris and Craig Bennett.

In a 9-6 victory over

ST. JOHN'S L.L.

Dairy Freeze, Family Tire & Auto was paced by the overall play of John White (4 for 4, 2 runs), who struck out 4 in 2 innings, and Dean Sandomato (2 for 4, 2 runs), who fanned 7 in 3 innings.

Sean Warwick added a two-run triple and pitched an inning, while Andrew Masse and Marc Hutchins made key defensive plays for the winners. Also contributing were James Hutchins, Jonathan Coska and Justin Grimmel.

Family Tire & Auto rallied from an early deficit and went on to a 9-6 victory over Dairy Freeze. Hitting standouts for DF were Ian McRae (2 singles, double), Chris Deyesso (2 triples, 2 runs), Joe Salvucci (single, run), Jeremy Craig (2 singles, run), Steve Sullivan (triple) and Brendan (single).

A six-run second inning sparked Dairy Freeze to a 9-7 triumph over Gilcoine/Burke Insurance. Leading DF offensively were Jeremy Craig (2 singles, steal of home), Brendan (2 singles), Jeffrey Chan (RBI single), Joshua Sawtelle (single, steal of home), Ian McRae (single) and Steve Sullivan (triple). In the fourth, catcher Ian McRae made two put-outs at the plate. Sullivan retired the side in order in the sixth to close out the game.

Nation One Mortgage jumped out to a six-run, first-inning lead en route to an 8-4 win over Sweeney Funeral Services. For SFS, Scott Klotzbecher, Corey Lumaghini, Tom Power, Denny Wright, Lammy Papalambros, Andrew Dwan, Patrick Hamlin and David Regan all singled.

In a slugfest, Huntington Realty out-hit Sweeney Funeral Services and won, 19-12. Top hitters for SFS were Tom Power (solo homer, two-run homer), Lammy Papalambros (triple, two-run homer), Scott Klotzbecher (2 singles) and Andrew Dwan (RBI single). Collecting singles were Patrick Hamlin, Corey Lumaghini, Taylor Hutchinson and David Regan.

In an extra-inning affair, Sweeney Brothers edged Impressions Plus, 12-10, on a two-run homer by Nick Transfiglia in the top of the eighth. Transfiglia was the hitting star, going 5 for 5 with 5 RBI and 3 stolen bases, while teammate John Brooks was 4 for 4 with 2 doubles, 4 RBI and 3 stolen bases. Brooks pitched the final 2 innings, allowing 1 run and striking out 4 to pick up the win.

Elsewhere, Bolea-Buonfiglio capitalized on 7 walks, 2 hit batsmen and 3 errors in a 4-1 victory over Sweeney Brothers. For SB, Bob Dufrane made a diving catch and threw to first for a double play. Ed Laura pitched 3 innings, allowing 1 hit and 1 unearned run.

led by Peter Villanueva (12 home runs), Dan Poggli, Anthony Narvaez, David Corderio, Alex Hardy and Steve Young. John McGuigan has been solid behind the plate and at bat. Contributing good defense and timely hitting have been John Murray, Purves, Young and Nicole Murray.

TRIPLE A

threw to catcher Alex Hardy, who tagged the runner out. Lally improved to 4-0 and helped his own cause with a two-run double.

Domenic Poli started P.A.L.'s five-run fifth inning with a double and added a sparkling defensive play at short.

In other recent P.A.L. games, the offense has been

Kerri Limousine Maintains Successful Softball Campaign

Kerri Limousine has maintained its dominance in the Dorothy Quincy Division of Quincy Girls Softball, outscoring its opponents, 188-65, and remaining undefeated.

Defense has been the key, as Kerri Limo has allowed just one unearned run in its last two games. The team's four 12-year-old pitchers, Sheila Lynch, Lisa Schifone, Maria McGinness and Courtney Riley, have mesmerized opposing hitters all season.

Kerri Limo's big gun offense has been led by Lynch, Schifone, Riley and Marilyn Power, who have kept opposing outfielders chasing the long ball. Eleven-year-old catcher Beth Goodrich has kept runners off the base paths, throwing out three would-be base stealers.

Goodrich and McGinness have set Kerri Limo's table all season while Ali Ciccarillo, Jackie Tower, Kristin Dwyer, Michelle Murray, and 10-year-olds Corey Verhault, Kaitlin Fish and Katelyn Dwyer have all contributed offensively and defensively.

O'Brien's Bakery Wins Three

INTERNATIONAL

In recent Quincy Youth Baseball International League play, O'Brien's Bakery improved its record to 7-3 with three victories.

In a 13-3 triumph over Osco Drug, O'Brien's Brian Breslin struck out 13 and went 2 for 3 at the plate with 2 doubles. Dean Zoia went 4 for 4 with a triple and Jeff Richardson, Colin Maxey, Eric Healy, Ryan Casey and Ryan Gannon collected 2 hits apiece. Pat Losi added a hit.

O'Brien's Jonathan Talent fanned eight in five innings to lead the Bakery over Noll Electric, 16-8. Richardson paced the offense with 4 hits (including a double and triple). Steve Romanowski, Dean Zoia and Casey had 3 hits apiece. Craig Flanigan and Breslin collected 2 hits each and Gannon chipped in a hit. Playing well defensively were Maxey, Healy, Brendon McNeil, Darryl Zoia and Joe Losi.

Dean Zoia was the winning pitcher for O'Brien's in 10-9 victory over Everlast Engraving. Sparking the winner's offense were Breslin (3 hits), Jon Chevalier (2 hits) and Richardson, Maxey and Pat Losi (1 hit apiece). Healy, Roger Layden, Gannon and Flanigan also played well for the Bakery.

Tying Run Thrown Out At Plate As P.A.L. Edges Locker Room 8-7

Quincy P.A.L. improved its record to 9-3 with an 8-7 triumph over Locker Room in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A action.

Trailing 8-4 heading into the sixth inning, Locker Room mounted a comeback to cut the deficit to one run, but the tying run was cut down at the plate to end the game. P.A.L.'s John Grillo chased down the ball in right and fired the ball to Jason Purves, who relayed to pitcher Mike Lally, who threw to catcher Alex Hardy, who tagged the runner out. Lally improved to 4-0 and helped his own cause with a two-run double.

Domenic Poli started P.A.L.'s five-run fifth inning with a double and added a sparkling defensive play at short.

In other recent P.A.L. games, the offense has been until his retirement in 1970. He was involved in the design, planning and construction of the school.

During his 34 years in the Quincy school system, he also served as principal of Central Junior High School (now Central Middle School) and North Quincy Junior High School (now North Quincy High School), where he worked 14 years starting in 1935 as a science teacher. A Quincy native, he was a graduate of Quincy High School, Northeastern University and Boston University.

Beede and his late wife Louisa, a former Quincy podiatrist, had no children of their own and always made the students a top priority in their lives, a QRTA official said two years ago.

Central School Recognition Assembly Held At QHS

The Recognition Assembly of Central Middle School was held recently at the Quincy High School Auditorium.

Quincy Legion Post presented the two outstanding students of the eighth grade graduating class award to Kelly Rice and Patrick Regoli.

Robert Leo Eng, past state commander, made the presentation on behalf of James C. Harold, commander, as the school awards chairman. David Wood presented each recipient with special School Award Medals.

The faculty of Central Middle School made the selection, recognizing the qualities of courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholarship and service.

A/C SERVICE FOR OLDER CARS

Since January 1, 1996, the class of refrigerants known as chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) is no longer in production in the U.S. due to concerns that it depletes the earth's ozone layer. While newer air-conditioning (A/C) systems use an atmosphere-friendly, non-CFC refrigerant called HFC-134a, there are still about 100 million pre-1994 vehicles on the road with CFC-12 air-conditioners. Longer? Hours: Mon. - Fri. 9am-5pm. What are vehicle owners to do when these vehicles need A/C repair? Count on us for propane for grills. While the cost of CFC-12 is higher motor homes, and converted vehicles than so-called drop-in substitutes. (R-12, R-22, etc.), repairs performed with CFC-12 require fewer procedures and will likely provide many more years of trouble-free cooling. Pre-1994 A/C systems were specifically designed around CFC-12 and the refrigerant should be available for the next few years.

For most of your car's maintenance needs, including its A/C system, rely on our ASE Certified technicians at LEO & WALT'S SUNCOCO. Learn for yourself why so many of your friends and neighbors turn to us to keep their family cars in top condition. For the best service in town, we're here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are 100 million pre-1994 vehicles on the road with CFC-12 air-conditioners. Longer? Hours: Mon. - Fri. 9am-5pm. HINT: In the Event that CFC-12 supplies run out or the refrigerant becomes prohibitively expensive, a drop-in substitute should be considered that necessitates minimal system modifications. Beyond that, the system could be recharged with HFC-134a.
